"It has always been the British boast that an Englishman's word is as good as his bond," said the Chief. "I would remind Mr. Murphy that in the treaty signed by the crown and the Ojibway nation at Amherstburg on July 10,1827, the Indians surrendered to the crown all of Ontario west of the township of London and north of a line commencing at the township of Sombra. In return, they were guaranteed for reservation those at Kettle Point, Stoney Point, Sarnia and Walpole Island.

"Stoney Point was surrendered during the war as our contribution to the war effort," continued Chief Adams. "Now we are faced with the spectacle of the west Lambton federal member openly suggesting that one of these small, remaining areas be expropriated whether its Indian inhabitants are willing, in effect, Mr. Murphy is advocating the violation of the treaty of the crown, thereby putting himself on the side of those who believe that treaties are merely scraps of paper. Finally, I would like to suggest to Mr. Murphy that he can confine his real estate promotions to the lake shore area where his business interests lie. He can sell his own home for a factory site if he so chooses. We resent his suggestion that we should be evicted from ours."

Liberal Pres. Critical of Frost Cabinet

Toronto, Oct. 17 (CP)—Norman L. Matthews, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, said Monday night that "disgraceful" administration of Ontario liquor laws and "scandals" about law enforcement in Windsor "may well provide the knockout punch" to the province's Conservative government.

Speaking in the first of the season's "provincial affairs" broadcasts over a CBC Ontario network, he said the cabinet of Premier Frost lacks "calibre and unity," that "shocking mismanagement" of the Hydro commission had resulted in serious power shortages and that the government had assumed "dictatorial powers" in prohibiting erection of fruit stands within 150 feet of a provincial highway.

He did not elaborate on his charges, but said they would be discussed by future speakers in the series, including the new provincial Liberal leader to be chosen at a convention here Nov. 9 and 10.

5-Dollar Car Without Brakes Damages House

Glendale, Calif., Oct. 17—AP—Sometimes used cars aren't such bargains—even when you pay as little as $5 for one.

For that price Ralph T. Hogan thought he couldn't lose, even though the 1935-model coupe wouldn't move under its own power.

A friend hitched on a tow rope and they headed for Hogan's home.

On the way up a hill, the rope broke and Hogan discovered the car had no brakes. It backed through the front wall of Howard P. Courtney's home.

Hogan suffered cuts and bruises. Courtney estimated damage to his house at $1,000.

Steep Rock Exceeds 1,000,000-Ton Production in 1950

Steep Rock, Ont., Oct. 17 (CP) — Steep Rock Iron Mines, Ltd., has passed the 1,000,000-ton mark in 1950 production, officials said today.

Tonnage hit 1,003,000 tons last weekend, boosting output one week ahead of last year when that total was reached Oct. 20.

No-Sunday-Sport Faction Wins Ottawa Debate

Ottawa, Oct. 17 (CP) — The issue of Sunday sport, red-hot in Ontario since the provincial legislature made it possible for municipalities to break down the old blue laws, is dead in the federal capital.

The issue flamed up and was fanned into a lively blaze after an alderman at a council meeting last Friday suggested a referendum on the matter.

It was effectively extinguished —probably for two years— when city council voted last night against the motion, 29-2. Only the mover and seconder voted "yea," after a city-wide campaign by church and other interested parties.

The mover was Alderman Frank Ellis, who stuck to his guns during the anti-Sunday-sport campaign, and the seconder was Alderman Joseph Allard. Other council members, a number of whom previously indicated favoring the idea of a referendum voted with the no-Sunday-sport faction.

The flare-up had one angle unusual to the run-of-the-mill controversies which have been featured in other Ontario centres since Toronto voted Sunday sport in.

Proponents of Sunday sport in this city have for some decades had an outlet—the fact that Sabbath games are usually legal across the river.

Play in Hull

Just last Sunday two Ontario Baseball Association Sunday games were played over in Hull, Que., where the laws are less blue. Every summer until this year the Ottawa Nationals of the Border Baseball League tripped across for their home games, at Hull's Decosse Stadium.

But Alderman Ellis, strongly backed by T. Frank Ahearn, wealthy local business man, is still spearheading a drive to bring Sunday sport back across the Ottawa. They now may try a petition, but under the law they'll need 9,600 voters —10 per cent of the eligible voters of the city—to sign a petition.

Even if the petition gets signed by that many people, civic officials say it won't be in time for inclusion of a referendum on the ballots which voters will mark Dec. 4. That would probably mean no chance for a vote for two years.

So the issue, blazing yesterday appeared stone cold today. And the result seemed to tally with a statement by a member of the Lord's Day Alliance of Ottawa.

"If the people of Ottawa want Sunday sports," he said, "let them go to Hull."

"And," he added, "if the newspapers make a typographical error with this sentence, it will be very apropos."

Dionne Quints At School Today On Eve of Visit

North Bay, Oct. 17 (CP)—It's "school as usual" for the Dionne quintuplets today, even though they leave tonight for a five-day visit in New York.

There's little likelihood their minds were entirely on their studies but the quints and their 10 school mates were required to carry on with their grade XI work today.

There was no reason why they should stay away from school because they are all packed and ready to leave for New York.

The quints, their father, Oliva Dionne, their school mates and other members of the party will leave Corbeil by train tonight and will arrive in New York tomorrow night.

Feature of the quints' stay in New York will be their presence at the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation dinner at the Waldorf Hotel Thursday night. The 16-year-olds will sing in both French and English. Chief speaker at the function will be Alben Barkles, vice president of the United States.

FIRE IN PAPER CHUTE

Stratford, Oct. 17—(CP)—A fire in a paper chute at the Stratford Collegiate Institute this morning gave students a half day holiday. The blaze was discovered by a caretaker. Smoke filled the school but damage was confined mostly to the chute.

Rhee to Accept UN Directives But Fears Reds May Exploit Charge His Govt. is Puppet

Seoul, Oct. 17 (AP) —President Syngman Rhee today told his first press conference in liberated Seoul that his Republic of Korea government will accept any directives from the United Nations.

But he hoped the U.N. would "observe and advise" elections for North Korea rather than conduct them.

Thus the 75-year-old Rhee switched to a conciliatory attitude on the matter of his government's jurisdiction when the Korean communists are defeated.

Previously he had expressed indignation over a U.N. move to restrict his South Korean government to power below the 38th parallel.

A seven-country U.N. commission on Korea decided last Thursday to limit the authority of Rhee's government to South Korea and put Gen. MacArthur in charge of North Korea.

This action was taken under an Australian proposal advocating new general elections for all Korea.

Rhee said today that elections in the north could be held in about a month after military defeat of the communists.

He asked correspondents to ascertain the facts for themselves "so you can tell the people of the world the truth."

The president said there are some U.N. officials who feel his government was not popular.

"Our troops have been welcomed in the north," he said, "and there have been no signs of opposition from civilians. And in all those dark days there was no sign of sabotage against the government in the south. It will be the same in the north. Mark my word."

Rhee said communists claims that the Republic of Korea was a puppet government would be renewed if the U.N. should hold new elections in the south and the north.

In the South Korean elections in May a few seats in the assembly were lost by Rhee followers. But the war came June 25 and there was no chance to judge the results of the election.

The return of former American military government personnel in Korea in the last few days had caused some alarm and dissatisfaction in Korean circles.

A person close to Rhee said:

"Most American military advisers here (South Korean) never had any interest in Korea and looked down upon all Koreans.

"The interpreter government was a horrible experience. To bring back those who had been here on the grounds they know Korea is another horrible mistake."

President Rhee commented: "We may win the war but we lose in peace."

ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Economic Crisis Upsets Government Of Ben-Gurion

With the Israeli pound, pegged at $280, selling on the black market for 80 cents, Israel's first prime minister David Ben-Gurion has been forced to resign while a new solution is found for the young state's wobbly economy. New elections are expected to be called as soon as current military manoeuvres are completed. — Central Press Canadian.

Fosbraey Asks Change of Venue For His Trial

Toronto, Oct. 17 — (CP) — James Fosbraey, in a motion filed in Supreme Court Monday, asked for a change of venue from Napanee to Picton for his new trial on a charge of murdering his wife.

Fosbraey was convicted and sentenced to be hanged Sept. 21. He was granted a new trial by the Ontario Court of Appeal on the grounds that the trial judge had erred in directing the jury it could not bring in a manslaughter verdict.

Fosbraey claimed a local prejudice exists against him in Napanee that would prevent him having a fair trial.

The 29-year-old veteran is accused of stabbing his wife to death four days after he had returned from a visit to England, his homeland.

RADAR TO SPOT WHALES

Tokyo, Oct. 17—(Reuters)— Japanese whaling boats will use radar to spot whales and icebergs in their next expedition to the Antarctic, the Kyodo News Agency announces. Japan will import 78 radar sets for her commercial vessels this year, Kyodo says.

BABOON TAILS OF VALUE

Lomi—Baboons' tails mean money in the British protectorate of Gambia.

Some 50,000 baboons are believed to live in the protectorate. They cause, said a Colonial office announcement "widespread" damage to crops. So two shillings (about 30 cents) is being offered for every tail from a dead baboon.

IF THEY'RE CAUGHT, IT'S SIBERIA

Resistance is rising in Berlin against the Russians and their communist supporters in the East sector. Most of the resistance consists of propaganda forays into the Soviet sector, and is carried on by the militantly anti-communist "Fighting group against inhumanity," supported by the Allied occupational powers. A Central Press Canadian photographer accompanied one of these raids in which tens of thousands of leaflets with anti-Russian and anti-communist propaganda were spread through East Berlin and in the Russian-controlled elevated trains which travel through all sectors. The raiders had to jump from train to train and station to station to avoid arrest which might have meant imprisonment and deportation to Russian slave camps for up to 25 years. Here, a large red F for Freedom is splashed hurriedly by the raiders in front of Gerhard Eisler's propaganda ministry in the East sector. Painters and photogropher just managed to get away one jump ahead of the communist police. — Central Press Canadian.

R.C.N. DESTROYERS

After an initial fortnight of this type of work, Capt. Jeffry V. Brock of Vancouver and Winnipeg, commander of the Canadian destroyer division, led the 2,745-ton Cayuga into some close-up action in mid-August. With a Royal Navy frigate, the Cayuga thrust into an enemy-held harbor and shot up the place.

Two Bombardments

By the time both vessels withdrew without damage, vessels in the harbor had been badly damaged or sunk, port installations were shattered, and cranes, warehouses, railway rolling stock and several large buildings were either destroyed or heavily battered.

In the next few weeks, the smaller Sioux—2,500 tons— carried out two bombardments of shore installations under Cmdr. Paul D. Taylor of Victoria, and engaged in independent patrol and blockade duties.

The Athabaskan, skippered by Cmdr. Robert P. Welland of McCreary, Man., and Victoria, co-operated with South Korean forces in the capture of two islands.

The Athabaskan, of the same class as the Cayuga, beat up enemy installations to such an extent that a landing party from the destroyer and a subsequent South Korean landing suffered no casualties. She provided fire support for a similar South Korean landing on the second island, anchoring within range of Inchon shore guns for the task.

On a third island, the Athabaskan destroyed a North Korean radio reporting station and then landed a heavily armed party to blow up any equipment that might have escaped her shells. The sailors failed to find any islanders around the station.

Next major assignment for the destroyers was in helping to provide support and protection for the U.N. landing at Inchon. This found them in action together for the first time since their arrival in the war theatre late in July, as part of a task group commanded by Capt. Brock.

This force had varied responsibilities, including close blockade and extended cover for the flanks of the invasion armada, and the provision of anti-submarine hunter-killer forces if required.

Helped in Capture

A 30-man landing party from the Athabaskan helped south Korean marines in the capture of the island of Orang after a bombardment by the destroyer.

About the same time, Athabaskan demolition parties destroyed five mines in the approaches to Kunsan port and the Sioux used gunfire to touch off four mines discovered during a patrol.

After more than two weeks at sea in support of the Inchon operations, the Canadian vessels returned to Japan in early October. On Oct. 5, the Cayuga embarked Vice-Admiral H. T. W. Grant, chief of Canada's naval staff, at Tokyo. He accompanied the three ships on an operational voyage to Inchon.

In the last week, the destroyers have engaged in actions off the east and west coasts of Korea.

The Cayuga and Sioux, on the west coast, were attached to a force carrying out carrier air strikes and surface bombardments of troop concentrations, supply lines and gun emplacements north of the 38th parallel. The Sioux also went south of the 38th to bombard an enemy shore battery.

On the east coast, the Athabaskan was one of 37 U. N. warships that pounded red positions from Songjin to the Manchurian border in the biggest naval movement on the east coast since the start of the Korean war.

LIBERALS LOSE

New Standing

The new standing in the Commons:

Liberals, 185; Progressive Conservatives, 43; C.C.F., 13; Social Credit, 10; Independent, five; Independent Liberal, five; vacant, one; total 262.

The vacancy is in the Prince Edward Island constituency of Queens. No date has yet been set for a by-election there.

The vote in all three constituencies was light compared with the last general election. Six of the 12 candidates lost their $200 deposits when they failed to obtain half of the vote cast for the winner.

In Welland, Dr. McMillan polled 19,352 votes to 13,037 for Sam Hughes, Progressive Conservative Welland lawyer. Melvin Swart, C.C.F., was third with 5,958 votes and Mel Doig, regional organizer for the Communist Labor-Progressive Party, fourth with 1,683. There were close to 70,000 eligible voters.

Mr. Swart and Mr. Doig lost their deposits.

Leaders Comment

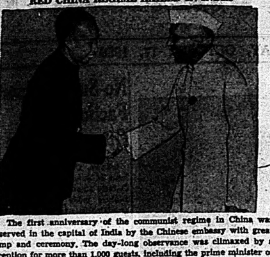
Both Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, commented on the outcome of the by-elections.

Mr. St. Laurent said the Liberal victory in Welland coupled with the recent election of a Liberal in Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm indicated that "public confidence in the present government is undiminished."

"I am informed," he said, "that the successful candidates in Montreal St. Mary and Rimouski, although not official candidates, described themselves as supporters of the Liberal administration, and that fact was no doubt an important factor in the results in those constituencies."

Mr. Drew referred only to Welland. His party did not nominate candidates in Rimouski and Montreal St. Mary. He said the gratifying feature of the Welland by-election was that the vote offered "convincing evidence of the steady return to our historic two-party system."

RED CHINA REGIME HAILED IN INDIA



The first anniversary of the communist regime in China was observed in the capital of India by the Chinese embassy with great pomp and ceremony. NO BLACKOUTS

Toronto, Oct. 17 — (CP) — Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, said Monday night the province should be free of power blackouts this year.

The Commission also hopes to avoid restrictions on such things as store lighting, Mr. Saunders said in an address over a local radio station.

He said the Commission has not yet considered restrictions and voluntary savings should be able to avoid them.

Profit Margins Of Newspapers In U.S. Narrow

Cleveland, Oct. 17 — (AP) — Profit margins of newspapers have been narrowed by lagging advertising rates and increased publishing costs, the comptroller of the Montreal Standard said Monday.

A. K. Buckland said publishing policies with regard to advertising have been "too conservative," while publishing costs have been rising steadily.

Speaking before 200 persons at the third annual meeting of the Institute of Newspaper Controllers and Finance Officers, he recommended that publishers reduce costs by eliminating waste and streamlining operations.

To do this in the advertising department, he said, newspapers should investigate the individual efforts of each salesman, insure that advertising agencies respect the company deadlines, encourage advertisers to use repeat ads whenever possible and analyze linages by accounts to ascertain the causes of decreases.

In the advertising promotion department, he advised reviewing the services extended to clients in advertising promotion work and discouraging placing of ads for benevolent or good-will purposes.

Buckland suggested that economies in circulation promotion can best be effected by breaking down the field into individual units and using budgets.

Clark A. Renwick, auditor of the Detroit Free Press, was named president of the Institute, to succeed H. B. Crump, controller of the Newspaper Printing Corporation of Nashville, Tenn.

F. W. Pollard, secretary of the Brantford Expositor, was named a director.

Legless Paraplegic Can Now Hunt Deer From Car

Fort William, Oct. 17 (CP) — A steady arm and sharp eye are all that Glenn Gammond, a legless paraplegic, needs to hunt deer.

A relay man for the Ontario Highways Department, he lost both legs in France during the Second World War and is paralyzed from the waist down. His desire to hunt has brought about a relaxation in Ontario's hunting laws by Lands and Forests Minister Scott.

Glenn requested that he be allowed to use his car to hunt deer on the odd Saturday afternoon when off work.

A hunting and fishing enthusiast, he said Ontario game laws forbidding the carrying of loaded firearms in autos and shooting from highways was preventing him from hunting — his favorite sport.

"I'm quite sure that a man injured in fighting for his country should not be prevented from enjoying this sport," Lands Minister Scott said at Toronto in announcing the relaxation for Gammond.

"Maybe I'll go out Saturday afternoon," said Gammond. "There are a lot of back roads outside the city where traffic is light and I'll use those for hunting."

His successful application to the Lands and Forests Department is another step that is bringing the ex-soldier closer to a normal life.

After repatriation and hospitalization, Glenn secured employment with the Highways Department here, relaying forest and highway reports from the district to the local tourist bureau.

One of Canada's few "double amp paraplegics," he was injured when a truckload of soldiers was blown up by a land mine. The young veteran has made the difficult hurdle from endless hospital treatment to independent subsistence.

MARMORA

Ladies' Night Held By C. of C.

Marmora — The third annual Ladies' Night was held by Marmora District Chamber of Commerce in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, catering being in the hands of Marmora Women's Institute.

President Alex Fraser was toastmaster and Bernard W. Hughes was master of ceremonies. Following the Royal toast, a singsong was enjoyed, after which introductory remarks and a cordial welcome to the gathering was forthcoming from the president.

Reeve V. M. Lynch proposed the toast to "The Ladies," with Mrs. G. D. Young responding. A trio of songs was then sung by the Boys Octette under the direction of Stan Hawthorne. Two more numbers were given by the boys as an encore in response to the applause accorded them.

The guest speaker was R. C. Ward of Peterborough, Regional Director of the National Film Board, who sketched the work of that body from the time of its appointment onwards and described the working of local Film Councils. The showing of three instructive films, including the building of an igloo, followed the speaker's address. He was introduced by Carl R. Whittemore and thanked by Richard E. Bonter.

Mrs. Roy Frost, soloist of the evening, sang "In the Silence of the Night," and "Gypsy Love Song."

Buttoning Contest

Bernard Hughes put on a waistcoat buttoning contest for the men in which Fred Paquet was the winner and a quix contest for the ladies in which Mrs. William Shannon was successful.

At the close of the program, Bernard Hughes tendered thanks to all those taking part in it, and a special vote of thanks was tendered the Women's Institute for providing such an excellent menu.

A social hour wound up another successful Ladies' Night, at which the total attendance numbered about 100.

1. The nourishing glass of milk from Grandma is the happy ending to this story. It started when Nature put aluminum in the earth itself. That is why this important mineral is right in the milk we drink.

2. And Nature gave aluminum qualities that make it ideal in contact with food. Many milk pails ... many parts of modern milking machines are made of aluminum.

3. From farm to dairy ... from country to city ... rich, wholesome Canadian milk is being increasingly carried in aluminum containers to reach you fresh and pure.

4. And to cap it all, many bottles of milk are protection-sealed with shining aluminum foil tops. Aluminum assures cleanliness for this most sensitive of all foods.

No other material is more "food-friendly" than aluminum. Whenever you see aluminum on the outside of a food or a drink, there's an "inside story" of perfectly protected flavour, quality and purity.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

[illegible] COACH

[illegible] you had witnessed that thrilling Allan Cup [illegible] games between Hamilton's "Old Men of the Mountain" and the Montreal Royals a short time ago, you would probably have noticed the dark-haired Royals' centre player who flashed up and down the middle aisle in a lost cause three games in a row. He was William "Smiley" Meronek, ex-Canadiens, Portage La Prairie, Winnipeg Monarchs, not to mention a few more outstanding squads.

* * *

"Smiley" in case you do not know, has moved to Belleville and will act in the capacity of chief coach of the Belleville Hockey Association with the Rockets Junior "B's" under his personal supervision.

* * *

You will like this friendly fellow. While he comes here with a wealth of hockey experience, he does not shout it from the housetops. His pleasant disposition, an ability to make friends on sight should establish him as a favorite in circles outside the realm of sport. He is married and had two children, "Smiley" junior, and a winsome daughter.

* * *

"Smiley" first saw the light of day in Stoney Mountain, Manitoba, where he learned what a hockey stick was for. He was one of the original members of the St. Boniface Seals which won the Memorial Cup in its second year of operation. He tried out with the Winnipeg Monarchs and later played centre for the Portage la Prairie juniors for two years.

* * *

Going to the senior ranks, "Smiley" played two years with the Verdun Maple Leafs, and the same period with the Canadiens Seniors in the Quebec League. Turning pro he joined the ranks of the Canadiens and played in such illustrious company as Doug. Young, Cy Wentworth, Mondou, Pete Lepine at the time Toe Blake was stepping on the ladder of hockey fame. Came the war, anfid there is a silence here on the part of "Smiley" but when it was over he received his amateur card and started again with the senior ranks. The following year on the "lend-lease" system he was recalled by Les Canadiens and finished the season with them.

* * *

The next four years he played centre for the Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League and assisted that powerful squad to league titles and Allan Cup playdowns. He will take over the coaching duties of the BHA and should be a valuable asset to Manager Bill Cook's hopefuls in junior "B" circles and to the coaches of the minor league teams which will again operate under the aegis of the association.

ALL OVER

Batawa Shoemen bowed out of the Intermediate "A" baseball playdown picture yesterday losing to the Oakville Oaks by a 4-2 score in the third and deciding game of the semi-finals series. Gordie Muffitt started on the mound for the Shoemen but was replaced after eight innings of good hurling by Art. Wright. The game was played in Oshawa. Oakville meets the Strathroy 1949 champions for the provincial title.

* * *

GOOD SHOW

Like any other sports organization the City Commercial Softball League made some miscues during the season, but it cannot be said there was anything wrong with its seasonal swan song at Tobe's County Gardens last night. Upwards of 160 officials, managers, sponsors and players plus special guests sat down at this Battle of the Knife and Fork and a flock of chickens not to mention other things took a terrific beating.

* * *

It was a grand party, easily one of the best sports banquet held by a city organization. There was horseplay and a lot of mutual admiration . . . There was humor mixed with delightful piano music, much good-natured raillery and verbal crossfire; presentation of trophies and prizes and some good sports philosophy on the part of Bill Durnan, former Canadiens goalie who was the guest speaker of the evening.

* * *

The "A" champions from Point Anne received the Wishing Well Trophy, via Manager Jim Hunter and the players lined up in front of the "gang" like new lodge members at an installation ceremony. The Bateman Motors, champions of the "B" Section also ran the gauntlet with George Brown accepting the Labatt Trophy presented by Barney Parsons, company representative. Leo Goyer and Yank McBride received the Pellar Trophy and the Conger Lehigh Trophy for their batting prowess in the various sections. These were presented by Messrs. A. A. St. Dixier of Pellars and Ed. Smith of the Conger Company.

* * *

Harry Rollins "in all sincerity" was the chairman for the occasion with President Don Lee welcoming the players and guests. Speeches were brief if numerous with Hizzoner Mayor Jack Allin welcoming the guests; Treasurer Jack Howe who 'miked' at least twelve times in a good if damp cause; Bill Dennis and a few more. Jim Millman, of London, Ontario, member of the Ontario Baseball Association executive entertained the boys with some sparkling piano music and humorous stories. There was a sing-song but as community choristers the "gang" are good softball players. "McNamara's Band" took a terrific tonsilar beating while the "Old Grey Mare" must have turned over in her grave at the cacaphony offered as her vocal obituary.

* * *

The Commercial Softball League executive can take a bow for a job of fine organization. The banquet and subsequent program featured were excellently arranged while the repast, served by the Massassaga Ladies, was fit for a king. And the boys showed their appreciation by generous gifts of folding and other money when the plates were passed.

* * *

Ed. Smith's suggestion that the banquet next year be a father-and-son affair sounds like a good one, As Ed. puts it, "If the league is to have outstanding sports celebrities as guest speakers, those who are or have been in the sports spotlight and are internationally known, let's bring the boys with us another year."

Walcott Willing To Fight Louis Says Manager

(By The Canadian Press)

Felix Bocchicchio, manager of Jersey Joe Walcott, says Joe Louis' plans for a comeback and his intention to fight heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles again are a "travesty" to boxing.

The announcements, Bocchicchio said in a statement at Camden, N.J., "shows an amazing disregard of the interests of the boxing public."

Charles easily defeated Louis last Sept. 27 in a Yankee Stadium fight at New York.

"Louis, by his weak performance in that bout, has not earned the right to challenge Charles ahead of all other contenders," Bocchicchio said. "It would be only fair to the other contenders and to the fans, if Louis was made to prove his right to a return match with Charles by first eliminating them, if he can."

Walcott has twice lost to Louis, both in championship fights.

Bocchicchio said Walcott is "ready and willing" to fight Charles.

Ronnie Crane 16-year-old Vancouver swimming ace, smashed three Canadian records in a Saturday meet at Vancouver.

Crane churned the 100-yard butterfly in 1:05.9, breaking the record set by Fred Smith of Toronto by more than five seconds.

In the 50-yard butterfly, Crane knocked over both the junior and senior records with a time of 29.4 seconds. Old senior mark was 30.7, set by Lucien Beaumont of Montreal and the previous mark held by Winnipeg's George Nelson.

The San Francisco Baseball Club has announced sale of first baseman Les Fleming to Toronto of the International League. It was an outright cash deal, amount undisclosed.

Fleming, acquired from Indianapolis of the American Association, last spring, hit .292 and was fifth in runs batted in with 138.

Ray Cicia, one of the outstanding guards this season in Eastern Canada football, has received an order to report to his draft board at his home in Ansonia, Conn., for military medical examination.

Cicia is a Montreal Alouette import who last year starred with Wake Forest College in North Carolina.

Black Pico, Cuban flyweight champion, defeated Stan Almond of Vancouver when the referee halted a one-sided contest in the eighth of 10 scheduled rounds in Manchester, England last night.

Pico was too quick for the 25-year-old Canadian who had greater reach and height but rarely showed an attacking punch.

Almond had won 30 of his 31 fights in Canada before making his British debut against Pico.

John Bell, 24-year-old quarterback of the Sarnia Imperials football team, was reported still in "extremely critical" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital late last night. He suffered a multiple fracture of the neck Saturday in the fourth quarter of the game with Toronto Balmy Beach.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, former National Open golf champion, signed up for the draft Monday along with other dentists, doctors and veterinarians under 50.

National Loop All-Stars Win At Brantford

Brantford, Oct. 17 (CP) —The National League All-Stars beat the American Leaguers 5-3 Monday night before 1,800 fans to take a 3-2 lead in games on their post season baseball tour.

Howie Fox, Cincinnati right-hander went the route for the Nats, allowing nine hits. Lou Brissie of Philadelphia and Bill Wight of Chicago pitched for the American Leaguers, with Brissie being charged with the loss.

Boston's Dom DiMaggio rapped out three singles for the American League in five official trips while Gil Hodges of Brooklyn and Sam Jethroe of Boston each had three hits for Nats. One of Jethroe's was a triple to centre.

Edgar, Special Delivery, Jones Leading Scorer

Toronto, Oct. 17 (CP)—There's no stopping Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones in the Big Four Football Union.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that the former member of the professional Cleveland Browns increased his lead in the individual scoring race in weekend games.

He scored 12 points for Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday to bring his season's total to 72. The versatile half has seven touchdowns, four field goals, five single points and 20 converts.

Jones now has a 12-point lead on Ulysses Curtis, Negro half of Toronto Argonauts. Curtis, who played in the United States with Florida A and M, has 60 points on 12 touchdowns.

Virgil Wagner, veteran import with Montreal Alouettes, pulled into third place on two touchdowns Saturday for 10 points which brought his season's total to 50.

Top Canadian-born player is Nick Volpe of the Argonauts with 32 points, all of them scored on converts. Bill Larochelle of Ottawa Rough Riders stands seventh with 30.

Johnny Chorstecki of the Sarnia Imperials is still top man in the Ontario Rugby Football Union with 79 points in six games. Chorostecki who comes from the Sudbury district, boosted his total by six Saturday.

Second place in the ORFU is held by Carl Galbreath of Toronto Balmy Beach, Negro half from North Carolina State College, with 30 points.

Fred Wilmot, former Calgary Stampeders player and now with McGill University, leads the Intercollegiate senior race with 14 points. Two other McGill players—Harry Irving, also a Calgary product and Ken Wagner—share second place with 10 points apiece.

Blue Bombers Win From Riders In Last Minute

Winnipeg, Oct. 17—(CP)— It didn't make much difference last night whether the Bombers won or not, but apparently Winnipeg now has a football team that can't go wrong.

To more than 8,000 fans it appeared that the Bombers—who have dropped one game each to Saskatchewan Roughriders, Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders — were going to go down a second time to the third-place Riders. The league-leading Bombers were behind 19-14 with only minutes remaining and the Riders seemed assured of a second-place tie with Edmonton in the Western Football Union.

It points to the strength of this year's great Winnipeg team that with two minutes of play remaining they came up with a dramatic finish that gave them a 20-19 victory. With only one game left in the schedule, Bombers have a six-point bulge on the runner-up Eskimos.

Featured players in the climatic finale were Indian Joe Jacobs, Bombers' deadly-tossing quarterback, speed merchant George McPhail and second (or third) string end Keith Pearce.

McPhail, former Ottawa Roughrider backfielder, provided the first thrill. After Riders scored a converted touchdown for their 19-14 lead, Jacobs returned the kickoff. McPhail, playing outside, flashed down the sidelines and gathered in the ball on the Rider 28. Jacobs clicked on a pass when he pratically hit Pearce in the stomach and the end merely turned around and flopped over the Rider goal line.

Joe Aguirre, Bombers' convert expert, kicked his third convert of the game for the winning point.

Jacobs was the heavy bomber point-getter with a touchdown and two singles. Ron Vaccher took a Jacobs pass for the other major.

Quarterback Jack Hartman of the Riders booted two field goals, two converts and a single for nine points. Halves Ken Charlton and Nelson Greene each scored touchdowns.

Oakville Oaks Oust Batawa By 4-2 Score

Oshawa — Oakville Oaks nosed out Batawa Shoemen, 4-2, here yesterday afternoon in the third OBA Intermediate "A" semi-final series for the right to meet Strathroy Royals for the Provincial title.

Veteran Al Yarnell and Gordie Moffatt battled long at 1-1 in a sizzling right-handed duel until Batawa broke in front in the bottom of the sixth. But with two out in the eighth and two strikes on him, second baseman Bill Gillam looped one into short centre, scoring two Oaks.

Wright, who relieved at this point, allowed another run in the ninth when he hit a batter, threw widely trying to pick the runner off first and then made another wild throw on Yarnell's sacrifice bunt.

Ezzard Charles To Defend Title Against Barone

New York, Oct. 17—(AP)—Ezzard Charles will fight as a 14-karat champion for the first time in his career when he defends his heavyweight title against Nick Barone in a 15-round bout at Cincinnati Nov. 28.

Jake Mintz, Charles' manager, made the announcement yesterday.

Charles won the National Boxing Association title in June, 1949, when he defeated Jersey Joe Walcott. He was recognized in all states but New York, and there were some who refused to recognize him at all. Not while Joe Louis was around, they said.

But Charles whipped the brown bomber and earned national recognition. From now on he will pick up the champion's share of the purse, which will be 42½ per cent this time.

Barone, a native of Syracuse, N.Y. will get 17½ per cent, plus an unexpected crack at the title.

Ranked sixth among the light heavyweights, he is a crowd-pleasing fighter with a stiff right punch. The 24-year-old Barone is short on experience, however.

The receipts, promoter Sam Becker predicted, should hit $100,000. Prices for the 15,000-capacity Cincinnati Garden will be scaled from $2.50 to $15.

The fight, believed to be the first heavyweight title bout in Cincinnati history, will mark Charles' first appearance before the home folk since he defeated Walcott.

Softball Champions Presented With Trophies and Prizes At Banquet Held at Rossmore

[illegible] Commercial Softball League wound up its 1950 season in [illegible] of banquet glory at Tobe's County Gardens last night.

Upwards of 160 league officials, players and guests sat down to a sumptuous dinner, listened to speeches, enjoyed music and humorous patter and saw champions presented with trophies and prizes.

Special guests were Bill Durnan, former goalie of the Montreal Canadiens who was guest speaker, Mayor Jack Allin, J. H. Legate of the Canada Cement Company, Ed. Smith, Conger Lehigh Coal Company, Barney Parsons, and Jim Millman, of the Labatt Company, A. A. St. Dixier of the Pellar Company, Tom Casey of the Dow Company and others.

League executives present included president Don Lee; Treasurer Jack Howe, vice president Bill Dennis and directors Harry Rollins and Harry Knott.

Trophies Presented

Highlight of the banquet was the presentation of trophies to the sectional champions and individual trophies and miniatures to the batting champions of each section.

The Wishing Well Trophy, emblematic of the "A" section title was presented to the Point Anne team through manager Jim Hunter, by vice president Bill Dennis The Labatt Trophy which went to the "B" section champions was presented by Barney Parsons to to Bateman Motors squad through team captain George Smith.

The championship teams were lined up in front of the head table during the presentations and were individually introduced to the gathering. Brief addresses of appreciation were made by Manager Hunter and Coach Mike Whalen of the Point Anne team and George Brown of Batemans.

Winner of the "A" section batting title, Leo Goyer was presented with the Pellar Trophy and miniature by Mr. St. Dixier, representative of the company. The Conger Lehigh Trophy which was awarded to the leading batter in "B" section was presented to "Yank" McBride by Mr. Smith of the company.

Cheque Presented

Presentation of a cheque was made to Boyd Upper, league statistician following the awards to the various champions.

Director Harry Rollins acted as chairman for the banquet. Official welcome was voiced by President Don Lee with His Worship Mayor Allin extending the welcome of the city fathers albeit the banquet was held in Rossmore. Appreciation of the work of the sponsors was voiced by Director Harry Knott, with response by Harry Hawkshaw, Bakelite. During the banquet tributes were paid to Dick Cornell and Fred Morby, Earl Darragh of Ramsay Paints for the company's gift of the scoreboard and Jack McNab.

Mr. Millman, member of the executive of the Ontario Baseball Association, brought the greetings of that organization to the league. An accomplished pianist and entertainer, he regaled the gathering with some sprightly melodies on his favorite instrument and several humorous stories.

A Good Game

Softball is the best sport for any community from a financial point of view, Bill Durnan told the league in his address. It can be played by a lot of people for very little money and is a game that will go further because there are no financial jealousies.

"He was grateful," he said, "to those who taught him softball for it brought his name before the public. As far as remuneration goes, he smiled, no one will get rich playing softball or hockey for that matter."

While he felt organized softball was necessary, Durnan said schedules should not be disrupted to allow teams to indulge in three weeks of playdowns. He urged the conclusion of schedules before playdown time, because after all, the home folks are the ones who make the game possible.

He urged players to keep in good condition and provide the fans with what is a good game and a crowd pleaser.

"Softball," he said, "can help the potential hockey player better than baseball, because in softball a player has to act quickly. In baseball he has time to think. Sport of today demands players who can be alert and act on the moment."

Durnan was introduced by Jack Devine with league appreciation expressed by Jack Howe.

B.C.I. Junior Gridders Defeat Albert 33-6

By DON DOLAN

At Albert College yesterday afternoon B.C.I. Juniors won their third straight victory as they downed Albert College 33-6. As in their previous game with Trenton, B.C.I. kept its attack on the ground and was able to walk through the Albert line with ease.

In the opening minutes of the game B.C.I. took a 5-0 lead as quarterback Bill Philp went over for a touchdown. B.C.I. scored again in the first period after recovering a fumble deep in Albert territory. Lawrence Moore who played great offensive football throughout the contest, went over for the T.D. which was converted by Philp.

Philp Stars

After Philp scored another touchdown for B.C.I. in the second quarter, Albert took to the offensive. Runs by Scott and McCullough and a Burk to Brown pass put Albert in scoring position but the B.C.I. line rallied and cut off this threat.

Thompson and Hagerman each scored a third quarter T.D. and the latter one was converted by O'Hara to give B.C.I. a 27-0 lead. Albert's only score came as a result of a fumble. On third down Albert kicked and the kick was fumbled behind the B.C.I. line and Heaton an alert Albert player fell on the ball to give the Albert team its only major score. Burk converted.

Moore of B.C.I. scored the final touchdown of the game, late in the fourth period as he romped home from about 15 yards out. Philp of B.C.I. converted.

Offensively for B.C.I. Moore stood out. Close behind were Thompson, Philp and Hagerman who each ran for huge gains. Baker, Nickle, Adamson, Goyer, Page, O'Hara and Thompson were terrific on defensive for B.C.I.

A little fellow by the name of Heaton was the standout performer for the losers. As well as scoring his team's only touchdown, Heaton shone on defence and was in on nearly every tackle. Scott, Burk and McCullough played well in a losing cause for Albert.

Lineups:

Albert College: Ends, Heaton, Brown; middles, Gibson, Hodd; insides, Fleck P., Vaughan; centre Fleck B.; quarter, Burk; halves, Scott, McCullough, Leef; flying wing, Guilfoyle. Subs, Weggeman, Berry, Death, Graham Schultz, Sproule, Woods.

Flow of Talent From Minors To Majors Ends

New York, Oct. 17 — (AP) — The flow of talent from the minors to the major leagues is over—at least until early December.

Midnight last night was the deadline for the shifting of minor-league players to the majors or to any other minor-league club until the second day of the minor-league meetings on Dec. 7. The annual draft of minor - league players by the majors will take place Dec. 4-5.

Three teams, the world champion New York Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers and Cleveland Indians pulled last-hour deals with their minor-league affiliations.

The Yanks brought up eight players, Brooklyn four and Cleveland one.

New York recalled pitchers Hugh Radcliffe, Dick Carr and first-baseman Fenton Mole. The Yanks also purchased catchers Clint Courtney, Lou Berberet, shortstops Jim Brideweser and Jerry Snyder and outfielder Art Schult.

Radcliffe, Carr, Berberet, Brideweser and Schult played for Binghamton of the Eastern League last season. Mole performed for Portland of the Pacific Coast League and Kansas City of the American Association. Snyder labored at Kansas City and Courtney for Beaumont's pennant-winning Texas League team. Brideweser, Berberet and Radcliffe are bonus players.

The Dodgers obtained the contracts of outfielders Bill Sharman, Don Thompson and Dick Williams and pitcher Ray Moore. Sharman prepped at Elmira in the Eastern League. He is a bonus baby.

Thompson, former member of the St. Louis Cardinal, Boston Red Sox and Boston Brave chains starred for Montreal in the International League where he batted .310. Williams and Moore played at Fort Worth in the Texas League.

The Indians purchased Ortes Minoso, speedy third - baseman, from their San Diego Pacific Coast affiliate. Minoso, who played the outfield in a previous trial with Cleveland, led San Diego hitters with .329.

Fights Last Night

Football Star, Injured in Game Dies in Hospital

Sarnia, Ont., Oct. 17 (CP) — Jack Bell, 25-year-old second string quarterback with Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union died this morning from injuries suffered in last Saturday's game with Toronto Balmy Beach.

Bell a native of Sarnia, had been in critical condition in hospital here since being carried off the field late in the final quarter of Saturday's game, won by Beaches. He operated a taxi business here and was the sole support of his widowed mother.

Bell was hurt when he tackled Carl Galbreath, Balmy Beach star halfback. A few minutes earlier Bell had thrown a touchdown pass for the Imperials.

He was taken to hospital from the field suffering a dislocation of the neck. A Toronto specialist Dr. E. H. Botterell, flew here Saturday night to examine him and returned to Toronto yesterday.

At that time, Doctors said the spinal cord probably had been injured.

No Rough Play

Harold Bailey, president of the ORFU said managers of both teams and Ralph Adams of Toronto, who refereed Saturday's game, agreed there was no rough play involved in Bell's injury.

Bell had hit Galbreath in the open field with a diving tackle, his head striking Galbreath's hip. Galbreath, who had been six to nine yards inside the touch line was knocked out of bounds by the force of the tackle.

Club officials here said it was the first football fatality in local history.

Yesterday a group of club players headed by coach Hugh (Red) Douglas, attended a church service for Bell in the hospital chapel.

Bell's death is believed to be the second in Canadian senior football history.

In 1922, Allan Arless suffered fatal injuries in a Big Four game in Montreal. Three other football fatalities have occurred in minor league games.

In Toronto, Beach manager Paul McGarry said "it is hard to say anything—it was certainly a most unfortunate accident."

McGarry said it is possible the scheduled Beaches-Sarnia game in Toronto Sunday may be postponed out of respect for Bell

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Most master bridge players are stubborn as an ox. Their hides are thick with a coating of conceit and complex bidding methods. Ask them to listen to a simple system? Am I nuts?

Such players are super handlers of the toughest card holdings. They can wring out an extra trick where none seems to exist. They can be in numerous wrong contracts and still win.

Consequently they smirk at any suggestion that conflicts with what they use. Especially if it seems measured for beginners. And particularly if it is too obvious for clever manipulations.

What a relief it was, therefore, to meet with an exception. He was Joe Foraker of Wilmington, Delaware; TWA instructor of Link Training institute at La Guardia Field, New York.

It was at the Rocky Mountain regionals in Denver. I had no partner in the master team, of four. He was a stranger who was also on the loose. So we paired up for the event.

Never had I partnered with a player of such skill and ability. What struck me most, however, was his approach to our pairing. From a master player it was a novelty concession.

We had an hour before starting time and he said: "They tell me you have a simple system of your own. Give me the highlights of it and I will try it out with you." Just like that.

He adopted Horse Sense without reservation. And we clicked in everything like ham and eggs. It was a perfect round no bid or play of which I would change if it had to be done over again.

His kind of player is equal to every occasion in delicate play. As when he was south as declarer in spades when we got this deal:

The opening lead from west was a club. There are 13 tricks that can be taken. But it takes hairtrigger timing. Sight it.

GORDON LEADS SCORERS

New York, Oct. 17 (AP) — Jackie Gordon, young centre of the amazing Cincinnati Mohawks, leads the American Hockey League in scoring after one week of play.

Gordon, in five games, has belted home six goals and drawn five assists for 11 points. Gordon's line mate, left-winger Fern Perreault, is second with nine points.

Buffalo's high-scoring line of veterans Ab Demarco, Grant Warwick and young Paul Meger are tied for third place at eight points each. Gordon and Demarco are tied for the lead in goal-getting at six apiece.

REPEAL BY-LAW

Toronto, Oct. 17—(CP) — City council Monday repealed a by-law that had banned religious meetings in city parks for more than 40 years. The original ban was imposed after fights between rival religious groups. The meetings will be allowed only under permit from Parks Commissioner Walter Love.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 17 — (AP) — For the first time in 25 years, Harpo Marx is going to speak before an audience.

Harpo is the mute, wild-wigged character who chased blondes in filmdom's most famous brother Act. Now that the Marxes have gone their separate ways professionally, Harpo is embarking on a concert tour. And he says he's going to talk.

"I thought I'd do it this way," he said. "I would be playing the harp and one of the strings would break. I'd say 'damn.' That would break the silence and then I'd talk to the audience and explain why I never spoke."

An Old Story

The story begins a quarter century ago, when the Marx brothers were touring vaudeville. They were doing a 25-minute sketch and Harpo had two comedy bits. One was in pantomime, which drew a lot of laughs, and the other was dialogue, which didn't. So the brothers decided to lengthen the pantomime routine and cut out the other. Harpo never spoke again.

Reports have it that Harpo was once offered $50,000 to say a line in a movie, but he turned it down. While this is dubious history, it adds to the legend.

The brothers are still firm about doing no more pictures together, except a final one based on their own lines. It will be taken from Kyle Chrichton's book about the boys. But as far as making another straight comedy, Harpo said "we've done all the gags; why do them again?"

Bank of Canada Increases Rate To Other Banks

Ottawa, Oct. 17. (CP)—The Bank of Canada Monday night announced an increase in the bank rate—the interest rate which it will lend money to other banks—to 2 per cent from 1 1-2.

The change, effective today, is the first in the rate since it was set at 1 1-2 per cent on Feb. 8, 1944.

In Toronto, a top banking official said that the Bank of Canada's action in increasing the bank rate probably will make no difference to ordinary bank customers.

The official, a senior executive of a large chartered bank, said the increase to two per cent from 1 1-2 per cent apparently was designed to curb credit and stem inflationary pressures.

It would not mean an increase in the interest rate banks pay their depositors and it probably would not mean an increase in interest rates on bank loans.

The official, who asked to remain anonymous, told The Canadian Press that his bank had not found it necessary to borrow funds from the Bank of Canada for many years. He believed that Canada's other banks had not borrowed from the central bank either.

Bank of Canada loans to chartered banks, he said, were a means by which banks could increase their credit structure and, in turn, increase their loans to borrowers. The increase in the bank rate would make it less attractive for a chartered bank to use this means of raising credit and, consequently, make banks more reluctant to increase their loans.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Penang, Malaya, Oct. 17—(Reuters)—Charged with attempted suicide, a 41-year-old Chinese told the court here that "a tall black ghost told me to cut my throat and I did it." He added he did not feel any pain and was unaware he had been "yelling and groaning."

AT THE CAPITOL

"March of the Wooden Soldiers"

During the filming of "March of the Wooden Soldiers" based on the immortal operetta "Babes in Toyland" opening at the Capitol Theatre, Thursday an entire Hollywood motion picture studio was transformed into the average child's conception of a fairyland. Candy canes were used to build picket fences around sugar houses, miniature wagons drawn by goats, the straw, wood, and brick-houses of the Three Little Pigs and completely stocked toyshops were all made in the huge sound stage.

"March of the Wooden Soldiers" combines delightful music, hilarious comedy and a heart-warming romance and brings back the well loved comedy team of Laurel and Hardy.

The familiar antics of such characters as Jack and Jill, Mother Goose, Simple Simon, Old King Cole, The Cat and the Fiddle, Little Red Ridinghood and many others, plus expert direction, fine performances and a clever screen play make this comedy one of the outstanding films of the year for both young and old.

On the same program James Oliver Curtwood's "Snow Dog" starring Kirby Grand as the Mounted Police Officer and Chinook the wonder dog. Its grand entertainment for the entire family.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was up in her room sewing when I came home from Shorty udge's berthday party, and she aid, Did you have a nice time at he party?

mam, I said, and she said, nice .

And she kept on sewing, and I aid, I wish it had of been absiutely perfect, and ma said, Goodness, you mustn't set sutch impossible standards. Nuthing in the werld is quite altogether utterly perfect, and after all that's a blessing in disgize, because otherwise there wouldn't be any lite and shadow. But what do you mean, what kept the party from being perfect? she said.

Well, I told Shorty's mother a kind of a story, and it's still herting my conscience, I said, and ma said. Medsey, do you meen u told her an untruth?

Well, kind of, I said. She asked me . something about the ice cream, and I didn't quite tell her true, I said, and ma said, Oh well. probably you didn't want to hert her feelings. After all, if the ice cream wasn't quite all it mite of been, it was only naturel to strane a point and refrain from saying so. Still, I'm rather serprised, because Mrs. Judge alwaysways prides herself on buying the best of everything. In fact some people think she prides herself too mutch. Just what did you tell her? ma said.

Well, there was just one helping left, and Mrs. Judge said it would be a shame to let it [illegible] soft and go to waist, and she asked me if I wanted it, and I acted polite and said no thanks, so she asked Puds Simkins and Puds quick said. "Yeah. sure without giving me time to change my mind, I said, and ma said, So that's what's on your conscience for land sakes. Do you really expect me to feel sorry for you? she said.

Red Indian Sqdn. Will Train in U.K. Several Months

Ottawa, Oct. 17 —(CP)—Canada's famed Red Indian fighter squadron, No. 421, based at Chatham, N.B., will move to the United Kingdom early next year for an operational training tour of several months, air force headquarters announced today.

Both air and ground crew members of the squadron, commanded by Squadron Leader R. T. P. Davidson, DFC, 33, of Vancouver, will make the shift. Present plans call for it to leave its Vampire jet planes in Canada and be provided in the United Kingdom with fighters — probably the same jet types — for training purposes.

Defence Minister Claxton previously announceu RCAF plans to give its fighter squadrons operational training in the United Kingdom but did not identify the first unit which would go. [illegible] said that one squadron would be sent early next year and that other squadrons were expected to engage in training in the U.K. and possibly in other North Atlantic treaty countries, in rotation periods of several months.

The Red Indian squadron was formed at Digby, Lincolnshire, England in April 1942, and became operational a month later. For the next three years it served with fighter command and the 2nd tactical air force and by the end of the war had established a reputation as one of the best fighter units in the RCAF.

Its pilots destroyed more than 90 enemy planes in combat and were credited with 10 probables and at least 50 more damaged. Its aircraft, designated by the squadron letters "AP," swept the skies from the Bristol Channel to the Baltic sea.

Included among its wartime commanding officers was squadron leader (now wing commander) R. W. (Buck) McNair, DFC, of Springfield, N.S., and North Battleford, Sask.

It was reported in Canada almost a year ago.

Son Names Father As Corespondent

London, Oct. 17 — (AP) — A 41-year-old husband is suing his wife for a divorce on the grounds that she committed adultery with his father, Sir John Mayhew, 66.

The son, John de Parigault Gurney Mayhew, a sheet metal worker, also is asking the divorce court to award him £10,000 (about $29,500) damages against Sir John.

Sir John, former Conservative member of Parliament for an east London constituency, denied his son's allegations and is defending the suit.

Mayhew brought the action yesterday against his wife, Frances Phoebe Mayhew. They married in 1947. It is Mayhew's third marriage.

Wife Granted Divorce On Grounds of Cruelty

Bristol, England, Oct. 17 (Reuters) — Mrs. Rosina Purnell gave birth to nine babies in 11 years. Yesterday she was granted a divorce on the ground of cruelty.

The judge described her husband, George Purnell, 49, as "a man with a strong sense of sex."

Mrs. Purnell, 50, alleged she had been advised by a doctor to have no more babies. But her husband, she said, refused to take steps to prevent that happening and objected to her being sterilized, saying such an operation would make her "cease to be a wife."

Inspector Says Cruise-Ship Only Partially Protected; Judge Questions Reporter

Quebec, Oct. 17 — (CP) — A Transport Department inspector testified today that safety equipment aboard the cruise-ship Quebec, destroyed by fire in August with loss of seven lives, complied only to a degree of 25 or 30 per cent with the latest government standards.

Inspector Paul-Georges Gagnon appearing at a court inquiry into destruction of the Canada Steamships Lines' cruiser at Tadoussac in August, said the latest government safety regulations were issued in April.

He said the date the regulations took effect did not allow time to bring the Quebec up to the new safety standards before it went into service for the summer.

Gagnon said because improvements had been carried out and the ship complied fully with 1937 regulations he recommended that the Quebec be permitted to go into service this year and he was authorized by the Transport Department to sign an operating permit.

Inspector Gagnon said if April, 1950, regulations had been applied completely last spring neither the Quebec nor any other of C.S.L.'s larger St. Lawrence and Great Lakes cruise ships could have operated.

During the court sitting, Patrick Sawtell Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph reporter, appeared on Judge Choquette's order to explain a story in the daily newspaper that a "pyromaniac" was believed responsible for the ship fire.

Judge Choquette asked:

"Have you personal knowledge of the facts mentioned in your story," asked the judge.

"It is confidential information," Sawtell said.

"Are you in a position to tell the court who your informants are so they can be questioned?"

"No".

"In your story," said Judge Choquette, "you pass judgment by declaring or quoting others as saying this was not an accident. You haven't the right to do that. I am obliged to say what you wrote is disrespectful of this court.

"I reserve my decision on the opportunity of taking other measures in this matter."

Sawtell's story published Saturday said high provincial authorities were "inclined to believe" a pyromaniac caused the fire abroad the Quebec and a crew member was under surveillance.

Cabinet to Name Arbitrator in R.R. Wage-Hour Case

Ottawa, Oct. 17 — (CP) —Appointment of an arbitrator to settle the railway wage-hour dispute will be dealt with by cabinet today. The ministers are scheduled to meet at 4 p. m. EDT.

It was understood between 15 and 20 names would go before cabinet for its final choice.

Provision for appointment of an arbitrator was made in parliament's Aug. 30 bill that ended a nine-day general rail strike.

The railways, and unions, representing 124,000 employees, were given until last Saturday to work out a settlement.

The negotiations failed to bring about either a wage-hour settlement or agreement on the choice of an arbitrator, leaving it to the government to name the referee.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

"Then I began to see a possibility," Shayne went on. He spoke rapidly, as though he wanted to get the thing over and done with, his eyes going over the group, [illegible] "Suppose Voorland —or someone else took Michaud's process of reconstructing rubies and actually utilized the lines of fissure to reproduce a star ruby? Take six small stones of uniform size and cut them in triangular shape. Then, under pressure and terrific heat fuse the six stones into one large one having the asterism that makes them so valuable, and also marks them as natural stones."

Again Shayne paused to let his remarks sink in. "I began tc see how even experts like Walter Voorland and Earl Randoph might be fooled by a job like that. Mental attitude counts for a lot in appraising jewelry. Ever since Verneuil began making synthetic rubies it has been an accepted credo in the trade that a star ruby must be cut from the natural stone.

"So, I began to see how such a manufactured or reconstructed gem might be foisted off as the real thing on some sucker like James T. King by a jeweler with Walter Voorland's unblemished reputation.

"But think of the chance he takes. Suppose the brittle, reconstructed stone broke into pieces or blew up from internal tension. Then the truth would have to come out. Voorland would be ruined, his reputation shot and gone. It didn't seem to me that it was worth his taking such a chance, even if he had discovered such a process.

The silence in the room was thick, the attitude of every man a study. Shayne's eyes once again studied their faces. The atmosphere itself seemed supercharged.

"And that's where the sudden losses come in," he said. "That's the theory that explains why the rubies were stolen shortly after their purchase and never recovered. That way, Voorland could be safe from detection. All he had to do was arrange a fast holdup before the fraud was discovered and have his purchaser fully covered by insurance in order that he wouldn't lose very much, if anything. That explained a lot of things."

"Do you honestly expect us to believe," demanded Earl Randolph incredulously "that all those star rubies were fakes?"

Shayne said "I'm positive they were. The ring sold to King; the pendant bought by Kendriok and the bracelet stolen from Dustin last night."

"This is the most preposterous tissue of lies I ever heard," said Voorland angrily. "There are such things as libel laws, Shayne. I'm a wealthy man. I'd be insane to attempt any such trickery."

"I wonder if you are so wealthy," Shayne said. "I know you don't own much stock in the store you manage under your own name. You're nothing more than a hired hand over there, and I've got a hunch you've eaten your heart out for years watching the huge profits go to the stockholders while you had to be content with a moderate salary."

"Even if that were true," the jeweler protested "I'd be the biggest fool on earth to sell fakes like that and trust to luck to be able to arrange a successful holdup soon enough to recover the gems before they were discovered."

"He's perfectly right, Shayne," Peter Painted put in pompously. "He'd have no way of being sure a robbery would be successful. A hundred things could happen to circumvent it. The buyer might place the jewel in a safe deposit box immediately. He might leave the country the next day. Anything at all might come up tc interfere with such an absurd plan. He'd be a fool to trust to luck."

"And Voorlanc is no fool," Shayne agreed. "So, I don't believe he trusted to luck. How much easier and surer to arrange with the buyers beforehand to pull their own fake robberies at once. Remember the King affair in Miami? It screamed 'fake' through and through, but no one could pin it on King for lack of plausible motive. You told me that yourself, Randolph."

"Sure it stunk from the word go," Randolph agreed. "But there wasn't any proof and we couldn't find any reason for him to have pulled the job."

"Reason enough," Shayne said, "if he knew the ring was a fake when he bought it, and had arranged to split the insurance rakeoff with Voorland. Of course you couldn't prove it, because the ring had disappeared. That's why it disappeared."

"This becomes more and more ridiculous all the time," Voorland declared angrily. "I can't believe you're serious Shayne. Why would wealthy men like King and the others enter into such a dangerous arrangement with me.

"I don't think any of them were wealthy."

"Good heavens! A man who pays a cool hundred thousand for a ring certainly isn't poor."

"I don't believe King paid you a hundred grand for the ring," said Shayne relentlesly. "I don't believe he paid you a cent. I believe you faked the sale—as you did the sales to Kendrick and Dustin each succeeding two years."

Voorland stopped his frantic chewing to retort "this gets more and more absurd. I realize that Mr. King had been poor until he inherited a fortune, but these others, Kendrick and Mr. Dustin are both wealthy men. I'm positive the insurance company checked Kendrick's background thoroughly and I'm sure they will check Mr. Dustin's before they allow his claim."

"I'm quite sure they will," Shayne agreed calmly, "and I know exactly what they'll learn from Denver. I've had a detective working on that all morning. They'll discover no one in Denver knew or ever heard of him until he popped up there with a bride two years ago—a very short time after Mrs. Kendrick was murdered in New Orleans —and after Kendrick himself dropped out of sight.

"I haven't yet mentioned the most remarkable coincidence," he went on with a trace of weariness "namely, the unnatural physical resemblance of all three ruby buyers —King, Kendrick and Mark Dustin.

"I have descriptions of the three men here." He took a typewritten sheet of paper from his pocket. "All are said to be between forty and fifty. All are about six feet tall. All had gray eyes. King's hair was a faded gray at forty and he was thin and stooped from overwork and worry. Kendrick's hair was red and he held himself erect was was described as slender and well knit. You can all see Dustin for yourselves."

"But I remember King quite well," Earl Randolph proterted. "He was worried looking and stooped. . ."He paused and turned his protruding eyes on Mark Dustin.

"Four years ago," Shayne reminded him. "Four years of wealth and good food, absence of worry and a beautiful young bride, can fill a man out and erase the wrinkles. Add some black hair dye. . ."

"I don't know what kind of cock and bull story you're trying to frame," Dustin said angrily. "You started out by promising to arrest a murderer here. If you've got anything to say, why don't you stop this foolishness and say it."

"Cut it out, King," Shayne snapped. "I've checked and know your story of an inheritance from a rich uncle in Los Angeles was hog-wash. It was cooked up between you and Voorland when he went to Massilon, Ohio, 1943 with this fantastic plan of his and pretended to be a lawyer named Norwood. . . or Northcott He knew the insurance company would investigate your background before paying the claim, and had to fix up a legitimate excuse for you to be buying hundred thousand dollar rubies."

Peter Painter came to his feet and snapped "I don't understand this. I don't understand it at all. Are you saying this man is King? The James T. King who was robbed of a ruby ring in Miami four years ago?"

"And Roland Kendrick," Shayne said grimly, "who popped up in Westchester County, New York, from nowhere soon after King collected his insurance and disappeared. He spent the next two years carefully building himself a new identity and a reputation as a wealthy playboy that would stand the closest scrutiny by an insurance company after he and Voorland pulled their second coup. His wife was killed in that New Orleans hold-up and he married a new one about a month later, after a whirlwind courtship of just five days. His second anniversary was a few days ago, and the dates check."

"Haven't we had enough of this nonsense?" Voorland appealed to the detective chief. "Shayne hasn't one shred of proof for a single one of his wild theories."

"In order to disprove it," said Shayne cheerfully, "all you have to do is produce Mark Dustin's cancelled check. The one he is supposed to have given you for the bracelet. And the checks from King and Kendrick. The banks keep photostatic records of all important accounts these days, and there shouldn't be any difficulty about that. If you can't do that you might like to confront a next dooı neighbor of King's in Massilon, Ohio. A man named Hank Klinger who clearly remembers the lawyer who called on King back in 1943. And then you can tell us how you came to be hanging around here last night and heard Celia Dustin arrange to meet me at the foot of the bathing pier, and how you met her there instead."

"No. You can't get me for murder," Voorland shouted. "I admit. . ."

"Wait a minute!" Mark Dustin dragged himself up to a sitting position on the couch. He said angrily. "This entire stupid hypothesis rests on your suspicion that the jewel thefts were prearranged. Do you think I arranged that affair last night? Fixed it to get myself cut up and my hand smashed ju.. to. . ?"

"No," said Shayne,, "I think that was the one accident you didn't foresee, and it upset the applecart. All because Voorland was afraid to show his phony bracelet to a certain Rajah of Hindupoor a couple of weeks ago. He knew a star ruby with his reputation behind it would get by an Occidental expert, but the Orientals have a way of spotting fakes by merely handling them and Walter Voorland knows that as well as any man alive. This refusal whetted the Rajah's appetite and he let it be known that he was in the market for that bracelet with no questions asked. I'm convinced the heist last night was perfectly legitimate — the only legitimate thing about this whole business. I think we can get you for murder," he added quietly to Walter Voorland. "You know your house of cards has fallen. We'll have a hundred witnesses to prove. . ."

ONE DEAD, MANY HOMELESS IN FLORIDA STORM

South Koreans Reported in Red Capital

Thrust Climaxes Eight-Day March Of Ninety Miles

U.S. Cavalry Troops Had Hoped to be First in City

Tokyo, Oct. 18 — (AP) — South Koreans said tonight their troops have fought their way into Pyongyang, the communist capital.

The Korean information press said the report was made by the Pusan, South Korean, radio in a broadcast at 9 p.m. (7 a.m., EST.)

Hard-driving Republic of Korea (ROK) 1st Division troops swarmed over the Pyongyang airfield and then stormed across the Taedgong River into the communist capital, Pusan radio said.

Their thrust into Pyongyang, prize goal of the massive United Nations drive, climaxed a brilliant eight-day march of nearly 90 miles.

The ROKS fought hard to enter the city ahead of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division.

Yesterday the Commonwealth Brigade, made up of British and Australian troops, apparently following planned Allied strategy, halted their rapid advance after a brush with the reds' outer defences outside Pyongyang to allow U. S. Cavalry troops to move up alongside.

Wanted Another 'First'

The American troopers wanted to add Pyongyang to their string of historic firsts — Manila, Tokyo, the linkup between the two South Korea beachheads.

But the South Koreans, battling to win back the northern half of their country — wrested from them with the Russian occupation after the Second World War — were not to be stopped.

Along the winding mountain road southeast of Pyongyang and into the capital plains, the ROK troops rolled forward, hardly pausing.

For days their officers had trouble restraining the South Koreans from running on toward the city.

They surged through the red Korean opposition, sporadic at times, bitter at others.

The mountain road was littered with communist dead. The South Koreans wheeled past huge piles of abandoned red arms and equipment.

They paused only to seize what they needed for their onward thrust.

American tanks cleared a path at least part of the way for the surging Roks.

Fire on Cruise-Ship Set Wilfully Says Investigator

Quebec, Oct. 18 (CP)—Charles Hazen, veteran fire-investigator, testified today he believes the fire aboard the cruise-ship Quebec which cost seven lives was "set wilfully."

Hazen, a Montreal chemist with 30 years' experience in fire investigation, told a court of inquiry he came to the conclusion, after a series of experiments, that the Aug. 12 ship fire was deliberately set.

The 74-year-old witness said these experiments established that it was virtually impossible for the fire, originating in the ship's linen room, to have been caused by a carelessly discarded cigaret butt or a burning match.

Inflammable Material Used

Hazen, called as a witness by Canada Steamship Lines, which owned the Quebec, added that rapidity of the fire's spread indicated inflammable material was placed in the linen room and someone deliberately set fire to it.

(Fire that destroyed the C.S.L. cruise ship Noronic at Toronto in September, 1949, with loss of 119 lives also was believed to have started in the ship's linen room.)

The chemist, using sheets taken from the linen room of the C.S.L. Tadoussac, a sister-ship of the Quebec, showed the court . it would take some time to set fire to one of them even by holding a large lighted wooden match under one edge.

He said in his experiments after the S. S. Quebec fire he tried for three hours to set fire to folded sheets with a burning cigaret.

He produced before the court sheets recovered from the wreckage of the Quebec and noted while parts of them were burned they were not consumed by the fire which destroyed the ship.

Contents Not Inflammable

Hazen said that nothing listed by Doucet Prieur, the Quebec's "B" deck steward, as among the contents of the linen room when the fire occurred could have caught fire spontaneously.

Hazen said a burning cigaret placed on folded linen scorched it but did not set it alight.

When a cigaret sets a bed afire, it is the mattress rather than the sheets that blaze up, he said.

The inquiry was adjourned until this afternoon after Hazen's testimony.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP)—Synopsis: Rain and thunderstorms moved into the White River region, and snow into the western half of the James Bay region last night, in advance of a weakening disturbance which is approaching Lake Superior. This disturbance has moved eastward from the Rocky Mountains during the last 24 hours, and is expected to weaken further as it continues eastward through Central Ontario tomorrow.

Skies remained clear in most of the rest of Ontario last night. Minimum temperatures were mostly over 50 in southwestern Ontario, but dropped locally to near the freezing mark in the northeast.

The precipitation will move through northern regions today, but warm sunny weather will continue in the lower lakes district.

WOMAN WANTED FOR QUESTIONING IN $38,000 THEFT

Bookkeeper on Way Back from Edmonton

Toronto, Oct. 18—(CP)—A woman identified as Elsie Arnetta Teasdale, 33-year-old Toronto bookkeeper wanted for questioning about the disappearance of some $38,000 of her employer's funds, has been located in Edmonton, police said today.

The announcement was made here by Alex McCathie, inspector of detectives.

The inspector said police hold a warrant charging the woman with theft. Toronto officers will fly to Edmonton to bring her here, probably early tomorrow.

He said it was not known immediately whether any of the missing funds were recovered.

First reports were that the woman was arrested two days after arriving in Edmonton. She spent one night at a Y.W.C.A., another at a roominghouse, local officers said. On the strength of information forwarded from Toronto, Edmonton detectives took her into custody.

Miss Teasdale's disappearance was made known last Saturday. At that time, her brother, Wallace Teasdale, told police he had received a letter in which she hinted at suicide.

Police said she was last seen here Thursday in company of a man who described himself as a private detective. He was held for a time as material witness and released Saturday on $2,500 bail. Police did not identify him.

Detectives H. Thurston and W. Johnston said $38,000 was withdrawn during August and September from bank accounts of the law firm which employed Miss Teasdale. As bookkeeper, she had power of attorney over the accounts.

Escapes Charging Moose

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 18—(CP)—Forest ranger Glen Brethour was walking through a swamp near the Bridgeland fire-spotting tower.

Suddenly he found himself confronted by three moose and one of them, a large bull, bristled up and charged.

Brethour jumped up the nearest poplar tree.

The ground-thumping moose kept him up there for half an hour before wandering over a ridge.

The coast clear, Brethour shinnied down the tree and legged it for the towerman's cabin. He was less than half way there when the bull moose came thundering back over the ridge.

Brethour reports he just made the cabin and safety.

Moslem Population of Russia Cut In Half by Starvation and Torture

Cairo, Oct. 18—(Reuters)—Russia is reported to have desecrated mosques, executed hundreds of thousands of Moslems and sent mass shipments to Siberian prison camps during years of persecution to wipe out the Islamic faith in the Soviet union.

A boatload of 150 Russian Moslems arriving here recently told of torture, starvation and death at the hands of the Russians. They arrived from Italy, where they had lived in a displaced persons camp until their plight was brought to the attention of the Arab League.

During the last 30 years the Moslem population of Russia is reported to have been cut by more than 50 per cent from 45,000,000 to 22,000,000. The Arab League now wants to know what happened to the 23,000,000 who have disappeared, and what is currently happening to Moslems behind the iron curtain.

The story of one escapee, as told to an Arabic weekly newspaper, is typical of all related by the refugees.

He and his family were banished from their native southern province of Turkestan to be imprisoned in the far-north city of Archangel. Moslems opposing the communist agricultural system were arrested and sent to Siberia, he said.

Truman Offers "Partnership Of Peace" To All Asia Backed by American Might

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

San Francisco, Oct. 18. (AP)—President Truman has set the world stage for an unprecedented counter-offensive to Russian peace propaganda with his offer of a full "partnership of peace" to all Asia, backed up by United States military might.

The State department's "Voice of America" today bombarded every reachable listener with a constant repetition of Truman's warning last night to the peoples of the Far East that Russia is trying to turn them into "colonial slaves of a new imperialism".

And the President left for the Russian politburo a bold and blunt reminder that the United States will not stop short of war to resist aggression and preserve "our free way of life".

Truman flew back to Washington shortly after delivering his major foreign-policy speech in the War Memorial Opera House where the United Nations charter was born five years ago.

He left on the last leg of a 14,400-mile round-trip flight during which he talked with Gen. MacArthur on Wake Island about the "dangers which still face us."

"What we want is a partnership for peace with all the world," Truman told last night's cheering audience. "We want peace but it must be a peace founded upon justice. That American policy is as old as our republic and it is stronger today than ever before in our history. And with God's help we intend to keep it that way."

The crowd applauded vigorously as the President declared "we are increasing our armed strength because Soviet policies leave us no other choice."

Can Prove It

If the Russians "really want peace," they can prove it "by living up to the principles of the United Nations charter"; and "by joining the rest of the United Nations in calling upon the North Koreans to lay down their arms at once;" and "by lifting the iron curtain and permitting the free exchange of information and ideas;" and, finally, by joining with the U.N. to establish a system of collective security "which will permit the elimination of the atomic bomb and the drastic reduction and regulation of all other arms and armed forces.'"

Until Russia does these things, "we are determined to build up the common defensive strength of the free world."

What the United States did for Korea, he said in effect, it stands ready to do, in conjunction with the United Nations, for any peaceful country that finds its borders violated and its freedom attacked.

We Hate War

"We Hate War," the President declared, "but we love our liberties. We will not see them destroyed."

Truman countered Russia's peace propaganda by tagging that country with responsibility for fear and unrest in both Asia and in Europe, and said the United States and Associated countries will continue to build up their arms to resist attack.

"The Soviet Union and its colonial satellites," he said in the course of a long and bitter indictment ,"are maintaining armed forces of great size and strength. In both Europe and Asia, their vast armies pose a constant threat to peace.

"So long as they persist in maintaining these forces and in using them to intimidate other countries, the free men of the world have but one choice if they are to remain free. They must oppose strength with strength."

Premier L. Frost Officially Opens Prince Charles School; Capacity Crowd in Attendance

With Ontario Premier Leslie M. Frost acting in his official capacity, Belleville's new Prince Charles Public School was formally opened Tuesday afternoon as the school auditorium was filled to capacity with parents, city and district officials—and school children.

It was a big day for the staff and pupils of the city's newest public school as well as for all public schools in the city. They heard Mr. Frost compliment them on the fine appointments of their new school building and then were granted a school holiday Friday in honor of the school opening.

Costing approximately $185,000 and planned as a junior public school, the new Prince Charles school has been in use since last April, when the building was completed by its builders, the St. Lawrence Contracting Company of this city.

Turned Over To Board

Yesterday the school was officially turned over to the board of education by the contractor. On behalf of the builders, Mr. Claire Hurlbut turned over the keys of the building to the architect Mr. H. Smith of the firm Drever and Smith of Kingston, Mr. Smith in turn presented the keys to Mr. Harold Seldon, chairman of the board of education sites and accommodation committee, who turned them over to Mr. Edgar Bateman, school principal.

Joe Wright, Sr., 'Grand Old Man of Rowing' Dies at 86

Toronto, Oct. 18 — (CP)—Joe Wright, Sr., "Grand old man" of Canadian rowing and one of the Dominion's all-time great athletes, died today. He was 86.

From his teens until he was 50, he was the iron man of Canadian sport. He won more events in a wider field of athletic endeavor than any other Canadian athlete.

His greatest fame was achieved in rowing, in which he won 137 national titles and was one of the first to do 100 yards in 10 seconds.

"Old Joe" or "Mr. Joe," as he was best known in later life, suffered one keen disappointment: he failed to win Britain's coveted Diamond Sculls in 1894.

More than 35 years later, however, in 1928, his son, Joe, Jr., won this classic event and established his father permanently as Joe, Sr.

For more than 30 years, Wright was coach of the Toronto Argonaut Rowing Club. He started in 1906 at the age of 42, when he might well have been content to rest on his vast collection of laurels.

Wins Boxing Crown

Seven years earlier, when 35, the big, powerfully - built Wright had won the Canadian amateur heavyweight boxing championship. It wasn't until he was 50—he rowed, in an Argonaut Club regatta that year — that he gave up personal activity in competitive sports.

JUDGE KELLOCK TO ARBITRATE RAIL DISPUTE

Will Dictate Final And Binding Terms

Ottawa, Oct. 18 (CP) — Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada, is the government arbitrator who will work out settlement terms in the railway wage-hour dispute.

The Justice, who has been called on several times to conduct major investigations for the government, was chosen by the cabinet late yesterday to bring an end to the wage dispute that precipitated last August's general rail strike.

Within the area still at issue between the railways and 17 unions representing 124,000 employees, he will be empowered to dictate final and binding settlement terms.

These will deal chiefly with the amount of a general - wage increase, the effective date for the five-day, 40-hour week and the classes of employees to which these concessions will be extended.

The compulsory arbitration was ordered under an Aug. 30 parliamentary bill which ended the strike after nine days. The disputants were given until last Saturday to work out a settlement among themselves, but were unable to reach agreement either on contract terms or on the choice of an arbitrator.

It is expected that Mr. Justice Kellock will get to work immediately on the task of laying down settlement terms. One of his first moves probably will be to consult with the disputants at Montreal.

Limited to Area

While his power to dictate terms is absolute, it is limited to the area laid down by parliament in the Aug. 30 bill— the field still in dispute when negotiations broke off.

For instance he will have to award a wage increase somewhere between the four cents an hour offered by the companies and the seven cents sought by the unions. The four cents already is in effect.

On the disputed 40-hour week with no loss in take-home pay from the present 48 hours, he will fix the effective date between next June 1 and next Sept. 1. These are the dates extended by the unions and companies, respectively.

Another major point issue is whether hotel and waterway employees of the companies are to be included in general terms of settlement. Parliament has ordered that they be given the four cent increase, but Mr. Justice Kellock will determine whether they receive other concessions obtained by the remaining workers. The railways have been against including them in the general settlement.

Highlanders Rout Koreans in Orchard On Their March to Northern Capital

With the British Troops in Korea, Oct. 17 (Delayed)—(AP)—The British Korean force, spearheaded by Argyll and Sutherland Highland troops with burrs as thick as their winter uniforms, had a brisk skirmish today as they headed north on the road to Pyongyang, communist Korean capital.

The fight took place in an apple orchard at the outskirts of a large village near the industrial city of Sariwon.

Scots with fixed bayonets charged into the orchard and killed the few remaining north Koreans of a small group which U.S. tanks had shelled and machine-gunned for almost half an hour and which the Britons had battered with mortars.

After the orchard fight, L. Cpl. Robert Stark of Dundee, Scotland, brought down through the harvested trees a tiny Korean whose left hand had been shattered into a bloody pulp by shell fire. The child was just one of the increasing numbers of civilians who are appearing along the battle route to Pyongyang.

Many of those civilians wave rough Korean flags, cheer loudly and toss apples to the soldiers, who usually are highly suspicious of such behavior.

Today's lunge by the British contingent began to bring to view some of the industries of north Korea.

Sariwon itself was mauled heavily by the United Nations air forces and was still smoking from air strikes which preceded entry of the British troops.

The lead tanks hit the city's two-lane concrete main street, clattering through smoke after passing, jeeringly, a red starred-arch which elicited the Scottish version of the Bronx cheer.

Southern Area Hard-Hit by Winds Up to 125 Miles Hr.

Five Million Dollars Damage Conservative Estimate

Miami, Fla., Oct. 18 — (AP) — One person was known dead, hundreds are homeless and National Guardsmen were called out today to guard hard-hit areas in the South Florida hurricane area where damage was officially estimated at $5,000,000.

The storm, losing force as it travelled over land, moved on toward the central Florida citrus belt, leaving destruction in its wake from 125-mile winds.

Hardest hit were the communities of Davie, West Hollywood and West Hallandale. In those towns at least 40 homes were destroyed, 79 trailers wrecked, many homes damaged and an undetermined number of persons injured.

Trailer Upset

Mrs. Owen Adams was killed at West Hollywood when the winds upset and smashed her trailer. Her husband, Owen, was critically hurt and their three children injured.

Sheriff Amos Hall, of Broward County, made a tour of the three communities and called out the 40 men of the Florida National Guard.

"Davie, a town of about 2,000, looks as though a tornado went through it," said Hall. "Substantial homes were destroyed and there isn't an undamaged house in the town."

West Hollywood, a town of 2,000 population, was hit even harder. Twenty-five injured were sent to hospital, 500 were homeless, 30 or 40 homes were demolished and 200 others party or wholly unroofed.

The three communities are inland from Fort Lauderdale, resort city, 24 miles north of Miami and Hollywood, another resort between the two cities.

Miami itself was hard hit. About 40 persons injured there crowded hospital emergency rooms after the wind died down about 3 a.m.

Some houses were unroofed and about 2,000 plate glass windows were shattered in the Miami area, but no fatalities were reported. Fallen trees blocked a number of streets.

Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster, made preliminary damage estimate for the South Florida section of $5,000,000.

Miami Safety Director O. D. Henderson estimated damage in Miami at $3,000,000. The Miami Daily News said it may reach $8,000,000 in the area.

Five Towers Blown Down

Five radio stations lost their towers which lay in twisted heaps after the blow. Storm shutters were wrenched off many windows the glass smashed and displays sucked out into streets. Uprooted trees crushed many automobiles.

The storm's tiny calm eye, only five miles in diameter, passed directly over the western sections of Miami. The wind dropped suddenly from over 100 miles an hour to a zephyr. Half an hour later the roaring winds returned.

Palm Beach, at the other end of the 70-miles South Florida "Gold Coast", escaped damaging winds.

Communities along the eastern shore of Lake Okeechobee rode out hurricane winds and heavy rain. Crop damage, especially to corn and beans, was heavy.

The storm lost some force as it pushed northward near the eastern edge of Lake Okeechobee but still packed winds of 100 miles an hour as it headed for Central Florida.

All Miami policemen were called to duty. Electricity was off in many sections of the city.

Cars Taxed Too Much Says Sales Director

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP)—E. J. Humphrey of Oshawa, Ont., director of sales for General Motors Products of Canada said today that in Canada automobiles are too heavily taxed.

It is estimated that at least 25 per cent of the retail price of a car represents taxes, he told the Federation of Automobiles Associations of Canada, in convention here.

"I say it is too much. It is disproportionate in relation to other products. We should oppose with all our power and intelligence this damaging trend of taxation.

"This year, 300,000 Canadian-built motor vehicles will be added to our country's transportation fleet and not one unit was built for which there was not a definite need."

Mr. Humphrey said a car-buyer pays a 15-per-cent federal excise tax and an eight-percent federal sales tax—about $340 altogether on a $2,000 car. In addition, in some provinces he must pay provincial and municipal sales taxes. While he drives, he pays gasoline taxes, as much as 14 cents a gallon in some provinces.

LITTLE FIRE DAMAGE

Two runs were made by the local fire department yesterday, both of them for minor causes with little damage resulting.

Firemen were called to 137 E. Bridge Street where a smoking fireplace caused the owner alarm. The other run was to West Dundas Street where a truck owned by the MacFarland Construction Co., Ltd., caught fire. The only damage resulting was blistered paint, it was reported.

Premier Taken Through Plant At Batawa

Premier Leslie M. Frost was taken on a tour of Batawa and the surrounding country yesterday afternoon after he officiated at the opening of the Prince Charles School in Belleville. Accompanying the premier on the tour were Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., Hastings West; Dr. J. R. Scott; Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Health for Ontario; Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., Hastings West.

The group went to Batawa and met the employees of the Bata Shoe Company as they same out of the plant. Then the party was taken through the plant by officials of the company.

Later, at Stirling, Mr. Frost referred to the Batawa plant as an example of Ontario's mass production economy that had stood her in good stead since the turn of the century.

After the plant tour, Mr. Frost and party were entertained at the home of Dr. C. K. Herz.

Theft of Purse Is Reported

Theft of $23 from a purse left in the washroom of the War Surplus Store on Upper Front Street, was reported yesterday to police by Miss Irene Bronson. A young man was seen to enter the washroom, later buying some goods at the store and then leaving. Miss Bronson was able to give a good description of the man to police.

Kiwanis Members Elect Ten Club Directors

The value of road in wartime was explained in detail to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon on Tuesday at Kiwanis Centre by Brig. J. Walsh C.B.E., D.S.O. district commander with headquarters at Kingston. Brig. Walsh explained that roads were a vital necessity and Canada at the present time did not have heavy enough roads and of sufficient quantity to carry the war material and troops should another war arise.

The members of the club selected their ten directors for the coming year and from the personnel of the directorate the members of that board will choose the president for 1951. The ten selected by the members by ballot in alphabetical order were Dr. Harold Craig, Everett Fairman, Fraser Fulton, Rev Frank R. Harback, Stafford McKenna, Don Stanton, John Thornbury, Harry Trepanier, Jack Walton and Vic White.

Fraser Fulton himself a brigadier in the Second World War and a personal friend of the guest speaker introduced Brig. Walsh with Kiwanis appreciation being expressed by Everett Fairman. The attendance prize donated by Mr. Fulton was won by Cliff Baragar. Angus Duffy led in the sing song with Phil Huddleston at the piano. Milton Davison collected the fines. The meeting was in charge of president, Taylor Franklin.

Connie Mack, 87, Retires, Manager Athletics 51 Yrs.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18 (AP) — Connie Mack, popularized as "the Grand Old Man of Baseball," retired today as manager of Philadelphia Athletics, a post he has held since 1901 when the American League was organized. Mack will be succeeded as field boss of the A's by Jimmy Dykes, colorful ex-third baseman for the A's and onetime manager of Chicago White Sox.

Mack is 87 years old. His 88th birthday anniversary will be observed December 23.

He had been under fire for a number of years by sports fans in Philadelphia who argued that Mack had outlived his usefulness.

The Athletics wound up last in the American League in the season just completed. Dykes acted as assistant manager and took over the field job on a number of occasions toward the end of the season.

Under the reorganization plan, Arthur Ehlers, director of the Athletics' farm system, will become general manager—a position held by Mickey Cochrane from the middle of last season until his resignation last month.

Mack's decision to retire from the dugout after 50 years after winning nine American League pennants and five World Series was reached a few days ago after a series of discussions with Roy and Earle, two sons of Mack.

When Roy and Earle purchased controlling interest in the club last summer they announced their father would remain as manager as long as he desired.

'Guilty' Plea Is Entered By Greenglass

New York, Oct. 18—(AP) — David Greenglass, 28-year-old former United States army sergeant pleaded guilty today in federal court to a charge of conspiracy in time of war to convey secret government defence information to Russia.

The chunky defendant, who had worked on the atom bomb project at Los Alamos, N.Mex., pleaded to the charge in a firm voice before federal judge William Bondy.

Greenglass was originally indicted in New Mexico and was named in a superseding indictment here last week with four others, including Anatoli A. Yakovlev, former Russian vice-consul in New York.

Because of his plea, it was expected that Greenglass would turn government witness and thereby escape the death penalty.

Service was conducted by the Rev. H. O. Eastman, of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church, who also conducted the committal service at Mount Evergreen Cemetery.

The bearers were Eric Naylor, Robert Turner, Joseph Blackburn, and Bert Gourley.

District Trio Given Jail Terms

Cobourg, Oct. 18 — Appearing in a Cobourg court Monday on a charge dating back to August 7, Howard Sanford, 21, of Belleville, was sentenced to six months definite and three months indefinite in reformatory. Previously Sanford had been remanded on the charge of robbery.

Charged also with robbery, Ronald Elliott, 17, also of Belleville, was sentenced to three months in jail, and Garth Badgely, 22, of Cannifton, was sentenced to one month in jail. They were found guilty of robbing Nicholas Sispatel of $108 while on a drinking party in Seymour township.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter, who sentenced the trio, said: "You beat a man up, take his money from him, hire a taxi and leave him on the road. It has all the appearances of having been well-planned."

To Sanford, he said; "You have a record. It has been a principle with me that if a man goes straight after a term in jail he has learned his lesson. The time you have served in jail apparently did not have the desired effect because you got into more trouble."

PINNED BY TREE

Huntsville, Ont., Oct. 18—(CP) —Fred Toupin, 69, was taken to hospital here with a broken leg last night after being pinned by a fallen tree for more than half a day in the bush near Dorset, 20 miles east of Huntsville.

Two boys freed Toupin when they heard his cries and helped him to his home.

Premier Frost Opens Prince Charles School

Premier of Ontario Leslie M. Frost officially opened the new Prince Charles public school on Ridley Ave., Tuesday afternoon, in the presence of local officials and a large crowd of parents and interested citizens. Taking part in the ceremonies were (left to right) Enos David, chairman of the Belleville Board of Education; school principal J. Edgar Bateman; Premier Leslie Frost, guest speaker for the afternoon, and Mayor H. J. Allin.

An interesting picture of the new Prince Charles public school which was formally opened by Premier Leslie Frost. Containing five classrooms with auditorium, kindergarten, principal's room, teachers' room and health room, the school is modern in every respect and has been chosen as a model for new schools being built throughout the province. Cost of the new school was roughly $185,000. It has been in use since last April.

Tribute Paid 9th Anti Tank Regiment by Brigadier Walsh On Fine Showing on Parade

Special tribute on its achievements as a widespread unit was paid to the 9th Anti Tank Regiment, RCA (ALI) last night at the first ceremonial parade of the regiment held since reserve army reorganization.

Brigadier G. Walsh, commandant of the Eastern Area, Kingston, who inspected the regiment and took the salute at the march-past, told Lieut.-Col. G. W. McGregor, MC, and his assembled regiment that it should be proud of what it had achieved from a training standpoint inasmuch as its units were situated over a far-flung area.

"I believe", Brigadier Walsh said in a brief post-parade address, "that this is the first time this regiment has officially paraded as a whole. It gives me a great deal of pleasure to congratulate you on not only your fine appearance and deportment, but your regimental training as well."

Should be Proud

"It is a good thing to get together occasionally," the Brigadier said. "I have watched this regiment closely from time to time and your training as exemplified in the parade tonight, is something of which you should be proud.

"More so," continued Brigadier Walsh, "in view of the fact, that the 47th and 3rd Batteries are located in Napanee and Gananoque and because of this regimental training is made more difficult."

Brigadier Walsh with his aide-de-camp Major Ken Dowsley, Brigadier G. O. Hutchison, 2nd AGRA (AA) Ottawa, Lieut.-Col. T. E. Sisson, AAQMG, Eastern Area and Captain Trumble stood on a specially constructed dais near the north door of the Bridge Street Armouries and took the salute as the regiment marched past in colorful parade behind the swinging kilts of the regimental pipe band.

Cup Presented

A feature of the ceremonial parade was the presentation of the Progress Cup made to the Battery showing the most improvement over the year. This was presented by Brigadier Hutchinson to the 34th Battery, well-known in Belleville military circles through its officer commanding, Major J. Black.

Addressing the large crowd of spectators following the inspection, Lieut. Col. McGregor paid tribute to his regiment saying that the fine showing on parade was due to months of hard work and application to the job. He said he was as proud of his regiment and the job it was doing as were his officers and gunners. Col. McGregor issued a cordial invitation to the general public to visit the regiment's various units in Belleville, Napanee, and Gananoque and see what the reserve army is doing in its training.

Regiment 160 Strong

The regiment paraded some 160 strong all ranks before the eyes of a large crowd of civilian spectators and high-ranking officers of the other armed services. Battery commanders Maj. Joe Black 34th; Major Owen Atkins, 32nd Battery; Major E. Medd, 47th Battery of Napanee and Major G. Warwick, 3rd Battery of Gananoque, with the regimental commander escorted the inspection party through the ranks as the regimental band under Pipe Major J. Browning skirled the pipes.

Following the parade a motion picture was shown in a lecture room for the gunners and their friends and on the drill floor Regimental Sergeant Major S. Lacey put a specially trained regimental rifle precision squad through its paces.

Guests Entertained

Following the ceremonial a large number of guests were entertained by Lieut. Col. McGregor and his officers at a reception in the officers' mess. The non-commissioned officers also acted as host to their friends in the sergeants' mess.

Seen at the reception apart from the official inspection party were Brigadier J. Genet, retired, of Rossmore. Group Captain Dunlop commanding officer Trenton Air Station; Group Captain D. Greene, commanding officer No. 6 Repair Depot, RCAF, Trenton; Brigadier Fraser Fulton; Air Commodore A. Browne; Lieut-Colonel Max Porritt, commanding officer 2nd Battalion Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; Mayor Jack Allin, of Belleville; Lieut.-Col. B. C. Donnan; Lieut.-Col. Jack Cousins, former commanding officer of the regiment; Lieut.-Col. L. J. Burns, Toronto; Major Arthur Smith padre of the regiment, and many others. Upwards of 150 guests were entertained at the reception which included buffet refreshments arranged by the ladies of the Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E.

As guest speaker for the afternoon Premier Frost referred to what he termed Belleville's spectacular growth during the past ten years. There had been a large growth in population, in industry, and in housing, while the construction of three new schools the Prince Charles School, the Holy Rosary Separate School, and the new school now under construction in East Belleville, was an indication that the city was also advancing educationally.

Refers to Early History

The Ontario premier referred to the early history of Belleville and of Hastings, stating that this section of the province has made a great contribution to Canada's history. He referred to the United Empire Loyalists and what they had done to develop the district.

"Our U.E.L. forefathers brought little in material wealth with them, but they brought principals with them which mean so much today," he said. "You in Belleville and in Hastings have indeed a proud heritage."

Mr. Frost reminded his listeners that it was the ancestors of the present generation who laid the foundation for today's system of education and of government.

"Then as now," he said, "equality of opportunity in education was sought for and that means a great deal. It means that regardless of the parents' situation in life there is equal opportunity for education of their children."

Grants Greatly Increased

Government grants for education which had increased tremendously within recent years was doing much to provide equal opportunities in education. As an example of this Mr. Frost referred to the new Coe Hill public school opened last year. Here the latest in curriculum and the best in teachers were made available for a rural centre.

Educational grants had been increased from 8½ millions to the present 43 millions annually. As result of this 600 new and modern schools had been constructed throughout the province, this through the desire on the part of the government to fulfill the great obligation of equality in education.

Leading All America

"Ontario is leading all America in education," Mr. Frost proudly stressed. "It is leading in curriculum, in expansion of the educational system and its treatment of teachers and the provision for their security."

Speaking specifically to the children Mr. Frost pronounced a holiday for the pupils of Prince Charles School and for other public and separate school children for Friday.

"I do this not only to mark the opening of a new school," he pointed out, "but to help the school children of this city to remember the history of Belleville."

"Children are the greatest wealth this province has," Mr. Frost concluded. "The future and progress depend on men and women and on boys and girls."

The premier then declared the new school officially opened "to afford its pupils a greater opportunity of going out and serving this great country of ours—Canada."

Enos David Chairman

Acting as chairman for the opening ceremonies Enos David, chairman of the Board of Education pointed out that the new school assisted to mark the progress of the city. "New schools were not merely buildings," he said, "but were made functional to serve a wider use in education." He paid tribute to Premier Frost and his government for the school grants which made the new school possible.

Board member George Wishart introduced the guests seated on the platform, including Premier Frost and Mrs. Frost and Mayor H. J. Allin. He referred briefly to the new school saying that such a new school was but the "parents' method of repaying what had been done for us."

Defends Curriculum

Mr. L. A. Kells, Inspector-Administrator for the Belleville Board of Education, defended the recent trend in education, pointing out that the new curriculum had been introduced after much careful study.

Contrary to the statements of certain individuals that the quality of education was being lowered, Mr. Kells pointed out that there was no statistical evidence of any falling off in quality.

In accepting the keys of the new structure, Mr. Seldon expressed the appreciation of the board to the contractor and to the architects for the quality of workmanship. The Prince Charles School was the second new public school in the city, the new East Belleville School now being well underway.

Principal Bateman said it was a great pleasure to accept the keys which he did with a deep sense of responsibility. "The staff and pupils of Prince Charles School are proud of their school and we will try to keep it in good condition," he said.

Present Bouquet

Little seven-year-old Sheryl Beeby, one of the pupils, very capably addressed the audience, assuring her listeners that this was a very special occasion, but the first special occasion for the pupils was when they attended classes for the first time in the school.

"We are very grateful to the School Board for this new school. The Prince Charles School will always be a highlight to the boys and girls," she said.

Later Sheryl presented Mrs. Frost with a bouquet of roses.

Following the transfer of the new school, the building was dedictated by Rev. S. E. Larman, B. Th., minister at Holloway Street United Church. Introduction of Mr. Frost was by W. E. Sandercock, M.L.A., for Hastings West.

Musical Program

One of the highlights of the program was a musical number by a group of pupils under the direction of their teacher Miss Norma Arkles. Singing a well-known religious number without accompaniment, the pupils were a credit to themselves and to their instructor.

A new school building would not be complete without a flag and a new Union Jack was presented to the school board for Prince Charles School by Mrs. Wilson on behalf of the Argyll Chapter of the IODE.

Finally Mrs. Fred A. Beeby, acting for her husband who is ill in hospital, officially presented the school with its new public address system. The new system installed by her husband after many long hours of work, can be used either as a public address system, for intercommunication between the various classrooms, for record playing or as a radio.

Purchased by Board

The equipment for the P. A. system was purchased by the board with Mr. Beeby, an engineer with Northern Electric, and with Mrs. Beeby a member of the Prince Charles Home and School Club, volunteered his time in installing the equipment.

Premier and Mrs. Frost, with other guests and members of the audience were served tea in the school kindergarten room by members of the Home and School Club following the official opening.

Principal of the new school is J. Edgar Bateman with Mr. Henry Lloyd as vice principal. Assistants are Miss Norma Arkles, Miss W. Leslie, Miss M. Peck and Miss M. Rutherford.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP) —Industrials climbed into new high ground for the third straight day as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

They started fairly mixed but soon rolled upwards with gains just doubling losses.

Papers, steels and liquors led the advance with gains up to a point.

Golds opened with signs of continuing Tuesday's advance but then became mixed. Senior producers brightened while junior issues traded actively with gains up to 10 cents about balancing losses down to 10 cents.

Base metals were also mixed but tended to decline. MacDonald Golden Manitou and Yale Lead and Zinc traded actively for losses. Consolidated Smelters bucked the trend adding 1 1-4 at 123 1-8 for a new high.

Western oils advanced strongly following yesterday's losses. Anglo Canadian, Central Leduc, Federal Petroleum and National Petroleum traded briskly for gains.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Oct. 18 — (CP) — Trading was mostly dull and prices were steady at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: cattle, 300; calves, 100; hogs, 220; sheep and lambs, 90. Left from yesterday 1,100 cattle.

Common to medium weighty steers brought $22-$26; common to medium light steers and heifers $20-$25; medium to good cows $18-$20.50; good bulls $20-$22; choice fed yearlings $25-$31 according to quality; good stockers $27-$28.25; common to medium stockers downward to $20.

Calves were steady at $30-$32 for choice vealers; common to medium $20-$29.

Hogs were steady at $30-$32 for choice vealers; common to medium $20-$29.

Hogs were steady at $29.50 for Grade A hogs; sows $24 dressed.

Lambs sold at $26 a hundredweight for good ewes and wethers; bucks were $25; culls downward to $20; no early sheep sales.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—Cattle 300; good Holstein cows 18.00-19.00; good dairy type heifers for slaughter 21.00-23.00; good weighty sausage bulls 23.00-25.00.

Calves 150; good and choice handyweight calves 36.00-37.00; culls to medium 25.00-29.00; strongweight bobs 25.00-27.00.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, Oct. 18—(CP)—Produce prices quoted on the spot market here this morning:

Churning cream: No. 1, truck price, 55 cents; delivered, 58 cents.

Creamery prints: first grade, 58 cents.

Prices on the egg market were steady at their former levels this morning. County shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: Grade A large, 67; A medium 57, A pullet 46-47; grade B 43-45; grade C 29-30. Wholesale to retail. Grade A large 71-72; A medium 61-62; A pullet 51-52; grade B 46-51; grade C 33-34.

Butter solids: first grade 56 cents, second grade (nominal) 53 cents.

Three F-86 Fighters Down Near Washington

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP) — Andrews Field air force base reported today that three F-86 fighter planes crashed today almost simultaneously in the Washington area.

Lieut. Joe Kent, public relations officer, said two of the planes went in to the Potomac River and that the third had been located by air observers in a wooded area in Virginia.

Shortly after the first announcement, Kent said the pilot of the plane which belly-landed on land had telephoned the base.

The planes were from the 335th fighter-interceptor squadron.

The F-86 is known as the Sabre and is reputedly one of the fastest, if the not the fastest—fighter plane in the world.

Abolish Report Cards At Deer Park S.

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP) —Report cards are a thing of the past at Deer Park Public School.

In an experiment being tried this year, they are replaced by a series of conferences between parents and teachers. Officials say the new system will let the parents know what sort of person is teaching their children and will acquaint the teacher with the child's home background.

If the plan is a success, it will be extended to all public schools here.

Operations in Forests

Chapleau, Oct. 18 —(CP) — Woods operations now are getting under way in this northern district. More than 700 men are employed on cutting operations and some 500 on saw milling operations, the Department of Lands and Forests reported.

Steward Only Survivor Of Air Liner Crash

London, Oct. 18. (AP)—With one engine dead, a British air liner hurtled out of a mist over a London suburb, yesterday, skimmed the tops of several houses and plunged into a brick garden wall, killing all but one of the 29 persons aboard.

The liner was a two-engined British European Airways Dakota. It was trying to get back to its base at Northolt Airport when it crashed at Mill Hill, a middle-class residential neighborhood.

It crumpled into a garden of one of the houses, flipped on its back exploded and burned. A witness said the plane looked like a "big ball of fire".

The only survivor, a steward, was flung 100 yards. Besides the crew of five, there were 15 men passengers, eight women and an infant.

The crash occurred at 3 p.m. Only a few minutes previously the plane had taken off for Glasgow, Scotland. Then its captain radioed that he was turning back to Northolt.

(In another air accident, near Kirkburn, in East Yorkshire, two R.A.F. pilots were killed when their Vampire fighters collided. The flaming wreckage of one of them fell 10 yards from the Kirkburn village school, where about 80 children were at their desks.)

The Dakota, groping through the mist and losing height, tore off the top branches of a number of trees and ripped telephone wires before flopping on its back into the grounds of Highwood Ash, a 10-roomed country house.

Grey-haired Mrs. Ivar Gunn was having tea in the building.

"I didn't see the plane—it was very misty," she said. "All I know is that there was a loud bang and a big ball of fire in my back garden."

After the flames died out, only the hose, tail and part of the right wing remained intact. The left wing skidded onto the roof of a neighboring house.

In its downward flight, the plane grazed the home of High Court Justice Sir Frederic Sellers.

Across the street, Mrs. Kathleen Pateman, 34, heard "the noise of engines racing and a plane flying very low."

"Then there was a terrible noise, and something came crashing down on our roof," she said. "I dived under the dining room table. Then I heard explosions."

The roof of the Pateman home, a 17th century manor house, was smashed by a piece of the plane's wing, dropped as it hit the trees.

The steward was not immediately identified. An ambulance driver who took him to the hospital said he was badly hurt and had a big gash on his head.

"He told me he could not remember what had happened," the driver said.

Windsor Council Critical of Toronto's Mayor

Windsor, Oct. 18 — (CP) — City council struck back at Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto last night for what was described by one controller as a "sniping, dirty, lousy statement" reflecting on this city.

The council attack was made on a published statement by the Toronto mayor, who said Toronto would take steps to see it was not "contaminated" by racketeers who might be flushed out of Windsor by the present police commission investigation.

"The statements attributed to Mayor McCallum are unworthy of the mayor of any city in Canada," Controller Gordon B. Ellis said. "They are nothing short of shameful and disgraceful and unfriendly act."

Vice and gangsterism is some areas "flourishes and festers undisturbed by those in authority in Ontario's foremost city," he said.

"We have had to suffer a continuous flow of humiliation at the hands of Toronto . . . I do feel that it has reached the point where we can no longer take it."

Mayor Arthur J. Reaume criticized Toronto newspapers who have published stories describing bootlegging, gambling and vice in Windsor, although he did not specify any paper. He said citizens of Windsor should defend themselves against allegations made about their city.

Additional Jail Terms Given For Escaping

Sudbury, Oct. 18 — (CP) — Three of the four prisoners who escaped from the Burwash Industrial Farm Oct. 3 yesterday were sentenced to additional prison terms. They were recaptured after four days of freedom.

The other escapee, Frederick J. Morton, 28, of Toronto, was committed for trial by a judge. He was a trusty at Burwash and fled to join the other three.

Abraham Schuiller, 32, of London; Stanley J. Christopher, 24, of Ottawa and Ray Hazelwood, 19, of Orillia, were sentenced by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe. Stiffest punishment was that handed to Schuiller. Magistrate Woodliffe said Schuiller apparently was "not amenable to ordinary discipline" and sentenced him to two years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Christopher, in Burwash for shop-breaking and theft, was given an additional year of imprisonment there. Hazelwood received another six months on the remainder of his 15-month term, started last August.

JOE WRIGHT

From 1915 to 1925 he coached crews at the University of Pennsylvania. Each year, after the Poughkeepsie Regatta, he returned to Toronto to prepare the Argonauts for the Canadian Henley, the Dominion's premier rowing meet.

For two years he coached the Penn Athletic Club.

Perhaps with Joe, Jr., and the Diamond Sculls in mind, he moved his family back to Canada and set his son to training seriously for the big British event.

It wasn't long until Joe, Jr., too was an all-time great.

At 45, Joe, Sr., stroked a Canadian crew to a United States national title. Earlier he played baseball for University of Toronto, pitching for the university team that beat Cornell and swept undefeated through a three-week tour against U. S. colleges.

Track and Field Star

He was a top-flight track and field star at university. But to concentrate on rowing, he later dropped running, throwing the hammer and shot putting.

He stroked an Argo eight at Baltimore in 1905 and in victory set a time that stood unchallenged for many years. The same crew went to England, won two heats in the Grand Challenge Cup series and lost the third heat by about a yard.

Two years earlier he was stroke of a crew considered for many years the best Canada ever sent to the United States. It beat Yale, Harvard and University of Pennsylvania and was the first Canadian crew to win a U. S. championship.

The Argo crew that went to England in 1908 had another Wright son, George, in the crew. The father was coach.

The older Wright also took another crew to Stockholm in 1912. It finished second to a Hamilton Leander crew.

There were so many lightweights at University of Pennsylvania when he coached there that he established the 150-pound class. To this day, there is the Joseph Wright Challenge Cup, competed for by 150-pound crews.

IMMUNIZING AGAINST DISEASE

The child death-rate in Canada would be lowered greatly if two of the major preventable diseases could only be brought under control, says the Health League of Canada which is now celebrating the nation's eighth annual Immunization Week. These are whooping cough and diphtheria.

Last year there were 79 deaths from 798 cases of diphtheria in Canada and 202 deaths from 7,942 cases of whooping cough, the League points out, stating that both these diseases are preventable.

To parents it is pointed out that toxoid is still the legitimate diphtheria preventive and there is vaccine which is most effective in checking whooping cough. Even in the few instances where this vaccine does not prevent the onset of the disease, it resolves the case into a mild attack. Diphtheria toxoid and whooping cough vaccine are available everywhere, the League statement points out. In many cases health authorities and private physicians give diphtheria toxoid, whooping cough vaccine and tetanus toxoid in the one injection.

A five-year table shows a decline in the number of diphtheria cases from 2,786 in 1945 to 798 in 1949. Deaths from this cause declined from 270 to 79 in the five-year period, while whooping cough cases which numbered 12,192 in 1945 declined to 7,942 in 1949 and deaths declined from 457 from this cause to 202.

Records show that whooping cough is the most serious disease affecting childhood. Five-year statistics indicate this fact. In the five-year period 1934-1948 there were 69,740 cases of whooping cough with a death toll of no less than 1,819. Second in the list for total of deaths is diphtheria, namely 1,322 in 13,764 cases for the period. Scarlet fever claimed 466 deaths, the number of cases being 75,909, while there were 427 deaths in 7,408 poliomyelitis cases. These facts are of value as they show the incidence of the diseases. At the same time it is indicated that the dread polio about which much remains to be learned and for which no preventive has been found was lowest in the list.

The Health League strives to impress the public that medical science has the answers for diphtheria and whooping cough yet each of these diseases claimed more lives than polio regarding which medical science lacks many answers.

About the other three maladies the League seeks to impress the fact that medical science has the means to wipe out these diseases. They can be eliminated through immunization but the full co-operation of the public is essential.

TOLL ROAD FOR SPEEDSTERS

Ten years ago a dream-highway for speedsters was opened between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg. It was 160 miles long, had no traffic lights, no sharp curves and no crossings. Motorists going between the two cities had no need to stop anywhere except for gas if they needed it, and the speed limit was 70 miles per hour. But as all except the careless filled up their tanks before entering the highway, they probably stepped on the gas, drove their cars at the limit and whizzed non-stop over the distance in a little over two hours.

So successful was the experiment that the road has been extended 100 miles to Philadelphia. It will be ready in a few weeks. What a trip from Philadelphia to Harrisburg and vice versa — 267 miles at 70 miles an hour with no traffic hazards to worry about! Except, perhaps a blow-out or some fool driver trying to pass a car doing 70.

Next year a similar highway will be opened from the Pennsylvania to the Ohio border, south of Youngstown. — Stratford Beacon-Herald.

FLAGPOLE SITTING

Some years ago the flagpole fraternity actually sat on a tiny platform on top of the pole. The modern "sissies" built a portable house on top of the poles, complete with radio and washroom facilities, says Sudbury Star.

The original sitters could probably spend the rest of their lives on top of flagpoles under the present-day rules and regulations, so that claims to world records are now just a joke.

We don't know what is so wonderful about sitting on top of a flagpole, anyway. We might be more impressed by a youngster getting a perfect report card at school. At least such an accomplishment shows intelligence.

If the publicity-seekers want to try some new stunts, why not have themselves sealed in a submerged tank, or turned loose in a free balloon? Isn't it true that most stunts are supposed to be heroic? What is so heroic about sitting in a cabin on top of a flagpole?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1950, Edgar A. Guest)

AT FIVE YEARS

A little girl of five will leave
Her playthings strewn about the floor,
See ashes on her grandpa's sleeve
And fancy that's what sleeves are for.
She'll never think to say to him,
"Why cannot you be neat and trim?"

At five a little girl will wear
The garments of a boy with pride,
Nor give a thought unto her hair
Or to a shoestring come untied.
A jelly stain on frock or face . . .
She won't consider a disgrace.

At five if she should see a book
I've read but not returned myself,
She won't give it a stony look
And put it back upon the shelf,
Nor will it bother her to see
A hat left where it shouldn't be.

I wonder just how soon will she
Get different notions in her head,
And who the lucky lad will be
To pick up after she will wed,
When, just as every woman must, . . .
She'll see the slightest speck of dust. . . .

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 18, 1930

Members of Christ Church, St. Thomas and Wellington A. Y. P. A. were entertained last evening in Picton by the A. Y. P. A. of St. Mary Magdalene Church. A large crowd of young people attended and had a delightful evening. St. Thomas Church orchestra supplied music for dancing and during the evening Everett Smith gave several numbers. Refreshments were served before the guests left for home.

Murray Bonnycastle, of this city, was an actor in one of three playlets presented by the Academy Players recently in the Little Playhouse, Bloor St., Toronto.

30 YEARS AGO

Oct. 18, 1920

Mr. S. H. Brown and Mr. Sam Herity spent Thanksgiving Day with friends at Moira.

Capt. and Mrs. David L. Bennett of Toronto spent Thanksgiving Day here with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Maidens, Victoria Ave.

Miss Corbett, South Albert St., has returned home after spending a month with friends in Montreal and Vermont.

Mrs. J. A. McFee represented the Belleville Cheese Board District Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society at the dinner given in honor of Mr. Herbert Hoover in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Saturday evening last.

40 YEARS AGO

Oct. 18, 1910

The city council last night filled the long vacant office of city assessor by appointing Mr. J. A. Kerr, a former alderman, to the position. He will, we are confident, fill the position in an entirely satisfactory manner.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson is in the northern part of the county on business.

Mr. G. W. Sulman, M. P., Chatham, spent yesterday here with his brother, ex-Mayor Charles N. Sulman.

Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Clarke and family left yesterday for Toronto where they will reside.

Mr. Wilfred Campbell of Ottawa is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McFee in this city.

50 YEARS AGO

Oct. 18, 1900

Mr. Harry Kelso was home to spend Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. G. G. Hulme of Chicago, Ill., formerly of Belleville, is here on a short visit.

Mr. Charles Bird of Thomasburg is the guest of Mr. A. G. Vermilyea, West Bridge Street.

Mr. Walter Wells of the local assay office is spending some time in Lanark and Renfrew counties in the interests of the Bureau of Mines.

Mr. George Harker of Toronto is the guest of Mr. John Harker, Chatham Street.

Dr. Charles M. Reeves of Tweed was a visitor in town today.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOOD WILL

That intangible thing which we know as Good Will is something that has to be reckoned with in the appraisement of anything, whether it be the character of a man or of a business. Many a business may have little money in the bank, but its Good Will may be very great. Take two words representing tremendous Good Will, "Uneeda" and "Kodak." Undoubtedly these two trade names could be appraised in millions of dollars.

The reputation of a concern, or its Good Will, is something that no salesman can neglect to consider as he offers the product of a firm for sale. Often IT is the salesman! In such a case, how proud should that salesman be to represent such a concern! You see, in considering Good Will, there is a spiritual element that enters—one that many a salesman has failed to discover. When he does, he sells in double fashion.

Every act of kindness, unsolicited, every thoughtful and unselfish act, every unexpected encouragement offered to someone, is what creates an enriched Good Will for the one who makes each possible. That widow, in the Bible story, who gave all she had—two mites—left to the world an example of Good Will that remains immortal.

Every day of our lives we are building Good Will for ourselves, or we are not. We ought to give thought to this fact, for it means both our success in life and our personal happiness. In my youth there was a song that always inspired me. Its sentiment was to "throw out the Life Line." If we are continually doing this, that someone may be rescued or brought to his right self, we are creating Good Will that will serve us greatly in an endless number of ways.

One of the great purposes of the newly organized United Nations is to convince the backward nations of the world, and those who would enslave it, that here is an organized effort to promote Good Will among all nations. It is one of the noblest experiments that have been initiated in the history of the world, and its failure would be a world catastrophe. In its triumphant success lies, in Lincoln's words, "the last best hope of earth."

A LITTLE GARDEN HOSE

If someone were to turn a garden hose into your face, you would feel that all the water in the world was going down your throat. But of course there are still the seven seas.

Frequently we get the idea that we know practically everything there is to know on some subject. We understand our job so well that we resent suggestions from anyone. We are so satisfied with the way we order our own lives that we regard as troublesome meddlers those—including the members of our own families—who try to give us helpful advice.

We see this cocksureness, of particularly in the boys and girls who have gone away to school or college. They come back to tell us that the human race did not begin to think until about 1930 and that all ideas conceived previous to the First World War are a lot of bunk. They have simple, and to them sensible, solutions for the problems with which the best minds of the world have wrestled through the centuries. Some teacher turned his little garden hose of knowledge into their faces and they are quite sure that they have imbibed the entire contents of the perennial spring of knowledge.

Socrates was the wisest man of his generation—and one of the wisest in history—because he knew nothing.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

LAVENDER AND OLD STRING

Among the doodads on my desk is an old piece of string wrapped around a wooden spool, and people who come to my office often quiz me about it. My rough, ready and routine answer is: I'm fond of that bit of string because, thanks to it, my business address is Sixth Avenue instead of Davy Jones's Locker.

But let me crank the reel back 44 years and give it to you—as my Aunt Frieda would put it—"in sequins." . . .

The scene I remember most vividly on the East Side is the dock near the Fulton Fish Market where we used to go swimming on summer days when school was out and the tide was in. And the waterfront character who usually takes the stage center in my memory is a little ragbag of a man we called Crazy Moe who spent most of his days spool-fishing over the edge of the pier.

We often pointed out to this incompleat angler that he was wasting his time—that no self-respecting flounder would be caught sauteed in the polluted waters of the East River—but Crazy Moe paid no attenton to us. His answer, when he bothered to answer at all, was that he did not care much about anything—he just liked to fish. And as nearly as we could tell, he never even took the trouble to bait his hook.

One boy named Terry, the most promising juvenile delinquent on Avenue A, swiped a mackerel from a fish stand, dove off the dock when Moe wasn't looking and hooked the fish onto his line. And when the tetched one began to pull in his "catch," his hands shook so violently that the fish looked alive.

Before he could get wise to the deception, however, one of the kids grabbed the mackerel out of his hand and hacked its head off with a jackknife. Crazy Moe cussed at us for five minutes—and it wasn't because he wanted to stuff and mount the fish, he just wanted to throw the poor thing back.

There was another day when this same Terry decided it was time I learned to swim, and when I tried to ward him off with the wily dialectics of a seven-year-old he began calling me "sissy" and "yella belly." Finally, realizing there was no way to dodge the dunking, I stripped down to my shorts. Terry and another kid grabbed hold of me, gave me a couple of hammock swings and pitched me into the river. I landed ker-splash between a grapefruit rind and a floating bottle, and the water began rushing into me from every opening.

As I was going down for the second time I somehow got tangled up in a bit of string, and when my head broke water I saw Crazy Moe standing on the dock hauling in his second fish—me, and I was darned near as dead as the first one. The line, of course, wasn't strong enough to do more than keep me afloat, but it gave Terry a chance to dive in and pull me over to the ladder.

After I had recovered my breath and bravado, I asked Crazy Moe to let me have his fishing line for a keepsake, and when he demurred I bribed it away from him with what was an important piece of money in those days—a new Liberty Head nickel.

Today, many decades and chins later, the piece of string occupies a prominent place among the mementos on my desk—sort of a mute reminder of the time when my life hung by a hair. And my favorite mermaid who, of course, knows this story says it explains why I married her.

"You wanted a swimmer in the family," says Eleanor, "because the next time they throw you in, there may not be a Crazy Moe hanging around."

MacKenzie's Column:

Truman's Speech Nails Uncle Sam's Flag to Mast

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

President Truman's foreign-policy speech at San Francisco, following his conference on Wake Island with Gen. McArthur, certainly nails Uncle Sam's flag to the mast.

Truman's hard-hitting report was at once a call to Russia to turn to ways of peace and a warning that the United States will go to war to resist aggression and defend her liberties. And not only will the U.S. fight to defend herself, but she will lend aid to those struggling against aggression.

The zone of operations appears to be global, for Truman pledged American support for all Asiatic Nations in their defence against attacks by the Soviet Union or its satellites. Indeed, he went further and offered "full partnership to the peoples of Asia" in building up their living standards.

Significant Development

The Asiatic commitment is an interesting and significant development. There have been two schools of thought regarding the relative importance of Asia and Europe in the matter of defence. MacArthur has placed emphasis on Asia, while some quarters in Washington have maintained that Europe is the more vital and have proposed that some allied troops be taken from Asia to strengthen Europe.

Thus it would appear that MacArthur must have presented some convincing arguments to Truman regarding Asiatic needs. Moreover, observers consider that the Truman's pledge for Asia was broad enough to cover the defence of Indo-China and the big island of Formosa, which now is the last ditch stand of Generallissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalist government.

It will be recalled that MacArthur got his knuckles rapped a couple of months ago for his statement that Formosa was essential to American defences in the Far East.

HIGHER RATES FORECAST

St. Catharines, Oct. 18—(CP)—Higher rates for electrical power in St. Catharines were forecast in a financial discussion at last night's meeting of the public utilities commission. A special meting to discuss the question further was set for Oct. 26.

Main causes of the projected rate increase would be a five per cent boost in the "wholesale" cost of power bought from the Ontario Hydro Power Commission, and the need to set aside funds for conversion of the city to 60 cycle power in a few years.

HORSE HAS DONKEY FOR TWIN BROTHER

Rare twins, perhaps even the rarest, are cavorting in a pasture near Crescent, Utah. One was sired by a horse, the other by a donkey. Owner Don L. Steadman says the mare, shown with her twins, was bred to a Palomino and returned to pasture with a little donkey. — Central Press Canadian.

IODIN RATION FOR HAIRLESS PIGS

When a doctor takes your pulse he learns more about you than you may think. He learns how you feel—how your skin, muscles and arteries feel, as well or maybe better than he could if you turned on the yakety-yak and left it running all the while you are in the consulting-room. While taking your pulse the doctor gets a good working idea of your nervous equilibrium or lack of it and of your physiological or anatomical age. Even more so when the doctor is a woman. Women are better observers than men, in practice. American medicine needs more women in all departments, general practice, special practice, surgery, obstetrics, diseases of children, diseases of women, preventive medicine, experimental medicine, research. Real women, the kind that make good wives and mothers.

Fifty years ago, before the preservation storage, transportation and consumption of varied foods, fresh, canned, frozen, had raised the living standard of the country to a high level, pigs and sheep in some areas did not thrive as they do today—notably the Great Lakes basin. Many of the pigs were hairless and their skin was thick, pulpy and tender. Many of the lambs grew so little wool that sheep raising did not pay. Not until some one—perhaps readers who know more about it than I do will enlighten us—found that the pigs and the sheep, like millions of boys and girls in the Great Lakes region, just didn't get enough iodine (chemical or medicinal) or iodin (food or feed) to satisfy their nutritional requirements.

Having learned about this daily need of the animal body for iodin (meaning natural, nutritional or food iodine or iodide) the dumb farmers began supplying the hogs and sheep, not to mention the cows, poultry, horses, dogs and cats with a regular daily or weekly ration of iodin, iodine or iodide in one form or another. When this failed to "cure" in a week or two some of the really dumb farmers concluded it was "no good" and didn't bother with it any more—they went back to the nostrums recommended by the travelling salesman. Their pigs and sheep remained about the same. Farmers who were capable of understanding words of more than two syllables and sentences of more than six words continued to supply their animals with an iodin ration and in the course of a year they were pleased to find that the pigs began to have hair and the lambs began to grow better wool.

What with iodized feed, water or salt set out for the animals it was inevitable that Bella the collie and Mehitabel the cat should get theirs and they, too, derived noticeably greater resiliency and pep from the wee bit of iodin.

And yet, thanks largely to the characteristic reactionary attitude of the medical profession in respect to new departures, it took several decades to apply in practice the new knowledge of the function of iodin in metabolism. You see, the doctors had regarded iodine or iodide only as medicine, to be prescribed or administered in proper doses. With no knowledge of biochemistry they just couldn't comprehend the physiological function of iodin, and so great many of them lay back their ears and warned that the popular use of any form of iodin or iodide without prescription is "dangerous." In this warning the brass surgeons concurred—ever ready for a bit of publicity.

Despite the dismay of the reactionaries, progressive health boards in various communities in the Great Lakes basin induced salt manufacturers to iodize table salt by adding approximately one-half grain of iodin to the pound of salt. This can't be seen or tasted. Iodized salt is now sold almost everywhere that ordinary salt is marketed, at the same cost, and every one who buys salt for table cooking use should select only the kind labelled Iodized. This will assure every member of the family at least a minimum daily ration of iodin, which is beneficial to every one. But I do not believe children, youths or adults with manifestations of iodin deficiency can get an adequate daily ration from the amount of iodized salt an individual may safely consume.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

First Try It On the Mistress

For many years I felt anemic and tired, struggling through the day, envious of other women who seemed so full of ginger when I only wanted to sit around or dose . . . until I came across an article of yours about iodin deficiency. I sent for your pamphlet, began taking an iodin ration and it has put life back in the old girl . . . I breed dogs as a hobby and wonder whether I should give a dam hers. (M. F.)

Answer—Watch your language—there are gentlemen present. Yes, certainly, dogs, cats, horses, sheep, cows, pigs, fowls, parrots, canaries and goldfish all require an iodin ration—each according to body weight. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet The Iodin Ration. Children in the early 'teens need it especially.

Name-Calling, Refined

I never fail to read your column but I miss your pungent remarks—they are so much more refined lately. Always get a belly laugh at your . blunt . . . it takes real pounding to get the truth . . . don't let the fuddy-duddies cramp your style, please. (Mrs. L. H.)

Answer—But in this business they do.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Considering all the people you see wandering about the parks and suburban pastures these days looking for mushrooms, there are remarkably few cases of poisoning reported in the newspapers. But it may be like the case of corn on the cob in the opinion of an elderly lady of my acquaintance. She believes corn on the cob is poison. Whenever her eyes fall on the obituary or death column in a newspaper, she shakes her head and mutters: "I bet half of them died of eating corn and didn't know it!"

Having been instructed over my lifetime by thirty or forty experts which mushrooms are edible and which are deadly poison, I find myself incapable of eating any mushroom except those bought in stores. It is true there is one exception, the puff ball. I will eat a puff ball without a qualm; but unfortunately, I never find a fresh one. They are always brown, wormy and gone gooey inside when I see them.

Yet it may well be that these people to be seen walking slowly, with downcast gaze, over the parks and suburbs are all experts and know their fungi. At any rate, those who are not experts are probably dead already. Of all outdoor sports, mushroom hunting must be next most sporty to tiger hunting. If you make an error, the game's over.

It is declared by scientists that a single common mushroom develops spores at the rate of one million a minute for several days and nights on end. If this were so, there could hardly be room for any other plant on earth. And certainly these autumn hunters, strolling slowly, head bent, over the lawns and meadows, don't seem to be getting so many mushrooms that the billions are kept in check.

Industrial Fair Sponsored By Rotary Club Promises To be Successful Project

Trenton (Special) — Trenton's fair opened today, and if advance notices on it are any indication at all, it promises to be a fine show. All the exhibitors' spaces were taken up early and some of the firms showing their products had a good start on their booths by early Tuesday afternoon.

The fair, which will run for four days in the Quinte arena, is the first of its type sponsored by the Trenton Rotary Club. The official opening of the affair took place at 4.10 p.m. today, but the names of those taking part were not available at press time, due to staff changes at RCAF Station, Trenton.

Heralded by Parade

The fair will be heralded by a parade which will leave College Street school at 3 p.m. and wend its way to the arena. Afternoon and evening entertainment will be presented from the stage at the south end of the arena, in front of the RCAF exhibit.

Featured at the fair will be a cooking school conducted by General Electric and a baby show, both of which will take place in the Legion Hall. Clayton Maxwell, who is helping to direct the show, said that the baby show was being held apart from the bigger affair because it was felt that the arena might be a little too damp for the babies.

Rotary President Orliff May said yesterday "I think it's going to be a good show." He said that today will be Armed Forces Day, Thursday will be devoted to the cooking school, Friday will be school children's day, and Saturday farmers' day.

40 Spaces Occupied

In all, 40 spaces for exhibitors were taken up, and Mr. May said that this was a fairly good indication that the fair was pointing towards success.

Yesterday afternoon, flags were being hung, sawdust flew, and the smell of paint was in the air as exhibitors began to get their products lined up for the exhibition.

'Closer to World Peace, Orderly Govt. Than Ever' Premier Frost Tells Audience at Stirling

Stirling (Special) — The Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Premier of Ontario, told a Stirling audience last night that "we are closer to world peace and orderly world government than we ever were—all we have to do is keep up our guard."

Premier Frost was guest speaker at the 97th anniversary of St. Paul's United Church at Stirling. He and Mrs. Frost sat down to a sumptuous dinner, accompanied by members of the provincial legislatures and officials of the church, with church members and friends also present.

Mr. Frost led up to his statement on world peace by telling his audience of the advancements Canada, and in particular Ontario, has made in the last 50 years. He traced the growth of Ontario's industrial potential from the turn of the century when Ontario developed 50,000 horsepower of electric energy. "Just a few months ago," he said "we turned the three million mark."

Directed to Young People

Premier Frost directed his world peace angle at the young people of today. "Don't let them tell you that this world is entirely evil. . . or more wicked than good," he said "because it is not."

The premier said that he had "seen it all" from 1914 on, and that he was "satisfied" that Canadians and the world were closer to world peace than ever before. "We will see the day when we will have actual peace in the world, provided we don't grow weak or faint in the meantime."

In emphasizing the growth of Ontario, Premier Frost said that this year the province would have an agricultural production in the $1,250,000,000 bracket, with a lower agricultural population than at the turn of the century. He cited Norfolk county, around Delhi, as an agricultural dead loss until the huge tobacco industry took it over as an example of the progress of the province.

Mining Industry

Other examples of industrial power stated by the premier were the mining developments in Northern Quebec, "which will bring $350 million of new wealth to Ontario this year," the pulp and paper industry, which accounts for 44c of every dollar we get from our exports to the United States, and the electrical energy field.

"Old Ontario is bursting at the seams," he said, "and needs more power." Not only is the province still progressing, but Canada itself has many new fields to open. "With the resources we have, . . . and with only 14 million people in half a continent, certainly we have many challenges," the premier said.

Peace Not Far Off

Returning to the younger generation, Premier Frost told them that the United Nations stand in Korea had convinced the world that "people of our day and generation are finally going to lick this thing," and that peace is not far off. He said that the younger generation should not be affected by the pessimists, but should remember that they had before them "a very great future."

The premier said that the people who first came out to this country brought with them a great spiritual and moral background, but that "of all the assets we have in Ontario, our resources, possibilities and developments, none is as great as the spirit of the people."

"You can have all the other resources and they amount to nothing," he said. "But the spiritual and moral background the early people brought is Ontario's greatest asset."

Head Table Guests

Premier Frost was introduced by Dr. W. M. Cornett, and thanked by C. I. Hatton. Seated around the head table were Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings East, and M.L.A. for Hastings West and Mrs. Sandercock. Hon. W. Goodfellow Mrs. Robson; Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Northumberland and Minister of Health for the province, and Mrs. Goodfellow, the reeves of surrounding communities, and various church officials of the district.

A varied musical program was presented and thoroughly enjoyed.

WEDDINGS

DAVIS—THOMSON

A pretty autumn wedding took place in Centre United Church, London, Ontario, on Wednesday, October 11th., at 3.30 p.m., when the Rev. George Birtch united in marriage Lola Greta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Thomson, of Camel Chute, Ontario, to John M. B. Davis, barrister of London, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Davis, of Ottawa.

Mrs. Clara Kingsmere rendered the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her gown of white nylon, tucked to the hem, and featuring a Peter Pan collar. Her shoulder-length veil of French lace was held by a headdress of white baby 'mums. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and 'mums.

Miss June Thomson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, gowned in mauve nylon with Peter Pan collar, tucked-to-waist bodice. She wore matching mauve mitts and headdress of yellow 'mums, and carried a shower bouquet of yellow 'mums.

Mr. A. C. Davis, of Geneva, New York, was groomsman, and the ushers were: Mr. J. A. R. Grant, of London, and Mr. Russell, Prouse, of Brampton, Ont.

The reception was held at Llyn Lodge, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, gowned in grey with black accessories and corsage of mauve and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother, in wine with matching accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums and white carnations, assisted.

Following the reception, the young couple left for Muskoka and other northern points, the bride travelling in a navy ensemble with pink accessories, and corsage of pink and white carnations. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Davis will reside in London, Ontario.

Guests from out-of-town included, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Thomson and daughter, Brenda; Mrs. W. D. Johnston; Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Davis; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Davis and daughter, Kristion; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Leslie; Mr. William Wales, Mrs. Gordon and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Prouse.

RANSON—MARK

Before a setting of gladioli and chrysanthemums, the marriage took place in St. George's United Church, Toronto, recently, of Julia Esther Mark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Mark, to Norman Hunter Ranson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ranson. Dr. Willard Brewing, minister of St. George's, officiated.

Miss Annette Shaw of Wallaceburg, sang sweetly during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in an original gown of white brocaded taffeta, with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and full skirt. Her full-length veil of tulle was wreathed with flowers, she carried a cascade of Johanna Hill roses and white gladioli.

Mrs. Kenneth Hall, of Wallaceburg, matron of honor, and Miss Jean Morrison, Toronto, bridesmaid, were gowned alike in Kelly green crepe, and carried cascades of bronze roses and chrysanthemums.

Little Miss Arleigh Tiers, cousin of the bride, wore bronze net over taffeta, and carried a nosegay of bronze baby 'mums.

Douglas Roblin was best man and the ushers were, James Ranson and Granton Mark.

Following a reception in the lounge of the Y.W.C.A., the bride and bridegroom left for a honeymoon in Quebec City. The bride travelled in a suit of cinnamon brown, with Kelly green accessories and Russian squirrel cape. The bride's mother received in wine French lace, with pink accessories. The bridegroom's mother in powder blue crepe with gray, assisted.

The couple will reside in Sarnia where the bridegroom is a member of the Bank of Toronto staff.

Guests were present from, Belleville, Brockville, Lindsay, Peterborough, London, Hamilton and Wallaceburg.

V.O.N. Widens Field of Work

The Victorian Order of Nurses have expanded their scope of operations in the city and district to include visits at the new Holy Rosary Separate school on College Street, it was reported by Miss H. McGeary in making her report at the monthly meeting of the V.O.N.

Miss McGeary reported that VON nurses went to the Holy Rosary school one-half day every other week and St. Michael's school one and a half days on alternate weeks. The nurses have the use of the teachers' room with the adjoining kitchenette and washroom for their work. Enrolment at the Holy Rosary school is 124, a percentage of the pupils being from St. Michael's.

During the month of September the VON admitted 45 new patients and made 323 visits. Twenty seven of the new patients came within the maternal cycle and 16 were medical and surgical. Visits made in the interests of mothers and babies totalled 118, with 151 visits being made to patients with medical and surgical conditions or suffering from chronic illnesses.

Miss McGeary reported that the VON had not yet made up for the slackness of the summer months but said two really busy months would see them up to last year's figures.

During the month two well baby clinics were held with 25 babies attending. Thirty-two attended the toxoid clinic and 14 attended the infant and preschool dental conference.

Club Activities

ST. ANDREW'S C.G.I.T.

Another meeting of the C.G.I.T. was held in the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Monday last.

Four new members were introduced to the group.

Next week it was planned to have a short lecture on the subject of grooming and etiquette after which the president headed a discussion regarding parts in the Christmas concert.

The worship service was taken by Nan Alvens and Barbara Wright. It was planned to have a scavenger hunt, to be in the program of the Hallowe'en party.

BIG REFINERY

Rio De Janeiro — (CP)—The first oil refinery of any size in Brazil, the Cubatao refinery now under construction will have a capacity of 45,000 barrels of crude oil daily. This equals about 40 per cent of Brazilian consumption but will be increased by the time the refinery is complete in 1953.

Diamond Anniversary Honored by Telegram From King, Queen

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. William K. Long, of R.R.8, Belleville, formerly of Malone, Ontario, were "at home" to their many friends on the occasion of their diamond wedding anniversary.

On October 15, 1890, William K. Long and Henrietta Embury, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Embury, were married at Madoc, by the late Rev. Mr. Wishart, Presbyterian minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Long have four children, all of whom were present on Sunday: Mrs. F. J. (Martha) Wood, of Stirling; Mrs. William (Myrtle) Arthurs, of Belleville; Mrs. R. J. (Keitha) Fergusson and son, Harold, with whom they reside. They are also the proud grandparents of 15 grandchildren, and of nine great-grandchildren, most of whom were present. One grandson, Warrant Officer, Jack Wood, paid the supreme sacrifice in World War II.

Potted baby mums, cut flowers and the beautiful anniversary cake, as well as a dozen lovely red roses, the gift of Miss Mary Fergusson, a friend from Cobourg, formed a perfect setting for the reception, at which the members of the immediate family served. Many were the friends and relatives who called to extend their congratulations and pay their respects to the bride and bridegroom of sixty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Long were the recipients of many nice gifts, as well as lovely cards, messages and telegrams, among them being a telegram from the King and Queen, which was a signal honor.

Last March Mr. Long attained his 88th birthday, and in June, Mrs. Long, her 84th. Both are enjoying good health with the exception of an attack of pleurisy and 'flu' from which Mr. Long is just recovering. They reside in their own portion of their son, Harold's home, and do all their own work.

Mrs. Long has always been active in the church, and is still a member of Centre Street United Church W.A., the ladies of which attended the reception in a body, and presented Mr. and Mrs. Long with a bouquet of flowers and two lovely cups and saucers. Her hobby is fancy work in all its varied forms, with quilting being her specialty. Last week the ladies quilted a quilt at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. J. Fergusson, which she had made. Mrs. Long has two sisters living at Eldorado, Mrs. Jack Gunn and Mrs. Manly Post.

Mr. Long's hobbies consist of reading and cooking, both of which he enjoys to a great degree. For the past seventeen years he has always been the cook on hunting trips, but owing to his illness this year, he had to forego this pleasure. For seventy years, he has been a member of the Orange Order, and in 1937 was made an honorary member of Loyal Orange Lodge, at Malone. He is the only surviving member of his family.

The community extends to Mr. and Mrs. Long their sincere wishes for many more years of happiness together.

Ingrid Happy Mother, Plans No Pictures in Near Future

By GEORGE PALMER

Santa Marinella, Italy, (AP)—Ingrid Bergman, now Mrs. Rossellini, spends virtually all her time these days with her seven-months-old son Robertino.

In her new country home which overlooks the sea here, 35 miles northwest of Rome, her life is smiple and peaceful. The house was bought for her by her Italian film director husband, Roberto Rossellini.

She has "no plans whatsoever for making another movie," she said in an interview.

The actress, looking youthful in navy blue shorts and a pale blue blouse, is clearly at ease. Her long, shapely legs are bronzed from the summer sun. She serves you coffee, then suggests a game of boccia while you wait for Rossellini to drive out from Rome. Boccia, Italy's time-honored "Game of Bowls," is one of Rossellini's favorite games. He's expert at it.

Halfway through the game Rossellini roars into the driveway in his powerful sport roadster and skids to a stop. The sleek Ferrari roadster is his pet of a garage which includes among others a Cadillac, a custom-built Fiat, two smaller Fiats and a Chevrolet sedan. Miss Bergman admits she's worried about his fast driving.

You introduce Rossellini to your photographer and he smiles, shakes hands and says: "we're old friends. We've had many a battle in the past." Whereupon he takes over and promptly wins the Boccia game.

Revising "Stromboli"

He is still at work on his own version of "Stromboli" which he intends to distribute in Italy. The version distributed abroad, he says, was badly cut and "is not my picture." Miss Bergman will "dub in" her own voice in Italian for the sound track of Rossellini's version.

Miss Bergman brings the baby out on the porch on the assurance that no pictures will be taken. The only published photographs of the baby have been those taken by Rossellini himself.

Ingrid says the handsome, smiling Robertino "has a wonderful appetite. . he's always smiling . . he sits up now, but hasn't tried to crawl yet. . he has five teeth. . ."

"No," Rossellini interrupts her. "Only four. Two uppers and two lowers."

"Roberto, he has five now," Bergman says. "I found a new one today. He has three upstairs now, and two downstairs."

Women's Activities

Centenary W.A.

Centenary—The October meeting of Centenary W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. P. Sutherland with a splendid attendance.

The roll call showed 28 members present. The offering was taken and dedicated by Rev. A. C. McCallum. The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $190.

Mrs. M. Nobes, and Mrs. G. Sills offered to look after the sale of bleached sugar bags. A "thank you" letter from Mrs. L. Waite was read by Mrs. F. Aikens. "Showers" for recent newly-weds were planned. It was decided a dozen communion glasses be bought. Mr. McCallum made some announcements regarding anniversary services. He also spoke on behalf of the M. and M. fund. It was also decided that $27.50 be sent to the M. and M. with $15. 'ear-marked' for Victor Mission. The offering amounted to $7.05.

W.M.S.

The W.M.S. meeting followed the W.A. meeting at the home of Mrs Sutherland, with Mrs. G. Sills in charge.

Plans for the "At Home" later in the month were discussed at length. Each person was given her own particular job. Mrs. Nobes asked that subscriptions to Missionary Monthly be paid at November meeting.

The worship service was led by Mrs. G. Sills. The theme for October was "Christ's Disciples Bring Light. Mrs. C. Bain read the scripture lesson, taken from the 4th chapter of John.

The study book, "The United Church Re-enters Japan", was in charge of Mrs. L. Hall. Those taking part and the chapters they took were: Mrs. W. Shortt, who read an address by Lloyd Graham; Mrs. R. Thrasher, "Community Life in Tokyo, and Mrs. J. Lawrenson, Our Share in the Care of Orphans.

The meeting closed with a special prayer by Mr. McCallum for Dr. Kagawa and the people of Japan.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The members of the C W.L.

The members of the C. W. L. were most pleased to welcome Rev. Dean Garvin to the October meeting.

After the usual business routine, Dean Garvin addressed the meeting and spoke highly of the C. W. L. progress. He made reference to the regional meeting to be held this month and of the splendid speakers engaged.

Madame president spoke with regret of the passing of Miss Margaret McAvoy and Miss Helena Lynch, who had taken such an active part in the work of the C. W. L. for many years.

The committee in charge of the Fall bazaar reviewed plans and were pleased with such great cooperation.

Mrs. Leo Callaghan was named hospital visitor for the month of October. Mrs. Doyle reminded the members of Father Lord's program in November sponsored by the Teachers' Federation.

Refreshments were served under the supervision of Mrs. F. Cunningham, who was hostess for Samson ward.

Kinette Club Holds Meeting At Parish Hall

Amid festive Hallowe'en decorations, the Kinette Club of Belleville, held their meeting Monday evening in St. Thomas' Parish hall. A short business session followed an excellent dinner put on by the ladies of the St. Thomas Guild, Group D.

A report was given by Kinette Norma Bacon on the highly successful rummage sale held Saturday last. The net proceeds were $106.

The suggestion of a Kinette choir was enthusiastically received and a small choir was at once formed. Kinette Maude Rollins will be directress and the club looks forward to their first choral effort in November.

An enjoyable Hallowe'en party, arranged by Kinette Mary Best and Helen Wilbur, took up the remainder of the evening.

A costume parade was held and an amusing guessing game was played by all the members. The prize for the best costume went to Mac Hembroff and for the game to Gladys Sheffield.

The highlight of the entertainment was a song by Marg Holam, who wore a ghoulish costume and sang "With Her Head Tucked Underneath her Arm."

Song leader for the evening was Gwenn McDougal in place of Bernice Lloyd, who was entertaining the only guest, Mrs. McIntosh of the Kiwanis Queens.

Eve Yanover was Sergeant at Arms.

Club Activities

ARTS AND CRAFTS CLUB

The October meeting of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club was held in the Corby Public Library with the president, Mrs. J. G. Hornsby, in the chair. Following a brief business session Mr. H. S. Robbins, convener of art, introduced Miss Helen Keeler, who gave the club a resume of notes on "Chemistry of Pain from L. A. C. Panton's course at the Doon School of Fine Art which Miss Keeler attended during the summer. A film, "Canadian Landscape — A. Y. Jackson", was also shown.

A discussion and criticism of exhibited work followed under the direction of Mrs. Robbins. Those who showed sketches were: Margaret Robbins, Ida Hornsby, Gladys Simpson, Mary Moult, Carmen Murdock, Mildred Moorman and Helen Stobie.

Following the meeting, the members attended an exhibition of oils, water colors and ceramics by Philippa Faulkner which was held last week in "Philippa's Studio".

Mrs. Gay Toles, 21 Grenville Street, finds it a full-time job—and a very pleasant one—managing her charming home and taking care of a small baby. Mrs. Toles keeps her dial set at 1010 for broadcasts like Gord Sinclair's 11:50 a.m. and 5:50 p.m. Newscasts.

Toronto's own globe-trotting Gord Sinclair puts the spice of life and a world of travel into every noonday newscast. Away from the mike, Gord likes to grab a few hours of fishing, golfing, and, more recently, boat-racing. Has his own boat, and a pretty snappy job it is!

"I really look forward to Gord Sinclair's Newscasts," says Mrs. Gay Toles. "He's so friendly—so witty—his reporting has a sparkle that's quite unique. But I find that's true of so many CFRB programs—they have a zip that lifts you right through the day. Women in the News, Guiding Light, Backstage Wife—I like listening to them all. My husband and I have found that for good programs all day long you can't beat CFRB!" You'll find your favourites, too, on CFRB—1010 on your dial. All times mentioned are Toronto time.

Plans for military wedding

[illegible] Mrs. Beeckman:

1. All the men in my daughter's dding party will be Marine rps officers, in uniform and th sabres. The wedding is to e place at ten o'clock Mass. ould the bride's father wear mal morning attire.

2. Should I wear a gown of mal length?

3. The bridesmaids will, of urse, wear long dresses. In eping with this, shouldn't the wer girl wear a long dress? hat type?

S. J.

1. When the officers at a mili- y wedding wear full dress uni- rms, a civilian member of the dding party (and if the bride's her is to escort his daughter the aisle, he is a member of e wedding party) should wear [illegible] attire: for this formal day- [illegible] wedding, cutaway coat, iped trousers, and correct for- l accessories.

2. Yes, for your daughter's for- l morning wedding, you should r a dress of formal length. is customary for the bride's ther and the groom's mother wear long dresses when the embers of the bridal party wear g dresses. The bride's moth- often wears an ensemble, g dress, with either matching or harmonizing bolero or short jacket, and with perhaps a fur neckpiece, perhaps a fur stole.

3. The flower girl could be dressed in a dress that is ankle length. . . the most charming model, and deservedly popular, is the Kate Greenaway.

Should a woman rise?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a discussion we are having, will you please answer this question. Is it ever correct for a woman to rise when a man is introduced to her?

A. L.

Yes. A gracious and courteous woman. . . either a young woman or an older woman. . .would instinctively rise to meet or to greet a man who is very old, very distinguished, or both. Thus she would show her innate sense of courtesy, her respect and deference. Good manners, good breeding.

On asking to see an engagement ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When you know that a girl is engaged, is it proper for you to ask to see her engagement ring?

Gloria L.

It's proper if you see that she is wearing an engagement ring. But it's tactless, and very often cruel, to make any reference to an engagement ring if this ring is not in evidence. Only a crude curiosity and a lack of sensitivity to another person's feeling would make one ask, "Aren't you going to have an engagement ring?" or "When is Bill giving you an engagement ring?"

Tell the kind of shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

On the invitations to a shower I am planning to give, should I just write "Shower for——" or should I stipulate a certain kind of shower? Someone told me that it is not proper to suggest the kind of presents a guest is expected to bring, that this should be left to her preference.

Louise L.

Indeed it is proper to write the kind of shower you are giving for the bride-to-be. . .this is sensible, practical, helpful. Write "Linen Shower" or "Kitchen Shower" (even perhaps indicating the color) or whatever kind you have in mind. However, if you wish to give your guests the widest possible choice for their present-choosing you may write "Miscellaneous Shower".

Where bride's father leaves hat and coat

Dear Mrs. Beeckman.

You have already answered several questions for me concerning my wedding; your answers were most helpful, and I thank you very much indeed. Now we have a detail question that is bothering Dad: Where should he leave his hat and coat before he enters the church?

B. B.

He leaves his hat and coat in the vestibule of the church, in the place assigned for the hats and coats of the ushers.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This wife needs a change of attitude

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am jealous of everything my husband does. When he wants to go down to the American Legion for a while, I tell him he'd rather go down and stay there all night talking to the fellows than be home with me. If I ask him to take me out, he doesn't want to.

Now that we have a baby, it's harder to for us to get out together anyhow, but every time I ask him to take me out he says "Who will we get to baby-sit for us?"

It seems that we quarrel over every little thing. How can we stop arguing and make our home happy?

Mrs. L. S.

Dear Mrs. L. S.:

The first thing for you to do if you want to have a happy home is to make up your mind you won't argue any more, no matter what comes up. The second thing for you to do is to try and find some way of having good times with your own friends so that you won't be home so much. I'm sure one cause of your trouble is that you stay around your house too much and don't have enough outside interests. Of course it's hard to get out when you have a small baby to take care of, but there must be someone who could baby-sit for you now and then in the afternoon or evening.

If you could take part in community activities of some sort, you'd have more to talk to your husband about, and he'd enjoy being with you more. As it is, probably all you talk about when he's home are housekeeping matters, and the like, and no man is able to take much of that sort of thing. Also, no man is going to stay around home and listen to a wife who is constantly complaining and nagging at him. You realize yourself that you do this. Why don't you try something else for a change, as for instance, my suggestion about making yourself a more entertaining companion by getting interested in something outside your home?

Of course you want your husband to take you out now and then. But he's much more likely to do it if you're a cheerful, happy person who's fun to be with, than if you try to get him to do it by whining and scolding.

Don't take a suspicious person too seriously

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17 and my boy friend is 19. He says he wants to marry me when he earns more money, but I know I am too young to consider marriage yet.

My problem is that last Friday night I went out with my girl friends, so I told him I would not be able to go out with him. Now I hear that he is telling everyone I am a sneak and went out with a boy behind his back, I wouldn't mind his being mad if it was true, but it isn't.

Last night I saw him and he ignored me completely. Should I give him back his ring and never see him again, or try to explain to him once more?

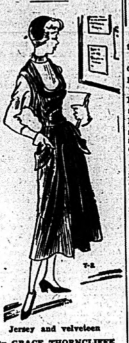
M. U.

Dear M.U.:

If your boy friend is going to be so suspicious of you, I think you're probably well rid of him. In any event, if you've explained to him once that you were out with your girl friends, I think that's enough.

As for the ring, keep it until he asks for it. Be nice to him when you meet, but don't keep on explaining and trying to make him be friendly to you again. Let things ride that way a while and see what move he makes. Certainly you have no reason to feel guilty or continually apologize to him.

Winning Jumper



Jersey and velveteen

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THE jumper jumps ahead into the lead for the back-to-school and college crowd. This one is in dark green velveteen. It has a cuffed collar outlining the U-shaped neckline, and pockets at the hips that are curved and cuffed, details that give that desirable something-different touch. The bodice is snug above a skirt that has its flare concentrated in front. An off-white turtle neck blouse of wool jersey completes the outfit.

You may soon throw your potato peeler away.

Slaves to the monotonous job of skinning spuds will learn with pleasure of the new peeled potatoes now being marketed in Philadelphia stores. Potatoes are sold peeled, whole or cut into French fries. A mild processing solution keeps the potatoes fresh and free from discoloration, from one to two weeks.

To make creamy mashed potatoes use a potato ricer or food mill rather than the old fashioned masher. If you have an electric mixing machine you can whip them a few minutes for extra fluffiness.

Mashed potatoes, white or sweet, should be soft enough to be spooned easily but not contain so much liquid that they turn to a puree.

Use a pastry bag and tube to form mashed potatoes into fancy swirls or borders. The tube should be a large size. It can also be used for making cookies and other baked products.

If you don't have a pastry tube, drop the potatoes into individual dishes and then use a spoon or a spatula to make a well in the centre.

Use golden sweet potatoes as a border for creamed paprika chicken.

Paprika Chicken—Serves 4

Melt 2 tablespoons fat in a saucepan. Add 1-4 cup finely chopped onions. Simmer the onions 2 minutes over a slow flame. Do not brown onions. Remove from flame.

Stir in 3 tablespoons flour and 1 teaspoon paprika. Add 1 1-2 cups hot chicken broth gradually, stirring well.

Return to a small flame and simmer 5 minutes. Add 3 cups boiled chicken cut into 1-2 inch cubes. Add 1-4 cup sweet cream. Simmer slowly 10 minutes. Add and 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Boil 1 1-2 pounds sweet potatoes. Remove skins. Mash through a potato ricer . Add 2 tablespoons butter and enough milk to make potatoes soft and smooth. Beat well. Add salt and sugar to taste.

Cover 1-2 cup almonds with cold water and bring to a boil. Drain. Remove skins. Cut almonds into long slivers. Heat in a slow oven 325 degrees until lightly browned, about 15 minutes.

Put a border of mashed sweet potatoes around the edges of 4 individual casseroles. Spoon chicken into centres of potato rings. Sprinkle almonds on top.

RAWDON

Wellman's United Church Observes 81st Anniversary

Rawdon.— Wellman's United Church was adorned with numerous potted plants and bouquets of autumn blooms for their anniversary servies on Sunday last. Several visitors were in attendance from nearby points.

The guest speaker was Rev. Frank A. Gilbert, B.A., of Foxboro, who brought two inspirational messages.

Mrs. Lorne Watson presided at the piano and the choir rendered at the morning service "The Harvest Home", and Mrs. Gordon Foster, of Moira, and her sister, Mrs. Frederick Beckett, of Wellman's, gave as a duet, "The Love of God". At the evening service the choir rendered "Saved to Save Others", and "His Loving Care". The officials were pleased with the financial returns.

Pie Social

On Monday evening, Wellman's W.A., sponsored a pie social with various guests in attendance. Rev. H. C. Vaclavik, pastor of the church, was chairman and he welcomed all to the conclusion of the 81st anniversary of Wellman's. Mrs. Lorne Watson presided at the piano.

Miss Ruth Linn, Mount Pleasant, sang "Blue Bird of Happiness", and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen sang "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody". Miss Betty McConnell accompanied these numbers and also delighted with a piano solo. Mrs. Percy McMullen contributed two readings.

LAC. Smith and X. P. Mayhew, of Stirling, were heard in four musical selections on their guitars.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, Carmel, sang "Moonlight Bay", with their daughter, Verna, as accompanist and Verna also contributed a piano solo.

Mrs. Burton Morton gave a humorous reading "The Tale of the Housewife's Part".

Many Delegates

Mrs. Walter Elliott, Stirling, who was a commissioner to General Council, gave the highlights of that gathering in Toronto, which lasted ten and a half days. There were fourteen ministerial delegates and fourteen lay delegates from the Bay of Quinte Conference, with 368 delegates, of this number thirty-four were women.

Mrs. Elliott also attended a three-day get-acquainted meeting at Hamilton, previous to General Council.

The speaker told of the beauty of the Timothy Eaton church, with its stained glass window in memory of the founder. The solemnity of Holy Communion served by 42 elders, emphasized the need of all working together for a common purpose.

She spoke of the vast greatness of the United Church of Canada and gave a vivid description of the new moderator, the Rt. Rev. Clarence M. Nicholson, D.D., from Nova Scotia.

Missionary Enterprise

Mrs. Elliott was greatly impressed with the missionary enterprise of the United Church, and she said "Missionary Night" was one of the outstanding highlights of General Council.

There are 123 vacant pastoral charges in Canada, and Bob Elliott is in charge of 65 preaching places, surely a big job for one man. It was pointed out that 70 per cent of the Canadian people attend no church of any kind.

Mrs. Elliott brought many intimate pictures of speakers and stories which had made an impression on her during that convention and they all were most interesting.

In Dr. Ernest Bott's address on "Japan" he urged more food for that country and quoted from the Bible "The Lord said, you feed them".

Kagawa of Japan

The speaker gave a graphic description of Kagawa of Japan and devoted several minutes in telling the story of his life.

Then there was Pastor Frederico Mussili of Angola, and Rev. Theodore Tucker, who interpreted for him. They were the most talked-of pair at General Council sessions and they stated —"we are the black and white twins out of the red side of the envelope".

All were reminded that Rev. Bob Morris, an outstanding speaker, will be at Marmora on October 26, and his address will be worthwhile.

Miss Stella Burry, W.M.S. worker in St. John's, Newfoundland, told about the social service work being done in Canada's tenth province, and Rev. Benson Perkins, general secretary of the Methodist Church in Great Britain, told the origin of the hymn which they sing regularly "Are We Yet Alive".

Mrs. Elliott said the ministers were strong on arguing their various points in every detail and this took up a great amount of time.

The theme everyday was "The quest for God", and this brought out many fine thoughts. It was pointed out that one-tenth belongs to God and giving begins after that. Besides money, time, talents and personality are needed.

One speaker urged the delegates to try to read between the lines when you read your Bible, the same as you do when you read other books.

Mrs. Elliott was commended for her descriptive account of General Council.

Miss Della Johnston, president of Wellman's W.A., voiced thanks to all who assisted with the program, cooking and attendance.

The Wellman's folk served sandwiches, pickles, coffee and an abundance and variety of pie and all enjoyed a social half hour.

WOOLER

Dr. Demude, Shows Films at W.I.

Wooler.—On Wednesday evening, the October meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Town Hall with an attendance of fifty. Mrs. W. H. Morrow presided and opened the meeting.

During the business period, delegates were appointed to attend the Belleville Convention. Mrs. Henry McColl and Mrs. W. H. Morrow were chosen. As the November meeting falls on the first day of the convention, it was decided to meet on November 1. Mrs. Gordon Cole has been appointed leader of the Club Girls, their project this year is the "Cereal Shelf".

Mrs. Douglas R. Fox was convener of the program. Mrs. H. Ewing sang a solo.

Mrs. Fox introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Demude, of the Ontario Health Department, who showed a film on "Rats" before giving his address on "Health".

Mrs. W. H. Morrow thanked Dr. Demude for his instructive address.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gooding, Mrs. Wesley Down and Mrs. J. J. Way and a social time enjoyed.

Women Get Big Fish On Slave Lake Trip

Edmonton — (CP) — Who says a woman doesn't belong on a fishing trip?

Mrs. Virginia McCullough of Los Angeles stepped off a plane here proudly displaying a 27-lb. Mackinaw trout.

She hooked the "big one" in Great Slave Lake while on a fishing trip with her husband and six others from California.

"The fishing was excellent," said Mr. McCullough. "In four hours six of us caught 750 pounds if fish which we gave to the Indians."

Two other women were included in the party. They were Mrs. Roy P. Dolley of Los Angeles and Miss Anne Roberts of Long Beach, Calif.

Dionne Quints Party Starts Trip To New York

Montreal, Oct. 18 — (CP) — The Dionne quintuplets, accompanied by a retinue of 20, passed through Montreal early today en route to New York for a five-day visit.

The 16-year-old quints, their father, Oliva Dionne, 10 schoolmates and two nuns in charge of the Roman Catholic Notre Dame convent in Corbeil, Ont., left that town by train last night and are expected to reach New York tonight.

During their visit in New York, they will be guests of Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, and will attend a banquet of the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation Thursday.

Archbishop A. Vachon of Ottawa, Father Gustave Sauve of the Ottawa University and a nurse also are making the trip.

After a stop of 2½ hours in Montreal, where they breakfasted in the Windsor station, they started the day trip to New York. The quints showed interest in the scenery and the various towns at which their train stopped.

The quints and their school companions were a happy lot as they boarded the train at Corbeil. They chose to wear their school uniforms, though they have a big wardrobe of new clothes ready to be donned when they reach New York. Their new frocks include pale blue taffeta evening gowns, with lovely white corduroy velvet capes made especially for them by Mrs. Wilda Cousineau of North Bay.

The visit marks the second time that the quints have visited the United States. In 1943, during the war, they went to Superior, Wis., where they launched a ship.

Photographers' bulbs flashed when the quintuplets entrained and more cameramen were on the job when the train pulled in at Montreal this morning. The Dionne sisters, probably the most photographed girls in the world, took it all in their stride.

TO BUILD NEW SCHOOL

Waterloo, Oct. 18 (CP)—Tentative approval was granted by Waterloo council last night for the erection of a new 14-room public school on the site of Central School at a cost of $393,000. Central School is more than 100 years old.

Waterloo public school band representatives asked council to issue debentures for this amount so that approval could be obtained from the Ontario Municipal Board.

Final approval was delayed pending further discussion by council.

What is the Miracle of Canada?

The miracle of Canada is the reward of its thrifty people; it is a standard of living wrought by men and women who believe in spending and saving wisely. The average Canadian, for example, owns his own car and his own home. He pays his bills when due. His pattern of living is excellent.

When the pattern breaks
But unexpected emergencies do break the pattern. Usually the emergency requires more money than he has available. This can happen to anyone. Then help must come from a dependable outside service.

St. Paul's United Church Holds 97th Anniversary

Rev. Wesley A. Hunnisett, B.A., B.D., superintendent minister of the Fred Victor Mission, Toronto, gave two fine messages at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling last Sunday, on the occasion of their 97th anniversary.

The two white pedestal fonts were filled with yellow and gold chrysanthemums for this special occasion. The church was filled to capacity at both services with visitors from all nearby points, with many relatives and friends who travelled long distances to be in attendance.

Mrs. A. E. Baker church organish rendered "Alford" by John Dykes, as prelude; "Largo" by Handel, as interlude, and "March" by Henry Smart as postlude.

The Stirling Royal Junior choir rendered "Prayer of Thanksgiving" while the senior choir of 30 voices sang "Festival Te Deum." Messrs. William and Ted Reynolds contributed a duet "My Faith Looks up to Thee."

Rev. W. A Hunnisett based his morning message on the words of St. Paul in the fourth chapter of Luke, "and Jesus went into the Synagogue on the Sabbath day to pray." The speaker gave an old fashioned sermon based on the personal religion of Jesus, and the confirmation of the faith of all members of St. Paul's to carry on their work from year to year.

Christians Should be Workers

He denounced those who are nominal Christians and said there is always plenty of work to do in God's House" and Christians should keep busy. Christians everywhere should be anxious and willing to bear the cross with kindliness. He pointed out to all that if Jesus needed to attend the synagogue surely all others need that fellowship of worship in the churches on Sunday.

Again he reminded the congregation that the United Church members should always be ready to restore those who have fallen and lost their faith. He compared the amount of money spent for sport in Toronto with the paltry sum of $8,000 allotted the mission to carry on its vast work. Here Rev. Hunnisett is working daily with the drunks of the city and the broken homes, most of it due to the vile booze.

He paid great tribute to his parents who were strict about his attendance at Sunday school in his formative years.

He closed his morning address with a poem "Why do we give our best to others, and leave the balance for our brothers."

Rev. A. E. Baker pastor of St. Paul's, conducted the morning service and welcomed the visitors. He thanked the Carmel congregation for withdrawing their services that afternoon. The choir loft has been enlarged and this allows another dozen members to be added to this group.

A Bible donated in loving memory of Mrs. Wesley Hawkins who has worshipped at St. Paul's for several years was given by her grandchildren, Don Heath of Bethel and Lola McLaren of Oshawa, and dedicated for use at St. Paul's.

The guest speaker gave the children a message on the word "Watch," as "watch your words, actions, thoughts, companions and habits."

During this anniversary year St. Paul's-Carmel has lost 15 members by death, namely: Florence Annie Carr, James Hillyard Beatty, Mary W. Potts, Gail Francis Clendenning, Barbara Cecile Stapley (Carmel), Emma Tanner, Mary Melvina Maynes, Emily Ann Phillips, Mary Catherine Hawkins, Mary Martin, Thomas William Donohoe, Flossie Hulin, Roy B. Duffin, Charles Herbert David and Maude Marguerite Philp.

The congregation stood for "Silent Remembrance" and then sang in their memory "Jerusalem the Golden with Milk and Honey Blest."

Special Honor

Just previous to Rev. Hunnisett's message the guest speaker paid special tribute to the pastor and his wife and told his audience of the silver wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. Baker on Tuesday, October 11th at that time Toronto East Presbytery had forwarded greetings. Mrs. Baker was asked to leave the choir loft and sit with her husband in the pulpit and all sang in their special honor the three verses of "O Perfect Love' by Dorothy F. Gurney with Rev. Hunnisett as song leader.

The morning service closed on the theme "Show us Anew in Calvary" and dozens signed the guest register.

Evening Service

Long before seven o'clock the church pews were filling with guests from all across Rawdon and Sidney townships and many outlying places, which included Rev. W. H. V. Walker and several of his congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. A great many morning worshippers were again in attendance. By 7.30 p.m. the edifice was again filled to capacity. Mrs. A. E. Baker A.T.C.M. chose "Austria", Haydon as her prelude and the massed choirs took their places singing "The Lord's My Shepherd,.. I'll Not Want." At both services "The National Anthem and the Lord's Prayer" were used. Rev. A. E. Baker pastor of St. Paul's officiated and welcomed one and all to the services. He announced that the morning offering was over $1,300.

Mr. Baker dedicated a Bible in loving memory of the late Roy Welbourn who died in December 1945, and was buried in Bethel cemetery. The Bible was a gift from his widow and daughters, Vivian and Ruth.

As St. Paul's have almost 100 Bibles in the pews, the worshippers were asked to turn to Isaiah 58th chapter and follow the reading of the Holy scriptures.

Massed Choir

St. Paul's senior choir rendered "Make a Joyful Noise", and at the close of the service several members of the junior choir took their places in the choir loft and the massed group rendered "The Hallelujah chorus from the Messiah" by Handel.

Misses Verna Brown, Irma Campbell, and Helen Stapley were heard in a trio "Come Let us Join our Cheerful Songs."

Guest Speaker

Rev. W. A. Hunnisett B.A., B.D., who has been superintendent minister of the Fred Victor Mission, Toronto, for the past 30 years, told of its origin when in 1884 a lady organized the mission to help the "down and out" folks on Skid Row who were badly in need of "Soup, soap and salvation". When the mission celebrated its 50th anniversary this same lady came back to the mission and gave the message.

Some time after the mission was started it was given to the Home Mission Department of the United Church of Canada, without any encumberances to carry on its great work in the slum area. The speaker pointed out that while this particular mission is carried on under the auspices of the United Church, there are other similar missions throughout Canada under the leadership of other church denominations and they all have the same problems to solve.

He felt all church workers should be interested in the dispossessed and should be eager and willing to help their less fortunate brethren. Mr. Hunnisett gave many glowing experiences of the joy of helping others and based his message on the Bible verse, "The Lord Shall Guide thee Continually," and explained various ways whereby the Lord had personally given him guidance in reaching sick children, wayward boys and broken homes.

He pictured the joy of teen age boys receiving their first suit of clothes, bought especially for them, after wearing hand-me-downs. A poor mother with several children of her own who had room in her poverty stricken home to care for several orphan children. The rich man who furnished cars and gasoline to carry on the work of the mission adding that the things that are done in God's name are multitudinous. His true stories of real people who had been given a new lease of life were a glowing tribute to missions and the great work being accomplished by the money gifts of those who cannot go themselves to carry the gospel message.

"Booze Exhibits"

The speaker displayed articles on the pulpit to show the congregation the terrible influence of the "Booze Business" and the ravages and tragedies of the drink problem, he said Stirling has no place for it. "The little you gain is nothing to all that you will lose along with the heart-break of ruined homes and lives."

It was a forceful message which those in attendance will remember for many years and here words cannot begin to portray the vividness and stark reality of that glowing account of the Fred Victor Mission.

Acknowledgment

Mr. Clifford Hatton expressed thanks to guest speakers, Rev. and Mrs. Baker and all others for their part in the day's activities and Rev. W. H. V. Walker of St. Andrew's pronounced the benediction.

The anniversary dinner is being held Tuesday evening with the Hon. Leslie Frost, Premier of Ontario as guest speaker.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

IN OFF THE ROAD

My father was a very good newspaper man and I think a lo[illegible]bility had to do with [illegible]y.

[illegible]as most curious about how people lived. If we were out on a trip together, or driving down the back roads in the country, he might spot some small home tucked in the woods and start to speculate. How had the people come to live in this place? What kind of lives did they lead?

He had a theory, too, that everyone has a story. One time, when I was on an assignment in Winnipeg, where my father had worked with The Free Press, I heard a story about this theory of his. My old man and another reporter were sitting in the lobby of one of the hotels, waiting for a celebrity they were to interview. They got to talking about my dad's idea.

The other reporter thought it was nonsense. He claimed that most people live dull, drab lives. He said he'd bet five dollars that he could pick out a man in the lobby who would simply have nothing to say that would make "copy".

My father took the bet and the other reporter selected a mousy-looking little fellow sitting across the lobby. My dad went over and introduced himself to the little man and soon they were deep in conversation.

Finally he came back to the other reporter and held out his hand for the five bucks. The man without a story had, in fact, a pretty good one. He was Canada's official hangman.

I mention this today because I've been trying out my dad's ideas and with a certain amount of success.

As soon as we'd crossed over the border into the States I'd felt an urge to meet some American family who might be called representative and so, remembering my dad's ideas, I decided to simply pick a home and see what happened.

This is how we met the Longmores of West Pembroke in the state of Maine, and why the next two or three columns will be about the life and times of a New England family.

A White House

In the late afternoon, about 20 miles south of the border, we pulled up the caravan beside U.S. Highway No. 1 and looked up at the home we'd selected.

Stretching away from the road was a long rise of meadow with a patch of dead corn mid-way up the slope. Farther on were three giant maples with their foliage a light mustard color. The small, square house stood in their long shade.

It was freshly painted white with a blue roof and shutters and yellow window trim. Two old wagon wheels had been painted white and arranged as a railing at the front door.

In a clearing behind the house we noticed a child's slide. Back of it was a weathered, ramshackle barn and beyond this was the slope of trees, ablaze with autumn color. A long, straight driveway went up to the house and at the highway end were three cabins painted a bright yellow. A sign said, "Canary Cabins—Vacancy".

We paused a moment and wondered how the people had come to live here what they were like, and what kind of lives they lead. Then we turned the car in the driveway.

This began for us a two-day visit. The family invited us to park our trailer out under the biggest of the maples, ran a hose from their water outlet in the root cellar to our tanks, and for two nights we sat in their kitchen, with the dry leaves coming down outside the window, sipped Pabst Blue Ribbon beer and listened to their story.

John Longmore is 38 and a rather gaunt-looking man. He is very tall and very thin, with huge strong wrists and hands which he flaps about loosely when he talks. He might have been a handsome man in the Jimmy Stewart mold except for a perpetually pop-eyed expression, and when he becomes animated his eyes bug out and a large Adam's apple shuttles alarmingly in his long neck.

His wife, Dorothy, is a year younger— a short, sweet-faced woman with small, bright, penetrating blue eyes who likes to discourse on child psychology, Americanism and Life, with a capital "L." Most of all she enjoys meeting new people and testing out her ideas on them. She is extremely near-sighted, and her heavy-lensed spectacles give her a prim appearance that is rather misleading.

The Children

The Longmores have three children, Gail, who is nine; Hugh seven and Mary, 16 months.

Like her mother, Gail is near-sighted and delights in meeting newcomers. She has a very precocious idea about her future and plans on being either an artist or a nurse and, in either case, in the city.

Hugh, is a quiet, almost laconic boy, but, like his sister, has a brash manner with adults and this is tolerated by John and Dorothy who believe in encouraging children to be "natural."

Hugh has saved seven dollars from a 35-cent-a-week allowance and is very close with his money, which is said to be a New England trait. Still, when we took him into the nearby town of Eastport while we shopped, Hugh slipped away from us and put a nickel in the parking meter we'd overlooked. His father was pleased to hear of this and, waving his big hands, said, "Hugh has a good feeling of responsibility."

Because of the freedom they give the children the Longmore's house is a noisy and often downright boisterous place and yet the atmosphere is a happy and purposeful one. This is because John Longmore found the courage to give up the safety of a good, dull job in the city and to live as he wanted to live.

Everyone has a story, as my father claimed, and John Longmore's story is shared by millions of men who dream of escape to the country. I'll write about that tomorrow.

Many Strange Incidents Observed On Dome of World's Tallest Structure

New York — (AP) — For its 20th anniversary the world's tallest building is getting a brand new "top hat."

The Empire State tower has shed its old dome and television aerials, and is thrusting up to 1,467 feet with a new, 217-foot steel truss carrying five TV antennas, three FM antennas, and two emergency TV antennas. It will be ready in December.

How the ten aerials will work together at arm's reach without snarling each other's wave lengths is a technological miracle of considerably less magnitude than some of the other things that have been going on up there recently.

Just the other day, nearly a peck of barley and wheat fell like manna from Heaven on workmen atop the tower. It tinkled onto stainless steelwork from a cloudless, planeless sky.

Most promising guess is that breweries in New Jersey shot the grain through exhaust vents into an upper air current. But that current must have been a very special one because the Empire State was the only building, tall or short, so seeded, and there wasn't any wind to speak of that day anyway.

The genial manager of the tower, Frank Powell, wasn't too surprised.

During his tenure of high office all sorts of things have been falling on the tower. There has been red rain and white rain. There has been flocks of migratory birds and bats. There has been out of season snow, not to mention snow falling up instead of down.

Just recently, when a hurricane lashed Cape Cod, clouds of bugs from the outer beaches settled on the tower. One summer Powell collected 280 varieties of insects in three weeks for a professor studying wind currents.

Nearly as many scientists as insects have descended on the place. As the world's tallest building it has been a mecca for savants studying gravity, lightning (several bolts flash harmlessly through the building's steelwork nearly every storm), astronomy, flies as polio carriers, stresses in steel skyscrapers, cosmic rays, soot and of course television transmissions.

Most common species by far on the tower is the tourist. Sometimes several thousand sightseers clutch their hats and skirts on the observatory platforms daily. They add up to a total estimated by Powell at 700,000 a year.

To the tower came tragedy in 1945 when an army plane rammed it at the 79th story and killed 14 persons.

From the tower, 16 suicides leaped to death in 16 years. The management thinks this a moderate number compared with suicide records elsewhere, but has put a stop to the practice by building a formidable steel barricade.

France Relinquishes Control Of Main Invasion Route From China by Leaving Dong Dang

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

Saigon, Indo-China, Oct. 18. — (AP)— France today announced abandonment of the Indo-China frontier post of Dong Dang relinquishing for the second time in 65 years her control of the main invasion route from China.

A French military spokesman said the Dong Dang garrison withdrew yesterday. It was the fifth post the French have given up within a month along the mountainous frontier, stronghold of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh's Nationalist Vietminh guerrillas.

Dong Dang squarely faced the traditional invasion route from China—through the walled Chinese city of Nam Quan (Chinese Gate) and a mountain pass. Except for periods of Japanese and Chinese occupation during and just after the Second World War, France has held the past since 1885.

The withdrawal from Dong Dang left major French frontier garrisons only at Langson, and on the western and eastern ends of the former French border defence line—at Loakay and Moncay.

The military spokesman said the retirement from Dong Dang had been carried out "in good order" and without unusual pressure from Vietminh forces.

Langson itself is being made ready for the onslaught of the Vietminh guerrillas, or perhaps for abandonment by the French, as has been increasingly rumored recently. Evacuation of civilians from the fortress point has been completed despite a typhoon which has been raging on the frontier. The bad weather is continuing.

Proclamation of a state of alert in North Indo-China yesterday added to the growing evidence of the gravity of the French situation. The proclamation was taken here as evidence of official fears that the Vietminh forces may descend from their mountain strongholds to attack the French-held Red River delta.

The latest withdrawal strengthened the belief that France has decided she must concentrate on protecting the North Indo-China capital of Hanoi, its Port of Haiphong and the surrounding rich delta region, leaving the treacherous mountain section along the Chinese frontier to the Vietminh guerrillas.

Minister, Speaker Deny Receiving Any Monies

Windsor, Oct. 18 — (CP) Hon. William Griesinger, Ontario Minister of Planning and Development, and Rev. M. C. Davies, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, have issued a statement denying that they received any money for expenses and services in connection with a liquor lounge licence for the Thomas' Inn at suburban Riverside.

The two Windsor area members of the Ontario Legislature—Mr. Griesinger represents Windsor-Sandwich and Mr. Davies Windsor-Walkerville — said they issued the statement because of publicity in connection with a report concerning James S. Allan, Windsor lawyer and former crown attorney, and his client, Thomas' Inn.

Text of the statement follows:

We feel it is incumbent upon us due to publicity received to state briefly our position with regard to the report concerning James S. Allan, K. C., and his client, Thomas' Inn.

On Sept. 3, 1950, we were called by Mrs. Thomas to discuss with her the contents of a letter received by her on or about April , 1950, from Mr. Allan dealing with her legal account for services rendered. The letter among other things intimated that we were paid monies by Mr. Allan received from Mrs. Thomas for what were called expenses and services rendered by ourselves. This statement was emphatically denied by Mrs. Thomas.

We received the letter and on Wednesday, Sept. 6, 1950, discussed it with the Hon. Dana Porter, Attorney-General. We affirmed out position. Mr. Allan was called to Toronto by Mr. Porter and confronted with the demand on proof or complete retraction by letter. This letter of unqualified exoneration is now in the files of the Attorney - General.

From the very beginning of our terms as representatives we have sought to impress upon any and all requiring legal or any other advice, whether such be concerned with liquor licences, charters for companies, individual or general services, that no consideration of any kind by or through anyone other than actual out-of-pocket expenses, i.e., hotels, meals telephone and so forth, will be tolerated by us.

We deeply regret that publicity of this nature seems to be centred on our city particularly when it is absolutely unfounded and untrue. Our duty is to serve all the people of Windsor regardless of race, creed, politics, occupation or need.

Bao Dai Leaves For Indo-China

Nice, France, Oct. 18—(AP)—Bao Dai, chief of state of Vietnam, left by plane today for Indo-China after a three-months vacation on the Riviera which had made him the target of much criticism in his war-torn country.

The former Emperor of Annam, who now heads the French-created state of Indo-China, issued a statement at the airport expressing satisfaction that "the United States of America has decided to join its powerful efforts to those of France and our own."

26,000 Aussie Dock Workers Out on Strike

Melbourne, Oct. 18. (Reuters)—A 24-hour strike by 26,000 Australian dock workers protesting the rising cost of living today paralyzed every port in the country.

The strike, first move in a Labor Party campaign against rising prices, was launched yesterday in Sydney. That tie-up delayed 256 ships and cost ship owners £10,000 (about $22,000).

Elsewhere on the Commonwealth's Labor front, Victoria was without rail services for the third straight day because of a strike of railway brakemen demanding wage increases.

In Melbourne, 500 firemen carried their "push-button strike" into its third week with no sign of a settlement. The men are striking against a rule forcing them to press a button every ten minutes while on duty to indicate they are on the job.

WINDSOR PROBE MAY LEAD TO ROYAL COMMISSION INQUIRY

The newly appointed police commission conducting a probe into alleged police corruption at Windsor, Ont., may be replaced by a Royal Commission, with much wider powers, according to word from Windsor. The present commission, consisting of Col. Roland Harris, a private citizen, Judge Archibald Cochrane and Mayor Reaume, admittedit has not the authority to interfere in police matters. — Central Press Canadian.

When Frank Phillips testified before the commission, he said he had laid a charge of assault against an ex-boxer in August, 1949, and had received no satisfaction from the police. The commission felt it had no authority to do anything about his case. — Central Press Canadian.

Detective George Brown brought in a large-sized carton of evidence into the commission hearing. Most of it was on cases of persons brought into court on charges of selling liquor and taking bets on horse races. In only a few cases were convictions obtained. — Central Press Canadian.

WILLIAM GRIESINGER

Police commission investigation at Windsor has caused a public statement by Hon. M. C. Davies, Speaker of the Ontario legislature and William Griesinger, minister of planning and development, that they did not receive money as expenses in obtaining the cocktail bar licence of Mrs. Bertha Thomas, proprietor of Thomas' Inn in Windsor's suburbs. Mrs. Thomas' legal counsel, James S. Allen, charged her a sum of money with "two Windsor members of parliament" to obtain the license.—Central Press Canadian Photos.

Managers Discuss Rising Costs To Newspapers

St. Catharines, Oct. 18 — (CP) —Determination to keep the price of the daily newspaper at its present level despite serious increases in costs was expressed at the regular fall meeting of the Ontario Provincial Dailies Association.

The meeting opened here Monday with an informal dinner. Tuesday the members toured the plant of the St. Catharines Standard, which has been recently enlarged and remodelled, and later met in business session.

Chairman of the meeting was R. L. Curran, managing director of the Sault Ste. Marie Daily Star. A total of 35 representatives of the 28 member papers attended the meetings.

The seriousness of the newsprint supply question was aired at the meeting Monday. Any cut in supplies to the newspapers would be a serious blow to newspapers right across Canada, it was stated. The members learned of a possible cut in supplies from producers, as well as a $10-a-ton increase in newsprint cost, as the meeting opened.

All Supplies Increase

Discussing the rising costs of newspaper production, the meeting learned that type metal had increased by 35.7 per cent and newsprint by 23 per cent since 1946. Other increases, apart from spiralling labor costs, were zinc 44.8 per cent; film 38.46 per cent; mats 34.19 per cent and ink 16.43 per cent.

However, it was determined that the newspaper should be the one thing "that a man can still buy for a nickel" and it was not anticipated that any increase in price of the daily newspaper would be put into effect by any of the members in the immediate future.

Also under discussion was the proposed establishment of a central advertising office for the association. The matter was referred to the executive of the O.P.D.A. The problem of "selling" the smaller Ontario daily newspapers was at present being successfully accomplished by the presentation of the "Richboro Story," it was announced.

The Richboro Story, in pamphlet and film form, presents the part the local daily plays in the life of a mythical community. The story is being presented to advertisers and advertising agencies in Toronto and Montreal to show better the potential market for nationally advertised products.

Regular annual meeting of the association will be held in Sarnia in January or early February next year.

Judge Quashes Conviction on H.T.A. Charge

Toronto, Oct. 18—(CP)— Mr. Justice W. F. Spence Tuesday described as "astounding, improper and ineffective," a letter in which a justice of the peace was authorized to hear a careless-driving case—after he had convicted and fined a man

The Ontario Supreme Court judge quashed the conviction of Stephen Wayne of Hamilton and ordered reimbursement of the $100 fine and $39 costs he paid.

Wayne was convicted in September by Harry Burnill of Dundas, near Hamilton. G. A. Martin, Wayne's lawyer, said justices of peace have no jurisdiction in careless driving charges unless a magistrate asks them to take over.

Among the documents studied by Mr. Justice Spence was a letter dated Oct. 2—after Wayne's conviction — in which Magistrate John E. Robinson of Dundas confirmed verbal authority he gave Burnill in November, 1949.

This letter said Mr. Justice Spence, was "astounding, improper and ineffective." He said the criminal code "should not be administered with such startling looseness."

Wayne was charged with both careless and dangerous driving. He was convicted of the lesser charge and the major one was withdrawn. But, Mr. Justice Spence was told, endorsements on the back of the police informations had this reversed: they showed conviction on the dangerous driving charge, dismissal of the careless driving count.

Mr. Justice Spence said also that the transcript showed evidence in both charges was taken jointly, violating a principle of law. For this reason as well as because of Burnill's doubtful jurisdiction, he quashed the conviction.

Two $3,500,000 Freighters Will Go into Service

Montreal, Oct. 18—CP—Two $3,500,000 freighters, reported to be the largest ships ever constructed in Canada, will go into the Great Lakes trade, shipping sources said Tuesday.

One is under construction at Port Weller, Ont., and the second will be started there when the first is out of the shipyards.

Construction is under the supervision of David B. Carswell, Montreal marine consultant, who left for Port Weller Monday night.

He said the ships will carry cargoes of 22,000 tons each, against the present high of about 12,000 tons.

The ships, an eighth of a mile long, are being built for Sarnia Steamships, Ltd., of Port Colborne.

The vessels will be used strictly on the Great Lakes although company officials hope that some day they will move down to Montreal on their way to pick up ore cargoes when a deep-sea waterway is completed.

Only one lake freighter, the Wilfred Sykes, an American-owned ship, will surpass the new vessels in size but becaue of their constructions the Canadian freighters will carry the same amount of cargo.

BUYER'S MARKET PREDICTED

Toronto, Oct. 18 — (CP) — A buyer's market in automobiles by the middle of 1951 was forecast Tuesday by spokesmen at the annual meeting of the Automobile Dealer Association of Canada.

Federation director H. D. Robertson of Nova Scotia said that continuation of present production should catch up with demand by that time.

President Says Soviet Union Maintaining Armed Forces Of Great Size and Strength

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP) — When President Truman said that "The Soviet Union and its colonial satellites are maintaining armed forces of great size and strength," he presumably meant that at least 7,000,000 men are under arms.

That is the estimated total of the ground, air and sea forces of Russia, its European satellites and Communist Asia, on the basis of authoritative information available here.

These are actual forces-in-being. They do not include the hordes of recruits or reservists with battle experience who could be drawn from the almost-unlimited military manpower pool which exists among the 665,000,000 population of the communist countries of the occident and orient.

In his San Francisco speech last night, Truman said that "in both Europe and Asia, their vast armies pose a constant threat to world peace." He obviously was using the term "armies" in the broad sense of military force. The threat from Russian air and, to a lesser degree, naval strength also must be taken into account.

Russia and her European puppet states are assumed to have something more than 4,000,000 men in their armed forces. The estimates on the size of Red China's regular army range from 1,000,000 to more than 3,000,000. The North Korean communist army, once estimated at 150,000, now is being cut up and destroyed by United Nations forces.

The regular Soviet army is estimated at a little more than 2,500,000. This is the army alone. It doesn't count in perhaps 400,000 of the so-called security force the NKVD. Nor does it include a flexible force which is seasonal in nature — about 1,000,000 men who are called by age groups, for military service.

The Russian army has excellent artillery and in quantities. It demonstrated its artillery power in the Second World War.

Have Better Tanks

The red army is believed to have more— and perhaps better tanks than any of the great western powers. Some guesses in military circles are that the Soviet armored force now may have more than 25,000 medium tanks, not including an unestimated number of the huge, 60-ton Joseph Stalin III models. Estimates of the rate of production for new Rusian tanks range as high as 5,000 annually.

The number of men in the red air force is placed at about 600,000, but in view of Soviet efforts toward expansion of its air fleet, may be well above that figure.

Russia is reported concentrating on swift expansion of her jet fighter force. She presumably feels she needs them as interceptors to challenge long-range American bombers should she launch war and bring down retaliation on her cities.

But Russia has not neglected her bomber force since the Second World War, and it is known she is producing quantities of four-engined TU-70s, copies of the American B-29.

At sea, primary Russian interest is in expanding the submarine fleet. In the past, estimates of the Russian submarine fleet have ranged up to 350, but Jane's Fighting Ships says the Russian goal is believed to be between 750 and 1,000 long-range submarines by 1951.

New Bond Issue To be Called By Canadian Govt.

Ottawa, Oct. 18 (CP) — The Finance Department today announced a new $700,000,000 government of Canada bond issue, to be used for refinancing purposes.

The issue consists of two maturities: Two year 1 3-4 percent bonds maturing Nov. 1, 1952, and five year-eight months bonds at 2 1-4 percent maturing July 1 1956.

Proceeds of the new issue, the announcement said, will be used along with other funds to redeem two 1 3-4 percent issues maturing next Nov. 1 and totalling $735,-600,000.

Both the new issues are none-callable to maturity. Interest on the two-year bond is payable May 1 and Nov. 1. Interest on the longer-term bond is payable July 1 and Jan. 1.

Both bonds will be offered in denominations of $1,000, $5,000, $25,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000. The short term bonds are being offered at 99.70 percent to yield about 1.91 percent to maturity and the longer term bonds are being priced at 99 3-8 percent to yield about 2.37 percent.

The issue will be offered immediately to investors through investment dealers and banks. Books of the loan will be opened at the Bank of Canada here Oct. 19.

Workers End Strike After Day's Duration

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP) — The United Mine Workers of America (CCL) late Tuesday ended their strike at the small arms division of Canadian Arsenals Limited in suburban Long Branch.

Employees of the crown-owned plant called the strike Monday to back demands for recognition of their union and for a 15 cents hourly wage boost. The union said in a statement issued after a membership meeting Tuesday.

"The strikers are satisfied they have demonstrated to the federal government that an overwhelming majority of the employees want a union and the democratic rights of collective bargaining."

An estimated 280 of the 400 Long Branch workers picketed the plant during the strike. Others, including toolmakers and office clerks, crossed the lines and continued to work.

Another 30 union members walked out Monday at the company's plants at Valcartier, Que., and Quebec City which employ a total of about 1,000.

Canadian arsenals were exempted from provisions of the federal labor code by an order-in-council passed three years ago. Federal government officials have taken the stand that the workers do not need a union but may take up grievances individually with their employer, union officials said.

Heading National Organizations Calls for Sacrifice of Time, Money

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Finding people to hold office, especially top office, is often a real problem for national organizations and one to which they must have an answer at annual convention time.

The presidency of these organizations is certainly regarded as an honor, and there is no lack of people who are qualified.

But one must not only be qualified. One must also have the time—and perhaps be ready to throw in some of one's one cash for expenses.

At least in the cases of the larger organizations, such as the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, one must to a considerable degree say goodbye to his own business for his year or so of high office.

For they are timetaking tasks requiring in some cases, many thousands of miles of travel and the making of scores of speeches.

So a man may hesitate before accepting, torn between his obligations to the organization and to his own business.

His reward is that of a duty discharged, a job well done, a broadening experience for himself and a widened national reputation. As far as one can see, those who have gone through it have for the most part found it worthwhile in personal satisfaction. Here is another point:

Thought should be given not only to the type of entertainment given at convention banquets, but to how it is presented.

Sometimes a vocalist, male or female, is asked to get up before a dinner audience which may number up to 1,000 many of them still eating and rattling dishes; most of them talking and in party mood.

Then the soloist, too often, stands beside a piano placed on the dining room floor at dinner table level, where he or she can be seen by only a few. The soloist has come to give his or her best, and many times it is a hopeless effort.

So, in this writer's opinion, convention entertainment should always be presented from a platform and be of such a nature that it will virtually command attention.

But if the entertainer is not to be given a chance, or can not be given a chance, then both for his and the audience's sake, entertainment should be left off the program.

Justice Reserves Judgment on Will Action

Toronto, Oct. 18—CP—Ontario Court of Appeal yesterday reserved judgment on an action to uphold the will of Lawrence E. Henri of Whitby. By the will, Henri cut off his wife and daughters, Shirley and Merle, and left his $13,000 estate to two women friends, one in Stratford and the other in Oshawa.

Except for a brief reconsiliation in 1941, Henri had been separated from his wife and daughters since 1930. He hanged himself in his garage Oct. 11, 1948.

He left more than $12,000 to Elsie Beal (now Graham) of Oshawa "because she was awfully good" to him. He also left $300 to Velma Poyner of Stratford with a notation: "Enough for one good binge because she was kind to my mother."

A Cobourg judge refused last May to admit the will to probate on the grounds that when it was drawn up, Henri suffered an insane delusion that he had an interest in his wife's beauty shop.

At one time Henri operated an auto accessories business in Stratford and Windsor.

MUST BE REPLACED

North Bay, Oct. 18 — (CP) — Outside toilets are the latest target of the North Bay Board of Health. The Board decided to order households still using the outside "installations," although located where sewage is available, to replace them with indoor sanitation — or else.

MOSLEM

His parents succumbed to hunger, cold and disease in 1931. When they died, he escaped and walked for 2½ months to return to his Turkestan home. Rebellion was developping there, but communists started another campaign of "no prayers, no koran, no feats."

One mosque was converted into public lavatories, another became a stable. A third was pulled down and another turned into a dance hall, the refugee said.

He was arrested and sent to a mountain prison camp where the communists "tried to starve us to death."

He finally escaped and for several years kept moving.

After a number of arrests and esapes he made his way to Italy. Naked and penniless, he arrived in Rome where he was cared for by the Vatican, then transferred to the D.P. camp with a number of his fellows.

STARVED SELF TO DEATH

Sudbury, England, Oct. 18 — (Reuters) — A blind woman starved herself to death "in order to claim attention," a coroner's court was told yesterday. Dr. L. B. Rowe said Mrs. Edith Parsonson, 47, complained to her husband and son of various illnesses and was "hysterical." He said she persistently refused meals her husband cooked for her. Mrs. Parsonson became ill through "starvation," Dr. Rowe said. Her husband finally persuaded her to go to hospital but she died next day.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

AN OPEN LETTER TO JOE HOCKEY FAN

Dear Joe:—

As you are probably aware, the hockey season starts here on or about November 1st. In fact the opening game in Belleville is scheduled to be played on November 3rd with the Belleville senior club meeting the Peterborough Hockey Club.

The question going the rounds following the hockey confab last Sunday is "What is Belleville going to use as a senior hockey team?"

At the moment we cannot answer the question. But maybe you can help.

In the first place you can get the fundamentals by attending the open meeting in Memorial Arena tonight at 8:30. The confab is being thrown wide open to all and sundry who are interested in hockey and especially in a senior squad for this village. In addition players desirous of trying out with the team are also invited to attend or get in touch with John Dell, phone 4559-W.

Five senior teams will show their wares here this winter.

The group of Kingston Nylons, Queen's University, Peterborough Eagles and Peterborough Petes, with Gananoque and Belleville should provide excellent hockey fare.

Five teams in the group have organized. Most of them have strengthened their ranks and some of them are already holding practices.

Senior hockey in this district should be the best seen in years.

But what of Belleville?

Fandom should rally wholeheartedly behind the small group of courageous citizens who are endeavoring to form and operate a senior team here. And to make their task harder, the opening game, as was said before is scheduled two scant weeks hence.

There is plenty to do before the Belleville team skates on the ice in its inaugural appearance.

Players must be lined up. Practices must be arranged. A coach must be secured, (although there is one in the offing). Uniforms must be obtained.

And most important of all is the hands of willing helpers to assist in the organization of the club.

Tonight, it is hoped a strong executive will be elected from the ranks of those present. Positions are wide open and men who know hockey and its organization should be placed in executive places.

Fandom here, it is felt, will get solidly behind a senior team that compares with those of clubs in its group. And such a team is possible if it gets the support of residents of the city.

Remember, Joe, the 1950 team is, or will be, a city team in the literal sense of the word. It will not be affiliated nor have any connections whatever with any industrial or business organizations. It is your team, and you will have the say in the matter.

So tonight's meeting will have a strong bearing on what sort of senior team will represent the city during the forthcoming season.

It is up to you to turn out and see what can be done about the matter.

Most of us here like hockey — but the better it is, the better we like it.

It is human nature to criticize. In the past we have had plenty of criticism, a lot of it deserved. Things perhaps, were not what they should have been, but that is water under the bridge.

Let's get out on a common level, bend our shoulders to the wheel and in concerted effort try to lay the foundation for a team that will be a credit to the city. As a matter of fact, senior hockey here depends on this effort.

Remember, Joe, tonight's the night. Much can be done if a good turnout "turns out". Make it a date, eh?

Yours truly,
Murgatroyd McSweeney.

Boston Bruins, Toronto Leafs Both Seeking First Victory In Young N.H.L. Season

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs tangle tonight with coach Lynn Patrick's rugged young Bruins in Boston, and both will be gunning for their first victory of the new National Hockey League season.

It's the only scheduled game of the night. Thursday finds Detroit at Chicago and New York at Montreal.

Even at this early stage of the race the Bruins-Leafs clash has interesting sidelights. Last weekend both came out of bruising encounters with the teams selected in some quarters as those most likely to succeed this season — the Red Wings and Les Habitants.

The Bruins managed to salvage one point—a tie—out of two meetings with Canadiens, and in one of them they maintained the reputation of past Boston teams for bashing and rugged play. They stepped toe-to-toe with Canadiens in a wild rhubarb in Boston while losing 2-1 last Sunday.

Coach Joe Primeau's Leafs have an identical record of a loss and a tie in two starts. But they showed dash and put up a whirlwind finish to gain their point, rallying to the Detroit 4-4 after being down 4-1. Their loss was to Chicago in the Toronto opener.

The Leafs and Bruins now share the cellar, and will be battling to get out of it.

Patrick's squad includes three of the league's 17 rookies who'll be eligible this year for the Calder trophy. They are defencemen Steve Kraftcheck, Eddie Reigle and forward Lorne Ferguson. The Leafs have two—leftwinger Danny Lewicki and defenceman Hugh Bolton.

Canadiens have six — goalie Gerry McNeil, Tom Johnson. Bert Hirschefeld, Frank King, Vern Kaiser and Paul Masnick; Chicago three, Gord Fashoway, Vic Stasiuk and Hugh Coflin; Rangers, one, Reg Sinclair; and Detroit, two, Goalie Terry Sawchuk and defenceman Marcel Pronovost.

Parkwood Stables Breeding, Racing Stock on Block

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP) — The breeding and racing stock of Col. R. S. McLaughlin's Parkwood stables goes on the block at Woodbine Park here tonight.

The stock is being sold by auction as a result of the sale of the stables to a group of Canadian horsemen, headed by industrialist E. P. Taylor, which plans to establish a national stud.

Outstanding horse of the stables is Nephisto, three-year-old winner of the 1950 Breeders Stakes, championship race for eastern three-year-olds, and the 1950 Canadian champion at Long Branch. Nephisto has won six of his last eight starts and placed in the other two.

Crucial Game Coming Up In Lacrosse Finals

Toronto, Oct. 18—(CP) — The crucial fifth game of the Canadian lacrosse championships looms tonight for Owen Sound Crescents and New Westminster Adanacs as a goaltenders' battle.

With the best-of-seven series tied 2-2, tonight's winner will probably rule as odds-on favorite to take the title and the coveted Mann Cup.

Crescents drove here from Owen Sound yesterday, determined to get a full day's rest before the game. Adanacs had a brief practice at their training camp in suburban Mimico Monday, then relaxed yesterday with many of the team getting in a round of golf.

On the basis of the first two games, the future of the cup appears to rest heavily on the work of goaltenders Gord Pogue of New Westminster and Harry Wootton of Owen Sound.

Wootton was a standout during the first two games when Crescents won 8-7 and 13-6. But Pogue stole the show in the next two games, when the western champions won 13-9 and 7-5 to tie the series.

Thus far Wootton has had the most work to do. He's made 110 saves so far in the series as the faster western club outshot the Ontario Lacrosse Association's champions. Pogue has stopped 79 shots.

If Adanacs are to take the title much will depend, too, on the shooting eye of Alfy Wood. He's scored seven times in the four games. Jack Proctor, Reo Jerome and Jack Northup each has scored five goals.

But the big scorer of the series has been Owen Sound's Russ Slater. He's fired nine goals past Pogue, who still wears a special mask to protect his throat as a result of an injury he suffered in the 1947 series when Adanacs defeated Mimico Mountaineers for the title.

Don Campbell has sored seven for the Crescents.

As a preliminary to tonight's game, Sarnia Athletics meet Toronto St. John's Training School in a sudden-death game for the Ontario Bantam title.

Stranahan Thinks Weight-Lifting Greatest Sport

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Frank Stranahan is a nice-looking chap who has a million bucks, plays championship golf and thinks weight-lifting is the greatest sport in the world.

"It's a shame the way we underplay it in this country," the 28-year-old Toledo sparkplug heir says. "Why, it's the principal sport in many countries. It should be a bigger thing over here.

"I think some day every athlete in sports—contact sports especially—will have to take up weight-lifting to put him in top condition.

"Did you know Ted Williams is a weight-lifter? Well, he is. So is Ralph Kiner.

"They're not the only ones. There are weight-lifters in practically every sport."

Stranahan, British amateur champion, former Canadian amateur champion and U.S. National amateur runner-up, came east over the weekend for a visit and a little golf. He'll play in the North and South Tournament at Pinehurst Oct. 31-Nov. 3.

He asked anxiously about last week's weight-lifting championships in Paris and was advised that Stanczyk, U.S. light heavyweight muscle man, had out-strong-armed Fussia's Vorobiev. Stranahan couldn't hide his pleasure.

"That's great," he said. "Stanczyk is a terrific guy. The best man for his weight in the business."

Stanczyk lifted a total of 924 pounds in his three efforts in the light-heavy division of the world championships.

Stranahan, who has competed in several muscle-flexing events, has gone over 750 pounds.

"My golf keeps me trimmed down too thin," he said. "When I'm playing a lot of golf I get down to 165 pounds. That's too little. I should weigh about 185 for weight-lifting."

Memorial Fund For Widowed Mother Formed

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP) — The Quarterbacks Club of the Toronto Men's Press Club announced Tuesday night establishment of the Jack Bell Memorial Fund for the widowed mother of Sarnia Imperials backfielder, who died from an injury suffered on the playing field.

The club made the announcement during its weekly half-hour football forum broadcast over radio station CFRB.

The fund will be supervised by a committee comprising Harold Bailey, President of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, to which the Imperials belong; Tom Alison, President of the Canadian Rugby Union; Erick Cradock, President of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union; Wes McKnight, CFRB sports announcer; Hal Walker, football writer of the Toronto Globe and Mail; and Joe Ryan, representing the Press Club.

Bell, who operated a taxi business in Sarnia, was the sole support of Mrs. Jean Bell, his widowed mother.

Manager Holding Out for 25 P.C. In Louis Fight

(By The Canadian Press)

A matter fo 2 1-2 percent is all that stands in the way of a Joe Louis-Cesar Brion match scheduled for Chicago Stadium Nov. 29.

Hymie Wallman, Brion's manager, said he was offered 22 1-2 percent to meet the Brown Bomber in the 10-round go, but said he's holding out for 25.

"I talked with Jim Norris (president of the International Boxing Club), Wallman said "but no agreement was reached. We'll probably confer again today."

Wallman said his Argentine contender would fight once more before the tentative meeting with Louis.

Assault charges against George Campbell, a member of the Hamilton Westinghouse soccer team, were withdrawn Tuesday at the request of the complainants, referee Robert Crawford and linesman William Clarke.

Crawford and Clarke, officials in a Glebe Cup match between Hamilton and Toronto Canadians Oct. 7, charged earlier that Campbell entered their dressing room after the game and attacked them.

Campbell was suspended until May 1, 1952, by the Toronto and District Football Association following the incident.

Ottawa General Hospital officials said Tuesday that Pete Mantha who suffered a brain concussion in a football game Saturday was "coming along well" but that the 23-year-old St. Pat's College players football days are finished.

Mantha was injured in an Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference game with Royal Military College which ended in a 10-10 tie but his condition was not discovered until the game ended. Game officials said they did not know how he had been hurt.

Mantha, a second year arts student, began playing football this year at the insistence of friends. He had suffered other lesser injuries previously and his family said Tuesday that on the advice of doctors he would not play football again.

Randolph Turpin won the British middleweight championship in London Tuesday night by knocking out defending titleholder Albert Finch in 1:02 of the round bout. Turpin weighed 158, Finch 159 1-2.

Turpin thus avenged the defeat of his brother Dick, who lost the 160-pound crown to Finch, last spring.

Branch Rickey general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers organization, said Tuesday he will not retire from baseball but indicated he may not remain with the Dodgers.

Rickey stopped briefly in Billings, Mont., en route to the Matt Tschirgi ranch, 110 miles southeast on a vacation trip.

"I wouldn't know what to do with myself if I retired altogether from baseball," Rickey said, "but I am not yet ready to announce where I may go or what I will do when the deal for my Brooklyn stock is closed."

There have been reports that he may become identified with either Pittsburgh Pirates or St. Louis Browns. His only comment in regard to these rumors was that his wife likes to live in St. Louis.

GUELPH TIES SERIES

Guelph, Oct. 18 (CP) — Pete Gibb shut out Toronto Peter Pans 5-0, on two hits here Tuesday night as Guelph Regents tied up their best-of-five Ontario Baseball Association junior final series at two games apiece. Site of the deciding game has not yet been decided.

Charlie Fusari Picked to Whip Tony Pellone

Chicago, Oct. 18—AP—A crowd of 10,000 is expected at Chicago Stadium tonight for Charlie Fusari's 10-round revenge bout with Tony Pellone.

Fusari, Sicilian-born welterweight from Irvington, N.J., is a 7-5 betting choice. Pellone, a New Yorker, snapped Fusari's 45-win streak with a 10-round decision at New York City June 13, 1947.

Fusari has an over-all record of 62 victories and only seven losses. He was outpointed by champion Sugar Ray Robinson Aug. 9 in Jersey City.

Pellone, who is expected to weigh in at 147, one pound less than his rival, has 41 victories and 16 defeats. In his last outing he lost to Johnny Saxton in New York.

Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, said Pellone will be matched with lightweight king Ike Williams if he wins tonight. If Fusari triumphs, he will get an encore with Rocky Graziano, who stopped him in the tenth in a previous bout.

Branch Rickey's Baseball Plans Subject of Rumors

New York, Oct. 18 (AP) — Rumors are a dime a dozen these days regarding Branch Rickey's future plans in baseball.

Reports persist that Rickey, general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, will either buy the St. Louis Browns lock, stock and barrel or purchase a substantial block of stock in the American league club and become its general manager.

Other observers felt that Rickey will take the general manager's portfolio at Pittsburgh at the behest of his friend John Galbreath, owner of the Pirates.

Few believe that Rickey will stay as general manager of the Dodgers. Rickey's Dodger contract expires at the end of the month. The Dodgers' stockholders have a meeting scheduled next Monday when Rickey's fate will be decided.

Rickey, with Galbreath acting as a go-between, sold his one-quarter interest in the Dodgers to William Zeckendorf, real estate operator, Sept. 23 for over a million dollars.

The deal, however, has not been completed, as two of Rickey's partners have an option to buy the stock at the same terms. Rickey and his two partners, Walt O'Malley and the late John L. Smith, agreed some time ago to that arrangement. Since the deal, Smith died and his 25 per cent now is held by Mrs. Smith. O'Malley also owns 25 per cent and the remaining 25 is owned by Mrs. James Mulvey, who has refused to sell to anybody.

Rickey has thrown little light on the situation.

"I wouldn't know what to do with myself if I retired altogether from baseball," he said yesterday. "But I am not yet ready to announce where I may go or what I will do when the deal for my Brooklyn stock is closed."

King Decisions Bobby Lloyd In Ten Rounds

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP) —Li'l Arthur King, who lost his first professional fight in two years to Irish Bobby Lloyd two weeks ago, roared back Tuesday night to take a unanimous 10-round decision over the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., boxer.

The Toronto-born King, now fighting out of Philadelphia, weighed in at 138, one pound heavier than Lloyd. More than 7,000 saw the fight.

Lloyd, a southpaw, seemed nervous. He consistently beat King to the punch, but his blows carried little weight. The blows that King did land were more effective; on several occasions he shook the Irishman.

In the fourth round of one of the hardest-fought fights seen in Toronto for some time, King cut loose with a left that opened the flesh over Lloyd's right eye. The cut seemed to bother him for the rest of the fight.

In a bantamweight preliminary officials said Johnny Howard of Cleveland wasn't "trying" as they called a halt to his bout with Maxie Males of Toronto after 45 seconds of the third round. The bout was scheduled for six rounds.

Howard 117 1-2, was disqualified and officials said his purse would be held up. Males weighed 122.

Hurt by Punches

Howard's handlers claimed the Cleveland boxer had been hurt by the punches of Toronto's Maxy Males.

Howard was disqualified after 45 seconds of the third round of his bout with Males.

Howard's handlers claimed Males should have been awarded a technical knockout. Males was well ahead on points when Murphy stopped the fight.

Murphy's action was jeered by the crowd. He was jeered in another preliminary when he stopped a heavyweight bout between Dan Moray of Cleveland, 179, and James J. Parker of Toronto, 187. Murphy stopped that fight at 2:20 in the first round and called it a draw when Moray cut Parker between the eyes.

Results of other preliminary bouts on the pro card featuring a bout between Little Arthur King of Philadelphia and Bobbie Lloyd of Wilkes Barre, Pa.:

Tommy Reece, 154 3-4, Niagara Falls, Ont., decisioned Bobby Cedar, 153, Troy, N.Y. (6).

Davey Mitchell, 130, Toronto, won by a technical knockout over Joe Leo, 133, Syracuse, N.Y., at 2:45 of the fifth round.

URGES UNIFORM SCHEDULES

Toronto, Oct. 18—(CP)— The Ontario Motor Coach Operators' Association last night urged uniform governmental regulation of time changes.

At their semi-annual business meeting, delegates said haphazard switching from daylight to standard time is playing havoc with bus schedules. Each time changes means revision of schedules, confusion and customer dissatisfaction.

TACKLE FATAL

Jack Bell, 25-year-old backfielder for Sarnia Imperials, died Tuesday from a neck injury suffered in a football game last Saturday. The young navy veteran dislocated his neck in an open-field flying tackle on Carl Galbreath of Toronto Balmy Beach in their Ontario Rugby Football Union game. Officials of both clubs said that rough play was not involved in Bell's fatal injury. —(CP Photo.)

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

High-brows may push my face in for saying it. But there is real symphony in the play of a delicate bridge hand. Precision in timing is required to harmonize with the taking of tricks.

South was declarer at a spade slam contract. Opening lead from west was a club. Easy as it looks, perfect handling was necessary to bring home all 13 tricks.

The first trick was grabbed by dummy club ace and a heart trick was cashed quick with the dummy heart queen. A small dummy trump was led and won with the south queen of spades.

South then laid down the king and ace of hearts. On these were sluffed the two remaining dummy clubs. This made it possible for the south remaining club to be ruffed with a dummy trump.

Right there the ace of diamonds was cashed. Careless reckoning may not see the need for taking the diamond ace before another step. But it is essential to entry preparation.

After this a small south heart was led and ruffed in dummy. A small diamond was led from dummy and ruffed in south. The final south heart was led and ruffed in dummy. A diamond return was ruffed in south.

Now the remaining south club was ruffed in dummy and the final diamond there was returned. By this time east has left nothing but two trumps and is smothered into playing one of them.

South was able to overruff the trump east played and still have the top remaining trump. This last trump of south took trick 13 and that was all there was to it. Nice going.

To get rid of two dummy clubs the south king or ace of hearts must not be ruffed by opponents. How did declarer know it would not? I will give you his analysis.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 18 —(AP) — "It's my own discovery," glowed Sir Lawrence Olivier. "It is pure heaven. In fact, it's right next to the throne."

The man who is probably the most distinguished English-speaking actor was speaking of the dessert which he has every day for lunch. It is peppermint ice cream with a small sea of chocolate sauce poured over it.

"Pure heaven," he sighed. "It seemed incongruous. I tried to imagine Heathcliffe, Henry V or Hamlet eating such a gooey dish. Impossible."

The saccharine sundae was one of the less-weighty matters we discussed at luncheon in Olivier's dressing room. Another concerned the art objects in the room, which nomrally belongs to Ray Milland.

Taste in Art

On one wall was a painting of a chartreuse nude, on another a strip-teaser nearing the conclusion of her act. "I must say," smiled Olivier, "that I admire Mr. Milland tremendously, but I'm not certain about his taste in art."

Oh, yes, we also talked about acting, which Olivier termed one of the hardest jobs he knows.

"Acting is strenuous work," he said. "It requires a tremendous amount of concentration. I am in the scene every minute of the working day. I have a portable dressing room on the set (of 'Sister Carrie'). but that is just a sham. I am never in it except when they want a change of clothes. And then they rush me in and rush me back to the scene."

Actors Underpaid

"I think actors are vastly underpaid," he continued. "At least my wife and I are. We are paid a very nominal sum to live on. The rest of our earnings goes right into our company."

The company is the reason the Oliviers will return to England after they finish their respective pictures. They will put on two plays for the festival of Britain in 1951. Eventually they plan to produce their own pictures as well.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding his paper and may was reeding hers, saying Well, it may be true that everybody is born equal, but they certainly change when they grow up. Why if the same thing had happened to an ordnerry unknown matter of fact citizen, the papers would never even of noticed it, she said.

What happened to who, or perhaps I should say to whom, in the case of so distinguished a personality? pop said, and ma said, I tell you it wasn't really anything, he got his foot cawt in some trolley tracks somewhere at some bizzy intersection or other, but what of that?

Very little, if he got it safely out again, pop said, and ma said, But of course he did, that's what I've been telling you.

I wouldn't say that, though it may be what you've been leeding up to, pop said. And I still dont know the name of the unfortunate, or fortunate, celebrity in question, he said, and ma said, Why, it was Roger Bunker.

Oh really? pop said, and ma said, Yes, and that's all there was to it. He got his foot cawt in the tracks, and all the traffic was stopped, and a huge crowd gathered, and somebody called the fire engines, and he got his foot out again, and that's absilutely the long and the short of it, and if it had been anybody but Roger Bunker, the entire incident would still be lost in the mists of oblivion, she said.

But who in the Sam Blazes is Roger Bunker? pop said, and ma said, Why William, he's famous. Roger Bunker is the father of Chuckles Bunker, one of the 10 highest paid stars in Hollywood although she's only 7 years old, she said, and pop said, Oh, well naturelly. If I was an editer, I'd put a man as big as that on the frunt page if he just got his finger stuck on a sheet of flypaper,

Profession Dazed by Amazing Work of Pseudo Doctor

New York (AP) — The full story of William Renwick MacLeod the Canadian who successfully practised medicine in the United States for five years without any medical education, is even more amazing than at first appeared.

MacLeod, 37-year-old native of St. Cecile, Que., was arrested last month at the Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., Hospital where he was resident physician. It turned out he had no licence, no medical degree, nor even have a high school diploma. He was sentenced Sept. 12 to a year in jail for illegally practising medicine.

His deception had worked for almost five years without harming anybody. It was bizzarre because his dollar profits were small compared to the risk, and he worked where the risk of detection was greatest. He not only practised medicine, he married into a medical family. He worked as interne and resident physician at nine hospitals in New Jersey, New York and Connecticut during the last five years. And while a resident usually specializes in one field, MacLeod "specialized" in at least five.

In one hospital he was resident in neuro-psychiatry. In another, surgery. In another, obstetrics and gynaecology. In still another, he specialized in geriatrics, the study of old age.

Called "Good Doctor"

At the Brooklyn Women's Hospital he delivered hundreds of babies and the superintendent, Miss Miriam Watnick, said "he was a very good doctor and a nice person."

There is no indication MacLeod tried to practise medicine outside hospitals, but in every other respect he tried to live the medical life as fully as possible. He bought many medical books. He married a nurse. His father-in-law is a retired physician.

Inevitably the family came together to talk shop and there was MacLeod holding his own with experts. Mrs. MacLeod said that neither she nor her father ever suspected that her husband had no legitimate medical training.

The nurses and the doctors with whom MacLeod worked in emergency rooms, in surgery, in wards and delivery rooms, thought well of him and respected him professionally. They found his personality engaging. Patients loved the bogus doctor. One credited MacLeod with saving his life after last rites had been administered during a violent asthmatic attack.

Would Welcome Back

Dr. Ralph Richardson, chief of staff at the Bristol hospital at Bristol, Conn., said: "MacLeod was here for a month or so late last year. Generally he assisted in surgery and also delivered babies. We all like him, thought he was an excellent man and well trained. As far as I'm concerned, if he gets a legitimate medical medical degree I'd like to have him back."

MacLeod told prison officials he was born in 1912 in St. Cecile, Que., and had five brothers and two sisters. At an early age he moved with his family to Maine. It was in Maine that he fell in love with medicine and his idol was a country doctor there. He studied the doctor's medical books and all his life acquired more books and read them religiously. In this way and with his experience in the army medical corps he picked up his knowledge of medicine.

He served in the U.S. army from 1936 to 1939 with the medical detachment at Fort Totten, N.Y., as laboratory technician. He rejoined the army in 1941 and a year later was tripped up while serving as private in the medical training battalion at Camp Barkley, Texas. A court-martial gave him five years for unlawfully practising medicine, but the army took him back in 1944, again in medical work. He was discharged in 1945 and entered civilian hospitals.

Son and Heir of Peer Fined for Selling Red Lottery Tickets

Cirencester, England, Oct. 18—(Reuters) —The son and heir of a Conservative peer was fined £5 (about $14.75) here today for selling lottery tickets in aid of the communist party.

The Hon. Wogan Philipps, 48-year-old declared communist and son of the first Baron of Milford, pleaded guilty to the charges.

He had broken the law by selling five lottery tickets and distributing 15 more to people who were not members of the communist party. Under English law organizations may run lotteries for their own members only.

PICTON

Gordon W. Bailey Pays Official Visit to Chapter

Picton—Gordon W. Bailey, Stirling, Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward District No. 11, Royal Arch Masons, paid his official visit to Prince Edward Chapter No. 31, R.A.M. Monday night. There was a large attendance of members of the local Chapter and visitors from district Chapters.

A banquet followed the chapter meeting, with First Principal of local Chapter, William T. Havery, presiding as toastmaster.

The toast to the Grand Chapter was given by W. C. Hicks with response by the Grand Superintendent. Toast to the visitors, proposed by Hilton McCartney, with response by Roy Anderson, Belleville, and Harper Rollins, Stirling. J. C. Cooper proposed the toast to the candidates. Among others who spoke were Mayor W. Henley and C. G. Rutter.

Attacked by Dog

Attacked by a dog, 4-year-old Catharine Dulmage of Cherry Valley suffered five severe gashes on the head. More serious injury was prevented when the owner of the maddened dog dragged the animal from on top of the child as it lay on the ground.

The little girl had accompanied her mother, Mrs. Malcolm Dulmage to the farm of Andrew McKinley at Greenbush. She was standing in the yard, when the dog jumped up. His paws knocked her to the ground. The dog appeared to have gone mad and savagely attacked the child before she could be rescued. Dr. S. W. D. Hart attended the girl. The dog had previously not been known to be savage and had been petted by children living in the community.

Resigns Position

Kenneth Spencer sanitary inspector with Prince Edward County Health Unit, has resigned his position here to accept a similar position with the unit at Brampton. He will assume his new duties on Friday. Mr. Spencer came here two years ago.

At the meeting of the Laymen's Association of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Monday night, Mr. Spencer was presented with a farewell gift. Tribute to his services as secretary-treasurer were voiced by John Arnaud.

Plans Completed

Plans for the annual canvass by Picton branch of the Upper Canada Bible Soiety were completed this week with the holding of the annual meeting at the United Church. Rev. Hope Swayne was re-elected president with Nesbitt McKibbon as secretary-treasurer. Rev. Egerton Young, field representative, showed films depicting the work of the Society. He is remaining in Prince Edward County for ten days to attend meetings of other branches of the Society.

Head of Vice Squad Kills Self on Road

Chester, Pa., Oct. 16 (AP) — Craig Ellis, head of Philadelphia's vice squad, shot and killed himself at a lonely road near Chester Tuesday. He was under subpoena to appear before a Federal Grand Jury investigating rackateering in Philadelphia.

Ellis, 51, shot through the head, was found slumped alongside a road a short time after he had picked up in his Philadelphia office the notice to appear before the Grand Jury.

He died less than two hours after he was found.

COURT DISMISSES REQUEST

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP)— The Supreme Court Tuesday dismissed a request for a change of venue from Napanee to Picton for a new trial of James Fosbraey on a charge of murdering his wife.

Fosbraey was convicted Sept. 21 and sentenced to be hanged. Granted a new trial on grounds that trial judge erred in telling the jury it could not return a manslaughter verdict, Fosbraey claimed local prejudice would prevent a fair trial at Napanee.

The 29-year-old RAF veteran is accused of stabbing his wife to death four days after he returned from a visit to his home in England.

Import, Export Record Set at Northern Port

Churchill, Man., Oct. 18 (CP) —The Manitoba tidewater shipping terminal of Port Churchill set an import and export shipping record this season, thus bearing out a prediction that the port may soon become a shorter route by which to market western produce in Europe.

The prediction was made this spring by the Hudson Bay Route Association, staunch supporters of the Hudson Bay port.

They urged the federal government to support development of Churchill where "the vast, undeveloped areas to the west might one day become the nucleus for a separate northern province."

The association said it was time the route was seriously considered as a national project.

The record shipments were announced yesterday by the Canadian National Railways, which reported that 6,767,743 bushels of wheat cleared the harbor during the shipping season —July 31 to Oct. 4, compared with 5,527,934 bushels in 1949.

A record number of 20 vessels also cleared this season as compared to 16 last year.

Also, three incoming ships carried 2,383 tons of goods, including machinery, automobiles, glass crockery, liquor, curling stones and household goods.

In its campaign earlier this year, the association had asked the government to make a full-scale test of Churchill's possibilities as an export port by shipping 25,000,000 bushes of grain to Britain and other world markets during the 1950 navigation season.

Should Sell at Port

Western Canadian wheat should be delivered and sold at Port Churchill during each season of navigation, the association said. This would provide western growers with a net freight saving of about 12 cents a bushel as compared with shipment via Montreal.

Frank Eliason, secretary of the asociation, said the $70,000,000 federal investment has never been given a fair chance to prove itself. He listed as deterrents to the outlet's development:

1. Hull and cargo insurance rates, which determine the length of the shipping season.

2. The Canadian Wheat Board's policy of moving wheat stores from western elevators to the elevator company terminals at Fort William and Port Arthur.

3. Inadequate port facilities which limit the type of cargoes handled.

4. "Diversion charges" assessed by elevator companies on wheat stored in Port Churchill government elevator to recoup storage charges lost to their lakehead terminals.

SHAH OF IRAN WEDS DAUGHTER OF REBEL CHIEF

This closeup of Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, Shah of Iran, and his bride-to-be, 18-year-old Soraya Isfandiari, was made as they appeared at the formal betrothal ceremony in Teheran's marble palace. It will be the second marriage for the ruler of the oil-soaked country. He divorced Princess Fawzia, sister of the king of Egypt, in 1948, because of her failure to produce a male heir. The bride-to-be is the daughter of a rebel chief who led a revolt against the Shah's father in 1929. —Central Press Canadian.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

"I admit the insurance frauds," said oVorland gutturally. "Just as you describe them. But murder—no! I warned him that other time when—"

Mark Dustin came to his feet his right hand dangling. With a strangled oath he went toward Voorland his left hand knotted into a powerful first Shayne thrust him back on the couch and turned to say:

"That other time in New Orleans when he killed his first wife, Voorland? You warned him not to mix murder with fraud? You were right. That's always a mistake."

"So I told him." Voorland's voice was thick with anger. "But no! The hot-headed fool was tired of his wife. She knew too much for him to get rid of her by any other means. So, he must shoot her in the supposed robbery."

"It gets to be a habit, doesn't it Dustin. Were you tired of Celia already? Wouldn't she divorce you? You played asleep after she gave you that first sleeping tablet and heard her telephone me, didn't you? And then you slipped down the stairs behind her and killed her with a left-handed blow and left her on the sand while you hurried back up here and alibied yourself by taking three more of the tablets. What was she going to tell me, King? What proof was she going to show me?"

The pseudo mining man groaned and said harshly. "I had to kill her. I didn't want to. I'm glad it's over. I believe I'd have confessed eventually anyway. I don't want to go on living without her. I loved her. Do you understand that? I loved her."

"So you murdered her."

"What else could I do? Like a fool, I'd once mentioned Voorland's name to her in Denver When we came here to Miami Beach I pretended I didn't know him, and she remembered that after the robbery. She asked me about it after we came back from the hospital and I denied it, but I could see that she didn't believe me. So I did pretend to go to sleep, and I heard her going through my briefcase.

"Then I remembered there was a letter in it from Voorland which I had neglected to destroy. I knew she must have found that letter when she telephoned you, and I —I went crazy, I guess. I couldn't stand having her know the truth about me. I think that is really why I killed her. I couldn't stand it I tell you." He sank back on the couch. His face was suddenly the face of an old and tired man.

"It's as good a motive as most husbands have." Shayne told him sourly. He turned to Randolph and said "let's get out of here and go where the air is cleaner."

Peter Painter strutted to the telephone and called Beach headquarters. Timothy Rourke was rapidly making notes on a sheaf of papers. Walter Voorland sat erect with his hands on his knees staring vacantly before him.

Earl Randolph got up and went out the door with Shayne. They went down in the elevator together and out to Shayne's car. Neither of them said anything until they were headed across the causeway to the mainland. Then Randolph muttered awkwardly:

"I hope Miss Hamilton is recovering all right. As soon as she's well enough I'd like an opportunity to apologize and explain how terribly sorry I am about her accident."

Shayne said "let's go up and see her now. I think she'd feel better knowing it was all a mistake and that you didn't really try to murder."

"It's a shame about losing that thirty thousand of the insurance reward," Randolph mused. "The way everything has come out, you might just as well have had the entire $36,000. I'm sure you realize this proof of fraud on the part of the insured person relieves of all responsibility for paying the policy—exactly the same as though the bracelet had been recovered."

"I didn't take that into consideration," Shayne said gravely, "when I planned to hang onto my six thousand. You don't think your company will try to recover the missing thirty grand from me by charging negligence."

"I'm sure they won't attempt anything like that," said Randolph warmly "when I report exactly how I saw it disappear from your car after you had left it there in good faith. Actually, they should consider the full sum well spent," he continued, "because the way things have turned out now we will probably recover all or most of the money paid out on those two previous phony claims by suing Voorland, and Dustin—or Kendrick or King—whatever his real name is."

They were nearing the lights of Biscayne Boulevard now, Shayne tooled the car along smoothly and spoke in a musing voice:

"You're right Earl. Thirty-six grand would really be a very moderate fee to pay for evidence on which they can sue for recovery of those other policies. Yet, knowing insurance companies as I do, I'll bet you one thing."

"What's that?"

"Suppose things had gone differently this afternoon and I had worked out all the angles before I tried to buy back the bracelet. Then I would have realized we didn't need it for evidence and that whole sum of thirty-six grand might just as well be safe in my apartment right now. Just supposing that were so: I'll bet you ten to one that your company would demand the thirty-thousand back—insisting that a fee of six grand was plenty for my trouble."

"I wouldn't take the bet," Randolph said "even at odds of ten to one. They'll forgive you for losing it as you did, but they would never agree to pay out a sum like that after the job was done.

Shayne swung around the traffic circle and drove swiftly south on the Boulevard. "I'm glad," he said gravely "I had you along for a witness when those crooks lifted the money from my car. Otherwise, there might always have been a nasty suspicion that I had just pretended it was lost."

"That was lucky," Randolph agreed warmly. They were swinging around Bayfront Park now, and a moment later Shayne parked in front of the side entrance to his hotel and they got out.

He knocked on the closed door of his apartment, and was surprised to hear Lucy's voice telling them to come in.

She was seated alone in a big chair in the centre of the room, wearing a coral dressing gown and a neat bandage on her head which was almost concealed by skillfully fluffed brown hair. She smiled gaily when Shayne entered, and began breathlessly:

"Now don't scold me Mike, I feel perfectly all right. I sent the nurse home—" She stopped abruptly when she saw Earl Randolph enter behind her employer.

Shayne said: "Earl has things to say to you. Don't be too angry with him because he's paying for all your medical attention and double your wages while you're convalescing." He crossed to her and touched her pale forehead caressingly with his fingertips for a moment and then turned aside to let Randolph make his explanations.

He paused at the table to glance in the drawer and assure himself that the bulky envelope of twenty dollar bills was still intact. Then he hummed a little tune of contentment.

Sir Stafford Cripps Resigns from Office

Spearheaded Drive to Build Up Britain's Reserves

Ill Health Compels Step, Series Cabinet Changes Seen

London, Oct. 19. (AP)—Britain's economic czar, Sir Stafford Cripps, quit his senior cabinet post today.

Cripps, 61, long known as "Mr. Austerity" to millions of Britons, resigned from the chancellorship of the Exchequer he took over in November, 1947.

In that position Cripps held wide powers over the economy of Britain. He spearheaded the drive, recently successful, of building up Britain's dollar and gold reserves after the post-war slump which threatened Britain's life as a going concern.

Suffered From Ill Health

He resigned because of ill health that has plagued him several years. He has colitis, a form of digestive trouble, and returned Monday from a rest cure in Switzerland and a vacation in Italy.

Reuters News Agency said Cripps' successor probably will be Hugh Gaitskell, economic minister who has deputized for Cripps while the chancellor has been on sick leave the last 2 1-2 months. Gaitskell is due home tomorrow from financial talks in the United States and Canada.

Cripps' resignation was handed to Prime Minister Attlee in the course of a 45-minute meeting.

He informed leaders of his Bristol parliamentary constituency that he wanted to see them and a meeting quickly was called. He travelled from his Gloucestershire country home to meet his party organizers and colleagues and give them the news formally.

Changes Expected

Cripps' departure is expected to touch off a series of changes in the cabinet. There have been recurring reports that Ernest Bevin, also long a sufferer from ill health, wants to give up the foreign ministry.

Among the post Cripps has held at one time or another were ambassador to Moscow, Lord Privy Seal, minister of Aircraft Production, president of the Board of Trade, and minister of Economic Affairs.

Six feet tall, a strict vegetarian and a teetotaller, Cripps took over the exchequer post from Hugh Dalton, a long-time leader in the Labor party, when Dalton was forced to resign for divulging secrets of a pending budget. Earlier in 1947, Cripps had become economics' minister, with unusual powers in the fight for recovery. His program of work and self-denial made him a symbol of Britain's hard days.

Bold Gamble With Pound

In September, 1949, it fell to Cripps to announce a 30-per-cent devaluation of the pound, in a bold gamble to sell more goods to the United States and Canada and to earn more dollars. Cripps said earning more dollars was the only permanent solution to Britain's difficulties.

Sir Stafford has served his Bristol constituency in the House of Commons since 1931. In 1942 he went to India in an attempt to work out plans for that country's post-war independence. That mission failed, but Cripps went back to India in 1946 to lay the groundwork for partition in the India-Pakistan arrangement.

As wartime ambassador to Moscow, he negotiated the first alliance between Britain and Russia.

MILD SENSATION

Toronto, Oct. 19 (CP)—Fourteen Doukhobor women caused a mild sensation at Union station today as their train stopped briefly en route to Kingston penitentiary.

Most of the women, being transferred from the provincial jail at Nelson, B.C., were nude. One wore a skirt. Others had a bit of ribbon in their pigtails.

High Tides Tear at Florida Beaches, Walls

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 19-AP-High tides tore at the beaches and seawalls today, only a few hours after a hurricane ripped the length of the state and fizzled down to squall size as it edged into Georgia.

Three Floridians died in the blow. Property and crop damage was well up in the millions of dollars.

The force of the storm tapered off steadily from the 116-mile-an-hour punch it handed Miami at Tuesday midnight. Still it was the worst in years for many north and central Florida cities.

Today's battle scene was along the miles of east coast resort beaches. Navy men and civilian volunteers worked through the night to sandbag sea walls and ocean-front houses.

Angry sea waters already had torn away city docks and one section of seawall collapsed. Many roads were washed out or were under water.

In three South Florida counties —Dade, Broward and Palm Beach—storm damage was tentatively estimated at $5,000,000 by the chief storm forecaster, Grady Norton. He said it would rise as more complete reports came in. Newspaper estimates were as high as $8,000,000 for greater Miami alone.

Florida's big citrus and winter vegetable business was hard hit. Nearly 15,000 acres of vegetables worth more than $2,000,000 were destroyed. Grapefruit losses in the Indiana River section were mostly 30 per cent but as high as 80 per cent in one section.

Winds at Orlando wrecked a $500,000 hangar at the air base.

The storm dead were Mrs. Owen Adams of West Hollywood and two unidentified persons. Mrs. Adams was killed when the hurricane smashed her family's trailer. Her husband and four children were hurt.

One of the unidentified dead was found in the wreckage of his home. The other jumped from a small boat and was drowned. Apparently he was frightened when high winds churned up the water and tried to swim ashore.

Electrical Alarm System Tampered With on Cruise-Ship Says Witness

Quebec, Oct. 19 — (CP)—An expert witness called by Canada Steamship Lines testified today he believed a "criminal hand" interfered with the electrical alarm system aboard the cruise - ship Quebec before it burned with loss of seven lives in August.

Dr. Lucien Gravel, 43-year-old Laval University professor, told a court inquiry into the disaster of Aug. 12 he based his conclusion on a study of electrical equipment picked out of the wreckage of the C. S. L. ship.

He showed the court wet-cell battery clips, a large four-bladed switch and the carbon electrodes of five dry-cell batteries, all part of the Quebec's alarm system.

He said two of the four battery clips were fused in a closed position indicating they had been removed from the wet-cell battery terminals before the fire. The wet-cell batteries supplied power for the ship's alarm system.

Dr. Gravel said the large switch was burned and fused in a neutral position in which power would have been cut from the alarm system.

The brass screw tops that hold wires in contact with dry cells in two of the five cases were found fused in positions indicating they were loosened before the fire, the witness added.

Asked by R. C. Holden, K. C., C.S.L. lawyer at the inquiry, what his conclusions were, Dr. Gravel replied:

"It seems to me someone wilfully and deliberately put the switch in a non-working position, unscrewed the tops of the dry-cell batteries, removed two of the battery clips from the wet-cells and to add to all that saw another switch in an 'on' position and turned it off.

"It seems to me that it was a criminal hand since this modification of the alarm system resulted in loss of life and other important loss."

AUSTRALIAN BILL TO OUTLAW REDS PASSES SENATE

Legal Action May Delay Operation

Canberra, Oct. 19 (Reuters) — The Senate tonight passed a bill to outlaw the communist party in Australia.

Gov.-Gen. W. J. McKell is expected to give his assent tomorrow to the bill which has already passed the Lower House. But legal action by the communist party may delay its operation.

The Labor party, which holds a majority in the Senate, had blocked the bill for months. But it decided to withdraw opposition last Monday.

Legal representatives of the communist party plan to apply for a high court injunction as soon as assent is given.

Extension Considered

If the high court agrees to hear this it is believed the volume of evidence will delay a ruling for several months. During that time the government would be unable to implement the bill.

The government has already set up a committee of five to advise on the extension of the law to non-communist organizations and people.

Organizations named by the committee as co-operating with the communist party will become illegal and their assets seized.

The penalty for any person financially supporting "declared" organizations is five years in jail.

The bill gives the government sweeping powers to remove communists from key public and trade union posts as well as outlawing the party itself. Prime Minister Robert Menzies has said that the first "declarations" will be made "as soon as possible."

The bill empowers the governor general to "declare" a person the government considered to be engaged in activities prejudicial to defence or the maintenance of law.

It rests with the "declared" person to disprove the allegations unless he gives evidence on oath.

The Labor party held that putting the onus of proof on the individual instead of the government was contrary to the principles of justice. It has said it will amend the bill if returned to power.

TURKEY BUZZARD TAKEN

Oshawa, Ont., Oct. 19 — (CP)—A turkey buzzard with a six-foot wingspread was captured here by poundkeeper Lloyd Fowler, who said today he will turn it over to the Toronto zoo. Turkey buzzards, rare in Ontario, are usually found in the United States.

Dionne Quints Arrive in New York and Hold up Well Under Strain of Crowd Greeters

New York, Oct. 19—(AP)—Yvonne peered out of the train window and smiled broadly.

Annette smiled too, but more self - consciously. Emilie was solemn, Cecile gulped when she saw the crowd outside, and Marie seemed almost frightened.

Or maybe the solemn one was Cecile. And wasn't the one with the prettiest smile Annette?

Nobody was sure, not even their host, Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York.

The important thing was that all five of the Dionne quintuplets were holding up well under the strain of floodlights, popping flash bulbs and the pushing, curious crowds that last night greeted their first visit to New York.

"Oh, they're lovely," said a woman in the crowd.

"Ah, aren't they cute," said another.

But the fact was that the pink-cheeked, brown-eyed quintet were about as "lovely" and as "cute" as any five 16-year-old girls—in Montreal or in Yonkers.

Lights Wonderful

As for what the quints thought of New York, they said— in timid but easy English—that the bright lights were "wonderful" and they were "very happy" to be here.

But it took a little coaching by the archbishop before they would say even that.

The Dionnes, whose only other venture into the United States was in 1943, when they went to launch some ships in Wisconsin, arrived by train last night from their home in Callander, Ont.

The peeping through train windows was done while they waited for an assortment of policemen, policewomen and priests to make room on the platform so they could get through the crowd.

With them was their father, Oliva Dionne, a short, thin, dapperly-dressed man who has fathered nine other children, and who seemed calm and unimpressed by the reception.

Ten awed girls, schoolmates of the quints, came along, with several teachers, a nurse and a few Dionne friends.

First High Shoes

The quints stepped smartly—in their first high-heeled shoes, it was said—up the platform and into Grand Central Station, where 2,500 persons pressed on the ropes to applaud them.

The girls wore simply-tailored grey suits, little round blue velvet hats bright with red flowers and a grey feather, and no make-up.

The coats—all trimmed with grey fur—were alike except that each was a different color. No one but the quints knew which one had which color, so that didn't help.

Behind them bobbed a parade of the same blue velvet hats—each of their schoolmates were wearing one too.

The quints' first look at the city was a quick one—across town in a bus, through Times Square, up Broadway to Central Park, and back to a convent in the east 50s where they will stay during their four-day visit.

Stop at Cathedral

There was a brief stop at St. Patrick's Cathedral, where, after the girls had gasped at the size of the church, they received benediction and holy communion.

At the convent the Sisters of Charity, some surreptiqualy equipped with cameras, waited to greet the Dionnes in a foyer decorated with American, Canadian and Papal flags.

"They're eating ice cream now," Cardinal Spellman reported at the convent door a little later.

"Then they'll be tucked in for the night—they're pretty tired."

They were sure to be more tired after today's events, which included a rehearsal for their singing appearance at the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation banquet, a trip to a beautician, more sight-seeing, and then the dinner.

And judging from last night's reception, the vice-president of the United States, the governor of New York and the former mayor of the city will be among those present at the Waldorf-Astoria dinner.

Chevrier Hints at Possible Early Start on Waterway With or Without U.S. Aid

Ottawa, Oct. 19 (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier today announced a departmental reorganization based on the possibility of early action on the St. Lawrence waterway.

A special projects branch has been formed, he said in a statement, to strengthen the department's engineering services "in view of the possibilities of Canada being called upon at this time to take decisive action" on the seaway.

The huge power-shipping project has been hanging fire for years because of failure of the United States senate to ratify a treaty for construction of the seaway signed by the Canadian and U.S. governments.

In a speech last month at Cornwall, Mr. Chevrier declared Canada was getting impatient with the U.S. delay and indicated the Canadian government feels there should not be much more waiting —that either the U.S. should come in soon or Canada would go ahead on its own.

Today's statement by the minister indicated the possibility of an early start on the undertaking, with or without U.S. assistance.

This was emphasized by the fact that the head of the new special projects branch is Guy A. Lindsay, who has been closely associated with plans for the river project since 1930 and is chairman of the Canadian Advisory committee on it.

Mr. Lindsay has been officer in charge of engineering services in the department, and the reorganization unites that branch with the engineering design and capital construction services.

Mr. Lindsay, 56, is a native of Brandon, Man. Assistant director will be William L. Mackenzie, 55, a native of Ottawa.

Six Nations May Sell Some Land To Brantford

Brantford, Oct. 19—CP—Six Nations Indians may sell some land that was given to the tribe to keep "as long as the grass grows."

Indians on the reservation near here will vote Saturday on whether to sell a piece of land on Brantford's outskirts. The city wants to pay them about $110,000 for it and the tribe's council have recommended they sell.

The land is a section of the six miles on each side of the Grand River, from its mouth to its source that was given the Indians by treaty.

One-third of the purchase price would be paid directly to the people of the six nations, the remainder placed in trust funds held by the Federal government.

TWO ARE KILLED, SIXTEEN INJURED AT ONEIDA, N.Y.

Express Train Leaves Track, 11 Cars Derailed

Oneida, N.Y., Oct. 19—(CP)—The New York Central Railroad's "North Star" Express, with six Toronto-bound cars attached, was violently derailed here early today at a cost of two lives and 15 injured.

The fleet passenger train, roaring westward through this central New York flatland at a 75-mile-an-hour clip, hurtled the rails in the heart of Oneida. A steel freight-car door that had fallen in the path of the Limited was blamed for the wreck.

The engineer and fireman were killed. Mrs. Pearl Fine of Toronto was taken to Oneida City Hospital where she complained of pains in the head.

None Serious

None of the injured was reported in serious condition.

Maj.-Gen. G. Brock Chisholm, director-general of the World Health Organization, was a passenger on the train. Dr. Chisholm, travelling to Toronto to address a meeting of the Empire Club, was not injured. Officials of the club said in Toronto that Dr. Chisholm told them he hoped to reach Toronto by air in time for the luncheon address.

New York Central officials said five of the Toronto-bound cars were sleepers and one was a coach. The rest of the train was headed for Cleveland.

The steam locomotive and all 11 cars of the flier plunged off the tracks and tore up 500 yards of the Central's four-track main line. Traffic was rerouted over the Central's Parallel West Shore railroad on the other side of the canal.

The North Star, en route from New York to Toronto and Cleveland, was racing through this city of 11,500, located in the exact centre of New York State.

Its conductor, Paul J. Schaefer of Albany, said about 200 passengers were aboard, more than usual because of fog bound air transportation in New York city.

Schaefer estimated the train's speed at 70 to 75 miles an hour when the crash occurred at 1:58 a.m. E.S.T.

Wage Increase Asked

Windsor, Oct. 19 (CP)—The Canadian Bridge Company, Ltd., of Windsor, has been asked to give supplementary wage increases covering their 500 employees, James Forsyth, President of Local 2471 United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) said today.

The union has asked for five cents an hour more effective now, with an additional three cents an hour beginning Jan. 1 next year. Negotiations have now started.

Impertinent Mouse in Trinidad Shamelessly Sits on Trap, Eats Cheese

London, Oct. 19—AP—A mouse in Trinidad put ot shame a big industrial plant at Birmingham. The impertinent beast sat on a British-made mousetrap, ate the cheese and scampered away. The trap didn't click.

A man in Port of Spain who had paid three pence for the trap was angry. He took it to the British Trade Commissioner in Trinidad and pounded the table.

The trade commissioner could not snap it with a pencil, so he sent the trap 6,000 miles by air-mail to the Board of Trade in London. A civil servant worked all day to identify the manufacturer.

Then the trap went by post to the Board of Trade's Midland office. The Regional Technical officer couldn't make the trap snap either. He went with it to the factory.

The engineers were called into consultation. A "wire" wasn't bent just right. A touch of the pliers at the right spot was all that was needed. Now it's doubtful whether even the smartest Trinidad mouse could fool the trap.

Directors of the mousetrap company decided to put the offending trap into a glass case, and the man in Trinidad gets a new one.

"Our first complaint," said the General Manager of the firm, which exports 13,500 mousetraps a week.

Armored Columns Of Allies Blast Way From Two Sides

Thousands of Frightened Reds Quickly Surrender

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 19—(AP)—Allied armored columns blasted their way into communist Pyongyang from two sides today.

They linked up and drove toward the heart of the capital of red Korea.

Only a few snipers and other die-hard communists stood before the swift advance of the U.S. 1st cavalry division and South Korea 1st division. Behind the cavalry elements were four United Nations divisions and the Commonwealth brigade composed of British and Australian troops.

First into the city was the U.S. 1st cavalry division which had been first also into Manila and Tokyo during the Second World War. The troopers smashed into Pyongyang from the south, the republic of Korea (ROK) forces from the east.

Linking up, they occupied the east half of the capital and began pouring across the Taedong River flowing through the city's centre from the northeast.

Thousands of frightened reds surrendered.

A team of four AP war correspondents entered Pyongyang with both divisions.

"This was an easy conquest—nothing like the bitter battle for Seoul waged by the reds," reported AP correspondent Don Whitehead.

"Either the comunists had lost their will to fight for the city or else the Americans moved so fast they had no chance to group a defence force.

Held by U.S.

"The entire eastern half of the city is held by Americans and South Koreans and these United Nations forces are pouring across the Taedong River into the western half of the city with little opposition."

The Cavalry troopers won a roaring race with the South Korean 1st Division to be the first into the next of Premier Kim Il Sung's Soviet-sponsored regime.

Kim had fled.

Whitehead reported the communists dynamited two bridges across the broad Taedong, but failed to blow up a third. The allied forces streamed across the undamaged span.

A U.S. Eighth Army spokesman said today that both outfits had to battle into Pyongyang and that fighting continued. Escape roads to the north were reported jammed.

"We haven't captured Pyongyang yet, but everything seems to be going along all right," he added.

Except for the resisting red remnants, the communist capital appeared deserted by most of its 700,000 inhabitants.

Went to Huichon

Pyongyang civilians told a South Korean army spokesman that Kim and his Moscow-installed government had fled to Huichon, 80 miles north.

Pyongyang is the first communist satellite capital entered by United Nations liberation forces.

The Eighth Army spokesman said the Cavalry troopers and South Koreans ran into heavy artillery and mortar fire on Pyongyang's outskirts. The firing diminished as they advanced.

The 8th Cavalry regiment rammed across a creek on the south side and then seized intact the rail bridge over the Taedong River, which bisects Pyongyang into east and west sections.

First word of the Cavalry troopers' entry came from an American pilot, who radioed:

"They are in—they won the race to be the first into Pyongyang."

Behind the Cavalry elements were four U.N. divisions and the Commonwealth brigade, composed of British and Australian troops.

Allied commanders have said the capture of Pyongayng may signal a change in the war that started June 25 to scattered guerilla action in the mountains near communist China's Manchuria border.

TWO YEAR SENTENCE

Hamilton, Oct. 19 — (CP) — Leonard Smart, 26, who twice escaped from prison farms, today was sentenced to two years in Kingston penitentiary when he came before Magistrate Beamer W. Hopkins.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 19 (CP)—Synopsis—Warm air covers southern and central Ontario where skies are generally clear. The fog in southeastern districts will dissipate by noon today. The afternoon temperature on Wednesday reached 81 at Windsor and temperatures of 75 to 80 will be general this afternoon in southern regions. Much cooler air covers northern Ontario with early morning temperatures in the 30s and rain falling in most districts.

This cold air is pushing southeastward into central sections this morning and is expected to reach southern Ontario early Friday, accompanied by a band of rain.

SOUP-LIKE FOG SETTLES OVER DISTRICT

A heavy soup-like fog settled over the city and district last night reducing traffic speed to a crawl. In some parts, motorists and truck drivers were forced to halt at the roadside and wait until the fog lifted.

City guests of the warden's banquet held in Bancroft last night stated the fog was almost impenetrable along some parts of the highway. Speed was minimized to ten miles per hour at times.

Radio Licence Issuer Forgets About Herself

The groceryman who forgot to bring home the family's groceries had nothing on a Tyendinaga township radio licence issuer.

Yep, you guessed it. The radio licence issuer forgot to issue herself a licence.

But inspectors of the radio division of the Department of Transport are no respecters of persons and the forgetful radio licence issuer along with 15 other county residents received a summons for court appearance.

All the radio licence delinquents paid fine and costs of $5.65 — in addition to purchase of their radio licence.

Heavy Blasting On New Building Site Heard

There was shooting in the city last night and today. Shooting with dynamite that is.

Wednesday evening about six o'clock city residents heard their windows rattle along with a distinct blasting sound, which was heard in practically all sections of the city.

The blasting was on the site of the proposed new groceteria to be built on Pinnacle Street where contractors are excavating for the basement. Drill holes ten feet down into solid rock are being drilled and last evening the first of the dynamite charges were set off. Thirty to 40 holes are loaded and set off at a time, heavy logs being piled on top to prevent flying rocks.

Inkspots Defeat Sacos by 5-2 In "B" League

Fred G. Harper New President Bowling Club

Following a most successful bowling season the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club held their annual meeting in the club rooms on Yeomans St. last night with a large attendance of the members. A. E. Wonnacott, president, presided at the meeting and thanked all for their efforts during the season. "The club had a fine season," said the president. "None of the tournaments was rained out and the greens generally throughout the season were in excellent condition."

Fred G. Harper, director of the club for many years, greens chairman of last year and a source of strength to the club through the lean years was the unanimous choice of the members as president for the coming year. Mr. Harper in accepting the high honor stated it would be his pleasure to head the club and hoped that the same co-operation would be shown as was given his successor. He thanked the outgoing president for his efforts on behalf of the club.

Other officers elected were Honorary President R. J. Wray, vice president, A. E. Wonnacott; secretary Cyril McBride; treasurer Gordon Edwards; greens chairman John Shaw; membership committee chairman, Douglas Row, Corbin Cup chairman Cliff Argue, executive Ray Grant, Howard Hanton, Gerald Hyde, Orlo Smith, Claude D. Tice, Gordon Vince and Austin Watkin.

The auditors are H. A. Parker and C. B. McGuire. The president and Ray Grant were elected as delegates to the district meeting at Trenton on Monday night, while the president was elected delegate to the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association meeting in Toronto on Nov. 4th.

Club Game Winners

Harry Bailey, Orlo Smith, with Douglas Row as skip won the club trebles while A. "Red" Swayne and Cyril McBride succeeded in winning the doubles event. They were presented with miniature cups for their winning efforts. Reports were given by the different chairmen and every chairman stated this was the best year in the history of the Bowling Club.

The membership of the club was increased this year for the first time in many years and was due in great part to the work done by Doug Row as chairman and his energetic committee. The club was increased by 11 members most of them coming in as bowlers for the first time. Jerry Hyde reported for the Jitney tournaments, where a nice profit was realized. Ray Grant reported for the games committee. Cyril McBride, who runs the Saturday jitneys stated that wet weather and the holding of tournaments in other parts of the district on Saturdays had cut the attendance at the local club but withall the members had a grand time over the weekend.

Special Thanks Given

The treasurer's report was given by Gordon Edwards and the report of the Corbin committee was given by Howard Hanton. Dave Fisher and William Anderson were given special thanks for their efforts on behalf of this committee. The ladies section of the club was given special thanks for their generous donations to the men's section throughout the year. "Their effort was worth while" said the president, "and we sincerely thank the women for their wonderful help." The report on the greens was given by Mr. Harper, who stated some work would have to be done this fall but outside of that the greens were in better condition than they have been for the past three years.

May Use Trenton Greens

It was proposed by Mr. Argue that 18 entries be added to the Corbin Cup competition and that Trenton greens be utilized and that the outside greens at the local club not be used as many bowlers were complaining of their condition at the tournament last year. This matter was left in abeyance for the committee to deal with. It is the purpose of the club to purchase a power roller so that the greens can be kept in almost perfect condition. It is also proposed to use a different type of grass on the greens and advice will be sought along these lines.

The meeting was a most satisfactory one and all looked forward to another year at their favorite sport.

FIGHT FIRE 96 HOURS

Hamilton, Oct. 19 — (CP) — Firemen have been at the east end dump for more than 96 hours trying to extinguish a stubborn dump fire which started Saturday around noon. The department has been on the job 24 hours each day since Sunday, without making much headway against the persistent blaze.

Sales and Ad Club

The Belleville Sales and Advertising Club, at its second meeting of the fall season this Friday night, will have as guest speaker Mr. J. H. McQuaig, of Toronto. Mr. McQuaig has made a business of industrial psychology, and will address the club on the reasons why men buy and the techniques of influencing human behavior in selling situations.

Mr. McQuaig graduated from Queen's University with a Bachelor of Commerce degree, had six years direct selling experience, served three years in the Canadian Army and took his Master of Arts degree at the University of Toronto.

His business at the present time is acting as consultant to Canadian corporations on the selection and training of salesmen. Mr. McQuaig's topic for Friday will be "Psychology in Selling."

The meeting is at the Quinte Hotel at 6.30 p.m.

Mayor Allin Presents Key To Premier

Premier Leslie M. Frost in the city on Tuesday for the official opening of the new Prince Charles public school took back to Toronto with him a permanent reminder of his visit to the city.

At the conclusion of the official opening ceremonies in the auditorium of the school the Premier was presented with a key to the city by Mayor H. Jack Allin. Accepting the key from the city's chief magistrate, Premier Frost thanked Mayor Allin and spoke in glowing terms of the hospitality for which Belleville is noted.

Stewart-Warner TV Dealers View 1951 Receivers

Stewart - Warner television dealers throughout the Central Ontario region had a pre-view of 1951 television receivers Wednesday night at a special dealers' meeting held at the Hotel Quinte. Six different televison models, as well as new radio receivers were set up for display.

The dealers' meeting was sponsored by the Big A Company, wholesale distributors for Stewart-Warner and about 50 dealers from the district from Bowmanville to Prescott were in attendance. In all over 100 persons, including service men and salesmen were present.

The meeting was addressed by C. C. Scott, sales manager for Stewart-Warner, while members of their engineering staff explained the special features of the new television receivers. Mantel models, consolettes and console models were on display.

One of the interesting features of the meeting was the performance comparison of early television models with that of the 1951 models.

Crow Gets Studious

Hobbs, N.M., Oct. 19 (AP) — There's a studious crow hanging around the Hobbs Junior High School. And you might say he gave Deloris Asplof the bird.

Her teacher, Ray Gerfin, tells this one:

Deloris dropped her pencil in a seventh-grade mathematics class. Hardly had it hit the floor before Mr. Crow swooped in an open window, snatched the pencil and made off.

RED IS FINED

Cagliari, Sardinia, Oct. 19 — (Reuters) — A Sardinian court has jailed a communist for 10 months for spitting on the altar of the local church. Giovanni Puddu was stated to have forced his way into the church after the parish priest had refused to accept a communist godfather at a baptism.

Harper McElrath Heads Strong Senior Hockey Executive at Meeting Held at the Arena

The nucleus of a Belleville senior hockey team was rounded into shape last night at the Arena, when about 50 men showed up to get things rolling. Spearheading the move were Harper McElrath and Frank Grandame, and appropriately enough, their names grace the executive sheet.

The executive elected were: — president, Harper McElrath, vice president, Frank Grandame, treasurer, Perry Everett, secretary, Jack Dall. The group elected eight directors to aid the executive in making decisions. The board, as elected, stands as Ken Smith, Walter Bent, Al. Wardhaugh, Ross Schryver, Harry Fenn, Reg Wardle, Bram Humphreys, and G. A. Daugherty.

In addition, all those at the meeting last night who were not elected to the executive or the board are to be considered members-at-large of the club, if they so desire. A list was kept of those present.

President McElrath said that the team would not have "any hookup with any plant or organization in the city", and the object of the group would be to get anyone and everyone interested in hockey to help promote the deal. "We're entering from scratch", he said, "and we'll need more money this year, because we'll be in faster hockey."

Welcome Suggestions

The executive would welcome any suggestions, he continued, with regard to means of raising money.

No move was made to name the team, although it was thought that there would be a reversion to the old Belleville colors of maroon and white or red and white. In that case, the team would be known either as the "Belleville Maroons' or the "Belleville Redmen".

"All the players from last year are still registered as Belleville Diesels, but that name will not have any place in the organization this year," Mr. McElrath said.

The filling of the team manager's slot was left for the executive to decide before formal application for entry is made to the OHA. The matter of coaching was brought up also, and no definite decision was made. Any rumors that Walter Bent, a new member of the Y.M.C.A. staff here, would be the coach were scotched by Mr. Bent himself.

Cannot Act

"I am not the coach of the Belleville senior hockey team", Mr. Bent said. He stated that he had been approached on the proposition, but that with his "Y" work, he felt he could not handle it. "I just wanted to make it public that I have not accepted the position," he said.

Other matters discussed were player insurance and trainers, again with no definite decision being made.

The executive seemed pleased with the spirit shown, and will carry on where they left off last night with a meeting this Sunday at 2 p. m. at the arena.

Despite the fact that the schedule starts in a couple of weeks, Mr. McElrath seemed confident that Belleville will be able to show the opposition a few things. "It's still problematical what players we will have available", he said, "but it looks as though we will definitely be in a position to ice a fairly strong team."

No Criminal Cases At Assize Court

A total of seven jury cases, and 10 non-jury cases are listed for trial at the Fall Assizes commencing at the Hastings county court buildings on Monday, Oct. 23 before the Honorable Mr. Justice Ferguson.

There are no criminal cases listed on the court docket.

All of the cases to be heard before jury, one of which is settled, are damage claims arising out of highway accidents. One of the non-jury cases is an action Elliott vs. the school trustees of S.S. No. 5 Thurlow township. There are nine divorce actions.

Langley's Close Plant Because Of Labor Trouble

Toronto, Oct. 19 (CP) —One of the three dry-cleaning plants operated by Langley's Ltd., will be closed because of a two-week strike of about 175 employees, G. B. Henning, general manager, said today.

The employees, members of the Cleaners and Dyers Union (AFL-TLC) struck Oct. 4 at the Spadina road plant, demanding a wage increase and union security. It is this plant that will be shut down.

Mr. Henning in a statement said that the company's other Toronto plant on Danforth Ave., the 25 other stores and its Hamilton plant will continue operating.

He said the decision to close the plant, established 40 years ago, was made by the board of directors yesterday after "every attempt to settle differences (with the union) had failed."

"Recent publicity releases by the union infer that the rate of pay at Langley's was very low. The conciliation board, established to assist in settling this dispute found 'that the earning of the employees are comparable with the highest in the industry with the exception of one or two classifications.

The average hourly wage of all female employees was 73 cents; of all hourly-rated male employees $1.07; of male and female pressers $1.60 an hour.

Originally the union asked for a 10-percent increase, union organizer Douglas Hamilton said the negotiating committee decided to drop the demand for union security and that, finally, a wage difference of only two cents an hour separated the company and the union.

The company statement said Langley's was willing to sign a new agreement based on the majority report of the board of conciliation.

The report recommended a two-cent hourly increase for new employees and a seven-cent raise for silk spotters.

Learns Lesson in Law

Brantford, Oct. 19—CP— A "barracks room" lawyer received a lesson in regal procedure here Wednesday.

Evidence given in court was that when police ordered a concessionaire to close up at the fair at nearby Burford, ferris-wheel operator Sam Arrigo of Toronto, told the concessionaire to keep open, saying he (Arrigo) "knew the criminal code" and it would be all right.

Wednesday Arrigo pleaded guilty to a charge of obstructing police and was fined $25 or 30 days.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Oct. 19—(CP)—Trading was dull with prices mostly steady at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts reported by the Dominion marketing service were: cattle, 230; calves, 20; hogs, 280; no sheep and lambs. Left from yesterday 800 cattle, mostly stockers and plain killers.

Common to medium heifers sold at $20.25 with good cows $19-$20.50. Common to medium stockers brought $22-$26.50 with a few good stockers at $27-$28.50.

Calves were steady at $30-$32 for choice vealers with common to medium $19-$29.

Grade A hogs brought $29.50 with sows $24 dressed.

There were no sheep or lamb sales.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Buffalo, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP) — Cattle 200; good holstein cows 18-19; good dairy type heifers for slaughter 21-23; good weighty sausage bulls 23-25.

Calves 100; good and choice handyweight calves 36-37; one load of good Canadian calves cleared at 35.50; culls to medium 25-29; strongweight bobs 25-27.

Hogs 650; good and choice hogs 18.50-21.50; good sows 16-19.

Sheep and lambs 100; one small bunch of medium ewe and wether lambs cleared at 26.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 19—(CP)—Steels pulled industrials to new price peaks for the fourth successive day on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The entire market opened higher with Industrials and Base Metals setting new index highs but Base Metals soon began to sink and Industrials settled slightly.

Steels were strong with Algoma, Atlas, Canadian Car, Dominion Foundry and Canadian Iron Foundries touching 1950 highs. Papers, recent big gainers, held the industrial board back with losses up to a point.

Golds were the most active issues in the market. Junior producers showed a wide list of gains up to 20 cents. Many of the more selective issues which have traded slowly for weeks were in heavy demand. Lomega and Lake Fortune traded briskly for small gains. Lake Fortune's activity was attributed to news of the Western Mining Company's buying oil property. Senior producers were mixed

A handful of base metal leaders chalked up gains to 20 cents. Consolidated Smelters, Labrador, Normetal, Sherritt Gordon and Steep Rock advanced.

Western oils were mixed with gains and losses limited to pennies.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, Oct. 19 (CP)— Produce prices quoted on the spot market here this morning:

Churning cream: No. 1, truck price 55 cents, delivered.

Creamery prints: First grade, 58 cents.

The egg market supplies were ample for requirements with demand particularly strong for medium and pullets this morning. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: Grade A large, 67; A medium 56-57; A pullet 46-47; grade B 43-45; grade C, 29-30. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 70-71; A medium 60-61; A pullet 50-51; grade B 46-51; grade C 33-34.

Butter solids: First grade 56 cents, second grade (nominal) 53 cents.

DOLLAR RATE

Montreal, Oct. 19—(CP)— The market rate for United States funds as reported by the Bank of Canada at noon, EST, was $1.05 7-16. Yesterday's noon rate was $1.05 17-32.

The pound sterling was quoted at $2.95 1-2 against $2.95 5-8 yesterday.

Cabano Rebuilt Mayor is Proud Of Restoration

Cabano, Que., Oct. 19—CP—It will be a warm, comfortable winter for the people of Cabano, little Temiscouta County lumber milling town wrecked by fire early in May.

The May 9 fire, believed to have been started by sparks from a mill chimney, destroyed 116 homes and wrecked many of the commercial establishments in the town of 2,500.

Today the 116 homes have been re-built and additional buildings have gone up.

Not all the houses are complete—interior finishing work still has to be done in a lot of them. But all are habitable and by the time snow comes to this part of Quebec next month everyone left homeless by the conflagration will ge snug behind new walls.

Cabano's young mayor, Emilien Morin who took the leading role in the re-building arrangements, says the work is far ahead of schedule.

Mayor Morin said the job Cabano has done is one to be proud of. While it has gone far ahead with its home rebuilding, the town has also treated itself to a new 500-seat theatre.

Cabano also has a new drug store, a new restaurant and pool hall, a new ladies' apparel shop, a new photography studio, a new general store, a new butcher shop and a new business and apartment block.

All are attractive modern buildings.

The new homes, though built quickly, also are modern and comply with government building standards.

LOOK FOR TAXIMAN

Toronto, Oct. 18—(CP)—Police said today they are searching for Bob Smith, a taxi driver of suburban Weston, who disappeared with his cab late Wednesday night.

Police said Smith had not been seen since he left the office of the Zone Taxi on Main Street, north of Weston, at 11:45 p.m.

CAMPBELLFORD

'United Nations Can and Must Succeed' Mrs. Marjoribanks Tells Home, School Assoc.

Campbellford — "The United Nations can and must succeed", said Mrs. W. W. Marjoribanks of the United Nations Society in Canada, in her recent address to the Home and School Association. "In order to succeed," continued Mrs. Marjoribanks, "the support of every democratic citizen in Canada is needed. It has been said that the League of Nations failed the world, while in reality, the world failed the League of Nations. If the public were in possession of facts, and had access to knowledge of the enormous responsibilities under the heading of the United Nations, we could not but be amazed and impressed with what has already been accomplished."

Mrs. Marjoribanks recently returned from a trip to Flushing Meadows and Lake Success, and held the interest of her audience throughout her talk.

The security council and the general assembly are the two governing bodies of the U.N. In the security council, a majority vote is not sufficient, and the power of the veto, so frequently used by Russia, regularly brings matters to a standstill. In this way Russia has an effective way of destroying the plans of other countries in dealing with atomic energy and international policy.

60 Nations in Council

In the general assembly, 60 nations meet. It is an open forum, where all nations have a voice and the majority decides. Each nation is allowed five delegates but only one vote, and is the nearest thing to world parliament. The headquarters for the general assembly are located at Flushing Meadows, and may be reached by a limousine which leaves Canadian headquarters at the Biltmore Hotel in New York. There is also a regular bus to the security council headquarters at Lake Success.

The vastness of these headquarters is realized in the knowledge that Lake Success was formerly a large war plant, while Flushing Meadows was part of the World Fair. The speeches may be heard in any language by turning a dial to your choice. Interpreters work simultaneously with the address, and because of the strain of rapid translation, their endurance is only fifteen minutes. The staff of Lake Success is composed of some 5,000 people, each nation having its own quota of staff. At the end of the huge assembly hangs a blue velvet curtain upon which a world atlas is designed, and each of the 60 nations represented is indicated by a tiny light.

Much Good Being Done

Close observation will reveal that through separate departments, much good is being done. Economic and social council of the world, acts as a "family doctor," who in turn refers different matters to "specialist" departments. Some of these departments are the World Health, International Refugee Organization, World-Wide Child Help, and International Labor League, which is the only remaining part of the old League of Nations.

To promote better understanding among Canadians, Mrs. Marjoribanks recommended that every village, town and city have membership in the United Nations Society. Such united strength could do much in furthering the aims of Canada's representatives.

In conclusion, Mrs. Marjoribanks said, "Pray for peace, but get up off your knees and work for peace."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. W. Stephens, who also presented Mrs. Marjoribanks with a corsage. Thanks of the Home and School Association were expressed by Mrs. Harold Pierce.

Under the direction of Dr. Betty Bright, the Glee Club presented a group of folk songs, with Mrs. W. Clark as soloist.

Mrs. J. Cowell, convener for Parent Education directed attention to the interesting topics to be discussed on Citizens' Forum, heard each Thursday at 7.45 over CBC.

Two layettes were distributed, which upon completion will be sent to aid European child welfare. The meeting concluded with a lunch served under the direction of Mrs. J. Herd.

Dairying Gives High Returns

Ottawa—Surveys made in the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, show that the cash income from the sale of dairy products is greater than the revenue from any other agricultural product with the exception of wheat. If the returns from the sale of dairy cattle for export and slaughter are included, then the total cash income from dairying exceeds that of wheat and approximates 25 percent of the total cash income from farming.

Another point that is often overlooked when considering dairying in the national economy of Canada, is the part that the dairy animals themselves play in home and community life in helping to put agriculture on a more permanent basis.

While no one particularly likes doing chores, most farmers become attached to their animals and they soon become a part of farm life They serve also to give children an understanding of life that proves invaluable to them and through their calf clubs boys and girls are given an opportunity to learn sound-farming practices, and what is more important, to become good Canadian citizens.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotarians Hear Splendid Talk On Banking

Campbellford—Rotarians heard a very interesting talk on banking in Canada given by Rotarian Austin Putnam, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada at the Monday luncheon meeting.

Mr. Putnam said that commercial banking in Canada is under constant evolution to keep it up with the times. In order to keep the Bank Act abreast of the times, it is reviewed and revised every ten years. The first Canadian bank was opened in 1817 and received its charter in 1822. From that time until the 1880's, the number of banks increased until there were 46 chartered banks in Canada. Since then, failure and amalgamation has reduced the number to ten. Only one chartered Canadian bank has failed since 1914.

The services offered by the banks are many. The first and most obvious one is to provide a safe yet accessible place for keeping money. It was pointed out that 94 per cent of all business in North America is done by cheques. In order to keep funds to meet the demands of business, banks must keep 5 percent of their deposits in Bank of Canada notes. The balance is invested in bonds, loans or other securities as allowed by the Bank Act.

Loans Important Phase

Loans to customers are an important phase in banking. It is necessary for the bank manager to loan money without accepting too great a risk. He must give the maximum of accommodation with the least danger.

In addition to these facilities, the bank offers safekeeping services, collection of notes and drafts, sending of remittances, travellers' cheques, safety deposit boxes and so on.

Canadian banks are owned by 51,000 shareholders, of whom 71 per cent are Canadians.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Frank Linton, and thanked by Rotarian Ross Richardson.

Seven Men Drowned In Australian Flood

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 19 — (Reuters) — Seven men were drowned today when a torrent of foaming flood water swept them over the 400-foot sheer face of the Burrinjuck dam in Southern New South Wales.

They were employees of the water construction commission who had been working on the dam's superstructure.

CUSTOMS HAUL

London. (CP)—British customs officials during the year have seized more than 32,000 articles ranging from a pound of tobacco to a haul of 8,000 watches.

CAMPBELLFORD

Ronald Hazell New President Kinsmen Club

Campbellford— Kinsman Ron Hazell's elevation to the presidency of the Campbellford Kinsmen Club was greeted by a mass turnout of members and guests to enjoy a chicken dinner at the Trent House on Monday night. Rev. A. E. Toombs of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the guest speaker. Rev. Toombs was introduced by his colleague, Kinsman Rev. Jim Ritchie of Warkworth. Rev. R. Duncanson of Norwood was also on hand for the occasion.

Rev. Toombs told from personal experience of the vast change in Oriental life now, compared to what it was before the war. After the war Japan lost much of the haughtiness it had back in 1937. Mr. Toombs told of the plight of the Japanese during his trip in 1947. Defeat in what had brought with it hunger, and adults and children alike steal onto boats in Yokohama harbor and steal bread and garbage. On many of the boats, the garbage is saved until the boat docks, rather than throw it into the sea. Mr. Toombs went on to describe many types of people found in the Orient, and of the poverty, that was evident everywhere. He said that he believed the wealth of the west should be shared with the east, if better understanding was ever to be achieved. Money could be raised for war purposes for the east while finance for food and clothes still went begging.

Vote of Thanks

Kinsman Forrest Dennis moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Toombs on behalf of the Campbellford club, and R. Smith spoke on behalf of the visitors.

Plans are proceeding for the Hallowe'en Shell-Out party, and Kinsman Harry Ayrhart and Forrest Dennis agreed to canvass the merchants of town for funds for the party to be prepared for the children of the district. The party will be held at Edgewater Park Pavilion. Citizens are asked to buy Shell-Out tickets from the children, for which prizes will be given for the greatest number sold. The funds raised in this way, will assist in financing the party.

Girl Remanded On Plea of Guilt In Armed Robbery

Brockville, Oct. 19—CP—Shirley Elizabeth Walsh, 20, of Toronto was remanded for sentence to Oct. 25 when she appeared in court here Wednesday on a charge of armed robbery.

Arrested in Toronto on Monday, she was brought here by provincial police. She pleaded guilty.

She and two companions were accused in the holdup some 18 months ago. The two men, Fred Estwich and Alan Macdonald, both of Toronto, now are serving five-year terms in penitentiary for the offence.

They held up Thomas Curry, local taxi driver, robbed him of $50 at the point of a revolver and forced him to drive them to Ottawa.

BEAVERS MOVING BACK

Peterborough, Oct. 19 — (CP) — Beavers are moving back into this district, but sportsmen are not letting on just where the animals are settling, just in case someone might want a beaver hat. The colony already has built a 75-foot long dam, and are busy raising it for a decent-sized pond.

SENSE OF GUARDIANSHIP

A dog's sense of duty and responsibility is no fiction of a dreamer. It is a fact which has been established as well as any fact of nature. There may be a vicious dog now and then but the great mass of dogs possess that sense of guardianship which has come down the countless ages since man first "civilized" the hungry dog at the door of his tent.

The other night there was an accident in which a man lost his life while riding in a friend's car. In the confusion following the accident, a collie which had been in the car with its owner, was overlooked. Hours later a newspaper photographer visiting the scene found the dog settled on guard in the wreckage of the auto. Its owner when he learned of the finding of the dog drove the long trip back to the scene to look after the faithful animal.

Dogs and humans have been living side by side. For ages dogs have been watchdogs in very truth, guarding the property and the lives of their owners and their owners' children.

The first dogs are of course believed to have been wild. It is thought that when human settlements rose, the progenitors of modern race of dogs were led to the vicinity of the encampments of primitive mankind by the urgency of hunger and that man learning more and more of the dog took him in. From that prehistoric scene outside an encampment in the Middle East where civilization is believed to have risen has come one of the great facts of life even today, the loyalty of the dog to his master, his readiness to run all dangers to have his owner or any of his family, so much attached to human beings has the dog become.

Nature gave or developed that spirit of loyalty which guarantees the household pet a place for ages yet to come by the fireside of the family to which he belongs.

To see evidences of canine loyalty is one of the inspiring facts of life. Fortunately in all the progress of man upward he has kept near him a group of animals which have been associated with the human race since primitive days, not only the dog, but the cat, the faithful horse, which man developed from a very small animal into all the species known,, draught horses, thoroughbreds, ponies and wild horses as well as swine, goats and sheep. Of all these man is the master but yet they have contributed much to the rise of civilization.

Through this age-old association with man, the animals have had to bear a great deal of the burden of humanity, the dog first in hunting, the horse in lifting the weight of work from man's shoulders, the sheep furnishing wool and meat and the cattle which have given milk and flesh to young and old in the centuries of civilization.

This dog which kept guard over his master's car though it was wrecked is a symbol of what man's kindness to and his association with the dog all down the ages have meant to men, women and children.

OLD FASHIONED CUSTOM

It has been brought to the attention of the Windsor Star that there has been an important change in customs. Young couples do not elope today.

"It suddenly struck as," says the newspaper that "one seldom hears of an elopement nowadays. It recalls the old type of romantic escape—the romantic elopement of the past involved a ladder to the maiden's window. Through it she would crawl with beating heart and an inadequate trousseau surreptitiously packed in a little bundle.

"She would descend into the hungry arms of her beloved. They would canter away on horseback. Or ride off in a carriage, a whip applied to the horse's flanks so as to put as much distance between themselves and the young women's parents as fast as possible."

A middle-aged minister told the Windsor newspaper man he never had an elopement. The reasons are given why the old style has given place to the present day style. "Young people make up their own minds. Parents recognize their right to do so. Parents may wish their son or daughter had married some one else, but they are unable to do much about it. After all young people have their own lives to live and should have some say about whom they wish to live with."

There is a factor today which would put an end to elopements even if they lasted to this time. It is that there is such a vehicle as a motorcar in which a maiden and her admirer could jump or there is the new means of travel, the airplane, by which they can fly. Such vehicles could never be overtaken until too late.

LAMPLIGHT

Time was the home was lit with lamps, with fancy ones on chains,
And little lamps, and bedroom lamps, and lamps for men of brains.
Then those were known as "student lamps," and who to learn, would toil,
And sit up late at night to read was burning "midnight oil."
I knew them as a little boy, and looking back I'd say
That something soft and beautiful with lamplight passed away.

We once had lamps to bear about, not prisoned to a wire.
Who carried one from room to room was warned: "Beware of fire."
And when at night he went outside, the wood or coal to bring,
The boy went gladly to the task. A lantern he could swing!
'Tis strange the way the memory clings to much that once was done.
To be allowed to light a lamp I used to think was fun.

Today a button small is pressed and every room's aglow.
Lamp chimney's now nobody shines, a task I used to know.
Our children haven't seen a lamp and maybe never will;
The wick of which I had to smooth; the bowl with oil re-fill.
It is a brighter life they know and surely safer, too,
But lamps gave home a touch of charm that bulbs can never do.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE CAN'T DESTROY TRUTH

Lloyd George, the doughty Welshman who as prime minister guided England through the first World War, was speaking one evening in a hall in Wales when a brick crashed through the window and fell at his feet. Lloyd George, internationally known as a wit, immediately stooped, picked up the brick and holding it aloft dramatically exclaimed, "Behold the only argument of our opponents."

What a pathetic outfit those people are who believe that they can stone or beat or persecute truth out of existence, Of course, they do not persecute it as truth, but as error. If, however, it is error, God will see to it that it perishes and passes away. A mistaken idea may hold up for a while, but eventually it disintegrates and disappears. If an idea is sound, sticks and stone will never drive it from the face of the earth; and if it is unsound, all the king's hores and all the king's men could not make it stand after people have had a chance properly to appraise it.

If the only argument you have against an idea is a brickbat, a curse, or a cynical remark, just keep it to yourself. Truth is not driven from the earth in any such fashion. If we try such methods we do not hurt the truth; we only reveal the shallowness of our minds and spirits.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Down in Maine there is a famous dealer in outdoor equipment by the name of L. L. Bean. He is known to the sporting fraternity all over the contintent for his outdoor clothing, boots, camp equipment of all kinds, and has been writen up in the Saturday Evening Post and other publications.

In his latest catalog for Fall, 1950, Mr. Bean, who started the business in 1912, and has made it grow into a million dollar enterprise, gives the following particulars:

"Everyone is welcome to call at the Factory. We have no dealers, no branch stores, no restaurants, no cabins, in fact no other business interests. We are open as follows:

"January and February, 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. (Week days only).

"March and April, 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. (Seven days a week).

"May 1 to December 31, 24 hours a day. (Sundays and holidays included.)"

You might suppose that this catalogue was dated back in the 1890's. That is the way the stores were in our grandpa's days, 7 a.m. to 9 p.m., providing no further customers were gathered around the box stove. Perhaps nowhere else in the world, let alone in America, is there another factory and store that stays open 24 hours a day from May 1 to December 31.

It may partly be due to the fact that the customers are sportsmen, who work harder at sport than they would at anything else, and who expect people to serve them regardless of the hour of the day or night. But apart from that, Mr. Bean has not permitted success to sissify his working hours. In the catalogue, he is described as President and Treasurer, a nice combination.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE WELL NOURISHED MIND

It is easy to detect undernourishment of the body. We have but to walk down the street and see many an example. It is not so easy to detect this undernourishment of the mind, without contact with it.

The well-nourished mind is a happy one. Its health is exuberant, kindly, sympathetic, filled with gaiety and poise. A few minutes of contact with such a mind is evidence enough of its health. And you are inspired by its flow of good will and understanding. The mind that gives vent to bitter talk, to uncalled-for criticism, to meanness and idle gossip, is a mind that is ill nourished.

For the body to be healthy a carefully balanced diet is essential. It is no different with the mind. People who think good thoughts and books that instruct and inspire, and who look upon all the beauty of this earth, and upon all the beauty that man has created, certainly cannot help but have a healthy mind, and one well nourished.

We can over-eat, even though the food may be well selected, but we can't over-learn! The wisest one who ever lived left off on life with a multitude of things unlearned. But anyone can live happily with a well-nourished mind, one that anyone would gladly contact.

No one can have a well-nourished mind without God in it, for He it is who gives to us the substance of hope, faith, courage, humility and the desire to be useful and helpful to others. He is the staff of life to the mind and to the soul, as well. God furnishes to the mind every element essential to its well-being and happiness.

People with a well-nourished mind don't needlessly quarrel, they don't find fault, they are not cynical, and they rarely complain, if ever. On the contrary, they are forever giving out cheer and forever inviting others to partake of the things that have brought comfort and happiness to them.

MacKenzie's Column: Wave of Unrest Caused by Hatred Of Imperialism

By Dewitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Much of the mighty wave of unrest which is sweeping Asia has its basis in a factor which a lot of people overlook—hatred and fear of imperialism.

The Asiatic countries either have an overpowering urge to be free of the apron strings which bind them to an imperial "mother country," or having cut the strings, they are afraid they again will become enmeshed in colonialism.

Communism naturally finds this unrest a fruitful field for operations, and is going all out to inspire and aid revolutions. However, the fact remains that broadly speaking many—perhaps the majority—of the rebels are impelled by their desire for independence rather than by any virtue they see in Bolshevism.

Background of Effort

This, I take it, is the background of the American effort to persuade France to give a greater hand to the governments of the three new Indo-Chinese states — Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. These states are aiding the French in battling the comunists led by Gen. Ho Chi Minh, who got his training from Moscow—and things have been going badly for the States.

As might be expected, the communists are making a big play with the charge that the French are bent on reimposing colonial rule. In order to counter this, the United States has been urging that the French raise the three states to the status of equal allies.

There is no point in trying to bolster up any tottering colonialism in Asia. The day is past when a "mother country" can impose her will on the people of an entirely different race.

Fear Imperialism

Still, fear of a recrudescence of imperialism is always in the minds of the Asiatic peoples. We have a specific example of this in the rebellion in French Indo-China. That is communist-inspired, to be sure, but it gets its impetus largely from the propaganda that France is trying to restore her colonial hold.

Paradoxical though it seems, this fear of imperialism may in the long run be an aid to the democracies in keeping Asia from succumbing to communism. For communism is the last word in imperialism.

U.S. Considers Emergency Ban On Building

Washington, Oct. 19 (AP) — Despite forceful objections from the building industry, the United States government today considered an emergency ban on the construction of race tracks, dance halls, bowling alleys and other amusement spots.

New moving-picture theatres and night clubs might also be included, but officials of the national production authority said the scope of the proposed order remains to be worked out. Its aim is to save materials for munitions.

The move would be a stiff blow to the already tottering building boom. Severe limitations on private real estate credit and federal home financing were imposed last Thursday, and a limitation on commercial construction credit—affecting store and office buildings—is expected to follow.

Strip-Tease Wardrobe Stripped of G-String

Hollywood, Oct. 19—(AP) — Georgia Lee, a striptease specialist, hardly knew what to wear today.

Somebody broke into her car while she was gone yesterday, Miss Lee reported to police and stripped her of all her working equipment—including G-string.

HOW TO GAIN WEIGHT

If a person accustomed to eating a certain amount of food per day, increases his intake of food appreciably over a period of days or weeks, he will register a gain in weight.

As a general rule, the statements of undernourished individuals to the effect that "although they eat like horses they cannot gain weight", are unreliable. These folks do not intentionally mean to misrepresent the facts—they simply do not understand what adequate eating is.

Most underweight persons have variable appetites. That is, their appetite for dinner may be fair but they may have no appetite for breakfast. "Eating like a horse"—to them—means eating perhaps a fair amount of food for dinner and little or nothing for breakfast and lunch.

As a matter of fact, a great many underweight persons seem to pride themselves on the fact that they eat no breakfast. And, without much urging, they will also tell you that they eat a very dainty lunch. If you are still listening, they usually follow through with quite a tale about eating a large dinner. What many of these folks consider a "large" dinner, is simply not enough to sustain one's normal weight and energy for a day.

Hunger is a perfectly normal state. Everybody should be hungry who is in normal health. But, unfortunately, there are extremes. Very slight hunger—or put it another way—lack of appetite—may be due to the development of certain disease states, as may the other extreme — insatiable appetite or hunger.

Extremes of appetite may exist in the absence of organic disease as the result of habit. But often these habits are formed as the result of preconceived convictions as to what the requirements should be—convictions which are at odds with the established facts. What constitutes adequate nutrition is not a matter of conviction but one of fact.

As forcing food, in the absence of a good appetite, is a very unpleasant task, any underweight person who is lacking in appetite should undergo a physician's examination. The correction of underlying defects often creates a great change or improvement in appetite.

The only way to gain weight is by eating more food. There can be no quibbling about that. To be sure, certain foods may be more "fattening" than others — but anything classifiable as food is fattening.

Fat—either in the animal or vegetable variety is the most "fattening" of all food principles. Underweight persons invariably suffer from inadequate fat intake. An increase of fat in the diet of an underweight person not only creates added weight by the deposition of fat in the body, but increases the energy and feeling of well-being of the individual.

Normal weight, or weight above normal, is in itself not an absolute indication of adequate nutrition. Many persons who rate as "normal" or above in weight averages, suffer from nutritional deficiency—in vitamins and minerals.

The person who needs to gain weight should stop trying to deceive himself and others about how much he eats. The chances are that he doesn't eat enough regardless of what he says. A person who eats enough in all classes of food to provide adequate nutrition for himself, and who nevertheless is below or underweight, undoubtedly is suffering from some illness and as such should be under a physician's care.

It is not a bad idea to begin with—that of placing oneself under a physician's care when the need for gaining weight becomes apparent.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Children Need Whole Milk

Sister gives her children powdered skim milk, insists it is just as good as whole milk, which she thinks is too fattening. (Mrs. N. C.)

Answer—It is only one-half as nourishing as whole milk. Whole milk, fresh, evaporated or powdered, is not "too fattening" and children need the fat, the vitamin A, the vitamin D, which are contained in the fat or cream, not in skim milk. Skim milk, however, is good wholesome food, one-half as nutritious as whole milk, all right for some grown-ups instead of whole milk, but not a fair deal for children.

Bursitis

Is bursitis as dangerous as arthritis? Can you suggest a remedy or treatment for it? (S. C. W.)

Answer—Inflammation of a bursa is not dangerous at all. For acute bursitis injection of the bursal sac, under local anesthesia, may give prompt and lasting relief; for chronic bursitis (of more than a few weeks' duration, surgery may be the best treatment, and this should be done before atrophy and adhesions incapacitate.

Most of Million Dollar Estate Left to Church

Toronto, Oct. 19 (CP) — Col. John Bayne Maclean, founder of Maclean-Hunter Publishing company, left an estate of $1,039,802, it was disclosed Wednesday night.

His principal bequests are to the Presbyterian Church in Canada, three rural schools in Ontario's Wellington County, the University of Western Ontario at London and Upper Canada College in Toronto.

Col. Maclean, who was a Presbyterian, died Sept. 25 at the age of 88.

He left $100,000 to the University of Western Ontario, directing that the net income be applied toward establishment of a chair of health or preventive medicine the name and memory of his friend the late Rt. Rev. M. F. Fallon, Roman Catholic Bishop of London. Bishop Fallon died in 1931.

The sum of $10,000 to be paid to Upper Canada College in memory of his son, the late Hector Andrew Fitzroy Maclean "To assist in furthering the instruction of pupils in matters of health, good morals and fair play earning a good living, saving money and rendering public service."

Legacies totalling $53,500 are provided for members of Col. Maclean's personal staff.

The residue of the estate goes to the Presbyterian Church as an endowment fund to:

1. Maintain and develop properties at Crieff, Ont., 45 miles southwest of Toronto, where Col. Maclean, son of a Presbyterian minister, was born.
2. Augment the salary of the minister at Crieff.
3. Assist the schools in that area.
4. Provide bursaries for promising students in those schools and enable them to attend the university of Western Ontario or Ontario Agriculture College, Guelph.

Any surplus to be used for the general purposes of the church.

Col. Maclean for many years took an active interest in the manse, church and townsfolk of Crieff, which was settled by Highland Scots.

Petition Warning Possible Revolt Awaits Farouk

Alexandria, Egypt, Oct. 19—(Reuters) —A petition warning of a "nationwide revolt" awaited King Farouk when he returned home today from his tour of European resorts and casinos.

Farouk's yacht, Pride of the Seas, steamed into the harbor without fanfare. Farouk himself had asked for no celebration.

His return home was in marked contrast with the "gladiator's welcome" given to his premier, Nahas Pasha, when he returned recently from a health trip to Europe.

Farouk was expected to receive Nahas Pasha and members of his cabinet later today.

The petition warning of a possible revolt was submitted by all opposition parties Tuesday.

"The public's patience has come to an end," it declared.

"We are afraid a revolt will take place in the country which will not only destroy those who are unjust but will leave the country in a state of financial, moral and political bankruptcy."

HARBOR BEING DREDGED

Burlington, Oct. 19 — (CP) — Dredging of the harbor here is under way and 2,400 yards of sand have already been dumped for an extension of the bathing beach. Word of the discovery of a silver bracelet brought several treasure hunters out behind the dredge.

Assembly-Line Autos Damaged Says Ford Co.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 19—(CP)—Charges by Ford Motor Company of Canada of apparently wilful damage to assembly-line autos by its workmen were scheduled to come before a meeting today of officials of the company and the Ford Local of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.)

The meeting will discuss the two-day shutdown of Ford passenger car assembly lines which made some 3,000 employees idle Wednesday.

Rhys M. Sale, company president, said the shutdown was forced following an "unusual number" of defects in auto trim and paint work, apparently "caused deliberately." Finished cars had accumulated in factory yards awaiting refinishing before they could be shipped.

Production would not resume on the auto assembly line—the only part of the Ford plants affected—until the number of cars in the yards was brought to normal, Mr. Sale said. Production would probably resume Friday, he added.

Statement Embarrassing

Mr. Sale's statement was "embarrassing" to present company-union negotiations, a spokesman for U.A.W. local 200 said. The local represents more than 11,000 Ford employees.

"Union officials don't know who's doing this but we wish they would stop it," the spokesman said.

George Burt, Canadian U.A.W. director, said he could "hardly credit" Mr. Sale's statement.

"I wish he'd spend more time at the bargaining table and find out what it's all about," Mr. Burt remarked.

Today's meeting may bring out disagreement on the interpretation of seniority clauses in the present collective bargaining agreement as they affect layoffs. The clauses have not yet been tested by any major layoff since the contract was signed last May.

Disagree On Clause

The union is seeking to have seniority applied on a plant-wide basis when men are laid off. The company feels it should be applied on a departmental basis.

The more recent issue of wage increases remains to be settled. Wage talks broke off recently when the company and union failed to reach agreement on union demands for across-the-board increases to meet rising living costs.

Offer by the company of a five-year contract containing immediate wage boosts, annual increases bonus was rejected by the union as a "half-price offer." The union demanded pay increases of 10 cents hourly for all production workers and an additional five cents an hour for skilled tradesmen and foundry workers.

SONG-WRITER DIES

London, Oct. 19 — (Reuters) — Arthur Frank Tate, 70, author of the popular song "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," died here Tuesday night after a long illness.

Tired Aching Tender Feet

Your feet may be so tender and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture; you'd give anything to get relief.

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil after a good hot foot bath and in 15 minutes the pain and soreness disappears.

No matter how discouraged you have been, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn. Get a bottle today at Doyle's Drug Store or any good drug store.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. S. Charlton, North Front Street, have returned home after attending the wedding of the[illegible]phew in Chicago.

• • •

[illegible] James Arbuckle arrived [illegible] yesterday after spending the past month in Wetaskiwin and Edmonton, Alberta.

• • •

Mrs. D. B. Bowerman, Peterborough, and Mrs. McKim, of California, spent a few days recently, the guests of Mrs. Wilmot Bailey.

Twelve Friends Present Departing Neighbor With Gifts

On Tuesday evening last, 12 friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Curry, 23 Stone Street, where a surprise party was held in honor of Mrs. Thomas Coon, who is leaving the city in the near future to make her home in Trenton.

The evening was spent in euchre and a social get-together. Following the euchre, the hostess on behalf of the assembled guests, read an address, and Mrs. N. Bartlett, assisted by Mrs. Wilson Tanner, presented the guest of honor with a basket of useful and lovely gifts in token of the esteem in which she was held by her immediate neighbors. Mrs. Coon, though completely surprised, expressed her appreciation for their good wishes and the tangible tokens of these wishes.

Refreshments served by the hostess and assistants, brought the evening to a close.

WEDDINGS

JACKSON—ABRAMS

Harrowsmith Free Methodist Church, decorated with ferns and large baskets of asters, was the scene recently of the wedding of Alice Abrams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Abrams, Holleford, and William Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jackson, Belleville. In a candlelight service, Rev. E. S. Bull officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Rev. Mr. Casement, Verona, was soloist and sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden", before the entry of the bridal party and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white taffeta with net yoke, long sleeves coming to points over the hands. The long skirt was gracefully caught in front. The fingertip veil was held with a crown effect headdress of pearls. Her flowers were pink roses and yellow 'mums.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Kenneth Ball, was attired in pink with matching hat and veil.

The bridesmaids, Miss Bernice Abrams, sister of the bride, wore a gown of gold, and Miss June Arnie wore light blue. Both wore white flower headdresses. Flowers of all three attendants were roses and baby breath.

The groom's brother, Keith Jackson, was best man. The ushers were Ralph Abrams, brother of the bride, and Jack Nevery, Toronto.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. Ball, Verona. The bride's mother was dressed in green with a corsage of bronze 'mums. The groom's mother chose grey and wore white 'mums. Friends of the bride serving were, Miss Doreen Ryan, Hartington, Miss Mavis Orser, Holleford; and Mrs. G. Duffy, Verona.

For going away the bride chose a grey suit with brown trim and brown accessories. After a trip to Lyons Falls and other American points the couple will take up residence at Belleville.

MYATT—HENNESSEY

A pretty wedding took place on Saturday, Oct. 14, at 2:30 p.m., at Christ Church, Belleville, when Marie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hennessey, R.R. 5, Belleville, became the bride of Albert Myatt, son of Earl Myatt, and the late Mrs. Myatt, of Picton. Rev. J. B. Creeggan officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her wedding gown of white nylon embossed with velvet, featuring a fitted bodice with long sleeves and full skirt. Her full length veil flowed from a pearl headdress and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Jean Hennessey, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, becomingly attired in blue taffeta, and carrying a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mr. Bruce Reynolds was groomsman, and Mr. Ellis Hennessey, brother of the bride, and Mr. Leverne Smith, ushers.

Miss Loretta McDougall rendered "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love" with Mrs. Ledingham at the organ.

Following the ceremony, the wedding dinner was served in the parish hall by members of the Guild, convened by Mrs. W. Kempston, to forty guests.

The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a string of pearls. The groom's gift to the groomsman was a pen and pencil set and to the ushers, cigaret lighters.

For travelling to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride wore a British blue gabardine suit with navy accessories.

Upon their return the couple will reside in Picton.

MADOC

Oakdale Entertains Havelock Rebekahs

Oakdale Rebekah Lodge, Madoc held their regular meeting last Friday evening when forty members of Dorcas Rebekah Lodge, Havelock, were their guests. Other distinguished guests included Sis. Vera Graham, Tweed, District Deputy President of Belleville District No. 4, who was escorted and introduced by Sis. Hilda McGowan, P.D.D.P., also Sis. Anderson, of Golden Nugget Lodge, Timmins, and several visitors from Tweed and Thomasburg.

During the evening, the degree team of Dorcas Lodge conferred the degree on two candidates in an impressive manner. The charges were well given and the floor work well done.

Sis. Graham, D.D.P. spoke briefly as did the N.G. of Tweed Lodge, Sis. Anderson and others.

Dainty refreshments were served in the newly-decorated dining room which brought another enjoyable gathering to a close.

POPULATION INCREASES

Fort William, Oct. 19 — (CP)— The population of Fort William has reached a record of 34,409, it was announced Wednesday by W. Paul Simpson, assessment commissioner. This represents a gain of 228 from last year.

St. Thomas' W.A. Holds Autumn Tea

Tall baskets of russet-brown oak leaves, golden calendulas, and white chrysanthemums adorned St. Thomas' Anglican Church parish hall yesterday afternoon for the dainty autumn tea and sale of home cooking, sponsored by St. Thomas' Woman's Auxiliary.

The gracious receptionists, Mrs. Arthur Smith, and Mrs. S. Connolly received the guests at the door. After being most cordially welcomed, the hospitality hostess, Mrs. Austin Smith, ushered them to the delightfully appointed tea room with its appropriate autumn theme carried out in colors of gold and rust. In the windows, between the maple leaf appliqued curtains, were white baskets of yellow marigolds; while on the little quartet tables which ranged around the cheerful room, more tiny bouquets added to the charm.

The tea table, with its silver bowl of mauvey-pink baby 'mums, flanked by tall candelabra with flickering, mulberry-colored tapers, and gleaming silver services on a cream Madeira cloth, was presided over by Mrs. J. Chant, Mrs. G. R. Beamish, Mrs. A. Ketcheson and Mrs. A. Lewis.

Those serving included, Mrs. J. Clarke, Mrs. K. Atwell, Mrs. H. R. Gibson, Mrs. J. Watson, Mrs. W. Saunders, Miss Lois Gorman, Mrs. J. Cummings, Mrs. F. Clarke, Mrs. J. Mastine, Mrs. F. Bromfield, Mrs. L. Denyer, Mrs. M. Rose, Mrs. S. Collins and Mrs. H. Arnott and those in charge of the tea arrangements were Mrs. H. Code, and Mrs. J. Mastine, while the treasurer was Mrs. W. D. Saunders assisted by Mrs. H. Dillnutt.

Dainty Cakes, Delicious Candy

The home cooking table and candy table, both bore out the autumnal colors of scarlet and gold. The home cooking was convened by Mrs. B. G. Wilkinson, assisted by Mrs. R. Bogle, Mrs. S. Morton and Mrs. B. Feather, while Mrs. R. W. McBride, Mrs. B. Feather, Miss Bate, Louise Pitt, Sheila Pitt, Molly Bucans, Joyce Hanna, Barbara Brown, Lorna Donaldson, Sheila Kells, Eleanor Clarke, had charge of the candy table.

Both tables were tempting in their array of good things to eat. On the home cooking table, inviting homemade bread and buns, small cheeses, lemon, apple, raisin, and pumpkin pies found ready buyers, as did the luscious cakes with their attractive icings and nut toppings. There were also little individual mine pies, hermits, Christmas puddings, reminding all that Christmas was just around the corner; jars of wild grape jelly, and mouth-watering jelly rolls.

The candy table displayed a variety of 'sweeties' including white and green divinity fudge, chocolate fudge, maple creams, and homemade taffy, some in cellophane bags, others in little green, yellow, and pink butterfly baskets. All found ready purchasers. This table was under the auspices of the Girls' Auxiliary and complementary to the home cooking table.

A dainty tea, pleasingly arranged and successfully culminated.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

Meat packers didn't bother weighing pork a hundreds years ago.

A prospective buyer would look over the number of barrels of meat, estimate how many acres of ground they covered, and make his bid accordingly.

Although pork is no longer sold by the acre, it has consistently remained the best buy for generations.

On cold days, roast pork, pork chops or pork balls will tame the most wolfish appetite.

Because of its mild sweet flavor pork should be well seasoned with sage and crushed whole pepper.

When you grind your own pork you are sure of its freshness and can control the amount of lean and fat that you prefer.

Pork balls can be more easily browned if they are broiled rather than pan friend. The ground meat can be shaped with little difficulty if it is cold rather than at room temperature.

Ground beef or veal may be substituted for pork in today's recipe.

Pork Balls—Serves 4.

Have 1 pound fresh pork shoulder put through the meat grinder. Season with 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon ground sage, 1-4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper and 2 tablespoons grated onion.

Add 1 egg slightly beaten. Add 1-4 cup fine bread crumbs and 1-4 cup tomato juice. Mix well. Shape into balls about one inch in diameter.

Place pork balls in a shallow pan. Place under a moderate broiler flame. Brown well all around.

In a saucepan ,melt 2 tablespoons fat. Remove from flame. Stir in 2 tablespoons flour. Gradually add 1 cup hot, undiluted canned consomme. Add 1-4 cup tomato juice and 1-4 cup water. Return saucepan to flame. Add meat balls. Cover with a tight lid. Simmer over a small flame 1-2 hour.

Skim off any fat from surface of liquid. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add brown gravy color if desired.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, envelope for his reply.—Ed.

Christmas Party Early

Clinton, N.J., Oct. 19 (AP) — The local chapter of the Women of the Moose is holding a Christmas party tonight.

Mrs. Carrie Melville, senior regent, explained today the party is being held in October because everyone is too busy to go at Christmas.

Presto Music Club

The Presto Music Club was entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Locke, 52 Bridge St., E. for their monthly meeting on Monday last.

The following miscellaneous program in charge of Mrs. C. H. MacDonald, was greatly enjoyed by all.

Vocal, "Homing", by Del Riego, Margaret Robbins; vocal, "Let us Break Bread Together", A spiritual arranged by Wm. Lawrence, Loretta McDougall; vocal, "Love's in My Heart" by Woodman, "I Dunno-" by Wells, Ann Davidson; piano, "Hungarian Rhapsody" by MacDowell, S. Alec Gordon; vocal, "When I Was Seventeen", a Swedish melody arranged by Kramer, Lee Riedel; vocal, "Sandman", a German folk song arranged by LaForge, "Into the Night" by Edwards, Margaret Hillis and piano, "Scherzo in B Flat Minor" by Chopin, William Connor.

ONLY FALSE ALARM

Port Colborne, Oct. 19 — (CP) — Corky Eden, a volunteer fireman, in nearby Humberstone, raced to his own house Wednesday to answer a fire alarm. It was one time he didn't mind when it turned out to be a false alarm.

Doris Veale is the attractive young lady whose distinctive piano and organ stylings brighten so many Toronto homes at noon throughout the week. When she isn't weaving melodies, Doris has a yen for interior decoration.

Mrs. Shirley Wassell, 23 Algonquin Ave., Toronto, is a busy young homemaker who finds that household tasks are lighter—making meals is more fun—when she can keep her radio tuned to Doris Veale's sparkling tunes.

"Doris Veale plays the piano and organ the way I wish I could play," says Mrs. Shirley Wassell. "I always listen to her when I am getting lunch ready. Then I keep the dial at 1010 so I can hear Wes McKnight give the news (at 12:30) and later listen to Perry Mason (1:00 p.m.). My husband and I agree—CFRB has more of our favourite programs than any other station!" You'll find your favourites, too, on CFRB—1010 on your dial. All times mentioned are Toronto time.

Benefit Dance In Community Hall Ne[illegible]$246.10

[illegible]ford — The Frankford Community Hall was filled to capacity Friday night, attending the benefit dance held for Ted Ashby. At 11, Ted was brought into the hall on crutches, and was presented with $150 from his friends in Frankford, Stirling and District

The hall was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and flowers for the occasion. The committee who planned the dance has submitted the following statement: Total receipts, dance and donations were $246.10.

The committee wishes to thank all who attended the benefit, and all who helped in making it a big success. Several assisted in the decorating, taking tickets, selling tickets, checking coats [illegible] other jobs. A special "thank [illegible]" to the ladies who donated the refreshments, including Mrs. Rankin, Mrs, Babcock, Mrs. Osterhout, and Mrs. J. Casement.

MAY BE WEALTH IN GARBAGE

Toronto, Oct. 19 — (CP) — There may be buried wealth in Toronto's garbage cans, thinks street commissioner Harold Bradley. He persuaded the Civic Works Committee Wednesday night to pay $250 a month for a survey by the Ontario Research Foundation to find out. There may be recoverable chemical wealth in such items as the 60,000 tons of paper that the civic incinerator destroys yearly, he said.

Miss M. Boyd, Hospital Dietitian, Tells of Work Involved in Serving Meals

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was held at the Ritchie Memorial Residence on Tuesday afternoon, with Miss Ivy Dickens, president, presiding.

Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas season ball which is anticipated with such pleasure by the citizens of Belleville. It was decided to buy a new oxygen tent for the hospital, a much needed addition to their equipment, as well as radio with earphones for the patients' convenience.

Mr. Wakefield extended an invitation to members of the Auxiliary to be guests of the hospital at a luncheon to be held there on Tuesday, November 21st., preceding the regular monthly meeting. Members should notify Mrs. Seibert within the next week of their intention to attend this function.

Following the business meeting, Miss Boyd, dietician of the hospital and graduate of Toronto University, gave a comprehensive picture of what is involved in serving a thousand meals every day—600 patient meals, many of them special diets and 450 cafeteria meals to nurses and staff.

Kitchen Equipment

From the main kitchen, six electrically heated thermostatically controlled food trucks supply the six ward kitchens from which trays are served and carried to the patients' rooms. Work in the kitchen is carried on despite the handicap of an inadequate, poorly functioning coal stove utilizing valuable floor space and only furnishing three hot ovens and four warming ovens. There is no provision for broiling, and to cook chops on top of the stove preparation must commence at nine a.m.

The four Moffat electric ovens intended for baking desserts are frequently used in the afternoons for preparing the main supper dish since the coal stoves do not supply adequate heat after being cooled off by the demands of the morning cooking.

Menu planning is thus limited to the patients' choice of a supper hot dish, a salad plate or a sandwich. Even such a small choice has proved acceptable, although a more selective menu would be desirable.

Many improvements have been made in the department including a new meat slicer, tenderizer and meat saw, enabling meat buying by the carcass.

Employees have been outfitted with new uniforms and a new salad preparation table with inset chopping boards, is being built by the engineering department. The kitchen has been painted and a booster added to the dishwashing machine making air-drying of the dishes possible.

Additions Still Required

Among the additions still required for an efficient up-to-date kitchen are new stoves, more extensive refrigeration, proper bake ovens and vegetable steamers, a modern formula room, new compact, closed-in, cold food carts and a new Hobbart mixer for preparing desserts in one batch instead of two or three. A larger kitchen is required to facilitate preparation and supervision and a larger cafeteria than the ten by twelve foot room where 20 or more employees now eat.

In the dietary department there are now thirty employees servicing the ward kitchens, cafeteria, diet kitchen, bakeshop, main kitchen and cleaning. Each month two student nurses learn to prepare and serve special diets and the technique of infant formulas. Plastic dishes now used, although economical from the standpoint of breakage replacement, leave much to be desired since the cups stain readily and no compound used so far has been effective in removing the stain without affecting the taste of the beverage.

Mrs. Wray thanked Miss Boyd for her interesting talk. Delicious tea was served by Miss Potts and the student nurses.

INJURIES FATAL

Oshawa, Oct. 18 (CP) —Harry Harker, 63, of Millbrook, Ont., near Peterborough, died today of injuries suffered in a traffic accident at nearby Brooklin Saturday night.

Police said an automobile driven by Harker was in collision with a Colonial Coach Lines bus at the intersection of Highways 7 and 12.

London Hat Show Has Global Theme

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP) —Travel and the glamor of distant lands provide the theme of a hat show given by Aage Thaarup, the Royal milliner.

China, Burma, Tibet and Siam all lend their inspiration to Thaarup's autumn show, entitled "Round the World in 35 Minutes."

The global trend starts with a flower girl bonnet in hand-knitted black astrakha, intended to suggest the flower girls of London's Piccadilly Circus.

Scotland is represented by Glengarry bonnet fur felts of gay tartan greens with magnificent cockades. One has a flaming brush of tangerine osprey, the other an elaborate natural feather mount.

Pagoda Bonnet

Denmark, a natural stopping place for Danish-born Thaarup, leads the way to the eastern countries. One example is a Burmese Pagoda bonnet in black velvet with pointed crown encircled by thin bands of gilt beading. Decorating sprays of tiny temple bells suggest the tinkling measure of a temple dance.

China comes next with an enormous black velvet coolie hat, edged with tiny gold tassels, and Iran inspires a black jersey turban-swathe with cheeky double swirl of soft topaz paradise plumes set high above the temples on a stiffened jersey mount.

The show then soars into the planetary regions with a Mercury cup in hand-knitted, black-and-white candy stripes. Above a peak-brim, folds of material suggest a visor, topped by two mercurian wings in black patent leather.

Most glamorous hats in the collection are those designed for ritzy New York backgrounds.

Princess Margaret, who sometimes attends the hat shows was absent on a Scottish visit. "We shall probably make a little Scottish cap to remember her," said Thaarup.

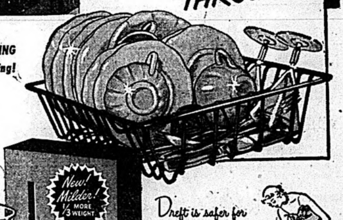
and YOU'RE THROUGH!



Amazing "FLOATAWAY" action SAVES WASHING—WIPING—SCOURING
Yes! Dishes and glasses shine—even without wiping!

It's true! New self-washing Dreft practically washes the dishes for you. You simply let dishes stand in warm Dreft suds for 2 minutes—give a swish of the cloth as you rinse—and you're through. You'll see your dishes and glasses shine—even without wiping.

These self-washing suds save washing, save wiping, save scouring. In fact, while Dreft is washing your dishes you can be doing other things . . . like putting the food away in the refrigerator, or sweeping the kitchen floor.

Even pots and pans soak clean without scouring. That's because Dreft's amazing "Floataway" action gets under grease . . . floats away grease as no soap ever could. Even stubborn grease rinses away without scouring.

Yet self-washing Dreft is one of the mildest suds in the world. Leaves hands beautifully white and soft. Try new self-washing Dreft today. Your dealer has it.

New! Milder! 1/3 MORE WEIGHT

C.N.R. Engineer Not Uninterested In News, He May be Missing Heir

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 19 — (CP) — If Arthur Plunkett of Vancouver will drop a letter to Debrett's, England, including full particulars, the chances are his name will appear in the next Registry of Britain's titled families.

The 3,000-word, red-and-gold registry, published annually for two centuries under the title Debrett's Peerage, goes to press in six weeks. If the 64-year-old railway engineer can establish before then that he is the missing heir to an ancient Irish peerage, his name will be entered alongside 100,000 other members of the aristocracy.

Cyril Hankinson, editor of Debrett's, said today he is convinced from Canadian newspaper reports that Plunkett really is next in line to a peerage created by King Henry VIII, but he still needs proof.

"I'm writing him today," Hankinson said, "asking him to forward details of his relationship to Harry Edward Plunkett, who is still shown in our records as next-in-line to the peerage."

(In Vancouver last night, Plunkett didn't seem too excited about it all. "I know all about it, but I'm on my way to work and have not got time to discuss my plans," he told a reporter.

(Plunkett, who works for the Canadian National Railways at Port Mann, 15 miles from Vancouver, did take time to deny reports he isn't interested in the title. "That's all wrong," he said, adding that he'll explain the facts later.

(Plunkett, who was born in Winnipeg, said his father moved to that Canadian city in 1886.)

Hankinson also has received a report saying that Harry Edward Plunkett was a lighthouse keeper on Lake Winnipeg before his death 40 years ago.

"If that is so," Hankinson said, "it will mean Arthur Plunkett is the first lighthouse keeper's son ever to appear in Debrett's."

Hankinson said a letter addressed simply "Debrett's, England," would reach him.

Freighter Arrival Recalls Escape

Montreal — (CP) — When the 9,200-ton Lidvard came into harbor recently from Australia she was just another ocean ship to the casual onlooker.

But to those who know her history — and particularly the Norwegians — she symbolizes a merchant marine that refused to be beaten.

It was the grey-hulled Lidvard that risked enemy shore and undersea fire to become the only ocean-going freighter to escape from the African port of Dakar after the fall of France in 1940.

The Lidvard was in Dakar discharging a cargo when police of the Vichy government ordered her impounded. Believing the Norwegians would attempt an escape if the ship were left intact, the police had some of the vital engine parts removed.

A few of the crew were left aboard including Chief Engineer B. J. Mordal, one of the most resourceful men in the Norwegian merchant marine.

Substitutes Parts

While the Vichy police were off guard, he and other members of the crew made replacement parts from scraps of metal left about the ship.

Then Mordal went to the Dakar authorities and asked that the parts taken away be returned long enough to turn over the engines to keep them from rusting. The police agreed.

There wasn't much time, while soldiers kept guard about the ship, but Mordal and his men managed to switch the original parts with those he had made. And the police took ashore the substitute parts without knowing the difference.

A few nights later the crew moved the Lidvard out of Dakar under cover of darkness. When her absence was noticed the next morning a fleet of submarines and escort ships went after her.

Two days later the Lidvard was sighted by one of the pursuers but the Norwegian freighter succeeded in out-running her. The Lidvard skipper, meanwhile, had sent out an urgent appeal for help. It was answered by a British naval craft and the Lidvard was escorted to another African port where she later joined the Allies in the Atlantic service.

FAMOUS RESORT BURNS TO GROUND

The three-year-old Muskoka Beach Inn dance pavilion burned to the ground in spite of the efforts of 300 residents of Gravenhurst and Bracebridge. Damage to the pavilion known to thousands of travellers and summer cottagers, was estimated at $100,000. Lightning is believed to have started the blaze. — Central Press Canadian.

Painting of Nudes Kept Out of Sight

London — (CP) — For more than two years, Wandsworth council has been grappling with the problem of what to do with its controversial picture, "Triptych in Blue."

Valued at $6,500, it was given to the borough by a Czech artist, Eugen Hersch, in gratitude for hospitality extended after he escaped from the Nazis during the war.

Measuring 24 ft. by 12 ft., it shows 12 unclothed young men and women cavorting on the grass, some of them dancing.

When the council accepted the picture it was insured for £2,000. But council members were in sharp disagreement where to put it.

Some insisted it was a major work of art and should be given a place of prominence in the town hall or one of the public libraries. Others argued it was too indecent and undignified for public display. Certainly, it could not go to a library where children would see it.

So for more than two years the picture has remained in secluded nook of a seldom-used town hall corridor. It is protected by a dust-sheet and the door to the passageway is usually locked.

When public functions necessitate use of the corridor, the dust-sheet is pinned down securely to hide the charms of the prancing dancers from prying eyes.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

EX-PRISONER

John Longmore calls himself a "down-east Yankee," but he has the soft voice and inflection of the southerner. When he talks of going for a vacation to Bar Harbor he calls it "Baw Hawbaw." The accent is peculiar to this county in northeast Maine.

He is a fourth-generation American. His great great grandfather came to the United States from England to work in an iron foundry in Maine. The family has remained in this farthest-east corner of the States. John's father lives just up the road from his son and operates a camp for deer-hunters.

John began to teach at the high school in the small town of West Pembroke, but something happened in 1936 that changed his life.

"A pawty of huntuh's was stayin' at my father's place," he recalls. "They were all executives of the Massachussets Mutual Life Association. As of an evenin' I'd go into theah cabin and chew the fat. Apparently they liked mah appearance because they offered me a job. Looked like a big thing foah a little country boy. I accepted an' went off to the head office in Springfield.

He was there for nine long years and went up the ladder.

"In 1945," he says, "Ah was supervisor of the annuity group an' practically assistant manager of the instalment group. Dorothy and I were married in 1939 an' we had everythin' we could want. Theah was just one thing against it all. I wasn't happy. I was mis'able."

The memory of this period agitates Longmore. When he was telling us about it he strode up and down the kitchen with his long arms flapping like a heron and his Adam's apple working furiously.

"The Massachusettes Mutual head office is in a great brick buildin' with baws on the windows," he said. "Bells would ring foah when we were to stawt work and when we were to quit. Then we'd all file out of the buildin' an' I'd look back over my shoulder to see those baws again, waitin' foah me in the mawnin'. It was like Sing Sing. I was like a caged buhd.

"But what really decided me was an old fellow worked a couple of desks away from me. He'd been with the firm 50 yeahs. Oh, Massachusetts Mutual was proud of 'im. I'd sit theah, lookin' at him across the filin' cabinet, an' I'd think of a little pine grove I know where I liked to go an' listen to the wind and watch the partridge struttin' around. An' I'd look at this old man all bent over and with pains in 'is stomach an' I'd wonder if that's how I was gonna look. So one day I jus' decided I'd leave.

The Painter

It wasn't only restlessness, but a creative urge, that decided John Longmore to make a gamble. Here Dorothy, his wife, takes up the story.

"Johnny had spoken of how he liked to draw when he was a boy," she said, "and so, for our first wedding anniversary I bought him some oil paints. He was like a kid at Christmas. . ."

"I high-tailed it foah the cellaw and stawted painting," John interrupted.

"He didn't come up for eight hours," Dorothy laughed. "And he was defeated. He could still draw, but he was sure he'd never learn to paint because he knew nothing of mixing color or technique. So we got him into an art school and Harriet Lumis, one of New England's best-known artists, saw his work. She decided he had talent and began to instruct him personally."

Within three years John's work, which is rigidly traditional and leans heavily to rural scenes of Maine, began to be accepted in the Springfield art galleries and he started to sell a few at $35 each one large canvas, birches against an autumn background, brought an astonishing $100.

"Johnny knew then what he wanted to do," Dorothy went on. "He wanted to paint and to be back in this beautiful country. I knew that he'd be happy no other way. We heard of this little place for sale near his father's, just one room then, but with 145 acres of lovely ground, and we took all our savings and bought it in 1945. Johnny walked out of the Massachusetts Mutual and the bars on the window for the last time. It took all the courage he had, but now we know we did right.

"Each summer we go back to Springfield for a visit, and all the people in the office come around and they envy us. They say, 'Oh, wouldn't I love to do that.' "

"They all do, fo' a fact," John said. "Even that po' old geezer that's been wukkin' theah for 50 yeahs, 50 weeks every yeah."

Many Jobs

The Longmores are still a long way from having the time or the money to live the idealized life they dreamed about. John rarely finds the time to get before his easel.

Their income, which is about half of what John made in the insurance company, comes from a number of sources. He teaches grades five to eight in the town's grammar school at an annual salary of $1675. He might be making more if he would accept a job at the high school, but that, he says, would be like going back to Massachusetts Mutual.

"They want me to teach six subjects and coach the baseball and basketball teams as well," he said. "I don't want to get in deep again."

Some money comes in from the three tourist cabins, which John built himself. Dorothy takes care of these, partly because of the chance it gives her to meet new people. "I love to walk down the road to meet them," she says. "You never know what's going to be waiting for you."

John also plays the violin in a four-man orchestra called The Down-Easters, which he organized and which specializes in barn dances. There's some revenue, too, from pulpwood cut on his property and from blueberries, which the whole family pick and sell to canners in the district.

"We run jus' slightly in the red," John says, "but we're on our way. One of these days I'll have life time to get to mah paintin' and maybe a minute or two when I can sit down an' put mah arms around mah wife."

It's her story I'd like to write tomorrow.

BROWNS SAVE SMITHS FROM ICY LAKE SIMCOE WATER

DR. W. EASSON BROWN MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH SMITH

After clinging for three hours to a float of their wrecked seaplane in icy Lake Simcoe, Ont., Dr. W. Easson Brown of Toronto and his wife were rescued by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith of Big Bay Point. Mrs. Smith saw the couple clinging to the pontoon and she and her husband tackled the rough water in a small boat to go to the rescue. The plane, though equipped with pontoons, had nosed over when struck by a wave after Dr. Brown was forced by engine trouble to come down on Lake Simcoe. — Central Press Canadian.

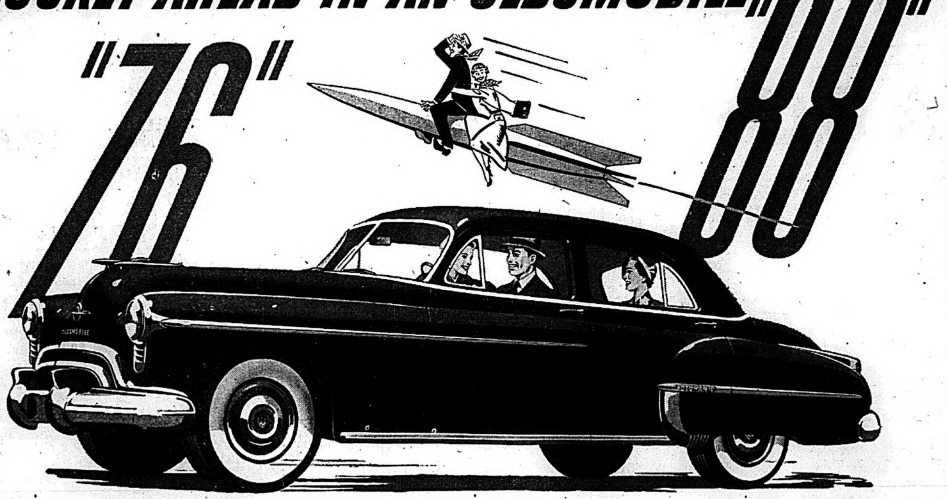
YOU'LL BE YEARS AHEAD WHEN YOU ROCKET AHEAD IN AN OLDSMOBILE "88"



A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

JUST NATURALLY, the car that started first, is the car that's ahead right now in the march of motoring progress! Yes, Oldsmobile, brings you the benefits of its extra experience in such revolutionary advancements as Hydra-Matic Drive*—the pioneer no-shift drive that's finest because it was first in the field, and has been proved and improved through actual billions of miles of driving in the past ten years!

The great new Oldsmobile "Rocket" Engine is another first from the continent's most experienced car maker. Pioneered two years ago, it has already started a major automotive trend toward valve-in-head engines of much higher compression—but the "Rocket" is by far the greatest because it's first, it's backed by many more years of research, development and perfecting!

And all through every model of the 1950 Oldsmobile "88" and the "76", powered by its improved "Big Six" Engine, there's example after example of Oldsmobile quality leadership...advantages that come to Oldsmobile owners because Oldsmobile, the car that was first in the field of all cars made on this continent today, has the good habit of keeping the lead!

So, go ahead—go years ahead—with an Oldsmobile!

*HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE... the truly automatic drive that outmodes the clutch pedal entirely! Proved by billions of miles of driving since Olds pioneered it more than 10 years ago. So simple, so relaxing... such a thrill! Standard equipment on Rocket-Powered Olds "88", optional at extra cost on "76" 6-cylinder models.

North Newfoundlanders Lay In Supplies for Long Winter

Raleigh, Nfld. — (CP) — The people of northern Newfoundland and Labrador are preparing for the long winter months of isolation.

In little villages such as this on the northernmost tip of Newfoundland, fishermen will be locked in by icefloes. They are laying in supplies of food and fuel to last them until next April or May.

When the ice comes in, it surrounds Raleigh on three sides, and then all transportation is by dogteam or snowshoe. Supplies cannot be sent in except by plane, so to survive the freeze-up, the village has to stock up in advance.

The villagers' diet for the winter months usually is bread, potatoes, turnips, cabbage, salt meat and salt codfish. The fare is relieved by the occasional seabird or seal killed by the fisherman's vicious, muzzle-loading shotgun.

Small coastal schooners and steamers are now busily freighting supplies to the northern ports and transport is expensive. With his meagre finances, the northern Newfoundlander has to figure his needs most carefully, almost down to the last grain of flour and the last spoonful of molasses.

But now things are bought. The flour, molasses, oatmeal, hard biscuit and other essentials are sailing northward to be stored. A hundredweight or so of salted codfish is reserved for the fisherman's own use before the catch is sold to the merchant. Cod traps and trawls are being stored away until the next season rolls around. Potatoes and turnips are being dug out of the rocky soil and everything will soon be battened down.

Within the next six weeks or so, communications will end with Raleigh and its neighboring communities of Milan Point, Carpon Cove, Ship Cove and Cape Onion.

Miss Moira Watson of Toronto, spent the weekend at her home in Madoc.

Rev. L. W. Scott, United Church minister of Shannonville, had charge of the morning service in Trinity United Church, Madoc, on Sunday, while Rev. J. F. Lane pastor, conducted anniversary services at Shannonville.

South Australia Invaded by Rats

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — Hordes of rats have invaded outlying stations south of Cooper's Creek, near Lake Frome, South Australia. The influx is believed partly due to an exceptionally wet season.

The rats have not invaded homes or caused any noticeable damage as yet. They are spread over an area of hundreds of miles, and people from stations around Lyndhurst and Copley report that the rodents can be seen all over their stations.

Ben Burton, Lands Department fence inspector, said that at one time the rats could be seen travelling in millions towards Lake Frome.

He said: "The grass is about a foot high in the area, and they couldn't be seen clearly, but their movements gave the grass the appearance that it was continually moving in a southward direction."

Bill Leslie, part owner of stations at Moolawatana and Mount Fitton, said the rats had apparently subsided in recent weeks, but might be nesting.

"A few weeks ago," he said, "they were to be seen in millions during the day on our properties. However, in the last couple of weeks they have started to nest and can be seen only at night.

"Fortunately, they haven't troubled our homes yet. However, this is due to the fact that there is plenty of natural feed about for them."

TO MAKE SURVEY

Brantford, Oct. 19 — (CP)—Board of Education has approved a proposal for a survey of Brantford school children to see how the addition of fluorine to the city's drinking water has affected tooth decay. The survey will be made by Dr. H. K. Brown, Chief of the Federal Health Department's dental health division. Preliminary tests have shown that quantities of fluorine in drinking water has in some cases reduced the incidence of tooth decay.

173 Motorists Pay Fines But Money is Gone

Crystal Beach, Oct. 19 (CP) — Some 173 motorists fined for parking violations have receipts showing they paid their fines. But the Crystal Beach village council said Wednesday it hasn't got money.

Reeve Claude Brewster of this Niagara district town told council discrepancies were discovered when the village clerk sent letters to the violators demanding payment of the fines. They all produced receipts.

Normal practice is for the village's three man police force to collect the fines and turn them over to the clerk. Apparently this had not been done.

Council will discuss the question Monday night.

Piano-Makers, Yes But Not Musicians

Edmonton — (CP) — Members of the famous piano-making Heintzman family of Toronto are not musicians. Authority for this information is G. B. Heintzman, president and general manager of the firm.

"We're musically inclined but we're definitely not musicians," Mr. Heintzman said during a visit to Edmonton.

"But if it's a case of selling a piano I can still sit down and play a little tune for a demonstration," he added with a smile.

It was a little over 100 years ago that Mr. Heintzman's grandfather founded the firm in the United States and made his first piano. Ten years later he transferred operations to Toronto and the firm's factory and head office still are located there.

Management of the company is a family affair. The fourth generation of Heintzmans now are being trained to take over. Part of that training involves a five-year working stint in the factory. After this tenure a Heintzman not only sells pianos but can make them as well.

Mr. Heintzman said it takes more than two pears to make a piano. During much of this time the wood is drying in the yards and about four months after it goes to the mill the finished product is ready for the market.

INVESTIGATE POISONING

Goderich, Oct. 19 — (CP) — Provincial police are investigating the poisoning of several dogs, all of them children's pets, in this town. Poisoning is believed intentional as bones, spread with strychnine, have been placed on the premises of the owners of the animals. Five dogs in the area of Waterloo Street and two in other districts have been victims of poison.

No Room in Hangar For Airplane Tail

This photo illustrates the solution of a problem faced by a San Francisco airplane manufacturing company which started modernizing early-model B-36 bombers into jet-augmented B-36's. The 47-foot-high tails wouldn't fit under the hangar roofs, so portholes were cut in the hangar doors and now the high tails are outside the hangars. — Central Press Canadian.

RED BLAMES NON-REDS

Berlin, Oct. 19 — (AP) — A top communist official accused non-communists in two East German states yesterday of distributing spoiled meat which had been imported from Russia in "perfect condition." Several government food employees who are members of the Christian Democratic Party have been arrested on "suspicion of plotting with the Western Powers."

Wild Elephant Herd Ravaging Transvaal

Pretoria, South Africa — (CP) The biggest elephant hunt in the history of modern Transvaal is taking place in the Blyde River district, where a herd of about 15 elephants has been ravaging farmlands.

The Transvaal declared war on the animals, who have caused heavy damage to crops, after efforts to drive them back to Kruger National Park failed. Six hunters engaged by the provincial administration have so far killed six of them.

Dr. T. G. Nel, head of the fauna and floral division of the Transvaal, said that the first elephants to break out of the game reserve were a few bulls. They spied out the land and, after finding the surroundings suitable for a grazing area, went back to the reserve and returned with the rest of the herd.

Farmers complained to provincial authorities and applied for permits to hunt the elephants themselves, but the provincial administration decided to tackle the job itself.

This is not the only herd causing trouble in the eastern Transvaal. Near the Crocodile River in the Malelane district another band of tlephants is causing much damage. These animals are said to be in a dangerous mood.

Fun-d Frolic Aids Waitresses

Kirkland Lake, Oct. 18 — (CP)— As a fund-raising measure, the president of a Kirkland Lake service club decided to fine members for speaking out of turn.

It was a lively meeting. The original 25-cents fine was boosted to 50 cents, then to $1. The meeting adjourned for an intermisison with $7 in the collection plate.

When the meeting reconvened, the plate was empty. Waitresses had mistaken its contents for a tip.

Belleville Chapter of O.E.S. Holds Successful Bazaar, Tea in Oddfellows' Hall

Favored with a bright autumnal day the bazaar and tea of the Belleville Chapter No. 55 of the Order of the Eastern Star proved a very gratifying success on Wednesday afternoon when this annual event took place at the Oddfellows' Hall, under the direction of the co-convener, Mrs. Hayes Pitt.

The guests were received at the door by Mrs. Getra Baker and Mrs. Robert Orne, and assisting with the reception in the tea room was the hostess, Mrs. C. Baragar.

On the first floor the booths made a most attractive picture, each carrying the colors of the rainbow in an overhead arch with the colors repeated around the tables. Here in the Pantry Shelf convened by Mrs. K. Vivian and Mrs. W. Bailey offered the variety of a grocery store. A wicker basket of McIntosh apples polished to the gleam of rubies was surrounded by homemade pickles, canned goods, jelly powders, preserves of all kinds, relishes, and cheese. Mrs. C. Hermon assisted at this booth.

Candy, attractively packaged, was quickly sold to the eager customers and chocolate fudge, fondus, taffy and caramels offered enough variety to suit all tastes. In charge here were, Mrs. R. Slavin and Mrs. S. Lough assisted by Mrs. B. Simpson, Mrs. R. Patterson, Mrs. A. C. Wilkin and Mrs. Earl Bush.

Mrs. A. Clarke and Mrs. W. Bean convened the booth with the plants and their assistants were Mrs. Luella Tompkins, Mrs. R. Black, Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, Mrs. Fred Moon, Mrs. Geo. Read and Mrs. H. Bonter. The collection of plants made an attractive display in the room and almost all varieties of potted plants were there with violets, cacti, lily bulbs, geraniums, and even the spear-like aspidistra.

Tables Laden

Always well-patronised, the home cooking table was laden with a delectable display of doughnuts, tarts, cakes, and every variety of the culinary art. Mrs. W. Harrison was convener, with Mrs. F. Scott, co-convener and their assistants were Mesdames Harvey Brown, Zetta McGee, Fred Westover, Wm. Morgan and N. MacDonald.

The centre of attention at the fancy work table was a doll dressed as a bride in white satin and a veil. Tickets were sold on this little beauty. Around her were some excellent suggestions for Christmas gifts in the form of pillow slips, children's clothing, hand knit sox, handkerchiefs made into tiny umbrellas and many other items. Those who took charge here were Mrs. Wm. Black, and Mrs. M. Hick, assisted by Mrs. W. Oliphant, Mrs. Percy Dewberry and Mrs. Earl Wilson.

Aprons of many designs and patterns, some made for utility and some merely decorative including the popular plastics found ready purchasers and were quickly disposed of by Mrs. C. Clapp and Mrs. L. Grey, with Mrs. E. Pigden, Mrs. H. Dowsett, Mrs. F. Morden and Mrs. C. Lundy assisting.

Novelty Booth

The novelty booth was in charge of Mrs. W. Elliott and Mrs. Lee Grills and their fellow workers Mesdames J. Thompson, M. Buck, Selburn Westover, D. Royle, Lula Adams, Clifford Hatton and L. Law. Here one had a choice of articles made of wood or plastics, crocheted doilies, and many interesting items of handcraft.

Tickets were sold on baskets of groceries filled with canned goods, cereals, jelly powders, etc., supervised by Mrs. E. Clancy and Mrs. H. Elliott, Mrs. I. Stephenson, Mrs. H. Murphy and Mrs. Laycock. The business girls sold tickets on a quilt made with a fan design in charge of Miss Jean Stephenson, Mrs. Bert Adams and Miss D. Thompson. A bright display of Christmas cards was a reminder that that season is not far away. These were sold by Miss M. Carmichael and Mrs. D. Stewart.

Decorated Tearoom

Upstairs the tearoom attracted many guests and was convened by Mrs. A. D. McLean and Mrs. G. Shaw. The visitors were admitted through a small wicket gate and centred on a wine-colored broadloom rug was the tea table with its gracious appointments in silver and crystal. In the centre of the table a branched vase holding rust and golden colored baby 'mums was flanked by tall creamy tapers. Pouring tea were Mrs. E. Sandercock, Mrs. Jordan of Minerva Chapter; Mrs. H. Reed, Mrs. M. J. Barlow, Mrs. G. McEwan and Mrs. A. McGlashon.

Those who assisted with the serving were Misses Isabel Orne, H. Smith, F. McCrae, and Mesdames E. Stewart, C. MacDonald, R. McPherson, J. Carscallen, W. Ironsides, D. E. Storey, J. Holway, R. Arnott, B. Belcanquel, R. Clapp, N. Hallam, A. Coe, G. McIntosh, J. Carson, H. Denike, M. LaRue.

Refreshment Committee

The refreshments committee consisted of Mrs. J. Darvell, Mrs. Helson, Mrs. H. Armstrong, Mrs. Ceigler, Mrs. R. Black, Mrs. F. Fisher and Mrs. D. Milligan.

The sale of tickets was in charge of Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. Cyril McMullen and the treasurers for the afternoon were Mrs. A. Cornish, Mrs. Badger, Mrs. W. Taylor and Mrs. Patterson.

The tea table was replenished by Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. Everett Liddle, Mrs. M. Elliott, Mrs. W. Embury and Mrs. J. Carscallen.

Small tables were placed about the room and each had its own centrepiece of a small bowl with red and yellow baby 'mums to carry out the autumn colors.

The lucky ticket holders of the afternoon were Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Badger, and Mrs. Ash, who won baskets of groceries; Mrs. E. Sandercock who held the winning ticket on the quilt; and Carol Pringle, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Pringle, who was the delighted winner of the doll-bride.

Women's Institute

Allan's Mills — The Women's Institute members of Springbrook W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Percy Bateman on Wednesday afternoon with 20 members present. The meeting opened in the usual manner with Mrs. Arthur Reid in charge. Mrs. W. J. Barlow was in charge of minutes and correspondence.

Mrs. George Thompson and Mrs. S. Spry were appointed delegates to the district area convention to be held in Belleville on Nov. 8th and 9th.

Mrs. Fred McKeown thanked the members for fruit, cards and letters received while in Kingston hospital.

Mrs. A. Burkitt was in charge of program. Mrs. George Thompson gave a splendid address on "Keeping the Interest of Our Young People in Our Home Community" and spoke on the new community centre built at Springbrook. Mrs. G. Meiklejohn gave the financial report and explained how money had been raised to build and maintain the community centre.

Rev. H. E. Beare gave a splendid address on "Keeping the Interest of Young People in the Community" and pointed out many ways and ideas of interest to all present.

Mrs. A. Burkitt gave a paper on "Public Relationship."

An invitation was received from Wellman's Corners W.I. asking the members to attend the 45th anniversary meeting on Nov. 15, at Wellman's Corners.

A short course will be held in the Springbrook hall on Wednesday, October 18th with Miss Hamilton as guest speaker. Rylestone and Wellman's Corners W.I. and Marmora are invited to attend.

It was decided to hold a Hallowe'en party in Springbrook hall on October 31st. A program committee was chosen consisting of Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Snider, Mrs. Spry, Mrs. George Williams, Mrs. Thompson and Miss Murphy.

Mrs. Mel Neal and Mrs. Thos. McKeown will be in charge of the door.

The next regular meeting will be at the home of Mrs. F. Cosby on November 29th, program topic "Historical Research." Refreshments were served by the hostess and assistant hostesses.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Robert McFarlane on Thursday last with 22 present. The president, Mrs. Sam Elliott, welcomed the members, and Mrs. L. Scott presided at the piano.

The president read a poem on "Thanksgiving" which was much appreciated. And Mrs. Elmer Vivian, group leader, took charge of the devotional part with Mrs. L. W. Scott reading the 95th Psalm and Mrs. Vivian the devotional leaflet.

A letter, expressing thanks, was read from Mrs. Fred Barlow for card of sympathy she had received at the time of her sister's death. Mrs. Charles Kierl and Miss Betty Mastin each expressed their thanks and appreciation for the card they had received when ill. The president reported that Mr. Earle Anderson of Belleville was sanding the floor of the new church hall, donating his work. Mr. Anderson's generosity is much appreciated by the ladies.

Plans were made for the annual bazaar to be held at the church hall on November 29th. Mrs. Frank Doxtator and Mrs. W. D. Robertson were appointed as a nominating committee for the next year's slate of officers.

The president told of finding a Bible in a cottage, where she stayed over night on a recent trip References were written in the front of the Bible, for which Mrs. Elliott commended the good work of the Gideon Society in placing Bibles in hotels, schools, and other public places.

Following the close of the meeting, Mrs. McFarlane and her assistants served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed. Mrs. Everett Stratton kindly offered her home for the December meeting as no meeting would be held in November, owing to the bazaar taking its place for that month.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1950

Warden and Mrs. C. Rollins Ho[illegible]d by County Council At Banquet at Bancroft

(By Staff Reporter)

Bancroft — Hastings County Council paid sincere tangible tribute to its 1950 warden, Reeve Clarke Rollins, Wollaston Township and Mrs. Rollins at the annual warden's banquet held in the Legion Hall here Wednesday night.

Warden and Mrs. Rollins were the recipients of a handsome silver tray, electric grill and a silver relish dish before 175 county councillors, county officials and special guests.

Reeve Wilfred Spencer, Rawdon Township with Reeve Harry Harrison, Thurlow Township, made the presentation to the warden and Mrs. Rollins.

"We, the members of your council," Reeve Spencer told the warden, "desire to express our deep and sincere appreciation of the splendid job you have done as the warden this year. You have conducted the business of the county of Hastings in an outstanding manner, and you have given practically all your time and consideration to matters pertaining to the county. We ask you to accept these small tokens of our esteem and appreciation of a job well done."

Warden Replies

Warden Rollins is a brief address of appreciation expressed the thanks of himself and Mrs. Rollins for the handsome gifts. He said his position as head of the county had been made easier through the fine co-operation of the county councillors individually and as a whole. "By working together," he said, "he hoped 1950 would be one of the best years in the history of the county." Mrs. Rollins graciously expressed her appreciation of the gifts.

The guests at the banquet were a cross-section of city, county and district life. From Prince Edward County came its warden, Reeve Norris Whitney. Political life was represented in Mr. George S. White, M.P. Hastings - Peterborough, Frank Follwell, M.P. Hastings South; Elmer Sandercock M.L.A., Hastings East and Roscoe Robson M.L.A., Hastings West.

From county officialdom came the County Treasurer, Ross Bailey; County Clerk, Erle Denyes, who acted as master of ceremonies at the banquet; Kenneth and Mrs. Yorke, superintendent and matron of the new County Home; W. L. Langlois, county engineer and others.

Mayor Represents City

Mayor Jack Allin represented the city of Belleville with City Comptroller Harold Bateman, Judge J. C. Anderson represented the judiciary. Other guests included Robert Rollins, son of the warden and Mrs. Rollins, Dr. Embury, ex-member of parliament.

Following the invocation by the Rev. F. W. Smith and the national anthem, County Clerk Denyes introduced the warden in a few well-chosen remarks. "He is one of the most progressive and aggressive wardens Hastings County has ever produced", he said, "and proof of that lies in the splendid job he has done as head of the county so far this year."

Welcome Extended Guests

Warden Rollins extended a cordial welcome to the assembled guests. He was proud to be a resident of the county of Hastings and in a position to carry on its business, the warden said. He paid sterling tribute to his councils, stressing the fine work which has been done by the county committees in their various phases of municipal business.

He drew attention to the new County Home being constructed near the western limits of the city of Belleville, and expressed the opinion that work would be completed in from three to six months.

He paid tribute to the city of Belleville, expressing his appreciation and that of the council for the fine co-operation shown by the city council in their dealings with the county this year. "By working hand in hand," he said "the county and the city have made great steps for the betterment of the county as a whole."

He felt the tourist business in Hastings County had not yet reached its peak and he believed that the tourist and publicity committees of both governing bodies would work out a plan next year, which would increase this industry further.

Responding on behalf of the county councillors and officials County Treasurer, Ross Bailey and Reeve John Kincaid of Madoc Village expressed the deep appreciation of the leadership and co-operation given the council by Warden Rollins.

Proposes Toast

Reeve Arthur Sauer, Deseronto proposed the toast to the Dominion of Canada stating the Dominion with its vast resources was the envy of the world. Responses to the toasts were given by Members of Parliament Frank Follwell and George S. White.

Reeve Vincent Lynch, Marmora Village, proposed the toast to the Province of Ontario with members of the legislative assembly Roscoe Robson and Elmer Sandercock responding.

Proposing the toast to the County of Hastings, His Worship Mayor Jack Allin of Belleville drew attention to the fine spirit of co-operation that exists between the city and the county bodies. Responses were made by Reeve W. L. Davis, Bangor, Wicklure and McClure and Deputy Reeve Lee Grills, Sidney Township.

Reeve Theodore Tryon, of Bancroft offered the toast to "The Guests," with Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville drawing attention to the fact that he was born in Bancroft, and paying tribute to his native village. Other responses were given by Warden Norris Whitney, Prince Edward County; City Comptroller Harold Bateman and Dr. Russell Scott of Belleville.

Appreciation of the tasty turkey dinner was voiced in the toast to the ladies offered by Reeve Harry Coulter of Hungerford township. Mrs. Reg. Blatherwick and Mrs. O. C. Fuller of the ladies of St. John's Anglican Church, who did the catering, expressed their pleasure at being given the opportunity to provide the banquet.

The fine harmonies of the Ellerbeck quartet of Bancroft were heard in several selections with Mr. Reg. Blatherwick presiding at the piano.

Loses Borrowed Teeth

London, Ont., Oct. 19 (CP)— A London man yesterday got himself into the doghouse and he won't get out until he returns his wife's teeth to her, say police, who are trying to help him find them.

The unhappy man had taken his own false teeth to a dentist for repairs, so he took his wife's teeth along to work to help him with his lunch.

After eating the lunch he put the teeth in the lunch box, being anxious not to give the borrowed set of choppers any more wear and tear than necessary.

Then fate made off with the lunch box.

I.A. McGaughey Re-Elected President of West Hastings Liberals at Marmora Meeting

Marmora.—I. A. McGaughey, of Trenton, was re-elected president of West Hastings Liberal Association at their annual meeting held in the Town Hall, Marmora, on Wednesday afternoon. The remainder of the retiring executive were also re-elected as follows—1st vice president, Lorne Reid, Bancroft; 2nd vice president, Fred Johnston, Marmora; 3rd vice president, Mrs. Herbert McCabe, Belleville; secretary, E. E. Follwell, Belleville; treasurer, Frank S. Follwell, Belleville.

Delegates and alternates to the provincial convention being held in Toronto, November 9-10, for the selection of a party leader for the Ontario legislature were appointed as follows:

Delegates

Mrs. George Wilson, Belleville; W. Norman Gilroy, Coe Hill; Robert Temple, Belleville; Mrs. Bernard W. Hughes, Marmora; I. A. McGaughey, Trenton; J. H. Jones, Trenton.

Alterates

Lorne Reid, Bancroft; Howard W. Sabine, Marmora; M. Callaghan, Belleville; Ernest Sarles, Harold; Mrs. W. Ingles, Trenton; E. E. Follwell, Belleville.

Definitely On March

The enthusiastic meeting was under the chairmanship of I. A. McGaughey, retiring and re-elected president. In introductory remarks, he declared that Liberalism was definitely on the march and that West Hastings might be won for the Liberal Party, if everyone would get out and work. The secretary, E. E. Follwell, mentioned the inability of Senator W. A. Fraser to be present, due to his being in Montreal on business. He also read the letter from the Ontario Liberal Association headquarters with reference to appointment of delegates and alternates to the forthcoming convention.

The treasurer's report was presented by Frank S. Follwell, M.P.

Urges Good Attendance

The chairman then called upon Mrs. Herbert McCabe, of Belleville, regional president of the Women's Liberal Association, who urged a good attendance at the Central Ontario Liberal Association's annual meeting in Kingston on October 21. She reiterated the advice given that caution be exercised in selecting delegates for the Toronto convention, who could attend that a full quota be in attendance for the important duty of electing a new leader.

Bernard W. Hughes, defeated candidate for West Hastings in the last provincial election said that it never hurts when you believe in a principle to take a licking. He moved and it was carried, that the work of the Hon. Farquhar Oliver, as party leader, commending him on the stand he made in the interests of Liberalism.

Referring to the coming convention, Mr, Hughes remarked that it was necessary to get a leader who would put steam into the Ontario Liberal party.

Endorse Appointment

Under general business J. H. Jones moved and H. W. Sabine, seconded that this meeting go on record as endorsing the appointment of A. B. Collins, K.C., as Senator, supporting thereby action taken by the executive of the Belleville Liberal Association.

The re-election of the retiring executive was carried out with A. B. Collins, K.C., presiding.

Resuming the chair the president remarked that he had hoped for a new slate of officers, but he and his fellow executive members who also spoke briefly, pledged fidelity to their office.

Member Heard

Frank S. Follwell M.P., for South Hastings, called upon for a speech, said it was always a pleasure for him to fraternize with fellow Liberals, wherever they be and furthermore with all men. "Salesmanship," he said, "was summed up in two words. Circulation and conversation, and that was the policy they should follow in the Liberal party." Last summer, the Dominion lost two of its greatest men in the persons of Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and the Hon. Humphrey Mitchell. Right Hon. Louis St. Laurent is proving he is an able leader. Comiug to his thoughts on the provincial question, he would mention that fifty-five Liberal members in Ottawa were from Ontario, the greatest number in the history of the Dominion parliament. All of these realize they must throw in their lot behind the Provincial Liberal cause.

He echoed the remarks of a previous speaker that they should elect such delegates as could attend the convention and added that there is the necessity of having complete Liberal organization in each provincial riding. He was convinced that the Liberal party of Ontario would not be sitting on the opposition side after the next election. He predicted a shortage of Hydro power this winter, which he said would be due to shortsightedness on the part of those responsible for Hydro. He concluded with a tribute to Bernard W. Hughes.

Outlines Activities

Robert Temple, president of Belleville Young Liberal Association was then called to the platform. He outlined activities of his association.

Norman Gilroy paid further tribute to Hon. F. Oliver and with regard to the facing of new leadership, said the Liberals should always try to get together whenever they can to build up support.

A. B. Collins K.C., thanked the gathering for the honor done him in supporting his name for appointment and complimented preceding speakers for stressing organization as a means to hoped for victory. He said that all should be mindful of the great part played by the ladies in the voting of today, and to the delegates for the convention, he would say "choose as was chosen in Ottawa a few months ago, the best man for the job in Toronto."

The appointment of delegates and alternates was effected at this juncture.

Two motions ended the business of the session.

W. N. Gilroy moved and R. Temple seconded that the date of the next meeting be left to the executive.

A vote of confidence proposed by A. B. Collins K.C., in the Federal leader, and in the acting Provincial leader was also duly carried.

Posse of 1,000 Hunts Murderer

Calera, Ala., Oct. 19 — (AP)— A huge posse estimated at one time at more than 1,000 men searched through the night for a Negro who shot a small white boy to death after raping the child's mother.

The child, four-year-old Dale Holley, was shot through the head as his mother clasped him in her arms.

The mother, Mrs. Kathleen Holley, 37, was shot twice and beaten on the head with a large rock. She was seriously wounded but was reported improving today in hospital.

Oil Money Should be Spent On Finding New Oil Fields Official Tells Canadian Club

Calgary, Oct. 19—CP—The oil hunt in Canada now should be for the new fields rather than in those already proven, C.L. Stewart, president of Imperial Oil, Ltd., said today in an address prepared for the Calgary Canadian Club.

The industry, he said, has found enough oil for the prairies and has been able to reach out to a substantial Eastern market.

"Now new discoveries must be sought not only to replace current consumption but also in order that the oil may reach additional markets.

"Canada is consuming some 350,000 barrels of petroleum products daily and the demand is increasing each year. Because of geographic and other limitations, all this demand cannot be directly met by the western crude, but it is hoped that on balance Canada will be self-sufficient.

"New discoveries two or three times as great as the reserves already found will be required to reach this objective.

"Drilling in proven fields absorbs funds which could be spent exploring for new fields. Accordingly, it is desirable that this development drilling, as the industry terms it, should not be carried on at the rate in excess of sound economic requirements.

"This is of growing importance because exploration for new fields is becoming increasingly costly as the search expands into the less-accessible areas towards the northern limits of Alberta and into Northeastern British Columbia.

Many Things Necessary

"Further, any oil that may be found in these remote areas will not be immediately available to market. Roads, housing, supply sores, pipelines and a vast system of associated facilities will be necessary. Before pipelines can be justified, sufficient delineation drilling will have to be done to make certain that the reserves are adequate to warrant the building of pipelines.

"It is possible that some of the remote areas may require expenditures of perhaps $20,000,000 to $50,000,000 before a single barrel of oil is piped to market.

"Continuation of unnecessary drilling in new discoveries could syphon off capital so vital to a continued aggressive exploration program. This is a problem requiring the attention of both government and industry.

Said in Part

Looking to new markets, Mr. Stewart said in part:

"Probably the first step is for the Interprovincial Pipe Line Company to increase the capacity of their line (from Edmonton to the head of the lakes) by addition of pump stations and by further storage at Superior, Wisc., in order that the line may operate at full capacity the year round.

"This will also require Ontario refiners to add enough storage to permit them to operate on Alberta crude during the season of closed navigation.

"Another market frequently mentioned is the Pacific Coast area. This has been under study for some time. A factual appraisal shows that the total requirements for oil in British Columbia are considerably short of the volume needed to support pipeline construction through the Rocky Mountains, and that the project cannot be justified unless additional volume is secured by entering Washington and Oregon markets.

Refinancing Issues Heavily Over-Subscribed

Ottawa, Oct. 19 (CP) — A $700,000,000 Canadian government bond issue was heavily over subscribed immediately after the books opened this morning, the Bank of Canada announced.

The refinancing issue consists of two maturities: Two-year 1 3-4 percent bonds and 2 1-4 percent bonds maturing in five years and eight months.

The Bank of Canada said both issues were over-subscribed 15 minutes after the books opened at 10 a.m. EDT.

Investment dealers and banks, acting as primary distributors, will be advised of their allotments by telegraph today, the bank said.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

The door of the elevator closed with soundless speed. The sandy-haired operator in dark blue with an abundance of gold trimmings glanced inquiringly at the slim girl in a brown suit and matching beret.

"Grimes and Phillips." She answered his unspoken question. He touched a button and looked at the tall dark-haired man in gray, the other occupant of the car.

"You said—"

"The roof," the man answered quickly.

"I thought you wanted—" The operated muttered the rest of the sentenced and punched another button.

"Decided suddenly on the roof. Grand view of the city from there, I understand."

Nice voice, deep, rich and, boy, I'll bet he's used to getting what he wants, the girl thought. She stole a glance at him, but the broad brim of his gray hat covered the upper part of his face as he looked down at the memoran- book he held. He had the just-out-of-uniform look. "Seeing Boston," she decided and watched the floor numbers as they lighted and blacked out.

"Seven." The door opened without benefit of human touch. As she stepped to the corridor she heard the operator say:

"Thought this was the floor you wanted Mister."

She opened a door which proclaimed in conservative black letters that Grimes and Phillips pursued the practice of law within. The young woman with tightly curled brick-red hair at the switchboard in the office looked up and grinned.

"The Judge is waiting for you Miss Phillips. She spoke into an inter-office phone. 'Yes, sir, I'll send her in."

Fran paused at an open door. She had known the man with a mane of white hair seated behind the flat desk since she was a small girl. His hair hadn't been white then, his shoulders hadn't sagged as they sagged now as if tired from carrying a load of responsibility. Not surprising when one remembered that the son who had planned to come into the office was now a white cross in a Belgium field and that her brother Ken who had inherited the Phillips half of the partnership, was still in Germany.

"Come in, come in, Franny, what you waiting for?" The Judge rose and glared over his spectacles. "You're late, then you stand staring at me as if you were scared to death. Shut the door. Now sit down." As she perched on the edge of the chair across the desk from his, he asked:

"Did you bring the letter?" She nodded assent. "Read it to me again. I've had several communications from Ken and a long distance phone call about how set you are against the change in trustee."

She drew two closely typewritten pages from her green shoulder bag.

"Remember Judge, that this letter is dated one month before I received it." Her eyes followed the lines: "Ken writes that he intends to remain in Germany during this critical period as long as he is needed, which at present means indefinitely, that he has transferred the trusteeship of the property Aunt Rebecca left me t Myles Jaffray. Why, why did he pick on him?"

"What's matter with Jaffray? Ever Seen him?"

"No, and I never want to. Matilde, Gene Sargent's sister-in-law, went off her head about him—her husband Ben and he were training at the same airfield, they had grown up in the same summer resort. She was preparing to leave her husband and little girl—"

"For Jaffray?"

"It was the consensus of the woman's friends."

"That doesn't establish it as a fact. Who told you the gossip?"

"Gene Sargent at the time we were in college together. She was so terribly upset that I suspected she was that way herself about him. The day he was coming to see her—he was home on a short leave—she told me the story, so I could keep out of the way and avoid meeting him. I hadn't been mild in expressing my views about a home-smasher."

"Did the wife run away?"

"No. Ben crashed soon after the talk began and Matilde left the station with the child.

"So-o, she told you that you might keep out of the wolf's way? I don't see that the Sargent girl's yarn proves anything, except that the home-smasher — that's your word, not mine—may not have reciprocated her affection. Ken has lived and fought beside Jaffray for five years; since the end of the war they have been working together as administrators in the American Zone. Do you think he would have made him trustee of your property if he believed the Matilde story? How did your brother and he get together? Coincidental as they say in the movies?"

"No. Gene told Myles Jaffray to look up Ken at the Officer's Training camp. He did and they became friends."

"Something about the Matilde angle strikes me as phony. Your friend Gene doesn't happen to have green eyes?"

"No, they are almost black and very beautiful. What do green eyes have to do with my detestation of Myles Jaffray?"

He tapped on the desk with the tips of his fingers.

"Might have a lot to do with it, Franny," he said thoughtfully with his eyes on the steel skeleton of a building rising against the sky beyond the window. "But that isn't what you are here to talk about. Read the letter. Stop giving me extracts." She picked up the two sheets.

"He writes that Myles is returning to this country, to New York, then goes on, 'No use fighting me about this, kiddo. You resented the fact that Aunt Becky tied up the estate she left you until you are twenty five." She dropped the pages to the shining mahogany desk.

"Why did she Judge? My home was with her from the time I was eleven, when mother died. Father went a few years later. Because she was a partial invalid I wouldn't leave her while we were at war though I fairly ached to enlist. I selected a college near our home so that I could live with her. I doubled as her secretary, kept her accounts, knew to a dot what she was spending. I loved her. I'm 23. It hurts to know that she didn't trust me to take care of the estate she willed to me."

"It wasn't that she didn't trust you, Franny. Your mother was her young sister whom she adored and spoiled. When that same sister eloped with a stinker, in spite of the damning evidence Rebecca had dug up about his escapades, she was furiously angry. It didn't help that a few months later she could say 'I told you so.' when the heel deserted his wife. Your mother divorced him and later married a fine man your father. Rebecca liked him but she was haunted always with the fear that you might lose your head and heart over a no-good as your mother did, especially if you had money to tempt one."

"Even so, how could you, an up-to-the-minute person if I ever saw one, draw a will with the crazy clause that if I married without the consent of the trustee I lost the property? That belongs back in the days when fathers turned erring daughters out into a snowstorm. You have known me all my life. Do you think I have no common sense?"

"Sometimes when love comes in at the door common sense flies out of the window, Franny. I agree with you that what you call the crazy clause is early 19th century stuff. I did my best to convince Rebecca that it might precipitate the very situation she dreaded. No use. It was her fortune, she had a right to dispose of it as she wished. I drew the will, heaving a sigh of relief when she made your brother Ken trustee, free to name his successor if it became necessary. Cheerio, in two years you can wave good-by to Jaffray."

"Now let's get on with the letter," the Judge suggested to Fran. She picked up the pages.

"Where was I? Here it is, 'Myles is the straightest, finest fella in the world—I know the truth about that Matilde episode—added to that he is an attorney who, in the few years between receiving his degree and enlistment, specialized in probate law. He drew the transfer to trustee papers, in consultation with an eminent Massachusetts lawyer at present on the staff of our general. They are fightproof.'" She looked questioningly across the desk. He nodded agreement.

"They are. The probate court has passed on them though it has not allowed them yet. Go on with the letter. Keep your voice up. Can't hear myself think with that darn riveting going on outside."

"He goes on, 'Myles didn't want the responsibility, kicked like a steer against taking it when he read the clause that if you marry before you are twenty-five without the consent of the trustee— Aunt Becky figured that would be me—the bulk of the estate she left would be divided between certain charities.

"'Even when I explained to him how deeply hurt Aunt Becky had been by Mother's runaway marriage, he said "Nothing doing. Why saddle me with the responsibility of saying you can or you can't to your sister Frances as to the men she wants to marry? From what you have told me about her—and boy, you have talked—sure as shootin' the kid will go haywire, plunge through hell and high water to marry the guy she thinks she wants to prove her independence." She looked up from the letter.

"You don't think I am idiot enough to do that fool thing, do you Judge?"

"I don't know what I think, Franny, when you look at me with those enormous eyes which always remind me of brown velvet pansies. Go on with the letter."

"Let's see, here we are: He's still quoting Myles Jaffray. I've studied the photograph of your sister you carry round with you, enough to realize that.' He's referring to the plunge through hell and high water, Judge — 'Pick another guy for the job. Fran would have her knife out for me and I had counted on our being friends.' Ken X-ed out the rest of the sentence before he went on:

"'Myles gave in finally when he realized what a load he would take from my shoulders by accepting the trustee appointment. I can't pay proper attention to the investments at this distance—and said it would be his part in helping in my tremendously important job. It is important Fran. Sometimes I wonder if I can swing it, then I hear Aunt Becky's voice. "Think defeat and you invite defeat. Think success and you invite success."

Great old girl, Rebecca Harding.

"'I have sent the signed and properly sealed transfer document to Judge Grimes. Be a good kid, don't get your dander up. I am doing what I know will be best for you.'"

She folded the letter and put it into her bag.

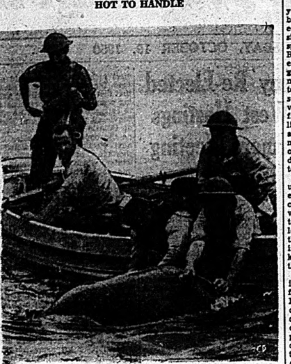
HOT TO HANDLE



One ticklish job for the three Canadian destroyers now serving in Korean waters is the destruction of communist-laid mines. This Royal Canadian Navy photo shows AB. Edward Dalton of Fort Frances, Ont., holding a mine while Commissioned Officer David Hurl of Winnipeg, attaches a demolition charge. Watching are AB. David Kidd, Winnipeg, standing; AB. Ron Souliers, Ottawa, at oars, and PO. Tom Shields of Calgary. After the charge is secured, a five-minute fuse is lit and the boat is towed away at full speed by a motor launch. — (CP Photo.)

THIS FALL . . .

Thousands of people are still enjoying the beauties of the Canadian north. Holidayers everywhere are marvelling at the wealth of scenery and the abundance of wild creatures.

This natural heritage is yours to enjoy. But once it becomes depleted, it can never be replaced. If we all obey the rules of conservation we will be assured of even finer holidays in the years ahead. Think of tomorrow—Canada, with her forests and wildlife, streams and lakes, is yours to protect.

Markets Glutted, Sardines' Return Pleases Portugal

Lisbon —(Reuters)— Sardines, after an absence of 2½ years, are back again off the Portuguese coast in such numbers that the market is glutted.

The canning industry and domestic consumers are unable to keep pace with supplies; the surplus is being sold for manure.

Some days, so many ships arrive in port laden with sardines that fishermen are unable to sell them, even for fertilizer. The people do not want to take them away even free of charge.

Sardines are sold in the local "lota" (fish market) by the fishermen as soon as they have landed their catch. Priority of purchase goes to the canning factories. When these have taken all they want, the remainder of the catch is loaded on trucks to be taken to towns and villages throughout the country.

On days when the surplus is large, the trucks race each other along the roads in order to arrive first at the market places.

The return of the sardines to Portuguese waters has caused widespread satisfaction in Portugal, for sardines are one of the most important items in the country's economy.

Some 20,000 men are engaged in fishing sardines; another 20,000 workers, mainly women, are employed canning them — and the whole population eats them.

Most of the 182 canning factories had been idle since last January until the sardines returned in the latter part of August. Now, all the factories are working to capacity, many of them for 24 hours a day.

Business is good. Most factories are selling their output to American importers who pay higher than normal prices to ensure priority of delivery.

The sardines which the Portuguese are now eating are the sort they like best — the small ones. They consider that the small ones are the most tasty. They have a proverb which says: "Among women and sardines, the smallest ones are most sought after."

There are differences of opinion as to the accuracy of this proverb regarding women — but opinion here is unanimous in so far as sardines are concerned.

Sourdough Thrives With Gang Helping

Devon, Alta. —(CP)—Alberta's rivers are still singing the songs of the sourdoughs and Thomas Staley says it beats everything.

The way Staley pans gold today everything pans out fine, because he's virtually got the Alberta government working for him.

A little guy with a battered hat on the back of his head and a bit of graying bristle on the chin, the 64-year-old sourdough will shift his chaw of 'bacca and tell you he pans gold the same way they did 50 years ago — but he has a new twist of his own.

He has two spots on the North Saskatchewan River in this Leduc oil country. Six others are working the waters thereabouts but Staley has the spot where the government is building a bridge to replace the historic Devon ferry, overworked by the oil boom.

Gravel for [illegible] bridge construction is washed right at the site and a long flume carries the water back to the river. Staley has lined the flume with 20 feet of blanket. All he has to do is drop around every once in a while and pick up the pretty gold particles left on the blanket.

At the other location he has a mud box, 20 inches wide and four feet long, with blankets on the bottom and a screen on the top. He shovels sand into it and a one-horsepower motor pumps water from the river to wash it. He catches the gold particles on the blanket.

It takes a lot of shovelling at this spot but the stuff he sends to Vancouver assay office brings $28 an ounce and he clears about $6 a day. He splits with the gravel people his take from the flume.

Old Tom, who got his first touch of gold fever on the Fraser River, has been working the North Saskatchewan "for nigh on 16 years."

Northern Store Boss Jack Of All Trades

Wollaston Lake, Sask. — (CP) —Edward Melville used to be one of those city fellers — Toronto was his home — but now he is the manager of a "country store." He likes the change.

His store is practically "out of this world." It is on the shore of Wollaston Lake, 370 air miles north of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan's northern-most city. The nearest highway or railway is 300 miles away.

About 100 families of Chipewyan Indians, Metis and whites depend on the Saskatchewan Government Trading Company store for their supplies. Melville provides them with everything from a baby's bottle to steel traps. Fresh fruits and vegetables are brought in by plane.

He has become versatile — and mighty busy. Besides his store duties, he issues trapping and fishing licences, runs the post office, acts as Saskatchewan Government Airways' agent, operates a first-aid station, buys furs for the Saskatchewan Fur Marketing Service and operates the Resources Department radio.

In his "off" hours he acts as adviser, letter-writer and interpreter for the Indians and Metis and keeps them informed on coming church services.

It's a long way from Yonge Street and its rush, but he has the odd visitor. This summer American tourists discovered the place. Melville supplied them with canoes, complete outfit and a guide — and good fishing.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Lonely? Maybe you need more initiative!

Not nearly enough is said, it seems to me, about the necessity for initiative on the part of those who, for one reason or another have to plan their life over again.

The following extract from a letter written me by a widow is an example of what I mean:

"It seems as if none of my friends understands just what has gone out of my life. The married couple among them have kind intentions, but they have their own interests, and I feel like a fifth wheel when I am invited out with them. Therefore, I am very lonely, as I have no children, and I long to meet some companion of my own age."

Of course a widow of two years' standing is still lonely, and of course a great deal has gone out of her life. On the other hand, she ought to have made at least some sort of beginning at putting new things into her life, and she can't expect it's going to be done by her friends. She has got to get to work to do it for herself.

The chief mistake this woman makes, and many others like her also make, is in concentrating on the desire "to meet some companion my own age." Dwelling too much on what she would like is what usually keeps a woman with a life to make over from achieving new happiness sooner. And by new happiness I don't mean necessarily a second marriage. What I'm talking about now is a fresh interest in life. ...

All too many widows, divorced women and middle-aged mothers whose children have grown up and gone away, sit around thinking about how much they have lost, and how little they have in their lives any more. What they fail to realize is that right there is their opportunity for new experiences and new acivities for which they have never before had time and which now can freshen up their whole outlook.

The way to go about this is for them to sit down with themselves and list the things in which they are interested, then look around for ways to practice those interests. These are days when any ability any woman has can be put to use; when the things she likes to do best can be made to count, both in the way of giving herself more happiness and in bringing it to other people. No one today needs to feel like a "fifth wheel," as my correspondent put it. So far from being a "fifth wheel", she can make herself so valuable, and so sought after, that those who know her will think a wheel is missing if she isn't on the spot to help make things go.

A happy second marriage is an eminently desirable thing. But no woman should do herself the injustice of spending all her time hunting for one. There are too many fascinating things out of which she will cheat herself that way. Moreover, curiously enough new romance is somehow more likely to appear when she isn't looking for it; when she has almost forgotten that she so wistfully and eagerly desired it. The reason for this, of course, is that by entering whole-heartedly into the new activities she finds for herself, she generates a fresh fund of enthusiasm and vitality that inevitably attracts people to her.

And if the romance shouldn't come? Then she has already outwitted loneliness so effectively that her life seems satisfyingly full and interesting without it.

HALLOWE'EN HANDOUTS: "Please give me a good recipe for Candy Apples for Hallowe'en. We live in a neighborhood thickly populated with children and these taffy apples seem to be the most acceptable gift."

Taffy apples? Everyone loves them—children or grownups. And here's how we make them so that they have a good butterscotch surface. Measure three-quarters cup white sugar, ½ cup corn syrup and ⅜ cup boiling water into a saucepan. Stir until dissolved, then cook over low heat until the syrup is very brittle when tested in cold water. Have skewers stuck in 10 rosy apples. Twirl quickly in the syrup, then let harden, stuck in milk bottles. Oil the tops of the bottles so the syrup doesn't stick. They're delicious, delectable and deluxe.

ENGAGEMENT RING: "What should I pay for a modest engagement diamond? I haven't much money."

Lowest approximate price is $20.00—from there on it's up to you, your bank account and the girl.

Sidney Pupils Will Study Topographic Maps

The Sidney Area Board at its regular monthly meeting, made arrangements to supply each school with a topographic map of Sidney township and a booklet entitled "By Map and Compass" in order to aid the teachers in teaching map reading, which has been introduced into the public school social studies course by the Department of Education. It is unfortunate that Sidney township is situated in such a location that maps of four districts—Belleville, Trenton, Tweed, and Campbellford, are necessary to get a complete map of the whole township. These maps are of great interest to the pupils as they show the details of their own community. A few minutes will be spent at the next teachers' meeting in a discussion of the work to be done in this course.

Travelling Libraries

As was done last year the teachers were given the choice of enrolling in the township circulating library from Belleville or in the travelling library from the Department of Education, Toronto. A box of books per month may be gotten from the circulating library; while one every two months is about the limit for the travelling library although there are more books. The supervising principal was to check to see which one each teacher preferred.

The secretary was authorized to inform the Public School Trustees' Association that some members of the Board expect to attend the Friday session of their annual meeting to be held in Toronto, Oct. 27.

Public Speaking Courses

The supervising principal explained that the South Hastings Educational Association was asking the co-operation of the councils and school boards in conducting the annual public speaking contests in the townships, so that winners could be sent to their final contest to be held in Belleville. The Board promised to donate whatever was necessary so that, along with what was donated by the council for prizes, there would be sufficient to give each contestant not winning a prize a silver dollar. The township contest is scheduled for eight o'clock, Thursday evening, Nov. 2, in the Wallbridge Orange Hall. Pupils in the various schools are already preparing for it.

New Room at Avondale

The supervising principal also reported that the new classroom in the Hall house, at Avondale, had been opened on October 2, with Miss M. Maitland in charge of Grades 1, 2 and 3 and Mrs. G. Carswell in charge of the seniors in the school. Five Belcrest pupils living nearest Avondale had been transferred to Avondale.

Repairs Being Completed

An extensive program of repairs has been carried out by the board in line with their original plan to bring all schools up to a standard as soon as possible. A few minor repairs are still to be done this fall. Laurence Slingerland was engaged to redecorate Turner's, River Valley and Eggleton schools; to paint the ceiling at Glen Ross and to repair and paint the roof at Mapleview. Cecil Hubble's tender was accepted for the Bayside roof and ceiling, the Centenary roof and the Johnstown eave troughs. Besides this he made repairs to the roof and doors of the Bayside barn and eave troughs on the house occupied at present by Lloyd Reddom. Several softball backstops were put up. Riverside school was wired by Herbie's Electric, Stirling. Jos. Large, Belleville, redecorated Bayside school where smoke from the faulty furnace had darkened the walls. New furnaces were installed at Bayside and Johnstown, and a jacket put on the lower part of the Belcrest furnace to prevent basement dust from coming up into the classroom. New drop pipes were installed in the Hogle toilet systems and a new roof put on the shed.

Teachers' Convention

All but two of the Sidney teachers were able to make the trip to Kingston for the annual meeting of the Teachers' Institute for South Hastings. The morning was devoted to observing classes in Winston Churchill and Frontenac schools in Kingston and Kingscourt school in Kingston township area. This has been arranged through the courtesy of Mr. A. C. Ritter, director of Education for the City of Kingston. After the afternoon business session, the members were divided into two groups for a conducted tour of the nylon and aluminum plants.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). "Satisfactory," Says MacArthur of Meeting

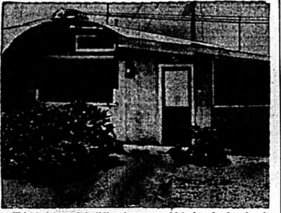
President Harry Truman shakes the hand of Gen. Douglas MacArthur while admiring the medals he had just presented to the general upon conclusion of their historic meeting on tiny mid-Pacific island of Wake. In presenting the decorations, the chief executive called MacArthur "one of America's great soldier-statesmen." MacArthur was honored with a fourth oak-leaf cluster for his Distinguished Service Medal in place of a fifth such award, and also the Civilian Medal of Merit. In their dramatic meeting the president and the general plotted a course for America in the Far East, discussing complete victory in Korea and a peace treaty for Japan. —Central Press Canadian.



This flat-topped building became a historical landmark when President Truman met Gen. MacArthur there. Back in Tokyo, Gen. MacArthur said the results of the meeting were "highly satisfactory." —Central Press Canadian.

Broda Backstops Leafs to First Victory of NHL Season When L[illegible]s Win Over Boston, 2-0

[illegible]y The Canadian Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs scored twice in the final period in Boston last night and their 2-0 shutout over the Bruins shot them from a last-place to second-place tie in the National Hockey League.

Tied with Leafs in second place are Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks, one point behind the undefeated Montreal Canadiens.

It was Toronto's first win of the young season and the first shutout for goalie Turk Broda—at 36, the oldest man in the league.

Sid Smith and Cal Gardner scored for the Leafs. Smith got his early in the last period while Gardner scored with less than three minutes left.

A stubborn Toronto defence helped Broda beat back a series of Boston ganging attacks. The veteran turned back 24 shots on his cage. Young Jack Gelineau handled 26 for the Bruins.

Just before the game, league president Clarence Campbell gave Gelineau the Calder Trophy which he won last year as the outstanding rookie of the 1949-50 season. Campbell also awarded the Charles F. Adams memorial award to Milt Schmidt, Bruins' most valuable player of the season.

Both Clubs Idle

Both clubs are idle tonight, when Detroit plays at Chicago and New York is at Montreal.

In other games this week, New York is at Toronto and Detroit at Montreal Saturday. Sunday Toronto is at Chicago, New York at Boston and Montreal at Detroit.

A Boston power play misfired for the second goal. Tod Sloan grabbed the puck and centred it for Cal Gardner after a rink-long dash. Gardner beat Gelineau at point-blank range.

Two misconduct penalties were called in the first period. Fern Flaman of Boston got one for arguing with referee George Gravel after an elbowing penalty. The same thing happened to Toronto's Bill Barilko later in the period when he protested too loudly about his minor penalty.

Seven Members Of Executive Ready to Quit

Kitchener, Oct. 19 (CP) —Seven members of the executive of the Intercounty Baseball Association have refused to run again for office claiming that control of baseball in the league by the senior clubs is ruining the game.

But Ernie Gomen, president and manager of the provincial champion Waterloo Tigers, says the executive members "have been saying the same thing for several years, but when the meetings come round they change their minds."

He added that senior clubs were doing more for the minors than had ever been done before.

The question is expected to be thrashed out at the league's annual meeting. Right now, opinion is divided.

James Van De Water, spokesman for Kitchener Legionnaires, says his club would like more control by the executive and less by the senior teams. He is supported by Jim Hendricks of Guelph Maple Leafs.

But Larry Pennell of Brantford Red Sox says that the league is now a professional organization with an amateur structure. Too many men on the executive, he said, don't know how a modern ball is financed.

Hockey's Big Six

(By The Canadian Press)

Detroit's Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay remain atop the National Hockey League scoring list, the only game in the N.H.L. Wednesday night having no effect on the two Detroit players.

Both players have one goal and three assists to head the parade with four points.

Three players are tied for second slot— Maurice Richard, Montreal, Max Bentley, Toronto and Roy Conacher, Chicago. Richard has two goals and an assist and Bentley and Conacher reverse the situation. Almost 20 players follow with two points.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts.
Howe, Detroit	1	3	4
Lindsay, Detroit	1	3	4
Richard, Montreal	2	1	3
Bentley, Toronto	1	2	3
Conacher, Chicago	1	2	3

Louis Believes He Can Win Back Title from Charles

Chicago, Oct. 19 — (AP)—Argentine Cesar Brion is the first road block sprawled before Joe Louis in his projected shuffle up the long trail back to the top of fistiana.

Ironically, the foe the former heavyweight champion will oppose at the Chicago Stadium Nov. 29 has the one asset — youth — which apparently weighed so heavily against Louis when he was pummelled by champion Ezzard Charles at New York Sept. 27.

Louis, however, is confident he can brush past the 26-year-old Brion, winner of 31 bouts against three defeats. Then he hopes to whip probably Lee Oma and Rocky Marciano and then square things with Charles next June.

The 36-year-old, faded Brown Bomber will go into preliminary training at West Baden, Ind., next week and return here for his final sharpening up three weeks before his scheduled 10 - rounder with Brion.

This comeback will be for blood, not for money, Joe said yesterday as he obtained an Illinois boxing licence from the State Athletic Commission.

"I need money, sure, but the real reason I'm comin' back in that I know I can beat Charles and I want to work my way back to another fight with him," drawled Louis.

He fingered his left eye, which Charles' sharp punches had pounded into a miniature watermelon. It still is slightly puffed.

Better in Training

"I felt better in training that I did the night of my fight with Charles," Louis said. "I don't want to alibi, but I couldn't shake off a cold I got five days before the fight and I was taking penicillin two days before the fight.

"I just fought Charles different than I trained for him. I had worked to put him away in three or four rounds. But at the last minute I changed my mind, after two men in my dressing room advised me to box him. That was wrong." He didn't name his counsellors, but one was supposed to be welter champ Sugar Ray Robinson.

"From now on, I'm going to be a tiger again. Nail 'em fast and keep 'em down."

When somebody suggested that by the time he faces Charles next June, he'll be one year older, Louis quickly retorted:

"So will Charles" (who'll be 30 next July).

Proceeds Will Be Given Mother Of Jackie Bell

Toronto, Oct. 19 (CP) — The Balmy Beach football club decided Wednesday night to turn over all proceeds of its game here Sunday to the mother of Jack Bell, Sarnia player fatally injured in a game against the Beach team.

Paul McGarry, manager of the Toronto team, said an executive meeting voted to make the game a benefit for Mrs. Jennie Bell, a widow. The Beaches meet Sarnia Imperials in a scheduled Ontario Union game at Maple Leaf Stadium.

McGarry and Carl Galbreath, Beach halfback, will attend the 25-year-old player's funeral tomorrow at Sarnia.

It was while making a flying tackle on Galbreath, former North Carolina State star, that Bell was fatally injured last Saturday and died in hospital early Tuesday at Sarnia. McGarry said that Mrs. Bell had invited Galbreath to the funeral.

The Beach team has asked Mrs. Bell to Sunday's game here at the team's expense.

Charlie Fusari Beats Pellone By T.K.O. in 10th

Chicago, Oct. 19 — (AP)—The International Boxing Club has had some dandy Chicago Stadium scraps, such as last night's Charlie Fusari - Tony Pellone slugfest. But finding a way to make the public pay to see them is another story.

Fusari scored a 10th-round technical knockout over the incredibly - game Pellone and television scored some sort of a knockout over the I.B.C. Only 3,924 fans preferred watching the gladiators in the flesh to seeing them on the video screen. The I. B. C. had expected at least 10,000. The gross was $19,205 and the net only $14,774.

Just two weeks ago about 8,900 attended the also - televised Rocky Graziano - Gene Burton brawl. The I.B.C. had hoped for 12,000. So it looks like a long, lean winter at the gate for the I.B.C., which still has eight Chicago television commitments in a 10-show package deal.

Fusari, at 148, and Pellone, 146½, put on a savage scrap before tough Tony crumbled under Fusari's whistling lefts and rights. Referee Johnny Behr stopped the fight in 1:44 of the 10th and last round. Pellone courageously staggered to his feet at an eight-count but obviously would have been decapitated by one more Fusari flurry.

The triumph avenged Fusari's close setback by Pellone in 1947 when the Greenwich Village toughie snapped Charlie's 45-straight-winning streak. That was their only previous meeting. Now Fusari can set his sights on the welter crown Sugar Ray Robinson is expected to vacate soon.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

McGill University was matched with Harvard at Boston, Mass. During the warm-up period Harvard noticed to their amazement that McGill's team were kicking and carrying the ball. That was something new to Harvard in 1875, so the two captains got together.
They discovered they were playing different games. McGill had come to play rugger. Harvard was ready for soccer . . . but liked the Canadian game. The result was the United States' first "football" match—ending in a scoreless tie.

Owen Sounders One Game Ahead Of Adanacs

[illegible]ronto, Oct. 19 (CP) —Owen [illegible]d Crescents showed last [illegible]ght that they could stall as well as score as the dumped New Westminster Adanacs 8-5 and came within a game of the Canadian senior lacrosse title.

Crescents slipped into a narrow lead midway through the third quarter then slowed to a walk to tie up the speedy Adanacs for the rest of the game.

The strategy gave them the game and a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven finals for the Mann Cup.

Playing behind a stubborn defence, Owen Sound goalie Lloyd Wootton kept the Adanacs scoreless through the final half.

The victory made the crescents in the Mann Cup finals for the first time in their five-year history, odds-on favorites to take the sixth gave and the cup Fri[illegible]day. Adanacs must take two [illegible]traight to win. They face, too, the jinx that has blocked a western team from ever winning the championship in the east.

Ahead 6-5 at the start of the final quarter, Crescents kept the ball outside the tight New Westminster defence. But they slipped Don Campbell and Jack Mason through for goals.

Coach Bob Lee of Adanacs said later: "We lost the game ourselves in the last quarter, through everyone trying to do it himself."

Tied at Half Time

Crescents moved ahead 5-3 in the first quarter, but New Westminster tied it by the end of the half. Owen Sound went ahead again in the third on a goal by playing coach Doug Gillespie.

Gillespie, Mason and Arnold (Onions) Smith each scored twice for Crescents. Campbell and Don McWhirter each scored once. Bob Bremner with two, [illegible]ack Northup, Red Jerome and [illegible]alph Douglas scored for Adanacs.

Bremner got his first goal of the game 16 seconds after the face-off. Smith tied the score a scant 30 seconds later and goals by Gillespie and Smith shot the Crescents ahead 3-1 before Northup and Jerome tied the score. Goals by Mason and McWhirter put the Crescents ahead again.

The Adanacs held the Crescents scoreless in the second period while Bremner and Douglas scored to tie the game. With Gillespie's final goal giving his club the lead again, Owen Sound then launched into a tight defensive formation to keep the ball from the Adanacs.

Sports Roundup

New York, Oct. 19 (AP) — Two years ago the Chicago Cubs [illegible]ere putting up a heck of a fight [illegible]o establish a class-A farm at Springfield, Mo., in the western association. . .they carried it right up to boss George Trautman to get an okay to switch from Hutchinson, Kas., to Springfield. . . they loaned the local folks $25,000 to build a ball park and finally got what they wanted. . . now the Cubs have dropped the franchise, even though the town still owes them $21,500 and they are having no luck in getting another major-league club to take over . . .the situation is more or less the same at Enid, Okla., where the Giants pulled out to enter into a working agreement with Muskogee. . . the answer? We dunno except the Springfield drew 38,000 baseball fans this season and 70,000 for softball games. . .maybe this "gentleman framing" business is getting too expensive for millionaires.

Brawls, Injuries Mar First Home Game at Windsor

By The Canadian Press

Brawls and injuries marred Windsor Spitfires' first home game of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season last night, as Barrie Flyers took a 4-2 decision from the home team.

Officials handed out 98 minutes of penalties, 55 of them to Spits. Windsor players Elmer Skov and Martin Zorica went off through injuries.

First blow-up came in the first period, when Eddie Joss and Real Chevrefils squared off. Tempers became short and donnybrooks broke out in all three periods.

Reg Campbell, Jack McKnight, Jim Morrison and Chevrefils were the Barrie marksmen. Earl Johnson and John Offidani scored for Windsor.

The win put Flyers in top spot in the standings, with a perfect three-game three-win record. Two points behind them were Guelph Biltmores, who were idle last night, and St. Catharines Teepees, who squeezed out a 3-3 overtime tie with Stratford Kroehlers.

It was St. Kitts' second tie in three games. They overcame a first-period 3-0 deficit to tie it up and go into a scoreless 10-minute overtime period.

Johnny Wood, Ross Myles and Brian McFarlane tallied in the first before Wayne Brown broke the ice for Teepees. Third period St. Kitts tallies came from Pierre Pilote and Bob Taylor.

Lose Third Straight

In Waterloo, the new member of the 10-team loop, Waterloo Hurricanes, lost their third straight as they bowed 8-1 to Galt Black Hawks. It was the Hawks' first win in three tries.

Hurricanes' defence cracked in the final period and Galt punched home five goals. Waterloo went ahead on Benny Cardas' first-stanza tally, but were swamped from there.

Right-winger Don Hogan turned the hat trick for Hawks. Pete Conacher with two, Len Cooke, George Gosalin and Tonny Poeta added the others.

Oshawa Generals played host to their old foes, St. Michael's Majors, and swamped the Toronto club 11-1 for their first win of the season. St. Mikes has only a tie in three games.

Bobby Attersley took three counters for the winners, Harry Sinden two. Alec Delvecchio Lou Jankowski, Stan Mills, Rene Leroux, George Samolenko and Rio Caron were the other Oshawa scorers. Jack Weldrake tallied the St. Michael's goal.

All ten teams see action Friday, with Senior A teams opening their schedule. In the senior loop, Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchman visit Hamilton Tigers.

Junior A play will see Oshawa at Guelph, St. Michael's at Barrie, Marlboros at Windsor, Waterloo at Stratford and Galt at St. Catharines.

Hockey Writers Will Select All-Star Team

Boston, Oct. 19 — (AP) President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League last night announced that the hockey writers in the circuit's six cities will select the 1950-51 N. H. L. All-Star team.

Three ballots, listing first, second and third choices for each of the six positions, will be cast by selected writers in Boston, New York, Detroit, Chicago, Toronto and Montreal.

In recent years the National Hockey League's coaches have participated in the All-star voting, which provides $1,000 bonuses for players named on the first team and $500 for second choices.

Campbell said the coaches asked to be relieved of that obligation because they were not permitted to vote for players on their own teams.

Hershey Bears In Top Spot East Division

(By The Canadian Press)

Hershey Bears today are holding undisputed possession of first place in the American Hockey League's eastern division.

The Bruins last night bumped Springfield Indians 8-4 while Cleveland Barons whipped St. Louis Flyers 3-1 and Buffalo Bisons scored a 4-2 victory over Providence Reds.

The Springfield loss was the Indians' first of the season and the Bears slashed their defences to pieces. Arnie Kullman got two goals while Gerry Brown, Johnny Mahaffy, Joe Schertzl, Jack McIntyre, Gariepy and Corcoran scored the others.

Gord Tottle, Doug McMurdy, Bill Gooden and Sammy Casanato counted for the losers.

In Cleveland, 7,256 fans turned out to see the season's opener and witnessed a ding-dong battle until the second period. Roy Kelly, Murdo Mackay and Les Douglas banged in the Barons' goals, one in each period. Al Baccari scored the lone St. Louis goal in the first period.

Buffalo poured on a three-goal blitz in four minutes of the second period to wallop Buffalo. The Reds had a 2-1 lead when Paul Meger, Sid McNabney and Gordon Pennell went on a rampage. Meger got the other Buffalo goal. Jackie Hamilton and Donat Deschenes scored for the Reds.

Ottawa May Have International Baseball Club

Ottawa, Oct. 19 (CP) —T. P. (Tommy) Gorman, manager of Ottawa Nationals of the Border Baseball League, said Wednesday he is "definitely interested" in an International League baseball team for Ottawa in 1951 if a deal could be made for the New York Giants to shift their Jersey City franchise to the capital.

Horace Stoneham, owner of the New York Giants and Jersey City clubs, is shopping around for a better spot for his Giants because television had greatly reduced the attendance in Jersey City.

Gorman said he has been in touch with Stoneham and while other cities south of the border are also considered, the New York Giant boss is interested in discussing the Ottawa site.

"I personally believe that an International League team in Ottawa would be the best thing that has happened in the capital for a number of years," said Gorman.

"Three other clubs in the International League have expressed the view they would like to see the franchise shifted to Ottawa. They feel it ideally located."

Kingston Scores Double Victory Over Cornwall

Cornwall, Oct. 19—CP—Kingston Collegiate and Vocational School scored a twin triumph over Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School in an Eastern Ontario Secondary Schools Association football doubleheader here Wednesday.

K.C.V.I. seniors chalked up a 10-5 victory, with the juniors edging Cornwall 6-2 in the junior contest. The defeat was the first in three games for the Cornwall juniors.

Gord Jeffries accounted for all of Kingston's points in the senior game by scoring two converted touchdowns, one on a spectacular 40-yard run. Allan Kellog plunged over the Kingston line for a major in the final quarter for Cornwall's five points.

Ken Lagden and Ron Macateer kicked singles to give Cornwall juniors a 2-0 lead at the half, but K.V.C.I. rallied to score a touchdown in the third quarter. Case got Kingston's major, with Wedgewick adding the point after the touchdown.

300,000 Miles On Bicycle Jaunts

Toronto — (CP) — Basil Raynham of suburban Weston has been in an automobile only six times in his life and on a street-car only seven times.

But on a bicycle — that's different. The wiry 51-year-old has logged about 300,000 miles through England, Canada and the United States since 1914.

When he came here from England in 1923, he had travelled only 50,000 miles, but has made up for it since then. Trips to South Carolina, Quebec City and the Adirondacks added to his score. His favorite pedalling grounds still are in Ontario, however.

On long trips, a tent, a stove, dishes and cutlery are strapped somewhere on one of his two machines. Extra clothing and a rain-cape are always standard equipment.

Mr. Raynham advocates more government-owned camp-sites in Ontario. "They are a boon to both motorcyclists and cyclists," he said.

He'd like to do it, but feels he has a long way to go to equal the record of another Englishman, F. J. Head of Birmingham, who has totted up some 512,000 miles.

FOUR TO HAVE DISPOSAL

Fort Erie, Oct. 19 — (CP) — The International Joint Waterways Commission has listed four Canadian border municipalities that contribute to the pollution of Niagara River as contemplating sewage disposal improvement, or having plans under consideration. They are, Crystal Beach, Fort Erie, Niagara Falls and Welland.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A master of bridge play considers all the angles. This enables him to make decisions that seem unusual. As when south is declarer at spades and west leads a club in this deal:

NORTH
♠A 10 6 3
♥Q
♦Q 6 5 4 3
♣A 7 6

WEST
♠2
♥10 9
♦K 9 7 2
♣Q 9 8 5 4 2

EAST
♠J 8 5
♥J 8 7 3 2
♦J 10 8
♣K 10

SOUTH
♠K Q 9 7 4
♥A K 6 5 4
♣J 3

To take all 13 tricks, dummy hops up with club ace and cashes heart queen; south wins a trump and cashes all his red tops to sluff two dummy clubs; cross-ruffs take care of the rest.

Comes the worry: If the third heart top is ruffed by opponent, the third dummy club cannot be sluffed on anything. In that case, declarer will be faced with a losing trick in clubs.

Therefore, why not first pull two rounds of trumps instead of one before leading top hearts? If opponents are found with an even trump break there is no danger of a heart top ruff by them.

But if two trump rounds are drawn, dummy will have left only two trumps for ruffing purposes. These are not enough for ruffs of two hearts and south club. So, a trick would be lost thereby.

Comes the thought: If hearts split three-four as usual only one south heart need be ruffed. So, why not plan for this instead of the unexpected heart division of five-two? A reasonable point.

But if the heart split is three-four the third-top heart will not be ruffed. So, the only danger is finding the heart split five-two. Thus the plan employed is the only play to consider.

There is of course the danger that the opponent with only two hearts may also have two or more trumps. In fact, this is a known percentage likelihood. And it should be considered.

But unless the short heart opponent has also only one trump the 13 tricks cannot be taken anyway. So, being the only hope, a master player goes for it. Good reckoning.

Trawler Crew Rescued

Reykjavik, Iceland, Oct. 19 — (Reuters) — A Icelandic lifeboat yesterday rescued the crew of the 260-ton Scottish trawler Ivercauld, stranded at Cardskagi in Faxa bay. The fate of the trawler was uncertain.

Movie Column

Hollywood, Oct. 19 — (AP) — And now the disk jockeys can come into television.

The record spinners, considered the blessing of radio by some and a blight by others, have been concerned about the transition to television. The question arises:—Who wants to look at a guy and a turntable?

A Los Angeles money man named Louis Snader is coming to the rescue of the jocks. He is the head of Snader Telescriptions, which is producing visual records for television. These are separate films featuring top musical talent and running between three and four minutes each — the same as a phonograph record.

Snader has already made 130 of them and will have a backlog of 960 in a year. Performers already lined up include Patricia Morison, Peggy Lee, King Cole, Diana Lynn, Mitzi Green, Cab Calloway, Mel Torme, Lionel Hampton and Herb Jeffries.

Of course, the film records will cost TV stations much more than phonograph records. But Snader figures the price will be cheap compared with average expenses in TV.

Capsule Review

"September Affair" is polished in all departments, including music, backgrounds and acting. It's the story of a couple who try to lead new lives together after they are presumed to have died in a plane crash. Naturally their plan is doomed, especially when his wife shows up. The story is interesting but sometimes lacks in reality and takes too long to unravel. Joseph Cotten, Joan Fontaine and some actual Italian scenery are the best elements in the film.

AT THE McCARTHY—Burt Lancaster and Virginia Mayo face the Hessian guards in this scene from Warner Bros.' Technicolor release, "The Flame and the Arrow", story of the Lombardian uprising in medieval Italy. The film is now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Free Of Constipation, Dizzy Spells, He Praises Syntona

Also Relieved Indigestion, Gastritis: "Can Eat Well, Sleep Better," Recommends it to Others.

Many people say Syntona Herbal Compound is the best medicine they ever used for relief of common disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Symptoms from which they suffered for years soon disappear say these people and soon the whole system seems to take on a new feeling of strength and energy.

Such is the experience of Mr. Arthur Hewitt, 7 Dundas Street, West, London, Ontario, who says: Syntona acts on the liver in a mooth, gentle manner gradually working off the excess bile day by day. Its action is not harsh. It tones up the digestive organs, increases the appetite and helps restore tired, excited nerves.

"For years I was troubled with constipation, indigestion, gastritis and dizzy feelings. If I walked a short distance I would be short of breath. My appetite was poor, I couldn't get my proper sleep at night and finally my entire system felt rundown.

"Syntona has cleansed my system thoroughly and overcome the constipation so that now I am regular every day. It cleared up all the gas, shortness of breath and indigestion. Now I eat well, sleep is more sound and restful and I don't get those dizzy feelings as I did before. I wouldn't take anything for the good results I got by taking just a short treatment of Syntona and I will gladly recommend it to others."

Sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Show of Poor Sportsmanship Says Director

(By The Canadian Press)

front-page story in a Toronto paper (Telegram) suggesting that McGill University football players are subsidized is described by Vic Obeck, director of athletics for McGill, as a "show of poor sportsmanship."

Obeck said in Montreal yesterday that it was the "usual story" of attempting to excuse the poor showing of University of Toronto Blues in last Saturday's game against McGill in which they lost 25-0.

The Toronto story dealt mainly with the McGill Touchdown Club, outlining its activities.

This, Obeck said, was everything but news. A Montreal paper had carried the story a month ago and it certainly didn't warrant front page.

Obeck said it was true that the Touchdown Club was booster club for the McGill team and he thought its members were doing a commendable job. "There's nothing wrong with it; these clubs exist elsewhere than at McGill.

Two top drivers at the Bay State Raceway harness track say they have been suspended by the Massachusetts Racing Commission for giving horses vitamin B1.

Harry Coleman of Augusta, Me., the track's leading driver with 190 points, and Peg Jones of Oswego, N.Y., nationally-known one-legged owner, trainer and driver, said they would appeal the suspensions.

Coleman said he has been giving Anita Hedgewood vitamin B1 on a "veterinary's prescription to correct a deficiency in the horse's diet.

Jones was set down for feeding the vitamin to Pablo Hanover owned by a "Dr. Maxon" of Hartford, Conn. The owner, Jones said, prescribed the vitamin.

Under state racing laws it is illegal to feed horses the vitamin within 48 hours of a race.

Jones contended he did not give Pablo Hanover the vitamin within 72 hours of a race.

Joe (The Toe) Aguirre of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders' Jack Hartman are waging a close battle for the western football league scoring title.

Aguirre picked up five points in the last two games against Roughriders to retain the lead. But he's only three points ahead of Hartman who collected nine in the two contests and moved from third to second.

League statistics give Aguirre a 56-point total made up of two touchdowns, five field goals, 21 converts and 10 singles. Hartman has one touchdown, seven field goals, 22 converts and one single for 53.

Tom Casey of Bombers scored a touchdown last weekend to move up to third place with 46 points. Mike King of Edmonton, previously second to Aguirre, has 45.

Bobby Locke of South Africa won the Harry Vardon trophy for the lowest stroke average in international golf, the British Professional Golfers Association announced in London yesterday.

Locke, who won the British Open championship for the second straight year, played in seven British tournaments and average 70.03 strokes a round for 30 rounds.

Volimite, greatest sire in the history of harness racing and daddy of four Hambletonian winners, will be retired from public service and restricted as a private stallion, it was announced Wednesday in New York.

Does Your Roof Look Like This?

Or is it WEATHERTIGHT like this?

If you want a roof that's weathertight and long-lasting—then get Barrett Storm King* Roll Roofing. The 19" overlay provides double coverage over the entire roof. It conceals nailheads, locks them inside, prevents them from drawing with frost or rusting away. The individual rolls lie flat and firm. They're actually fused together when you use Barrett S.I.S.* Roofing Cement. Ask your Barrett Dealer for "Storm King" Roll Roofing—three attractive colours to choose from.

Your Barrett dealer sells Protection Plus

He stocks a complete line of roofing, insulation and weatherproofing materials. He's got what it takes to stop almost any weather. Whether your problem is leakage, seepage, rust or rot—see your Barrett dealer first!

BIG STICK

The Douglas Fir flagpole presented by British Columbia to the Festival of Britain is 108 feet high.

FRENCH WIN SMALL BATTLE, LOSE BIG ONE

A military vehicle used in the thickly wooded areas in Indo-China for routing communist Viet Minh rebels, is shown in action here with two of the rebel band lying dead in the clearing and a third emerging from the bush in surrender. The French government has announced that it is considering sending reinforcements to Indo-China, where the communist-led rebels have won their biggest victory of the four-year-old jungle war. — Central Press Canadian.

French Africa Strives To Stop Dowry System

Brazzaville, French Equatorial Africa —(AP)— A strong movement is afoot here and in the Belgian Congo [illegible] the ancient and [illegible] dowry system which [illegible] has proved the virtual ruination of poor young prospective husbands.

African deputies in the Colonial government, sociologists and progressives are behind the movement.

Understandably, they are strongly backed by the young native bachelors who, according to tribal custom, must pay out exorbitant amounts to the family of the girl of their choice before they can marry her.

Opponents of the system say the dowry is so high that most of the healthy young working men would rather stay single than face the almost certain financial ruin.

They say it is virtually a system of bride-selling. It tends, they say, to make marriage the privilege of only rich old men, especially where polygamy is still the practice.

But the tribal chiefs and even some educated Africans favor continuation of the old system. They argue it seals the bond of alliance between clans and that to abolish it would break up the whole tribal system.

In a still-Pagan society, say the supporters of the dowry, nothing would remain to instil the sense of responsibility and co-operation between husband and wife, or in-law clans, if the system disappears.

Although this may be true to some degree, the progressives declare that it could be solved by spreading the doctrines of Christianity — particularly of Christian marriages.

A number of missionaries already have started a campaign to introduce Christian marriages into the tribal scheme. A few tribes already have done away with or modified the old, burdensome dowry.

But here in Brazzaville, a young houseboy who has his eye on a prospective bride had this problem:

The girl's father wants 5,000 French francs for the bride, 6,000 francs for himself, and a suit and a pair of shoes costing another 4,000 to 5,000 francs.

The girl's mother demands a piece of cotton cloth costing around 1,000 francs.

The wedding — if the houseboy ever gets that far along the matrimonial road — will cost another 5,000 francs just for the wine.

The boy only earns 2,000 francs a month, of which he pays 200 for a shabby room in a thatched hut leased to him by his employer. If he tries to borrow the money he needs, the loan sharks will take about 20 to 25 per cent interest a month.

In the more remote bush country the bride prices are a lot lower than the inflated city rate. But the bridegroom makes less to start with and the dowry still means financial ruin.

Operating Costs May Spell Doom Of Vienna Cafes

Vienna — (Reuters) — The famous coffee houses of Vienna, for centuries centres of Vienna's cultural, musical and social life, are in danger of extinction.

The high price of coffee, which has risen 700 per cent since 1937, and rising costs of rent, coal, milk, sugar and newspapers have made it difficult for coffee houses to make both ends meet.

At present, 70 per cent of Vienna's cafes are reported to be running at a loss.

A meeting of representatives of the 1,200 Vienna cafes was called recently to discuss their plight. The meeting decided to petition the government to lighten taxation on them, to let them buy coffee and other raw materials at wholesale prices, and to pay for light and power at industrial rates.

Many of them expressed doubt as to whether it would be possible, in view of high prices, money shortage and postwar changed habits, to prevent many of the well-known coffee houses from dying out.

The first Vienna coffee house, first of its kind in Europe, was opened in 1683 by Franz Georg Kulczynski, a Pole of aristocratic family.

Extended Function

After their establishment, the coffee houses gradually extended their function. Billiard tables and later chess and card tables were added and then newspapers.

Special groups soon began to have their own special cafes. There were cafes specially patronized by cyclists, football players, fishermen, chess players. Some cafes were the rendezvous of journalists, policemen, actors, opera singers, stock exchange employees and dozens of other categories.

First blow to the cafes was struck in March, 1938, when the Nazis marched in. They hated everything for which the Vienna cafe stood — freedom of expression, liberal arts, leisure, tolerance of idea and the free exchange of opinions and information. Their occupation halted the gossip and friendly atmosphere and the charm of the Vienna cafe disappeared.

The second great blow, or rather a long and intense series of blows — came with the Allied bombing. Dozens of cafes were destroyed. Few were undamaged.

Third and most deadly blow was the disillusionment of the immediate postwar period.

Among the younger people, new habits are growing up. Milk bars, coffee bars, ice cream parlors and "snack bars" have opened since the war. They are new and bright and cheap and have caught on among the younger people who never had the cafe habit.

British Prisons "Beds of Roses" --Police Chief

Dunfermline, Scotland — (CP) —Life in a British prison has become a veritable bed of roses. That, at least, is the verdict of a man who should know — William Merrilees, chief constable of the Lothians and Peebles.

The chief constable prompted general eye-brow lifting when he told members of the Dunfermline Business Men's Club that prisons in the country were being made too comfortable for criminals.

"Such things as whisky, sherry and roast beef have been carried to the prisoners," he said. "I know of one Glasgow prisoner who has never missed his week-end joint. What's more, warders are even being sent to London for training courses to enable them to operate movie projectors."

Merrilees charged that leniency of the courts and "mollycoddling" of prisoners were adding greatly to the difficulties of police forces, already understaffed.

In Edinburg, he said, most of the big "jobs" were planned inside Saughton Prison. Men had been found leaving prison with plans and documents dealing with crimes they intended to commit.

"Three years ago," he added, "we used to worry about people escaping from Saughton. Now we are worried about people breaking in and carrying food to their pals."

IGNORANCE IS BLISS

Diamonds were first noticed in Brazil when natives used them as counters in certain card games.

MACARTHUR DIRECTS MIGHTY AERIAL ATTACK

Six Burned to Death in Tenement Fire

Mother, 3 Children Victims of Blaze At St. John's, Nfld.

Third-Degree Burns Suffered By Three Injured Persons

St. John's Nfld., Oct. 20, (CP)—Six persons, including a mother and her three children, died in flames that ravaged a three-storey tenement in the west business-residential section of this old capital early today.

The Dead

Mrs. Jack Raines and her three children: Jack Raines, 18; John Raines, 19; Gordon Raines, 7; Fred Raines, Mrs. Raines' brother-in-law; Fred Raines Jr., 31, a son.

The Injured

Jack Raines, husband of the dead mother, and two other children: Ruby Raines, 6; Aileen Raines, 4; Bride Delaney.

Worst Since 1948.

The fire was the worst in this old city since the winter of 1948, when 34 persons died in a blaze that destroyed the Hull Old People's Home. One hundred persons lost their lives in a fire in a Knights of Columbus hostel in 1942.

Firemen beat their way through flame and smoke in the blazing tenement building in a desperate race to save life. Soon they started carrying out bodies and unconscious victims.

Until ambulances reached the scene, police applied artificial respiration to victims stretched out in the street on blankets provided by residents of the area.

Prince Street runs between Water Street, Newfoundland's main business section, and New Gower street, a residential district.

The injured all have third-degree burns.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, was discovered at 4:30 a.m. A.S.T. in the big dwelling that was occupied by the two brothers and their families. Four persons were dead when they were taken from the building and the others died in hospital.

Jack Raines escaped by leaping from a second-storey window.

Premier Frost Will Back Judge In Investigation

Toronto, Oct. 20. (CP)—Premier Frost said Thursday the Ontario government will back up Judge Archibald Cochrane, chairman of the Windsor Police Commission, if he decides he needs wider powers in the drive to better law enforcement in the Border city.

"We are determined to find out everything in the current Windsor police probe," the Premier said in a statement, "and we are not pulling any punches."

He was commenting on reports that the police commission might be handicapped because of the ramifications of the inquiry. There have been suggestions that a royal commission might be needed to get at the root of the trouble.

"If Judge Cochrane feels the need for wider powers to clean up the entire situation, then we will assist him," said Mr. Frost. But he believed the judge has all the power he needs.

The Premier branded as "ridiculous" suggestions that Attorney-General Porter resign. Mr. Porter had acted with speed and drastic action as soon as the Windsor situation came to light.

(Eamon Park, C.C.F. member of the legislature for Toronto Dovercourt, said Wednesday night that Mr. Porter was implicated to the extent that persons who have resigned since the probe started "were maintained in office by his department for so many years.")

20-Year Prison Term Given For Manslaughter

Windsor, Oct. 20—(CP)—William Clark, 24, convicted of manslaughter in the strangulation death of a 54-year-old Windsor woman, today was sentenced to 20 years in penitentiary by Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel.

A supreme court jury Wednesday acquitted Clark on a charge of murder, but found him guilty of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Margaret Cody in a downtown Windsor hotel room May 23.

"It is an extremely serious case—a horrible crime, shocking in the extreme," Mr. Justice LeBel said in passing sentence.

Evidence in the trial was that Clark attacked Mrs. Cody when he suspected she was stealing his wallet from the hotel room they shared in the early hours of May 23. He said he remembered nothing of his attack on her after hitting her and knocking her to the bed.

Clarke admitted that both he and Mrs. Cody had been drinking heavily. They registered at the hotel as man and wife. Following the attack, Clark left for Toronto and later gave himself up to Toronto police.

"You apparently have not been able to control the wild beast within you, so society must now do something to control that wild beast," Mr. Justice LeBel told Clark.

Adamson Opposes Government Controls

Toronto, Oct. 20—(CP)—Rodney Adamson, Progressive-Conservative member of parliament for West York, said today Canadians should be allowed to travel anywhere they like, take as much money as they like with them and invest as much money as they wish wherever they want, without any government controls.

He told a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Progressive Club "our economy is tied to that of the United States at a time when America is entering its highest period of inflation."

He advocated abolition of currency controls, free gold market and revaluation of the dollar (now in effect) as measures which would "insulate" the Canadian economy against outside interference.

Convict Fails to Escape by Sewer, Trapped by Hot Water, Tries Suicide

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 20 (Ap)—A convict made a desperate escape attempt via a sewer at Southern Michigan Prison yesterday and tried to kill himself when it was futile.

Trapped by hot water in a storm sewer, lifer Reece A. Lawson plunged a knife into his chest.

Over his head were 10 tons of coal. Prison guards and employees dug through it to free the fugitive from what could have been a self-chosen grave.

Lawson, 49, serving life for a Detroit policeman's murder in 1947, stole off from his prison plumbing job in mid-afternoon and crept into the sewer through a small opening.

Deep in the sewer, 500 yards from where he started, he was trapped by hot water issuing as waste from the prison cannery.

Guards heard his screams as they were searching for him.

Escape was apparently impossible. The sewer leads only to a precipitous well outside the prison yards. Without a ladder Lawson could never have emerged.

FIND MATERIALS FOR EXPLOSIVES IN POLICE RAID

Seven Persons Face Charges at Hamilton

Hamilton, Oct. 20 — (CP) — Police said today a province-wide search for a $500,000 safe-cracking ring may have ended here early today with the arrest of two women and five men on charges of robbery with violence, possession of explosives and conspiracy to rob.

Hamilton police with Inspector W. Franks of the C.I.D., Ontario Provincial Police, raided a Bold Street rooming house where they found materials for the manufacture of nitro-glycerine, a stolen car, bonds, and cash.

Investigation moved swiftly after detectives Albert Bunn and William Homer yesterday picked up two men carrying a suspicious-looking parcel on McNab Street. A search disclosed that the bundle contained acids used in the manufacture of nitro-glycerine.

A 4 a.m. today Hamilton police made a surprise raid on the rooming house where they picked up four other persons. They found enough acid to make a gallon of nitro-glycerine on the premises. Cash totalling $9,000, bonds, and two shotguns were also discovered.

A stolen car was found near the rooming house.

The seventh person to be held in connection with the alleged ring was arrested when he came to the central police station to inquire about those taken in the raid.

Police believe that those arrested may be implicated in a safe-cracking ring responsible for robberies totalling $500,000 in cash and bonds since the beginning of August. A series of robberies near Binbrook and Keswick is believed the work of the ring.

Following the raid the seven persons appeared in magistrate's court this morning.

Charged with illegal possession of explosives were William Ferguson, 27, of Toronto, and Allan Dixon, 25, of Hamilton. They were remanded without bail until Oct. 27.

U.K. Dentist Gets Bit Of Rough Treatment

Nottingham, England, Oct. 20. (Reuters)—A dentist, whose name was not revealed, got a bit of rough treatment himself from the state-operated dental service yesterday. Dental treatment is part of Britain's National Health scheme.

The Nottingham Health executive drilled into the dentist for:

1. Removing 19 teeth from a patient's mouth when only one needed attention. The executive ordered $380 docked from his pay.
2. Giving treatment under unhygienic conditions. A further $70 deducted.
3. His own appearance "leaving much to be desired". The committee said an inspector found him wearing "a very worn and dirty suit" and he had not shaved. He was told to smarten up.

280 U.S. Prisoners of War Believed Beaten, Murdered On Death March from Seoul

Pyongyang, Korea, Oct. 20.—(AP) — Three nearly-starved American prisoners today told a ghastly tale of a "death march" from Seoul to Pyongyang by 283 U.S. soldiers.

Many of their comrades, the bearded trio said, were beaten and murdered by their communist captors. The communists had shrugged their shoulders and said a few more atrocities against them did not matter.

The few survivors, said the liberated prisoners, boosted the American prisoners of war held in Pyongyang to 373. Most of the 373 were moved to the north to an unknown fate as Pyongyang began to totter.

The three said they saw no other Americans in Pyongyang except those they marched with from Seoul.

They said they were told in Seoul that Maj.-Gen. William F. Dean, commander of the U. S. 24th Infantry Division who disappeared when Taejon fell last July, was in Pyongyang.

But when they arrived here they were told Dean had died in Seoul. There was no confirmation on this report.

Swinging down the main street the bearded and long-haired captives were found by a group of correspondents as the prisoners marched arm in arm with three North Korean students who had befriended them. The Americans told of buddies being "beaten and murdered" on a torture march from Seoul.

The three Americans, found by a group of correspondents, had been hiding since Saturday under a school. They had been fed by the students.

The three are Capt. William Locke of the U. S. Air Force, Army Lieut. Alexander Makaroumis and Army Sgt. Takeshi Kumdai.

They said they were the only survivors of a group of 283 prisoners marched here from Seoul in late September and early October.

The trio said the red Koreans told them they were being moved from Seoul to Pyongyang for "safety."

Locke said he pleaded with North Korean officials not to move the men, and to give medical attention to the wounded. But the North Koreans replied:

"We already got enough atrocities listed against us so a few more won't make any difference."

Died Like Flies

Locke said that during the death march Americans "died like flies from starvation, cold, pneumonia and dysentery."

Seventeen in the group were wounded when an American plane strafed their column, mistaking them for reds.

The three survived because they had hidden under the school. They said others of the group were marched north as the United Nations forces approached Pyongyang. Their fate was not known.

On the trudge from Seoul to Pyongyang, the trio said the reds shot those Americans who could not walk.

Said one:

"Some of the men were carrying their buddies on their backs. Guys who fell down were beaten and bayonetted by the red guards."

Kumdai said the North Korean guards told him earlier the Americans were to be taken to Mampojin, which is located along the Yalu River on the Korean-Manchurian border.

The three survivors seemed to be in fair physical condition. They said they were in better shape than any of the Americans who were marched out of here Saturday.

Scant Rations

Since their capture they had lived on scant rations of rice, water and food given them by civilians who visited the school.

All three accused the North Koreans of starving American prisoners and failing to give them necessary medical treatment.

Locke said 373 Americans were moved out of Seoul Sept. 20 as the Americans advanced on the city. He said many of the prisoners were suffering from hunger.

When the Americans arrived in Pyongyang they were placed in the school. Some civilians, including the three students who marched down the street with them today, were allowed to visit them. Some brought them cigarets.

The students told the trio of a trap door in the school building. The trio dropped through the trap door Saturday shortly before the other prisoners headed north.

Since then the three students had been feeding them with rice and water smuggled underneath the building.

Locke said while they were in Seoul three or four Russians visited them but didn't speak—"they just kind of smiled."

It was after allied troops took over Pyongyang today that the trio decided to emerge from beneath the school building.

U.S. is Prepared To Participate In 5-Power Meet

Lake Success, N. Y., Oct. 20 — (AP) — The United States announced today it was prepared to take part in a five-power meeting on problems threatening world peace.

This announcement was made in the U. N. Assembly's political committee by John Foster Dulles, Republican policy advisor to the State Department.

He warned, however, against underestimating the complexities of the problems involved and said the United States would insist on agreements based on justice.

Dulles backed the objectives of a Syrian - Iraq resolution calling for big power consultations. The five major nations would report back to the current session of the General Assembly any progress achieved.

CAUSTIC CHIEF

Oshawa, Ont., —(CP)—Police Chief O. D. Friend commented "the trouble with most of our sports figures is that their bodies are in good physical condition but they are a little weak in the head." The chief was in court when an amateur rugby and hockey player was fined $100 on a charge of having liquor.

Labor Board Refuses Request For New Hearing

Toronto, Oct. 20 — (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board Thursday refused a union request that it grant new hearings on two certification applications because union witnesses had not been properly subpoenaed.

The request was made by the Hotel and Restaurant and Bartenders International Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) The union seeks certification as bargaining unit for employees of two Kingston, Ont., hotels — the Fort Henry and the La Salle.

The board heard the two cases last Aug. 9. The union served summonses on three witnesses but only one attended the hearings. The board said the summonses were not properly served.

It refused to grant a request for new hearings.

It said, however, that the contradictory evidence placed before it at the hearings made it impossible to "determine whether there has been interference with the rights of the employees . . ."

It said it will send one of its examiners to Kingston to investigate the situation.

FOUR ARE KILLED, TWO CRITICALLY HURT IN CRASH

Two Automobiles Collide Head-on

Kapuskasing, Oct. 20 (CP) — Four persons were killed and two others critically injured in a head on crash of a jeep and an automobile near here Thursday night.

Dead are Allan Ross Fitzsimmons of Toronto, Ivan Cash, Leon Trottier and Rene Villiard, all of Kapuskasing.

William Henry Johnson of Toronto, driver of the car, and a man identified only as "Bucko" Buchanan of Kapuskasing, driver of the jeep, are in hospital in critical condition.

It was reported that the jeep and the car collided on the highway while rounding a small curve.

The four men from Kapuskasing riding in the jeep are employees of the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company there. The two Toronto men were riding in the car.

Show Findings To Presbytery First--Mutchmor

Toronto, Oct. 20 (CP) —Rev. J. R. Mutchmor today told Mayor Hiram Mc Callum that the Central Presbytery of the United Church will get his findings on "flourishing vice" in Toronto before Toronto's police can see them.

The Mayor had invited Dr. Mutchmor by letter to prove his charges before today's meeting of the Toronto Police Commission.

Today the Mayor said he has received a letter from Dr. Mutchmor, secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, declining the invitation. The refusal was made on the grounds that the report must be delivered to the Presbytery meeting next Tuesday before it can be made public.

The mayor's letter, released yesterday, said in part: "I have never tried to pretend that there was no vice or crime in Toronto. All I have said is that Toronto, in this regard compares favorably with any city of it ssize."

$5,000 Robbery Is Reported In Toronto

Toronto, Oct. 20 —(CP)—Two armed men today were reported to have held up and robbed the Edmund Peachey Ltd. Construction Company office on west-end Dundas Street of $5,000. Police had no further details immediately.

Claim Subsidized Aluminum House In U.K. Could Rent at Shilling Week

London, Oct. 20—(CP)—Members of parliament today received blueprints of a single-storey, aluminum house which sponsors claim could be rented at a shilling a week under government subsidy.

The dwelling would be factory-built and would have 600 square feet of floor space.

Plans and information on the proposed house were mailed yesterday to parliamentarians, town councils, county councils, church leaders and building trades-union officials. Sponsor of the idea is Robert Tarran, former Yorkshire builder who hopes to produce 10,000 of the new houses annually at a factory in Perth, Scotland.

Tarran said last night at a press conference in Perth that the house could be let at a subsidized rental of one shilling (15 cents) a week.

(Persons renting houses or apartments today pay anywhere from £5 ($15) to £12 a week, although those who obtained accommodation before or during the war sometimes pay as little as £2.)

Savings are made in restricted use of wood and plumbing. Only half a standard of soft wood is used compared with 1 1-2 to two standards allowed by law.

Chutists Jump To Cut off Red Escape Routes

Writing Final Pages of U.N. First Armed Police Action

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Oct. 20 — (AP)—Thousands of American parachute troops leaped to the kill in communist North Korea today.

Gen. MacArthur, who directed the spectacular aerial climax in a 15-hour on-the-spot flight, said on his return to Tokyo:

"The war, is very definitely coming to an end today."

Less than 24 hours after United Nations troops seized the heart of red Korea — Pyongyang — the U. S. parachute batilers were writing the final pages of the United Nations' historic first armed police action.

The aerial operation, 80 miles south of the Manchurian-border refuge for straggling red remnants, was virtually unopposed.

The Americans sealed off two highway and two railroad escape routes.

Cruising over the area, MacArthur puffed on his corn-cob pipe and told correspondents: (The AP's Tokyo Bureau chief, Russell Brines, accompanied MacArthur):

"Closing the trap should be the end of all organized resistance."

The parachute troopers were moving by that time toward the towns of Sukchon and Sunchon, 23 miles north of Pyongyang.

"I don't see any opposition," he said. "It looks like it was a complete surprise."

This was the apparent climax of the historic United Nations campaign, born in blood with the June 25 communist invasion of the Korean Republic.

Red Premier Kim Il Sung and his government were believed today to be either in far North Korea, Manchuria or Soviet Siberia.

After the parachute troops took off for combat, MacArthur landed in Pyongyang at an airstrip in the centre of the city.

He ordered Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker, the American Eighth Army commander, to send South Korean troops to the Manchurian border as fast as they could move.

Staff officers said conclusion of the organized fighting will be followed by an extensive mopping up campaign which will continue until all evidence of resistance is gone. American troops will remain in Korea until that time.

MacArthur has indicated he will keep American and Commonwealth troops short of the politically-explosive Manchurian and Siberian boundaries. But South Korean forces will operate there, he has indicated, wherever resistance may crop up.

The big paratrooper jump started at 2 p.m. (midnight EST) after a six-hour delay because of bad weather.

The 'chutists landed without opposition, except for scattered mortar fire during the first half hour they were on the ground.

The red mortars were silenced quickly.

American artillery, dropped by air in the first combat attack involving the parachuting of such equipment as heavy 105 millimetre howitzers, opened up on the reds right away.

Eight Injured, Three Critically In Car Collision

Hamilton, Oct. 20 — (CP) — Eight persons, at least three of whom were critically injured, were rushed yesterday by ambulances to hospital here following a collision between two automobiles at the intersection of Highway No. 57 and the Lincoln county road in Bismark, five miles east of Smithville.

Admitted to hospital were:

John Smith, 90, R. R. 1, St. Catharines, said to have a crushed chest, multiple rib fractures, collapsed lung and other injuries—condition critical;

John Bethell, 30, Toronto, fractured vertebrae, fractured pelvis and ribs, multiple lacerations—condition critical;

Roy Oda, 22, of Toronto, internal injury — condition critical;

Mrs. Ellen Foster, 50, Buffalo, fractured jaw, fractured ribs;

Roy Foster, 29, Buffalo, fractured vertebrae and severe lacerations to face;

William R. Combe, 54, R. R. 1, St. Catharines, driver of one car, fractured skull, lacerations to back of head and left leg;

Mrs. William R. Combe, 60, R. R. 1, St. Catharines, fractured right leg;

Richard Cullenan, 28, Buffalo, driver of the other car, lacerations to face and right arm.

Mrs. Combe and 90-year-old John Smith were passengers in the Combe car while the other five injured were in the one driven by Cullenan.

The Cullenan car rolled over at least three times before coming to rest on its wheels, almost a total wreck with its right side and top crushed in. The front end of the other car was smashed in.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 20 (CP)—Synopsis. Warm sunny weather prevailed throughout Southern Ontario Thursday with maximum temperatures of 75 to 80. Cool air pushed rapidly southeastward in the evening and entered southern regions last night accompanied by high winds. An area of rain and snow spread across Northern Ontario where afternoon temperatures were in the 30s. Light snowflurries are still falling in a few northern districts. Today will be 15 to 20 degrees cooler than yesterday in Southern Ontario, and there will likely be frost in some districts tonight.

City and District News

FIREMEN CALLED FOR THREE RUNS

A pile of burning leaves on Bridge Street, a marsh at the rear of the Northern Electric plant on Water Street which in some manner got afire, and the local garbage dump on the bay front caused firemen three runs yesterday. No damage resulted as result of any of the blazes.

TWO DOGS PLACED IN CITY POUND

A collie dog and a female mongrel Irish terrier have been picked up by city dog catcher Thomas Thorne and are in pound awaiting their respective owners. Neither of the dogs was wearing tags as is required by city regulations.

PROWLER ENTERS BRIDGE ST. HOME

A prowler who last night entered an East Bridge Street home and proceeded up the stairs gave two baby sitters a scare. The two baby sitters were watching the television set when it is believed the prowler entered and made his way upstairs. The girls heard the noise but while they were giving the alarm the intruder is believed to have made his escape.

PUP IS CAUGHT IN TRAP SET

Traps set on the Larkins' farm, [illegible]th concession of Thurlow, to capture a cattle-chasing wild dogs had some degree of success yesterday.

A pup, estimated at three or four months old was caught in one of the traps set by Eddie Colden, of Roslin.

Three head of cattle were killed recently as a result of the running attacks of the animals, which are said to be travelling in a pack.

FIRESIDE HOUR BEING ARRANGED

A Fireside Hour is being arranged for Sunday evenings after church at the Y.M.C.A., for the benefit of young adults. Community singing, musical numbers, brief messages and moving pictures are among the features. The first program will be held on Sunday, October 22nd., at 8:30 p.m.

CITY'S PARKS SYSTEM WILL BE INSPECTED

Mr. Percy Hill, of Galt, Ontario, president of the Parks and Recreation Association of Canada with Mr. Jack Clark, superintendent of Guelph Parks, will visit in the city on Saturday to inspect the city's parks system. The two parks officials are coming to the city at the invitation of Mr. Henry Becker, chairman of the Belleville Parks Board.

Choral Singing Part of Program Of YMCA Boys

One of the features of the Y.M.C.A. program for boys will be a Boys' Choir, according to an announcement by Walter Bent, program director. Some years ago a boys' choir was a very important part of the program and many of the boys who participated are still members of the Y.M.C.A. They and others who may not be in the membership will be glad to hear of this revival of choral singing. Mr. Bent's choirs and boys' bands at Galt and Peterborough won high recognition at music festivals and at the Canadian National Exhibition. Over forty boys turned out at the Y last night for organization of the Boys' Choir. Plans are going ahead to have a weekly rehearsal at the Y.M.C.A. This choir will be known as a concert group.

Those not in the membership are urged to enroll without delay to become eligible for the choir as it is necessary to commence practices immediately before the season is too far advanced. While talent is desirable it is not essential.

Anyone interested in playing the piano for the Boys' Choir or the Sunday Nite Fireside Hour, kindly contact the Y.M.C.A.

Obituary

JOHN G. HAMILTON

Campbellford—John G. Hamilton, an old time resident of Campbellford, was laid to rest at Mt. Pleasant cemetery in his home town on Tuesday morning, following funeral services held in Toronto on Monday.

Mr. Hamilton, who was a printer by trade, passed away at his home in Toronto at the age of 79. His death was attributed to heart trouble.

In his early years, Mr. Hamilton was employed with the old Campbellford Dispatch, a newspaper which ceased publication shortly after the turn of the century. He married Mabel Bonnycastle of Campbellford in 1897, and moved to Toronto where he resided up until the time of his death.

A great lacrosse player, many will remember him on the local teams.

Surviving are his wife, and one daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Hill of Toronto.

Rev. John McKibbin of Christ Church, Campbellford, read the services at the graveside.

WILLIAM DUMINIE

William Duminie, a resident of Belleville all his life, died at the Belleville General Hospital this morning in his 85th year. He had been ill for three months, and latterly had lived with his son, William Duminie, 42 Yeomans Street.

Mr. Duminie was born in Belleville, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Duminie. He was a member of the St. Thomas Anglican Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Sarah Smith one daughter, Mrs. Roy (Margaret) Sanford, Belleville; two sons, William and George, both of Belleville; and one sister, Mrs. Mary Bolyea, Crookston, Ontario.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, 27 Campbell Street the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

ARTHUR SWAYNE

Arthur Swayne, who for 45 years was employed by the old Central Ontario Railway and the Canadian National Railways, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Fairhead, 42 College St., Thursday, October 19. He was in his 85th year.

Born in Ormsby, Ontario, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Swayne, Arthur Swayne lived most of his life in that vicinity.

Mr. Swayne was employed with the railways as a foreman and roadmaster, and retired in 1930. He was a member and elder of Coe Hill United Church, and had lived with his daughter in Belleville for the past 16 months. He was also a Past Master of the Ormsby Orange Lodge. He had been ill for some time past.

Mr. Swayne is survived by his widow, the former Jessie Livingston; four sons, Fletcher, New Liskeard, Ont., Raymond, Englehart, Ont., John, Iroquois Falls, Ont., and Norman, Grosse Point, Michigan; three daughters, Mrs. Edmund (Annie) Maguire, Camborne, Ont., Mrs. Alexander (Janet) Martin, Peterborough and Mrs. William (Edna) Fairhead, Belleville.

Also surviving are one brother, Rev. E. P. Swayne, Napanee; three sisters, Mrs. Lottie Letts, of British Columbia, Mrs. Elizabeth Steenburg, Michigan, and Mrs. Thomas Brenton, Deseronto.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, Everett Street.

Funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

LATE GARLAND HUFF

The funeral of the late Garland Huff was attended by a large gathering of friends and neighbors on Monday afternoon at the home of Mr. Ed Huff, where the service was conducted by the Rev. H. Beare of the United Church, who preached a comforting sermon to the bereaved family.

Left to mourn his loss are his parents, one brother, Kenneth Huff, at home, two sisters, Mrs. Clinton Roblin of Bonarlaw and Miss Phyllis Huff of Coe Hill.

The bearers were Messrs. Hubert Andrews, H. Barlow, Jas. Mumby, Doug Johansen, D. Cook, Doug Andrews.

During the service Mrs. George Williams sang "Some Day I'll Understand."

Interment was made in 12th line cemetery.

Prime Minister Will Unveil Tablet to Sir Mackenzie Bowell On Armouries Lawn Oct. 28th

Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, prime minister of Canada, will unveil a tablet and monument to Canada's sixth prime minister in Belleville on Saturday, October 28. The monument, which is on the Armouries lawn, is in honor of Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

Mr. St. Laurent and his party will arrive in Belleville at twelve o'clock noon at the CNR North Station, and will be met by a guard of honor from the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. The prime minister will be accompanied by Madame St. Laurent, their daughter, Mrs. Mathieu Sanson, and the prime minister's assistant, Mr J. W. Pickersgill.

The Ottawa party will move from the railway station escorted by the guard of honor, the Municipal Band, the Kinsmen's Boys Band and a selected troop of B.C.I. Cadets and the Boy Scouts to the cenotaph, where Mr. St. Laurent will place a wreath. The route from the station to the cenotaph will be lined by school children, Brownies and Girl Guides.

Will Be Guest

Following the ceremony at the cenotaph, the prime minister will be feted at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Quinte Hotel at 1.30 p.m. At the same time, Madame St. Laurent will be entertained at a private luncheon at the Queen's Hotel. Both luncheons are being arranged for by the Chamber of Commerce and city council.

The monument will be unveiled at 3 p.m., after the plaque has been formally presented to the city by Fred M. Landon, the chairman of the Historical Sites and Monuments Board. The Board has been in co-operation with city council on the erection of the monument.

All the living relatives of the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell have been especially invited to the ceremony by city council, and they will occupy prominent places in the unveiling rites.

After the unveiling, the prime minister's party will move to the floor of the Armouries, where a civic reception will be tendered. Mayor Jack Allin will present Mr. St. Laurent with a gold key to the city during the reception.

Will Be Reception

Following that, there will be a reception in the officers' mess for invited guests. This reception is being arranged for by the Argyle Chapter of the I.O.D.E.

City council is issuing a blanket invitation to the citizens of Belleville to be present at the civic reception on the Armouries floor and the actual unveiling.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell was first elected to the House of Commons in 1867, and subsequently held the portfolios of Customs (1878-92), Militia (1892), and Trade and Commerce (1892-94). He was prime minister of Canada from December 21, 1894 to April 27, 1896. He was appointed to the Senate in 1893, and was leader of the opposition in the Upper House from 1896 to 1906.

For many years, Sir Mackenzie Bowell was editor and proprietor of the Belleville Intelligencer. He was born at Rickinghall, Suffolk, England on December 27, 1823, and died in Belleville on December 10, 1917.

Many Discover New Pastime, Guessing in Window Contest

There's a new evening pastime in the city these days!

Yes sir, in addition to the regular evening shows, dances and other forms of entertainment, people have found another attraction, and one which delays their home going another half hour or so. It is participation in the Chamber of Commerce sponsored "What's Wrong with this Window Contest."

Staged by the local Chamber of Commerce to create interest in the current Industrial and Agricultural Week, the window contest has been entered by approximately 60 places of business in the city.

But on the other hand Mr. and Mrs. John Public as well as many of the younger Publics have shown a surprising amount of interest. A prize of $25 has been offered to the winner and to get even close the contestants have to be something of a Sherlock Holmes and have an eye like a hawk.

Each of the stores having windows in the "What's Wrong with this Window Contest", have dressed their windows with merchandise from the store, but included in the display is some article that is not sold by that particular store.

In some windows the "foreign" article is easy to spot, but in others all the viewers' talents as an amateur sleuth must be brought to bear before the article can be ferretted out.

In addition, before a contestant can hope to get close to the $25 prize, every one of the 60 odd windows must be visited.

The Industrial and Agricultural Week window contest ends this weekend but participants have until Oct. 25th to get their answers in. The list of stores has been run in the Ontario Intelligencer. These can be clipped out, filled in and mailed to the Chamber of Commerce.

LATE ALLAN CARMICHAEL

The funeral of the late Allan Carmichael was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon. There were a large number of his young friends in the chapel and the wealth of floral tributes testified to the esteem of the deceased.

The service was conducted by Rev. E. A. Reble, of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, who also said the last rites in the Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were George Christopher, Douglas McIntosh, Kenwood Green, Jud Semark, Fred Christopher and Douglas Bone.

District Winners At Holstein Show In Peterborough

Holsteins from this district were prominent at the ninth annual East Central Ontario championship Holstein show held October 18th in Peterborough. O. Parks and Sons, Bloomfield, showed the Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand champion bull, taking this honor on their winning two-year-old Park Acres Rag Apple Historian.

H. J. McFarland, Picton, carried off the Reserve Junior championship on the winning junior heifer calf, Far Land Mollie.

J. J. May, Picton, showed the fourth prize aged cow and the fifth prize two-year-old heifer. Max Burnside, Madoc, had the fifth prize junior heifer calf.

Prince Edward stood fifth in the County Herd class.

Foxboro School Wins Competition In Forestry

School section 12-14 Thurlow, (Foxboro), won the tri-county School Forestry competition this year, and will represent the district in the provincial competition, it was announced today.

The Foxboro School taught by Mrs. Mable Hayton, won the first prize of $25. Second prize of $15 was awarded to S.S. 4 Camden and third prize, $10, to Portsmouth Public School.

Special prizes awarded by Hastings County Council were won by S.S. 3, Mayo (Hermon), Miss Beatrice Fulton, teacher; S.S. 4 Faraday, M. T. Graham, teacher and S.S. 3, Elzevir, Mrs. Hilda DeClair, teacher.

Specials awarded by the Lennox and Addington County Council went to S.S. 3 Camden, Mrs. Harry Hinch, teacher; S.S. 13, Sheffield, Mrs. Dorothy Cooke, teacher, and S.S. 2, Denbigh, Mrs. C. Platz, teacher.

Sixty-five public schools in the counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac entered the competition which is sponsored by the Ontario Horticultural Association.

During the first two weeks in October, the judges, zone foresters W. E. Edwards and J. O. Griffiths, visited each of the schools and "quizzed" five selected pupils on reforestation and woodlot management. School leaf collections were also examined. The practical part of the tests was carried out last spring when each school planted a half acre or more with young trees.

"The quality of the work has improved greatly" said Forester Edwards. "Keen interest is being displayed and this is most encouraging."

TO DISPLAY FLAG

Toronto, Oct. 20 (CP)—The United Nations flag is to be displayed in all Toronto public and secondary schools, education director C. C. Goldring said last night. The flag in each school will probably be hung on a wall in a prominent place "to remind students of the organization and the work it is doing."

IN MEMORIAM

WILSON — In loving memory of my dear mother, Mary Ann Wilson, who passed away October 20, 1946.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made
A wonderful worker, loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right.
Honest and liberal, ever upright.
Loved by your friends and all you knew
A wonderful mother, that mother was you.
Sadly missed by daughter, Mrs. Curtis Fox. O20

WILSON — In loving memory of my darling mother, Mary Ann Wilson, who passed away October 20th, 1946.
Home is not home, for mother's not there
Angels have taken her out of my care
Dark is her room and empty her chair
She's gone to that home so peaceful and fair.
Sleep, mother, sleep, thy toils are o'er
Sweet is thy rest, so of need before.
Dear mother, I loved you, but God loved you more.
He has called you away to that bright happy shore.
Always remembered by daughter Violet. O20

RUSHLOW — In remembrance of my loving wife, Mrs. Ellen Rushlow, who passed away one year ago today.
What would we give, her hand to clasp
Her patient face to see
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hands once more
In heaven, that happy life.
Sadly missed by husband, John Rushlow. O20

RUSHLOW — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Ellen Rushlow, who passed away October 20, 1949.
We do not forget her, we love her too dearly
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.
Ever remembered by Dorothy Carmen Bonnie and John. O20

RUSHLOW — In memory of a dear mother, Ellen Rushlow, who passed away October 20th, 1949.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
'Till God called her home, to suffer no more.
Remembered by Mr. and Mrs. S. Joslin and family. O20

RUSHLOW — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ellen Rushlow, who passed away on October 20th, 1949.
Past her suffering, past her pain,
Cease to weep, for tears are vain,
She who suffered is at rest
Gone to heaven with the blest.
Remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rushlow and grandchildren. O20

RUSHLOW — In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ellen Rushlow, who passed away on October 20th, 1949.
Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To the grave not far away.
Where we laid our dear mother,
Just one year ago today.
Sadly remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Rushlow and family. O20

RUSHLOW — In remembrance of loving mother, Mrs. Ellen Rushlow, who passed away one year ago today.
Oh what would I give to clasp your hand
Your dear, kind face to see.
Your loving smile, your welcome voice
That meant so much to me.
No one knows the silent heartache
Only those who have such can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one I loved so well.
Ever remembered by daughter, Margaret and son-in-law, Gerald. O20

RUSHLOW — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs Ellen Rushlow, who passed away October 20, 1949.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid
One who was better, God never made
A wonderful worker, loyal and true
One in a million, that mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right
Honest and liberal, ever upright
Loved by your friends and all you knew
A wonderful mother, that, mother was you.
Sadly missed by Ernest, Norma and Gloria. O20

DRACUP — In fond and loving memory of a dear mother, [illegible] Dracup, who passed away October 20th, 1948.
Two years have passed dear mother
Since your weary eyelids closed
Two long years but now we know
You rest in sweet repose.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughters Irene and Iladelle. O20

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 20 — (CP)—Industrials reversed the trend of the last four days and declined with losses up to a point as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials opened mixed but soon began to sag with papers and liquors out in front. Abitibi, Consolidated Paper, Great Lakes Paper, International Paper and Powell River were all lower. Distillers Seagrams lost 50 cents to pull down the liquor group. Utilities, agricultures, constructions, foods, retail stores and manufacturing companies were mostly mixed. Banks, steels and refining oils brightened.

Golds started strong but became mixed. In the senior group Giant Yellowknife and McIntyre were lower while Bralorne, Hollinger and Lamaque gained up to 25 cents. Junior producers were mostly lower. Falconbridge, Labrador and Quemont bucked the trend with gains up to 50 cents.

Western oils continued their recent losses. Anglo Canadian, Federal Petroleum, General Petroleum, Home Oil, Pacific Petroleum and Royalite were key issues that declined.

FOUR CLUBS REPRESENTED

Representatives of four County Calf Clubs, the Grain Club and the Forestry Club, went to Guelph today to compete in the provincial Inter-Club competitions. Those selected to go on this trip have been members who have shown high standing and have done good work in their club for several years. These boys will compete against members from all other clubs throughout the province. Those representing the Belleville Calf Club will be Frank Harry and John McComb; Carl Reid and Merle Moore will represent the Stirling Calf Club; Leo Hulsman and John Cook from the Marmora Club; Claude Comerford, and Glenn Blackburn for the Madoc Calf Club; Glen Wilson and Allan Wallace, the South Hastings Grain Club; while Keith Robinson and Bill Dillon of Bancroft will represent the North Hastings Forestry Club.

VOTE ON SUNDAY SPORTS

Brockville, Oct. 20 — (CP) — Over the opposition of the Ministerial Association, town council last night approved a by-law which will place the question of Sunday sports here before the electors at municipal election in December.

Only three of the 10 councillors voted against the by-law.

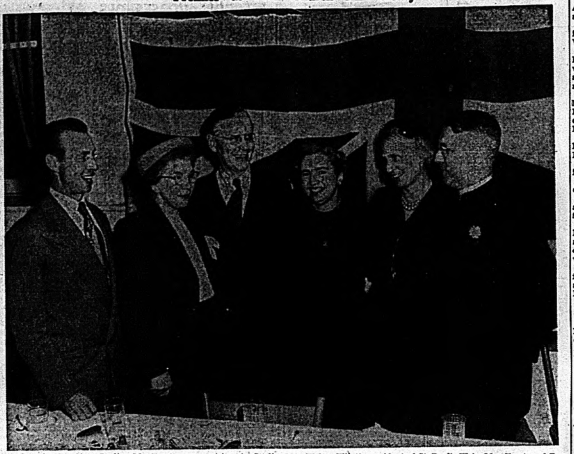
Premier at 97th Church Anniversary



Ontario Premier Leslie M. Frost was a visitor in Stirling Tuesday evening when he was guest speaker at the 97th anniversary dinner at St. Paul's United Church held in the church parlors. Shown conversing after the dinner (left to right) are Harold Hagerman, recording secretary; Mrs. Lionel Train of Belleville; Premier Frost; Mrs. Walter Elliott, president of St. Paul's W.A.; Mrs. Frost, and Rev. A. E. Baker, minister at St. Paul's. Mrs. Train is a former schoolmate of Mr. and Mrs. Frost and met them at the anniversary dinner for the first time in many years.

R. Mallory is Winner Of Belleville Calf Club And South Hastings Grain Club

Scoring 921 points out of a possible 1,000, Robert Mallory was winner of the Belleville Calf Club achievement day, it has been announced from the Department of Agriculture office at Stirling.

Robert also was winner in the South Hastings Grain Club, scoring 907 points to top his nearest rival by 57 points

Successful Season

The last season was one of the most successful for members of the Belleville Calf Club, it was reported, with members being congratulated on their fine job. Tribute was also paid to Doug Harry, club leader, for his work with the club.

Total points in the competition were made up of 400 points for the calf at achievement day; 100 for judging; 100 for answers to questions; 100 for showmanship; 100 for care and feeding; 100 for monthly reports and 100 for attendance at meetings.

Results were as follows: Robert Mallory, 921; Gerald Harry, 915; Frank Harry, 914; Robert Burkitt, 896; John McComb, 822; Kathleen Homan, 860; Robert Bush, 857; Joyce Lott, 853; Lyall Leavens, 851; Wayne Herrington, 842; Doreen Lott, 832; Raymond Stickle, 828; Lorne Sine, 814; Griffin Ketcheson, 804; Bruce Walker 811; Ross Cole, 788; Ralph Sine, 780 and Glen Reid, 767.

A new feature this year was the showing of a group of three calves from each club. Belleville Calf Club won first prize with Madoc, Stirling, Marmora and Hungerford. The Mohawk Club did not enter. The high two members of each club are entitled to a bus trip to Ottawa, sponsored by the county council and Belleville Kiwanis Club.

Grain Club Results

Winners in the grain club were: Robert Mallory, 907; Merle Moore, 843; Harold Cole, 830; Harvey Homan, 826; John McComb, 803; Robert Bush, 793; Griffin Ketcheson, 787; Douglas Morton, 782; Gerald Cooke, 767; Glen Wilson, 753; Allan Wallace, 743; George Cooke, 714; Owen Whitmore, 655; Robert Philp 545.

Seven-Day Term Imposed on Youth

Sudbury, Oct. 20 (CP) —John R. Lester, 21, of Sarnia yesterday was sentenced to seven days in jail on a charge of drunk driving. He had his driving licence suspended for three months and his motorcycle was impounded for the same length of time.

Lester was involved in an accident with a car owned by Robert Manford of Sudbury Tuesday night.

Police told how they had tussled with Lester, "who was intoxicated and resisted."

Lester said he had only had two drinks and blamed his resistance to a head pain from the accident and nervous hysteria.

NEW SCHOOLS

Premier Frost of Ontario had this week a happy occasion on which to visit Belleville, to open Prince Charles Public School, one of three new schools, recently erected in this city, the other two being Holy Rosary Separate School and the new school now being built in East Belleville. It was an occasion under the happiest auspices as the younger generation were there witnessing the dedication of the institution for the training of the boys and girls of the city, to which in future days they will contribute so much.

Schools show the people feel their responsibility, an augury of the best character and a certain indication not only of growth but of the importance of education in molding the lives of the young upon whose shoulders will ultimately rest here and elsewhere the supreme duty of seeing that the coming generations possess the same privileges as the scholars of today in having the best teachers, the best schools and the wisest instruction and preparation for life.

The younger scholars who attend Prince Charles School are fortunate in having been born in a day when the standards of education are high and when the population accepts as one of the basic duties resting upon the community the training of the child for his or her life in the Canada for the future.

Schools are rising in every part of the Dominion in which the latest ideals in education and in accommodation for the duties the schools must serve in the training of the young for the increasingly important place which Canadians hold as citizens of one of the nations which has a future of great promise. There never was a day when people realized this as much as they do today as they see Canada girded to play her part among nations.

It must be a happy day for those in authority as the Premier of this Province, the Minister of Education and all the other ministers of the Province to realize that in what they are doing for the young who will be the nation of the future is the very best which can be given to prepare them as young citizens for their place in the greater Canada to be.

Education is today given its rightful place as one of the primary requisites of training in citizenship. In the words of the Premier, "children are the greatest wealth this Province has. The future and progress depend on men and women and on boys and girls." He spoke of the early history of Belleville and district and mentioned the sacrifices which had been endured by the United Empire Loyalists to develop this country. A fitting tribute was paid by Mr. Frost as he referred to the spirit of the U.E.L. forbears of Canada who "brought little in material wealth with them, but principles which mean so much today. You in Belleville and Hastings have indeed a proud heritage."

The Premier was able to point across the Province to the evidences of the people's interest in the training of the young for the duties they as citizens in the future will fulfill.

Such an occasion as the official opening of schools reveals how well those responsibile here for the provision of adequate school accommodation have carried out their task on behalf of the community. The duties which fall to the teachers and school boards are of the greatest importance.

"LIKE A SADDLE FITS A COW?"

An Associated Press cable from Berlin reports that "Russian-occupied East Germany was welcomed into the family of Soviet satellite states today." The official Soviet newspaper Taegliche Rundschau had reported an East Germany joining up with "the mighty peace front headed by the Soviet Union."

Stalin once remarked to a wartime visitor to the Kremlin that "communism will fit Germany like a saddle fits a cow"; by which he meant that it would be the least amenable to orders from Moscow. Only time can tell whether he was right, whether this gigantic Soviet system of tyranny and force, welding together scores of races within Russia's own boundaries, and now embracing Poles, Bulgarians, Hungarians and others, can go on to embrace Germans as well. Titoism would seem to tell that such high ambition, the mightiest ever undertaken by any empire in the world, has within it the seeds of failure.—Ottawa Journal.

Life is made up, not of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things, in which smiles and kindnesses and small obligations, given habitually are what win and preserve the heart and secure comfort. — Sir Humphrey Davy.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST
(Copyright, 1950, Edgar A. Guest)

UNDER THE HOOD

I never lift the motor's hood.
I would be shamming if I should.
For though I looked an hour or so
Just what was wrong I'd never know.
The shocking fact is I am blind
To flaws mechanics quickly find.

My grandsire would have understand
The mysteries beneath the hood;
The wires, the gears, the plugs, the rings,
And all these other curious things
The least of which must do its part
Before that car of mine will start.

But when he died I learned that he
Had not bequeathed his skill to me.
His will did not contain a line
To make his gathered wisdom mine,
So helplessly I stand and stare
At what with promptness he'd repair.

Perhaps it's just as well, but, oh!
There is so much I'd like to know;
So much from day to day I see
Which like mechanics baffles me
And often wish I understood
Concealed by life beneath a hood.

The contractors on the new upper bridge are progressing favorably and it is expected that the cement on the one half of the bridge will be poured this week, starting tomorrow. It was the intention to start today, but the contractors wished to be reasonably sure of no more frost for a couple of days so that a first class job could be done.

Dedication of the new dining hall of the Stone Church on the fourth concession of Sidney township took place this afternoon at the close of the dinner.

There have developed several new cases of typhoid fever in the past few days. Dr. G. S. Cronk, MOH, says the situation is improving.

While drilling a well upon the Roach farm, near Lonsdale, Tyendinaga Township, a large flow of oil and gas was struck. The indications look promising and an investigation is being made by experts.

In a bowling match at the Y. M. C. A. recently representing the Young Merchants of the city and the G. T. R. office, the former team won by a margin of 157 points. The following composed the teams: Young Merchants — Woodley, Furrs, Yerex, Weir and Gilbert. G. T. R. Office — Howell, Lent, Laporte, Meagher and Hurley. Meagher of the G.T.R. team had a total of 262, and Laporte had a 219 total. Yerex of the Young Merchants led his pack with a 253 total.

The schooner Fabiola, a vessel well known here, foundered on Lake Ontario on Saturday, about a mile south of the False Ducks. The crew reached Macdonald's Cove in the yawl boat and were taken care of by a farmer. The vessel left Charlotte on Saturday with a cargo of coal for Kingston and when a considerable distance out on the lake, she sprang a leak and foundered. She was an old schooner and uninsured.

The annual rifle match of No. 1 Company, Hastings Regiment, H. R., was held yesterday. When it is considered that the rifles used were the old fashioned Sniders that have been in service in the company for 40 years, the shooting may be considered to have been very good.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WAKE UP—AND QUICKLY

People sitting in an airplane have no idea how fast they are going. A little over a hundred years ago authorities declared that it would be impossible for vehicles of any kind to travel thirty miles an hour. How, they inquired could men breath?

Today we are like the people sitting in the airplane going at supersonic speed and not feeling that they are going through the air any faster than if they were in a 1910 automobile. More things have taken place to change the living conditions of people in the past fifty years than have occurred in the past several thousand years. We have raised our standard of living, but life is more in jeopardy now than it has ever been. We have more comforts than ever before—a greater prospect of death by cruel forms of lethal warfare.

Science and the soul of man are running a race, and so far science is in the lead. Until we learn to put scientific discoveries under the control of spiritual principles we may expect trouble in wholesale lots. We shall never breathe easily until the soul pulls ahead and definitely takes the lead in this important race. The over-all picture of the spiritual condition of man is far from reassuring.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

This is the time of year for grate fires maybe in February they are more dramatic to come in to, from the harsh, grey day, with the frigide hands and cold legs to offer the jumping warmth of a coal fire.

But October fires on the hearth are more sentimental. They are the first needed fires of the coming winter. In front of an October grate, you can renew the ancient marital vows between man and fire.

There is considerable argument in literature as well as among our contemporaries as to which kind of wood is the best for a grate fire. The early Canadian writers praise birch, because while it is a hard wood, and burns long and hot, it is also a quick wood that kindles fast and makes a roaring fire in a few minutes. Birch was also praised by the pioneer writers because it burned down to a glorious cherry red ember. And in the days not a hundred years gone when most of our cooking was done right on the hearth, the bed of ruby and enduring embers was rightly prized.

But now that grate fires are almost one hundred per cent ornamental and sentimental, there is one wood praised by the old timers that moves into first position: and that is, pine roots.

When you get a pine root or chunk of stump going on the hearth, there is no rush and hurry about its fire. The flames are individual, quiet, if not actually lazy. They are deep orange in color, and lick delicately at the stump as if reluctant to let go. No blaze seems to want to stay in the fire place like a pine root fire. Next to embers, a pine root fire is the most perfect contemplative fire of all. Paul Bunyan knew this. That is why, when he logged off the prairies, he pulled the pines up, roots and all.

TWO FOR THE MONEY

This morning I got up on the wrong side of the percentage — I complained about the coffee not being hot enough and sourpussed that if I wanted a little marmalade why the heck couldn't I have a little marmalade? "Why don't you shake hands with yourself and make up?" said Eleanor as I left for the office.

And so, in an effort to get from the niggly to the nice in a hurry, I'm going to start the day off by passing out a couple of posies . . .

1. Almost a year ago, along with a lot of other wisenheimers, I darn near pounded my mitts into hamburger after the opening of "Member of the Wedding." Most of the applause, of course, was for the pulse-priming performances of Ethel Waters and Julie Harris, but a fairish chunk of it was for Brandon De Wilde, an unbratty youngster of seven who, without mugging or posturing, had turned in a man-size piece of acting.

Kid actors, as any producer will tell you, are generally a nine-high nuisance around the theatre. I had a dozen of them in "Carmen Jones," and while they minded their P's and cues during the excitement of the first few weeks most of them got pretty sloppy after that and had to be replaced.

With this in mind, I dropped into the Empire Theatre the other night to see how Master De Wilde was behaving after 300-odd performances, and I'm happy to report that I found him as unaffected and all-around charming as he was on opening night. Instead of letting down or hamming it up for cheap laughs, the kid is still playing his part straight and tight — which is more than I can say for a lot of adult actors in the long-run shows.

For obvious reasons, I'm not going to send Master Brandon the champagne and caviar I usually parcel - post to performers who hit me where I enthuse, but any time the thimble thespian says the word the root beer and licorice sticks are on me . . .

2. With Clifton Fadiman's permission, I'd like to sound off on the hottest hunk of reading matter I've bifocaled this year: Budd Schulberg's new novel, "The Disenchanted," which should be hitting the book stands around the time this gets into print.

The story behind this Book-of-the-Month selection is almost as interesting as the story in it. It has to do with Budd's friendship for a novelist—he calls him Manley Halliday, but anyone who was around in the bootleg days will recognize him as F. Scott Fitzgerald, the golden boy of the '20's.

Schulberg, a Hollywood-and-Vine kid whose father was once head of Paramount Studios, got to know Fitzgerald when they were assigned to collaborate on the script of a rah-rah movie about the Winter Carnival at Dartmouth. This hack chore was a humiliating bit of business for both of them, especially the elegant Fitzgerald, but out of it came a friendship which makes Budd pretty much of an authority on the novelist's last days.

There are three chapters in this book which, in my stumblebum opinion, rate with almost anything ever written by Hemingway or Steinbeck — or, for that matter, Fitzgerald himself. One is a description of a Hollywood party, and the other two are an account of Scott's bittersweet love affair with the girl he married.

"The Disenchanted," I'm willing to bet a candied apple, will be buddying up to the top of the best seller lists long before Santa Claus gets tangled up in your television aerial. And to stick out my neck still further, I'm willing to bet a whole orchard that one of these days Schulberg, with his phonographic ear for dialogue, will write an important play.

If Budd thinks I'm kidding, there's a thousand - dollar advance waiting for him anytime he wants to pick it up.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NEVER BE TOO SURE

Opiniated people are not the ones who inspire leadership. To be too sure has gotten many of us in trouble, and revealed our ignorance. Charles F. Kettering, the great research engineer, once said: "It isn't what you don't know, but what you know for sure, and which isn't so, that will get you into trouble."

We all should keep an open mind, to get every particle of truth into it, so that at the right time we may offer an opinion of worth. We have a right to any opinion we may wish to express, but we would be unintelligent to offer it as a final truth. I well recall the statement of a teacher when I was in one of the lower grades at school. She said that anyone had the right to his belief until he was proved to be wrong.

The greatest of our researchers and scientists are forever seeking for new light. They are never too sure, however, about anything they may dscover, until it has proved itself. It is well for us to listen and learn. But we do not feel sure that you are right, stick to it until all arguments or facts prove you are wrong. Then accept your defeat in good spirit and start at scratch again!

The late Henry Ford believed in his little "horseless carriage," and stuck to it, even in the face of jeers. He talked to Edison, and the great inventor told him that he was on the right track and to go ahead. And so he did. The rest of the story all the world knows. With an idea it is often wise to be doubly sure.

In a place of honor in his study on "two transverse beams" were these words, which the great essayist Montaigne had inscribed: "I stop—I examine—I do not understand—I remained poised in the balance—I take for my guide the ways of the world and the experiences of the senses." He believed that "the height of wisdom is to take things as they are, and look upon the rest with confidence."

Many persons have been hurt by careless statements made to their discredit, by those who distribute them, and who say they are sure that they are the truth. Never be too sure—by refusing to give them utterance or hearing.

MacKenzie's Column:

Most Powerful Organized Peace Move Ever Made

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The United Nations' adoption of the plan to halt aggression anywhere and everywhere, by force if necessary, represents the most powerful organized peace move ever made.

It tacitly recognizes that until human nature is changed mankind is going to resort to war at times, and must be restrained.

In effect it acknowledges that there will be occasions when only force, or a display of force, can turn the trick.

This far-reaching project is given teeth by a provision requiring that U.N. members place specified units of their forces at the disposal of the peace organization to meet crisis. It represents a perpetuation of the emergency measure under which the U.N. was able to send its own forces into Korea to end the aggression from the north.

Passage Ensured

True, the program still has to go through the formality of being passed by the General Assembly. However, the big majority by which it was adopted in the Assembly's political committee ensures its passage in the larger body.

Just 50 years ago the world saw the first meeting of nations ever assembled to discuss ways and means of maintaining peace. That was in 1899 when 26 countries met at The Hague and adopted a "convention for the pacific settlement of international disputes."

This was followed in 1907 by the "second peace conference," when 44 states —representing virtually all the independent countries of the globe — reafirmed the convention and added to it.

The next step—and it was a seven-league stride—was the creation of the League of Nations at the end of the First World War. That did some good work, but it failed in the great emergencies because it lacked the courage —and the means — to take forceful action against aggressors.

More Peace Moves

In an effort to bolster the league, the Locarno Pact was forced in 1925, with the primary idea of preventing any further German-French upheavals. Then in 1928, because the League of Nations didn't completely abolish war, 59 of the 64 independent countries of the world signed the Paris Peace Pact for "renunciation of war."

These peace moves were followed by disarmament conferences.

Probably it has required all this patient and persistent spade work to prepare the way for the historic employment of sanctions by force to halt aggression. In any event it has remained for the U.N. to make the first concerted applications of such sanctions.

Perhaps it is too much to hope that this will prevent any further aggression. But it is the most powerful move in that direction yet made.

HORMONES MY EYE

Many readers who have written to me about the use of hormones have made it abundantly evident that it is futile and sometimes dangerous to use preparations purporting to be hormones or to contain hormones, except under the careful supervision of a physician.

In certain instances the judicious use of hormones may correct arrested or retarded development in the early 'teens. Whether such treatment is advisable in any case is a question for the individual's own physician to consider.

Federal and state laws presumably regulate traffic in dangerous medicines. It is beyond my comprehension why certain charlatans or merchants are permitted to offer hormones or preparations alleged to contain hormones for sale to the public.

It seems to me that the old timers in medicine who still lay back their long ears and declare that some medicines or poisons can be absorbed through the unbroken skin—if applied in the right kind of salve or lotion — give aid to the charlatans who sell hormone creams and the like to gullible customers with the implied idea that application of the stuff will produce increased local development.

There are many hormones — substances formed or secreted by the so - called glands of internal secretion—which have important functions in physiology — for example adrenin of the adrenal glands, insulin of the pancreas, estrone the female sex hormone and testosterone the male sex hormone.

A series of injections of a sex hormone called gonadotropin (formerly called anterior-pituitary-like hormone) into muscle, two or three times a week for five weeks, has brought about normal descent of testis into scrotum and corrected any retarded development associated with the cryptorchidism in many cases. The hormone treatment should be given when the boy reaches the age of twelve years without spontaneous descent—in a considerable number of cases this spontaneous or natural correction of the defect occurs without treatment.

Women who continue to suffer the annoyance or distress of hot flashes for years after the menopause find grateful relief from taking once a day a tablet containing estrones (sex hormones) obtained from pregnant mares' urine. When relief is obtained the dose may be reduced to a tablet twice a week or less. This seems to bring relief to various other annoyances such women suffer.

Hormone preparations are generally pretty expensive. It is foolish to purchase them for blind experimentation. Foolish and dangerous. Don't ask a doctor whether this or that hormone would be good for this or that trouble. If the doctor is honest and reasonably capable of course he can't form an opinion without having examined and studied the case under consideration. It is wise to leave it for the doctor to prescribe or administer whatever hormone he thinks necessary or advisable, without any suggestions from the patient.

They tell me, writes a correspondent, that if I keep using hormone face cream and hormone oils I may get cancer. (Mrs. E. N.) Well, maybe. Anybody may get cancer, whether he or she uses face creams or oils or not. You may as well apply such cream or oil to your shoes or to the linoleum on the kitchen floor, so far as any effect from hormone or other ingredient is concerned. There is no positive or convincing evidence that hormones of any kind cause or contribute to the development of cancer. Are you grown up or do you still believe in fairies, Ma'am?

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Darkening Gray Hair

If I darken my hair with iron and tea as described in your booklet will it wash out or must it grow out if I don't like the color? (L. L.)

Answer—Try it on a strand of hair first and decide for yourself. As I explain in the booklet, (The Hair and Scalp, for copy send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope) it has one drawback when applied too freely—stains pillowcase.

It Is Not Medicine

Happy to report that the medicine you recommend in the pamphlet has done wonders for me. On my second ten weeks' course my pain is all gone and swollen joints of my fingers have loosened up and are getting limber again. (Mrs. M. A.)

Answer — Medicine, eh? Oh, well, I can say in print is "Thank heaven for the bowling green—there I can always forget everything but the game." For the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz send stamped self-addressed envelope. Ask for it in writing and sign your request. A clipping will not suffice. Be sure to name the city you live in.

Prussic Acid in Pits

You said prussic acid is present in peach pits, apricot, plum and cherry pits. In my pickled peaches the pits are cooked in them and now I am afraid. (Mrs. C. W.)

Answer—Send me a quart of 'em and I'll try 'em out—if this column continues to appear you'll know they are safe to eat.

David Yeddeau Addresses Women's Canadian Club On Ballet, Its Forms, Types, Technique

The Women's Canadian Club were privileged to hear Wednesday night in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church assembly room, the organizer and manager of Canada's First Ballet Festival, Mr. David Yeddeau, who, in a most engaging manner told of the growth of ballet in Canada from its inception in Winnipeg, down to the present time.

Mr. Yeddeau, who was introduced by the president, Mrs. W. J. Doyle, prefaced his talk with the remark that ballet had crept up on everyone in Canada, but if only few understood it, many wanted it.

"There are four kinds of ballet," stated the speaker, "Classical or the Romantic, which is vague, intangible, remote, but combined all the theatrical arts, as well as the arts of dancing, music, and painting. These must exist together [illegible] concerted effort. Romantic ballet is the oldest type, and to understand it one must have appreciation of art as in painting. When the curtain goes up, what is seen first is a picture. The next 'must' is color or form, and lastly, technique, the why and how of the constantly changing patterns. Like paintings, the technique in some is delicately done, and in others, a stronger touch is applied. All ballet grows from the blue print in some one's mind."

In the Romantic ballet, the dancing is done on the point of the toe, with little or no story to the act.

The second kind of ballet is that of the interpretative type, and is executed either barefoot or on the point, taking many forms, as in the ballet of the "Wise and Foolish Virgins", whose interpretative outlet is the interpretation of the drama.

Characteristic ballet usually depicts some comedy, and uses music that is easily understood, [illegible] such stories as "Pocketbook Thrillers", while the fourth kind is that of the National ballet; which depicts scenes like the "Sleeping Beauty", but with no story being carried out. The costumes are pretty, and colorful, and the dances partake in part those of folk dances.

Canadian ballet, stated Mr. Yeddeau, has happened so quickly, and has caught on so fast that since the founding of the ballet school by Miss Gweneth Lloyd, of England, in Winnipeg, that at the present time there are 21 groups, with every province but Saskatchewan and Alberta being ballet conscious, Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver, B.C., are three progressive centres of ballet.

True ballet has no connection with the ordinary dancing school efforts, but has its own artistic class, he asserted.

Mr. Yeddeau told of the headaches and heartaches undergone in the birth of ballet at Winnipeg, of the assistance offered by the dancers in financial matters, and of how audiences were built up through lowering the cost of tickets to one half. But along with the headaches, there were many amusing episodes, one of which was that of the little dog which in some mysterious manner came upon the stage and leaping and barking among the dancers, afforded the audience an amusing entertainment. The kernel of the episode was that the little dog had usually been appearing at ball games and hockey matches, but it seemed that now he had gone 'high-brow' and was attending ballets.

Mrs. Doyle expressed the appreciation of the audience to Mr. Yeddeau for his educational and delightfully entertaining address in presenting the ballet, in all its diversified parts, so vividly and clearly.

Following the address, tea was served and an informal get-together enjoyed.

Dionne Quints Sing, Sparkle To Steal Show from Celebrities

New York, Oct. 20 (CP) — The Dionne Quintuplets, who sang and sparkled last night to steal the show from a bevy of celebrities, will go quietly to St. Patrick's Cathedral today to attend a mass celebrated by Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York.

The 16-year-old sisters, smiling graciously in the reception line and entertaining with old-time favorite songs, outshone the multitude of civic leaders and politicians at the sixth annual Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation dinner at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

[illegible]ter mass at the towering cathedral on Fifth Avenue, the Quints will sight-see or rest until evening when they will return to the Cathedral for an hour long special teen-age mass.

The dinner—a $100-a-plate affair attended by 2,500—was the highlight of the Quints' five-day visit in New York and the reason they made the long trip from their home in Callander, Ont.

Before the dinner itself, the Quints joined with Cardinal Spellman, who arranged the trip vice-president Alben Barkley, and Governor Thomas E. Dewey to receive the honored guests.

Barkley was the main speaker at the dinner to raise funds for the foundation's charitable work. However, during the whole affair the spotlight was on the Quints, all dressed alike in blue taffeta evening gowns and white capes.

The Quints, joined by 11 of their classmates from the Notre Dame Convent in Corbeil, Ont., [illegible] six selections. Every one drew heavy applause.

Sang in English, French

Clearly and sweetly the girls sang "Somewhere a Child is Singing" "Marie Antoinette" by Myron Jacobsen; "Marianne S'en Va T' au Moulin" by Omer Latourneau; "Trees"; and "The Sidewalks of New York." The group sang "The Sidewalks of New York" both in English and French.

Before the girls sang, Cardinal Spellman introduced the Quintuplets—Annette, Cecile, Emilie, Marie and Yvonne. He said that of the many gifts, blessings and honors the memorial dinners have gained "none has outshone the privilege I now have of presenting to you five young ladies who for the first time in their 16 years have been permitted by Mama and Papa Dionne to leave their native land."

Actually, this is the second visit to the United States for the Quints—although their first to New York. In 1943 the Quints accompanied by their mother, went to Superior, Wis., to launch a ship. Their father, Oliva, is with them on this trip.

Most of the day yesterday was spent in a whirl of preparation for the big event. In the morning the Quints were whisked off from the uptown convent where they are staying to the Waldorf for a dress rehearsal of their evening performance. Dressed in evening clothes, they went through their paces for newspaper men and cameramen.

They returned to the convent for lunch. Then they had their hair restyled and finally a rest.

Cardinal Spellman asked reporters not to question the Quints about New York "because they haven't seen anything yet." But before they leave for home Sunday they will have ample opportunity to take in the sights.

WEDDINGS

NOBLE—NICOL

Before a background of bronze chrysanthemums and tall, white candles, in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, the marriage of Barbara Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth T. Nicol, of Madoc, to Clifford Henry Noble, of Toronto, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Noble, was solemnized at 2:30 p.m., on Saturday, October 14, by the Reverend M. W. Heslip.

The soloist, Miss Phyllis Beatty, sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer", and "Tell Me Why The Stars Do Shine", and during the signing of the register, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown of white Chantilly lace over white slipper satin, featuring a hooped bouffant skirt, caught up at intervals with satin rosettes molded bodice with long, tight-fitting sleeves ending in lily-points at the hands. Her French illusion net veil of shoulder-length was held by a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Patricia Nicol, of Madoc, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, gowned in gold lace over strapless gold taffeta, featuring fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. She wore a matching lace hat and carried a shower bouquet of bronze-colored 'mums.

Miss Margaret Plews, of Toronto, was bridesmaid, wearing light green lace over strapless dark green taffeta, matching hat and carrying a shower bouquet of bronze-colored 'mums.

Mr. Walter Davison, of Toronto, was groomsman, and Mr. John Shannon, and Mr. Robert McCoy, both of Madoc, were ushers.

Following the reception, which was held at the home of the bride, the bride's mother, wearing silver-grey satin, Bittersweet Italian velour hat, and corsage of Talisman roses, received, the many guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in velvet-trimmed brown crepe, with matching brown fur felt hat, and corsage of yellow roses.

For travelling to New York City, and Montreal, the bride donned a suit of yellow wool, brown accessories, camel hair topcoat, and corsage of yellow roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Noble will reside in Toronto.

Christ Church "Little Helpers" Hold Impressive Ceremony

Yesterday afternoon, Christ Church was the scene of an interesting event when the "Little Helpers" of the church, presented their mite boxes for the help of the other little ones who are far away in isolated districts and who can be reached only by "the Sunday-School-by post". These include the little Indian and Eskimo children of the Dominion and those of far off India, China, Japan, in fact "all the children of the world, red and yellow, black and white, all are precious in His sight".

During the assembling of the 270 little tots and their mothers, the soft strains of Chopin's "Nocturne" and "Adagio" by Mendelssohn, filled the sanctuary and nave, and mingling with the autumn sun as it filtered through the lovely stained-glass windows of this beautiful church, created an atmosphere of holiness and benediction. Mrs. J. B. Ledingham presided at the console of the organ throughout the service.

The service consisted of prayer by the rector, the Reverend J. B. Creeggan, B.A., B.D., and the hymns, favorites with children being used; the service opened with the hymn "When Mothers of Salem", and with the singing of "Jesus Loves Me", the little tots wended their way, carrying their mite boxes to the chancel, where they were placed in the two snow-white containers. The tots who were too small to walk alone, were led by the hand, and those not yet walking, were carried in arms.

When all had been given, the rector, followed by six tiny tots, two by two, advanced to the altar, and placed the gifts, dedicating them to their work of love. Mr. Creeggan spoke briefly on the work of the Little Helpers.

After the recessional hymn, "Jesus Bids Us Shine", the congregation moved slowly out to the parish hall, where afternoon tea and milk was served to the mothers and the little ones, by the hostesses, the Afternoon Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, and the Evening Branch of the W.A., at tables prettily decorated with flowers and little plants appropriate to the season.

One little tot, Bernard Hanson, of R.R. 3, Belleville, also celebrated his third birthday and was regaled by the singing of "Happy Birthday to You". Mrs. Stanley Wiggins took two pictures of the afternoon's activity; one during the service, while the children were presenting their mite boxes, and the other of the recessional from the church.

New mite boxes were distributed to each child as they left the parish hall.

Mrs. J. Cooke was superintendent of "Little Helpers", with her assistants, Mrs. H. Ingram, Mrs. L. Watson, Mrs. G. O'Brien, Mrs. J. Spencer and Mrs. J. Milligan.

Last year the "Little Helpers" mite offering amounted to $102.

Paarl, South Africa —(CP)— Speakers at the western province wine show here said Britain is importing more South African wine. Markets for South African brandy were growing in Canada and the east, and in New Zealand, said J. G. Carinus, administrator of Cape Province.

St. John's Mission Holds Afternoon Tea, Bazaar

On Wednesday afternoon, St. John's Mission of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, held their afternoon tea and bazaar in the parish hall of Christ Church. Receiving at the door was Mrs. W. R. Collyer, who welcomed the many friends and guests into an atmosphere of autumn beauty.

In the tea room, where the president, Mrs. H. Putman, was hostess, the tea tables were prettily arranged with roses and shaded 'mums. Those who poured were Mrs. Creeggan, assisted by Mrs. S. Price, while Mrs. R. Babcock, Miss Ann Putman, and Miss Joan Meens served at the tables.

Replenishing the dainty plates of sandwiches and tiny cakes, were Mrs. C. R. LaRue and Mrs. C. McFee.

In charge of the needlework and knitting table, with its variety of attractive articles, were Mrs. W. Meens and Mrs. D. Leeming, and presiding over the alluring array of home cooking with its enticing aromas, were the busy ladies, Mrs. C. Gerow, Miss J. Redner and Mrs. W. Messer.

Mrs. J. Exley had charge of the vegetables and lovely flowers which had been donated by Mrs. J. Exley; Mrs. H. Putman, Mrs. W. R. Collyer and Mrs. R. Babcock.

Loyal Order of Moose Holds Social Evening

Last evening, the Belleville lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose, No. 1004, held their regular monthly meeting in the form of a social evening, with the entertainment consisting mainly of euchre and dancing.

The euchre prize winners were: ladies, Mrs. Jack McCullough, and Mrs. E. Soules; men,—Mr. Thomas Thorn, and Mr. Jack O'Neill.

The prizes for dancing were won by Mrs. J. Hammond and Mr. T. Thorn, best dancers; spot dance,—Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Neill, with second spot dance won by Mrs. H. M. Bryant and Mr. Sandy Wallwin.

Following the dancing, refreshments were served consisting of sandwiches, cake and coffee.

Appreciative thanks are extended to Mrs. R. E. Gilbert and Mr. C. Thorn who provided the music for the evening's entertainment, and to Mr. Jack Hammond for his splendied arrangement of the program.

ANCIENT SPIKE

Halifax — (CP) — An eight-inch, hand-made spike more than 200 years old was removed from one of the beams under the flooring of St. Paul's Church and will probably go to the Nova Scotia Museum. It is thought the spike was brought from Boston when St. Paul's, oldest Anglican church in Canada, was built in 1750. The church now has been reinforced with cement.

Jack Dennett, CFRB newscaster, believes in keeping things up to date. Father of two girls, he became a keen camera fan to keep a week-to-week photo record of his young daughters' growth. Jack's unique style of delivering the news "completely-packaged" has made him one of Toronto's most popular announcers.

Mrs. Alma Campbell, of 73 Hewitt Ave., Toronto, attractive young housewife and part-time career girl, has to catch up on world events when opportunity allows. Mrs. Campbell especially appreciates Jack Dennett's breezy, comprehensive 11:00 p.m. news coverage that's timed just right for before-bedtime listening.

"Jack Dennett gets my vote," says Mrs. Alma Campbell. "He has an easy style and lets you know just what's happening in a few words. My husband and I both enjoy listening to him—as we do to so many CFRB programs! No wonder our dial is set—and stays set—at CFRB!" Hear Jack Dennett's other newscasts at 3:00, 4:00 and 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. You'll find your favourites, too, on CFRB—1010 on your dial.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

How do you say "How do you do"?

How do you say this always-correct acknowledgment of an introduction—"How do you do?" [illegible] the way you say these words [illegible] gives life to them. Whatever personality the words are to have, you must give them.

"Alice in Wonderland," that book that tells us so many great truths, tells us a great truth about this:

"The question is," said Alice, "whether you can make words mean so many different things."

"The question is," said Humpty Dumpty, "which is to be master . . . that's all."

You can easily and gracefully be "master" of your 'How do you do"!

Here's an easy lesson on how-to-acknowledge-an-introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am extremely self-conscious at times, especially when I am talking to people I don't know very well. And I find it particularly difficult to acknowledge an introduction correctly—I always think I am saying the wrong thing, and so I feel foolish. "How do you do" and "Pleased to meet you" sound so stiff and formal. The problem I am faced with at the moment is what to say on the following occasion. My husband is in a hospital out-of-town, and it is both inconvenient and expensive for me to visit him very often. Now a friend of his has offered to drive me up to see him on a Sunday noon. I know this friend of my husband's very well, but I have never met his wife or his mother-in-law, both of whom are going with us. What is the correct thing for me to say when I am introduced to them?

2. And when I am leaving the car after our trip, what is the right thing to say to show my appreciation?

F. B.

1. Here's your very first help and comfort; always acknowledge an introduction with "How do you do." If you will wisely hold on to this suggestion, you'll immediately gain self-confidence, because you'll know you're always right. The truth is that you've confused yourself by insisting on thinking and saying that "How do you do" sounds "so stiff and formal". It isn't these words that are "stiff and formal' . . .they are stiff and formal only if you say them that way. So make up your mind to say these words graciously. I urge that you have a rehearsal, standing in front of your mirror and seeing how charmingly you can say, "How do you do". Then add the name of these words. . . "How do you do, Mrs. Clark" (this kind friend's wife) . . . and then "How do you do, Mrs. Davis" (his mother-in-law). Have your whole expression . . . your eyes, your smile . . . show your pleasure in the introduction. Be so interested in saying your "How do you do" gracefully and charmingly, that you will forget your self-consciousness. As a matter of fact, self-consciousness has a pleasant way of fleeing when one is absolutely sure of the correctness of what one is saying or doing. But you must help yourself by polishing up your "How do you do" so that it shines! (And just as "How do you do" is always right to say when you acknowledge an introduction, "Pleased to meet you" is always wrong to say when you acknowledge an introduction. (Avoid this form of introduction-acknowledgement as you would the plague.)

2. Say, enthusiastically, the gratitude you will surely be feeling for such wonderful thoughtfulness and kindness and hospitality. "Thank you Mr. Clark (or 'Bob'). . . thank you with all my heart for your thoughtful plan for today, and for your great kindness to Bill and to me. You and your wife and her mother have made everything so comfortable and easy today. And you have all been so good to me. I wish I had just the right words to thank you." Then to his wife, perhaps something like this: "Good night, Mrs. Clark. Thank you for everything today, for such kindness and hospitality. And I know Bill is thanking you too for the happiness you gave him. It has been such a pleasure to meet you today. . . and I do hope I'll see you again soon." And similarly to the mother-in-law: "Good-night, Mrs. Davis. I am delighted to have met you too . . . .and thank you for your kindness."

(Then, as soon as possible after this trip, do write a friendly thank-you note addressed to the wife, saying your appreciation to all three.)

BEAUTY

Exercises for lazy girls

Nearly every woman worries about her figure to a certain extent. If she is as slender as a sapling, she fears the day when adipose tissues may appear; if they are already present, she feels that she looks "settled".

With all this anxiety going on inside feminine heads, the word exercise puts their teeth on edge. They say they haven't time for figure molding. Or they consider calisthenics a bother and a tiresome waste of time. So what? They then must accept whatever fate has in store for them. In due course of time they may be tearing out thir tresses because the waist measurement is not what it used to be.

Activity is a law of life. It was intended that muscles should be used. If they are not used, they lose flexibility, are no longer resilient. When that condition is present, insidious fat cells come along and form communities. Once they are there it is not easy to send them into a state of dissolution, to regain the svelte, youthful shape.

Stretching is a natural exercise; even the lazy girl can bear to do it. Watch the house dog and the tabby cat. When they awaken from sleep, they stretch. They stop to do it even if food awaits them in the kitchen. They are wise; they are fulfilling a law of nature.

Every woman worries about her figure.

Five minutes of stretching before going to sleep is relaxing, will make slumber more restful. Lie on your back, hands at the sides. Take a long, deep breath. Stretch your legs and torso. Lift your hands, getting a strong muscle pull on the arms and the chest. Send the hands out at the sides, then back to first position. Relax. Take several long, deep breaths, then at the stretching again.

Go through this routine when awakening in the morning. You will have a feeling of exhilaration, because it will send your blood streams romping. You'll start the day right.

Get a little exercise after your morning bath. When drying your legs, bend at the hips, not at the waistline. Grasp the ends of the towel, friction it across the upper portion of your back, keeping the spinal column extended and the chest lifted.

Stand facing a wall. Up on the toes while you lift your hands as high as you can; then send them out at the sides, touching your thighs while you come down on your heels.

All these exercises will not take twenty minutes out of every twenty-four hours, and they will bring pulchritude rewards.

Fashion Flashes

PRETTY AND practical are little afternoon dresses and jackets of all wool jersey, good for all-day and nice with furs. Medium gray heather wool jersey for a short-sleeved, round-necked dress. Jacket has rib-knit, low-notched collar and below-waist ribbing.

JUST ABOUT the best of the moderately-priced furs this year is skin-on-skin, unstriped muskrat. A real quality coat is midnight blue muskrat, cut on full-length duster lines, with big bone buttons and small, curved collar.

NO MATTER what hat shapes may be promoted, the bonnet goes on decorating the prettiest heads. Beige fur felt for a bonnet cloche with a wavy, cushioned brim, and a speckled pheasant feather fancy at one side to add height and color. Soft pink-beige complexion veil.

BIG HIT in the velvet dress class is a peg-pocket velvet sheath dress with tiny slashed mandarin collar of grosgrain. Grosgrain also edges the deep, narrow bodice closing, and the flared short sleeves. Black or navy, with emerald-cut paste buttons.

POCKET INTEREST marks many suit jackets. Gray flannel for a slim suit, the shapely jacket marked by four diagonal pockets that curve inward, and are finished with tabs trimmed with stone-set buttons.

THE GROWING trend for smart interior wear is the one-piece pajama suit. Black crepe for a nice suit with a black velvet contour belt, frog jacket closing, and buttons at the ankle of the narrow trousers. A sleeveless, long flowing coat of velvet lined with quilted crepe completes this televiewing ensemble—that's what its designers call it!

IDEAL for the horseshoe collar suit is a new blouse-slip. The top is cut like a blouse, is of Chantilly-type nylon lace—petal-skin lined—with tiny lace collar and jewelled buttons. It is joined by the elasticized waistline to a nylon tricot skirt.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He wants to switch girl friends.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

During the summer, I was more or less going steady with a girl who kept telling me about a friend of hers who was away on a vacation. A few weeks ago, this girl came home and my girl friend introduced us. I fell for her, and told my girl friend how I felt. She was willing for me to take her friend out, and she and I agreed we would stop seeing each other awhile so I would have a chance to make up my mind who I wanted to go with.

The second girl, Marilyn, told me she didn't feel right about going out with me because she knew I had been Marcia's friend, and she doesn't want their friendship to be broken up. But Marcia is a wonderful girl, and she told her we were not seeing each other any more because she wants to clear the way for me with Marilyn.

Marilyn, though, is giving me a very difficult time. Sometimes she acts very warm toward me and other times she is very independent. I think she feels that Marcia still stands in the way.

Now I'm all mixed up and I don't know what to do. I don't want to hurt Marcia, but I do love Marilyn.

H. H.

Dear H. H.:

Why do you have to go out with only one girl at a time? I know that's what you young people feel you must do, but why don't you be a little different?

The best way for you to solve the problem, it seems to me, would be for you to get one of your friends and double date with both girls. Then Marcia would not feel left out.

It's fine that Marcia is such an understanding girl, and if I were you I'd tell her just how I feel and make the suggestion that you get up a foursome to go out and have fun together, and see how that works. Don't you think that would be a good idea?

She's troubled about her younger sisters.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am writing about my twin sisters, Jane and Jean. Jane seems very unhappy in school. She had a great many friends when she started school, but now seems to have few.

Jean has been in trouble a couple of times. She ran away from home the last time and caused a great scandal. It seems that every time she does something foolish, her sister loses more friends.

I can't help feeling that my mother and step-father are largely accountable for the situation, because there doesn't seem to be any love in their home.

How can I help these girls to be happy and popular again?

Mrs. A. J.

Dear Mrs. A. J.:

It always warms my heart when an older sister takes this sort of interest in trying to help solve the problems that face the younger ones.

You are probably quite right in thinking that the home background had a great deal to do with the way Jean developed. Do you think she is old enough to understand if you tried to explain something of this to her? Is there any teacher in school of whom Jean is fond, and to whom you could talk and enlist her aid in helping the girl get straightened out? Sometimes an outsider can do more in a situation like this than a member of the family can.

What sort of interests do the girls have? Has Jean any hobbies into which some of her excess energy could be channeled? Perhaps she has some sort of career in mind she would like to take up eventually, and there might be some way in which she could start a little preliminary work to spur her interest and initiative. If constructive hobby, or other project, I think it would go a long way toward solving the problem.

If one of these simple suggestions doesn't work out, then I think it might be time to consider getting her to some one for a little psychological help.

As far as Jane is concerned, do all you can to encourage her in going about with her friends and having good times with them. There's no reason why her life should be spoiled just because her twin sister is going through a period of instability. If you can let her have an occasional party for her friends at your house, away from the atmosphere of her own unhappy home, I believe that would help a lot.

WEST HUNTINGDON

Mrs. R. Gay Presented With Dresser Lamp By WMS-WA Friends

West Huntingdon—Mrs. W. Fitchett was hostess to the West Huntingdon W.M.S. and W.A. of the United Church on Thursday afternoon last with 17 members and two visitors in attendance.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. A. Wright, using the theme "Thankful".

Several songs were sung with Mr. Clark playing his guitar, and leading the singing. Mr. R. Gay read the scripture from the 107th Psalm.

Mrs. P. McInroy gave a reading entitled "Looking Out the Window" followed with a duet by Mrs. Mac Sarles and Mrs. Howard Cooke. Mrs. G. Ashley gave a reading on "Thanksgiving."

During the business part of the meeting, two thank you cards were read and a sympathy card is to be sent to Mrs. Earl Fox, Belleville. It was decided to hold a supper the first week in November asking Eggleton to join. A committee was formed of Mrs. G. Cooke, Mrs. A. Wright, Mrs. E. Poste and Mrs. G. Ashley.

Mr. Clarke and Mrs. Grant were appointed program conveners for same. The program committee for next meeting are Mrs. A. Wright and Mrs. J. S. Wilson. Mrs. G. Cooke gave a reading on "India" and Miss S. Wilson on "Temperance".

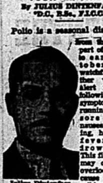
Mrs. G. Ashley favored with an instrumental and Mrs. Bert Wallace gave a reading on "Thanksgiving". Mrs. C. Wright tendered a vote of thanks to the hostess.

An interesting part of the meeting was a presentation to Mrs. R. Gay from a few of her friends, Miss S. Wilson read an address and Mrs. A. Wright presented her with a dresser lamp. Mr. Clarke gave an interesting talk on Thanksgiving.

IN POLIO 'SEASON' SPINAL ADJUSTMENTS URGED FOR YOUR ILL CHILD

By JULIUS DINTENFASS
*D.C., B.Sc., F.I.C.C.

Polio is a seasonal disease—from the latter part of August to early October. The watchful mother will be alert for the following early symptoms. A running nose, sore throat, nausea, vomiting, headache, fever and drowsiness. This first stage may often be overlooked because of the mildness of its symptoms. This is the time when the child should have spinal adjustments which increase the circulation of blood and build bodily resistance.



Julius Dintenfass
*Doctor of Chiropractic

The first stage may be followed by a few feverless and symptomless days. After this interval the second stage develops. Fever may be high, headache intense, nausea and vomiting prominent. The child becomes irritable. Signs appear which point toward neuro-muscular disorder—stiff neck, back pain and tenderness in the muscles of the arms and legs. This stage either terminates in paralysis or the patient makes a gradual recovery. The third stage is the paralytic stage, when the diagnosis of poliomyelitis becomes positive.

The best all around preventive is the avoidance of fatigue. Chiropractic research has definitely established that fatigue is a contributing cause of infantile paralysis. Children should not overdo exercise, and should take a period of rest every afternoon. Don't overlook the possible harmful effects of "minor accidents." At the first signs of unpleasant symtoms, during the polio "season," have your child examined by a chiropractor.

WEST HUNTINGDON

Christian Youth Centre, Guests At Y.P.U.

West Huntingdon— The Young People's Union held their regular meeting in the United Church on Friday evening and had as their guests members of the Christian Youth Centre of 85 Queen St. Kingston, Ont., and those taking part in the program included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leach, Miss Doreen Darr; Messrs. Philip Hanna; John Carnegie; Albert Revelle and Frank Slingerland.

A number of young people from Thomasburg also attended, and Miss Mary Chambers represented the Eggleton group.

Mr. Bob Gay, of the Bible Institute of Toronto, who was responsible for the program introduced the group, and the Rev. Morley Clarke welcomed the visitors to the church. Mr. Charles Leach was chairman and gave a most inspiring address.

The quartet favored with several numbers and Miss Doreen Darr gave a short address. The solos by Albert Revelle and Frank Slingerland were much appreciated.

At the close, short addresses were given by Rev. M. Clarke; Bob Gay and H. R. Burke and Alex McCurdy.

This was one of the most inspiring and helpful meetings the union ever held and no doubt a return visit would be much appreciated.

SCOHARIE

Scoharie — Mrs. Lewis Cleave enjoyed the weekend in Belleville, with her niece, Mrs. Herbert Mitchell and other friends.

Miss Norma Foster opened her home to a group of ladies on Friday evening for a nylon demonstration. She served delicious refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster and Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Foster and Ann enjoyed a drive to Alexandria Bay, U. S. by way of Ivy Lea, on Sunday. They also visited "Abbey Dawn", and a friend in Kingston.

Members of the Live Women's Circle were pleasantly entertained by Bloomfield W. M. S. on Friday afternoon when Miss Clazie was guest speaker.

Luncheon Is Served

What a welcome sound is the announcement "Luncheon is Served." In this era when the tempo of daily life is so fast there is great temptation to lie in bed just a few more minutes in the morning. Delay in getting a good start often means that the breakfast is hurried and is not sufficient to prevent that "low feeling before noon."

The homemaker who wants to serve nourishing well-balanced meals every day, will see that the luncheon is hot and satisfying to make up for the scanty breakfast.

Sometimes a hearty cream soup or a chowder fills the bill. The casserole dish allows for great variation and pleases both the cook and her family. Many combinations may be cooked in the oven in a casserole and when served, the steaming fragrance is a promised appetizing food. Although hungry people need no coaxing it often pays to dress up the food, particularly if it is a leftover making a return appearance.

These recipes are from the files of the home economists, Consumer Section, Canadian Department of Agriculture. They are all exceedingly good.

Sausage and Corn Casserole

1 lb. sausages or sausage meat
2 tablespoons sausage dripping
2 teaspoons flour
½ cup milk
1 20 oz. can cream style corn
1 teaspoon minced onion or 2 tablespoons green pepper
½ cup fine bread crumbs.

If using sausages, remove casing. Shape sausage meat into 10 or 12 patties. Fry patties until lightly browned. Make a sauce of the 2 tablespoons sausage dripping, flour and milk. Cook, stirring frequently, until sauce thickens slightly. Add corn and onion or green pepper, blending well. Arrange alternate layers of crumbs, corn mixture and sausage patties in a greased baking dish. Top with some of the crumbs which have been mixed with a little sausage dripping and arrange a few sausage patties on top. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for 30 minutes. If desired, apple rings may be browned on one side in sausage dripping and placed browned side up on top layer of crumbs. Yield: five to six servings.

Surprise Mould

2 cups raw rice
4 cups boiling water
2½ teaspoons salt
½ cup chopped parsley
3 tablespoons fat
2 cups chopped cooked meat
½ cup gravy.

Pick over rice and wash well. Add salt to boiling water. Add rice gradually so that water will not stop boiling. Boil vigorously for 15 minutes. Drain well. Add chopped parsley. Set aside 1 cup of this mixture, then line a well-greased mould with the remainder of the mixture. Press it in until about 1½ inches thick. Fill centre with chopped meat and gravy. Cover with the 1 cup rice, cover closely. Set mould in hot water and steam 45 minutes. Turn out to serve. Yield: six servings.

Chili Beans

1 lb. ground raw beef
½ cup chopped onion
2 cups cooked white (navy) beans
1 cup chili sauce
1 to 2 tablespoons chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 small bay leaf
4 whole cloves
⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Brown beef and chopped onion in a dry pan, stirring constantly. Add cooked beans and stir for about 5 minutes. Add chili sauce and seasonings and simmer, covered, for 15 to 20 minutes. If mixture thickens too much during cooking, additional vegetable water or tomato juice may be added. Yield: six to eight servings.

Creamed Peas With Dried Beef

½ cup dried beef
1 can condensed mushroom soup
1 cup drained canned peas.

Cut beef in small pieces. Cover with boiling water. Let stand five minutes. Drain. Heat soup and add drained canned peas and meat. Heat thoroughly. Serve on toast, patty shells or over toasted buns. Yield: four servings.

4TH THURLOW

4th Thurlow — Mr. and Mrs. John Foote and boys of Kingston, were guests last weekend of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Cole.

Mrs. Neva Horton, Miss Arlene Horton, and Mr. Jack Francis, of Picton, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrison.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffrey of Bayside, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ritz.

Mr. Fred Mitchell, 2nd line, was a Thursday afternoon caller at the Cooley Treverton home.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Tummon, Wayne and Dianne, took dinner on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Milton Grills, 4th Sidney.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ritz are enjoying a week's holiday visiting relatives in Clare, Michigan, and other points.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OF THE WEEK

Dangerous Praying

By ROY L. SMITH

Every world religion of which man has any knowledge makes some use of the idea of prayer. There seems to be a universal belief that man can make God hear.

For the most part prayer consists of petitions, in which men ask their gods for good things which they think they are not able to obtain by their own efforts. As religion becomes more reasonable, however, and as religious people become more intelligent, prayer becomes an effort to establish a two-way communication with God.

The thing God says to a man in response to his prayer is much more important than what a man says to God in his prayer.

On one occasion Jesus' disciples asked Him to give them a pattern prayer to guide in fashioning their own prayers. As a result we have "The Lord's Prayer," the best known and most widely quoted prayer in all the world.

There Is No Magic In It

Perhaps it should be said at the outset that there is no magic in the Lord's Prayer. The man who complained that there was no use praying because he had "prayed the Lord's Prayer 17 times and nothing happened," simply missed the whole point of prayer. He was one of the very sort of whom Jesus warned—those who repeat pious phrases endlessly in the hope that the repetition will work a miracle. Even the words of Jesus himself, when spoken carelessly or dishonestly, do not accomplish anything.

A Dangerous Petition

The Lord's Prayer suggests the dangers that lie within it for the man who prays it carelessly or thoughtlessly. Suppose, for instance, that God should suddenly respond to our appeal, "Thy kingdom come and thy will be done here on earth as it is already done in heaven." What would happen to your business and mine?

If suddenly all business had to be transacted on a strictly just basis, would it call for any reorganization of our office, our pay roll, our advertising, or our sales policies? Would we keep the same appointments we have now made, spend money for the same purposes we have planned, and vote for the same candidates?

To pray "Thy will be done," means that we stand ready to do the will of God as soon as we know what that will is. Can we pray those words unless we are ready to put them into action?

Another Dangerous Petition

There is another extremely dangerous plea, "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors." As we forgive! How many of us would really dare to ask for forgiveness in such a fashion?

"I can forgive him, but I can never forget the way he treated me." It's an old statement which most of us have heard. But how many of us expect God to forgive us according to that pattern?

Still Another Dangerous Petition

"And lead us not into temptation." There seems to be some difference of opinion as to exactly what Jesus may have meant. But that has little to do with the hazard of the prayer as it is to be heard on the lips of most people today.

> The Sunday School lesson for October 22: "Growing Through Prayer," Matthew 6:5-15; Luke 11:1-13; Philippians 1:3-11; Colossians 4:2-4.

There is something like hypocrisy in asking God to deliver us from temptation when we continue to run into it deliberately and of our own free will. We go to entertainment we know will suggest evil to our minds. We engage in business we know will impose a strain upon our conscience. We spend our money on matters we are sure cannot have the approval of a righteous God.

There is a certain audacity about asking God to save us from ourselves. The theologians have constructed quite a doctrine which they call "original sin," but the fact is most of our sin is original with us. It arises from our own decisions, our own polluted desires, our own wayward impulses.

Seekers Are Finders

Jesus' promise that those who will seek will find is fulfilled every day. Those who go out looking for trouble find it, those who view everyone with suspicion soon discover disagreeable people, those who hate are always hated.

On the other hand those who look for loveliness find it in the most surprising places, those who look for nobility find it also among the humble and the poor, those who look for God find Him blooming from earthen flower pots perched on the window sills of tenement buildings.

The man who goes out looking for the evil will never be disappointed. It will await him on every corner. But he who goes out looking for the splendid will come back to his home excited over the wonders he has experienced.

And that is something of the thing that prayer means. The heart that turns to God finds Him. Not in logic, or in laboratory, but in the experience of his heart.

Cabinet Member Makes $50,000 From Wool Sale

Port Elizabeth, South Africa—(CP) — S. P. le Roux, minister [illegible]ture, cleared more than [illegible] the recent sale of his [illegible]

[illegible] This fact did not prevent him from blaming the mutton shortage on high wool prices when he addressed the Transvaal Congress of the Nationalist Party.

The minister said that farmers could pay more for sheep than the butchers. Consequently, little mutton reached the market.

Le Roux's clip of 40,937 pounds of wool from his Koffiefontein farm was sold outright at the third Port Elizabeth sale of the new season. His 138 bales were one of the largest offerings of the day.

Three times prices for his wool exceeded 10s ($1.55) a pound. Nineteen bales fetched 10s. 6½d. a pound, four reached 10s, 6d. and another 14 got 10s. 5d. His 19 bales of topline wool alone netted more than £2,700 ($9,800).

At least two other farmers, however, beat the minister's total. S. D. Naude of Hanover netted more than twice as much with 284 bales. Twenty of these bales brought 10s. 5d. a pound.

P. T. Retief of De Put was another successful farmer, his total receipt being more than £24,000. Of his 170 bales, 23 netted him £3,600 and another 23 brought 10s. 10½d. a pound.

Wawanesa Cuts Rates Below Those Of Sask. Govt.

Regina (CP) —Wawanesa Mutual Insurance Co. has reduced the premium for automobile insurance sold in Saskatchewan outside Regina and Saskatoon, and increased sharply its rates for the same insurance sold in the two cities.

Wawanesa, announcing the changes, said they were made on the basis of experience — that claims in the major cities had been far more expensive than in other places. Its so-called "extension policy" would undersell a similar government policy outside Regina and Saskatoon, but "this is not war against socialism in which we are offering loss-leader insurance bargains to embarrass the CCF government and its insurance office."

Provincial treasurer Fines' statement said, however: "Government insurance officials are of the opinion that Wawanesa is using its extension policy as a sales leader with the public and hold their fire and other types of policy in force."

Effective last Saturday, Wawanesa increased its extension policy premium by $11.90 in Regina and Saskatoon to a total of $28.50. It reduced the premium by $1.60 for motorists outside the cities, to $15.

Similar coverage offered by the Government Insurance Office — the "package policy" — costs $17.50 everywhere in the province.

Both the extension policy and the government package are intended to supplement coverage provided under the CCF government's compulsory - insurance scheme, instituted in 1946. Under that scheme each motorist must buy a basic insurance policy when he buys his license. The cost ranges from $4.50 to $10 depending on make and model of car, plus a $1 personal premium.

The government insurance office also sells most other types of insurance, including fire. It does not sell life insurance.

Cave Paintings Puzzle African Archaeologists

Capetown — (CP) — The mystery of the long-haired girl who lived near Untali in Southern Rhoderia more than 10,000 years ago intrigues archaeologists here.

Her portrait on a cave wall so puzzled a Capetown scientist that he organized an extensive search for more evidence of her.

Who and what she was, and why she had long hair among a people whose hair was universally short and clung round the scalp, remains unanswered.

But the expedition established that at the moment of her career which a bushman artist chose to perpetuate on a cave wall she was the central figure of a dance.

The scientist, Bernard Carp, first saw the portrait last year, and photographed it hastily by torchlight. He failed to notice a little group of three people, painted rather more faintly, on her right.

When he visited the cave again, a few weeks ago, with H. R. Praetorius, a photographer, and Terence McCaw, a painter, he was able to pick out the group.

Mr. Praetorius' picture of the whole scene has since been studied by Prof. C. Van Riet Lowe a leading South African archaeologist.

This is what Prof. Van Riet Lowe has written to Mr. Carp: "It clearly depicts a dancing girl before an audience of two clapping women seated next to a man — but what the meaning of it is is another matter. Your guess is as good as mine.

"The important issue is the long hair. This may be artificial—possibly, as you suggest, of grass or fibre."

Mr. Carp's first theory — that she belonged to a superior race which enslaved the Bantu — is losing ground.

"I believe that all the paintings in this area were made before the coming of the Bantu," Mr. Carp said.

Were there Europeans in Southern Africa centuries before history records their arrival? This is the second rock painting to indicate that there were. A few years ago a painting was discovered in a remote mountain cave in Southwest Africa which appeared to represent a white woman dressed in a mode which prevailed in the Mediterranean countries before the Christian era.

French Military Censorship Is Criticized

Saigon, Indo-China, Oct. 19—(AP)—French military censorship and denial of accurate information are preventing foreign correspondents from cabling factual, comprehensive accounts of the serious reverses being suffered by the French army in north Indo-China.

Military authorities are refusing to furnish war correspondents with facilities normally accorded them. French army censors make deletions in dispatches without advising the sender.

Correspondents have been advised by their home offices that some messages are arriving after delays of up to 72 hours, so badly cut as to be unintelligible.

Dispatches have been censored or subjected to long delays for reasons other than what is ordinarily considered military security.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

ONE MAN'S WIFE

The small country home of John Longmore on the lovely north coast of Maine, which I've been writing about as a kind of glimpse into the lives of Americans, is a happy place. Much of the credit for that rests with Dorothy Longmore.

Dorothy's great - grandfather emigrated from Northern Ireland to England and her grandfather, in turn, sailed west to the promised land; in his case, Massachusetts. Dorothy was brought up in Springfield, studied the piano with a view to a concert career, but had to abandon her ambition as she became increasingly near-sighted. When her mother was widowed, Dorothy went to work in the head office of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Association.

Working a few offices down a corridor from Dorothy's was John Longmore (he was in Annuity, she in Policy). Their romance did not begin as an office affair, however, but through music. John lived in a boarding house next door to Dorothy and often she would hear him playing the violin in his room.

John has played since he was in short pants. His grandfather had been one of Maine's best country fiddlers and John inherited his violin, an instrument with a high, clear pitch suited to the acoustics of barns, and which John called "Dinah". At the age of 11, he sent away to Sears-Roebuck for a fingerboard chart which he pasted on the violin and taught himself to play.

The fiddle had gone with him to Springfield. When he was lonely for Maine and the country, which was nearly all the time, he would go up to his room after work and play sad songs.

One day Dorothy saw the young man walking by and instead of the usual formal nod she spoke to John "I said I'd heard him playing and I thought it was very pretty," Dorothy recalls now. "I also mentioned that I liked music because I'd studied piano for many years.

"Well, John just looked at me and said, "You, practise up and maybe I'll come over and play with you.' That made me mad and I did. He began to come over pretty regular after that and one night he played very badly, put down his fiddle and asked me to marry him."

To The Hills

Dorothy was happy in the city. Her first two children, Gail and Hugh, were born there. John was getting steady promotions at Massachusetts Mutual. When he decided one day that he could never find happiness in the city, she felt dismay, but made no objections.

"I guess I'd known it from the beginning," she says now. "I'd wanted to go to New York on my honeymoon, but John decided on a canoe trip through Maine. I took my trousseau along in a duffle-bag. It was a strange honeymoon. John became very quiet and thoughtful, almost poetic, in the woods. He was like an Indian. I guess I knew then that he could never be happy in the city."

All their complacent suburban life disappeared with John's decision. When they bought their acreage and the one-room shack John went north to Maine to get the place ready for occupancy. Dorothy went back to her old job.

"It was two long years before we were ready to move in," she said. "John taught at the school and worked at anything he could find. We each lived on our own income. What we had left over we pooled for the house. I spent all my spare time looking for bargains. I bought nails, a pound at a time, and soil pipe and lumber, and piled them up in my mother's basement. John bought an old ton-and-a-half truck, and he'd rattle down to Springfield, load up and come back to the house to do a bit more."

Dorothy found life in the country strange at first. The northern New England drawl, the blunt directness of speech and the vocabulary itself ("spider" for frying pan, "cup towel" for dish towel", "distemper" for any kind of illness) made her feel like a foreigner. She overcame this by keeping busy. When she learned that there were no swings or teetertotters in the school ground and that the school bus service was poorly run, she decided to form a "Mothers' Club."

"It went poorly at first, but then I decided to have a benefit dance to raise money for the playgrounds", Dorothy said. "I got John's orchestra to play for nothing, got in the Ford pick-up and started to visit all the women in the back roads. They'd look at me and say, 'So, you're Johnny Longmore's wife, eh? Thought you two had split up, what with Johnny working here all alone.' Well, I sold all my tickets and we made $56. The Mother's Club began to grow and we got a new school bus. I began to feel that I belonged."

With Music

Dorothy is convinced that the children live happier lives in the country than they do in the city. "They've come to have personalities of their own," she says. "In the city everything is standardized — the clothes, the talk, everything. Children are cut to a pattern. Here in the country they develop more as individuals.

Among her many theories is that a happy home must be built around music and this creates a certain amount of chaos in the small Longmore home.

In the living room stands an upright piano and beside it a complete set of drums, which John purchased for his orchestra, the Down Easters. On top of the piano are "Dinah". John's violin, and two Flutophones, plastic kazoo-like instruments.

The children are encouraged to play any or all of these instruments when the spirit moves them. On the first night we visited the Longmores we heard a weird cacophony of sound from the little white house Looking in the window, I saw Dorothy at the piano and John, standing bug-eyed and like a beanpole with his fiddle under his chin. Young Hugh was beating the drums, Gail was blowing on a Flutophone and Mary, the baby, was sitting beside her mother thumping her tiny fists on the bass register. It was a ridiculously happy concert.

Dorothy confessed that sometimes this becomes a little tedious, but said she'd never discouraged the children from "expressing themselves.

and "If it gets too bad," she said, "John and I walk outdoors and stand awhile in the orchard."

Say No New Wheat From West Has Reached Montreal

Montreal, Oct. 20 — (CP) — Shipping officials said here today that not one bushel of the new western Canada wheat crop has reached Montreal by rail or ship.

They complained that most available ships had been diverted into coal, ore and limestone carriers on the Great Lakes. The port of Montreal has only about two months left before it closes down for the winter months.

One official said there was plenty of grain to be moved from Port Arthur and Fort William but "we just cannot get it to Montreal without ships."

Marmora — Robert Barlow, of Fort Erie, and Jack Barlow, of Toronto, spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Barlow, Deloro.

Mrs. A. Graham and son George and John and the latter's wife, and daughter, of Sault Ste. Marie, visited the former's daughter, Mrs. Frank Grant and Mr. Grant, last week. Mrs. Graham is remaining for a visit.

Guy Belanger, of Marmora, and Jim Brooks of Deloro, were among the group of Peterborough Examiner carrier boys who won a trip to Niagara Falls last week. Leo Meehan also went with the group from the Ontario Intelligencer.

The Cordova Women's Association were entertained by the Rev and Mrs. G. D. Young on Friday evening at the parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Young and family, of Sylvan Lodge, Belmont Lake, have moved into Mr. and Mrs. J. Rombough's residence, east of the village. Mr. and Mrs. Rombough are living at their cottage at Crowe Lake, but expect to leave soon for Arizona. Mr. Young has purchased 85 acres west of Crowe River, and expects to start building operations soon.

The Missionary and Maintenance Committee of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada will hold a series of rallies throughout the presbytery commencing Wednesday, October 25 at Bancroft. A meeting for the area comprising Stirling, Madoc, Marmora, Springbrook and other places will be held in the St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, on Thursday evening, Oct. 26. The Rev. J. D. Morris a fine speaker and young people's worker will be the guest speaker.

Mr. Harvy Aunger, of Smith's Falls, spent a couple of days this week with his brothers, George and William Aunger.

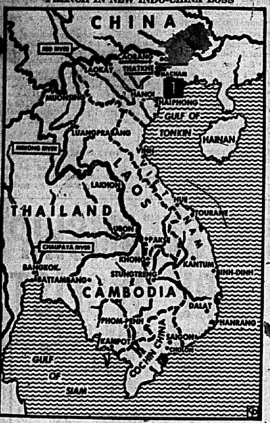
FRENCH IN NEW INDO-CHINA LOSS



With the evacuation of the fortress of Nachan (1) by French troops, communist-led Viet Minh rebels are now reported in possession of all border posts on a 60-mile frontier between Indo-China and Red China. In recent weeks the French have been forced to abandon Dongkhe, Caobang and Thatkhe (indicated by black lines). In their Caobang retreat, crack Foreign Legion troops lost some 000 men. — Central Press Canadian.

Ambassador Calls Himself Chief Poacher

London, Oct. 20—(Reuters)—Lewis Douglas, Retiring United States ambassador, last night declared himself a champion poacher.

He spoke as guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Flyfishers Club. Among his listeners was Lord Chief Justice Goddard.

"Poaching I view as one of the illegitimate, unlawful, but wholly honorable practices among honorable fishermen," said Douglas, a keen fisherman.

King Will Visit House of Commons As Sightseer

London, Oct. 20 (AP)—The King is going to step inside the brand new House of Commons building as a sightseer sometime during the next week on a visit forever forbidden after the legislators officially take it over.

Kings are barred from entering the Commons. The only King who ever did it, Charles I, touched off a revolution thereby and finally was beheaded.

Something of a tyrant, Charles called with a squad of soldiers in 1642 to arrest five of his opponents in the House.

The new building won't actually become the House of Commons until next Thursday. The King's visit will be private, merely to look over the new building.

When the King participates in the ceremony handing over the building to the Commons next week, the rites will have to be held outside so he can join in them.

August Imports, Exports Increase but Unfavorable Balance of Trade Worsens

Ottawa, Oct. 20 — (CP)—Canada's imports and exports both gained in August compared with the previous month and with last year, but the Bureau of Statistics reported an unfavorable trade balance for the second successive month.

The debit balance of $8,600,000 for August compared with a small deficit of $2,700,000 in July and a credit balance of $41,900,000 in August last year.

This brought the over-all deficit for the first eight months of 1950 to a total of $14,300,000, which compared with a surplus of $83,700,000 in the same period a year ago.

Pattern of trade with other countries showed a sharp reversal from the first eight months of 1949. During that period, Canada had an unfavorable balance with the United States of $389,100,000. This was cut during the comparable period of 1950 to $90,000,000.

On the other side of the ledger, Canada sold less to the United Kingdom and Commonwealth countries and bought more, which reversed its balance with those countries.

In the first eight months of last year, Canada had a favorable balance with the United Kingdom of $253,000,000. In the like period of 1950, this amounted to only $61,100,000.

Imports from all countries in August were valued at $267,300,000 compared with $259,500,000 in July and $212,100,000 in August last year. In the eight months they totalled $1,979,800,000 as against $1,852,400,000 a year earlier.

Exports for August totalled $260,600,000 compared with $256,700,000 in July and $254,000,000 in August last year, bringing the eight-month total to $1,965,500,000 as against $1,936,100,000 in 1949.

Kinsmen Club Members Fete Kinette Members

One of the most enjoyable social events of the present season was held last night at Tobe's County Gardens at Rossmore, when the members of the Kinsmen Club were hosts to the members of the Kinette Club of which Mrs. Walter Harden is president. Murray Davis, president of the Kinsmen Club and the members went all out to give the women and their guests a fine evening of entertainment.

A most delicious dinner was served by the Women's Auxiliary of the Massassaga United Church, consisting of cold turkey and all the trimmings topped off with excellent pie of every kind. It could be said that ample justice was done to the good things provided. Ray Lennox was Master of Ceremonies for the program that followed the dinner with Mrs. Ethel Smith - Lawrence contributing four delightful solos. Palema Cullen, seven-year-old miss was excellent in a number of Hawaiian dances. Both artists were heartily encored.

Mr. Davis welcomed the members of the Kinette Club and hoped they would have a pleasant evening and he also thanked on behalf of the club the women for the fine spread. He thanked the chairman of the evening, James Walker for the fine program provided. Mrs. Walter Harden on behalf of the Kinette Club thanked the Kinsmen and the entertainers for the most enjoyable evening. A number of prizes were drawn for by representatives of other service clubs in the city and the winners were delighted with their awards. Mrs. Betty Sullivan, Mrs. McBrien, Mrs. Lorne Weller, Mrs. Orliff Lloyd, Mrs. Fred Fisher, Mrs. Garrand and Mrs. William Beattie were the happy recipients, while Don Bacon won the prize for the men.

Dancing to the music of Bill Warham and his orchestra was enjoyed till the early hours and during the dance a number of spot prizes were awarded. All report a most enjoyable time.

Fugitive Zebra Can't Find Friend

Huntsville, Ala., Oct. 20—AP—A circus zebra escaped yesterday, but couldn't find a friend in all Huntsville — even among the horses.

The stripped animal joined a herd of horses grazing in a pasture. The horses droke down a fence and fled.

Patrolman Jerry Breedlove, part of a pursuing crowd, lassoed the fugitive when it wandered into a cattle chute.

Two New Names Added to List As Candidates

Toronto, Oct. 20. (CP)— Two new names were added Thursday night to the growing list of candidates for the Ontario Liberal leadership.

A provincial convention called for Nov. 9 will pick a successor to Farquhar Oliver.

J. G. Brown, Liberal member of the legislature for Waterloo North, announced he will be a candidate. It was also learned that Dr. Harry M. Cassidy, director of the University of Toronto School of Social work, will be nominated by a group of Toronto and Ottawa Liberals.

Already in the race are Campbell Calder, member of the legislature for London, and W. C. Thomson, Liberal member of parliament for Ontario.

The Liberals hold only 13 of the 90 seats in the Provincial House as a result of the June, 1948, election. There are 53 Progressive Conservatives, 21 C.C.F., two Labor-Progressives and one Liberal-Labor member.

Mr. Brown, a Kitchener, Ont., chartered accountant and former mayor and alderman in Kitchener, announced that "if the delegates at the Liberal convention feel that I can give leadership to the party. . . . I shall be pleased to offer my services."

Dr. Cassidy has taken no active part in politics. From 1939 to 1944 he was director of training for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Muskie Grabs Squirrel Shot, Falling in Water

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 20—AP—The fish in this story not only got away, but took along a hunter's squirrel.

Raymond Craft of Elkview shot a squirrel in a tree while hunting along the Poca River. The animal dropped into the water.

The squirrel had barely hit when a large muskie broke the surface, grabbed the squirrel, and disappeared.

That's what Craft said anyway.

Too Old in 2nd War Is Called up For Service in Navy

Buffalo, N.Y., Oct. 20—AP—Chauncy W. Lawrence of Elmira, too old for military service in the Second World War, was called to active duty yesterday with the Navy. He'll be 62 next month.

Lawrence enlisted for a four-year hitch in 1905 and served another two years in the First World War. He was rejected because of age when he tried to enlist during the last war, but since then joined the Naval Reserve.

Driving Tests Completed by Truck Drivers

Drivers for the Brewer's Warehousing in the city and district have shown marked improvement since their tests of last year's, stated Ernest West, official in charge of the Psycho Physical testing unit, which has been in operation at this headquarters for the past week. Fourteen drivers have been individually tested, an operation which is performed each year. Mr. Murray Davis is supervisor of the district and Norman Garbutt is resident manager.

"These tests are conducted by the company," said Mr. West, "to further safe driving in the province and to keep drivers conscious of safe driving." It was seen by the tests that drivers that were slightly deficient in some phases of driving had been instructed during past year and at the test of this year had shown considerable improvement. The drivers are tested for color discrimination, nerve steadiness, brake reaction time, normal vision, field of vision, distance judgment, night vision and glare vision.

Not only have the drivers for the company been tested but many local citizens have dropped into the warehouse to try the several tests. A report on all the drivers will be given Mr. Davis for checking purposes as the company is desirous of having the most efficient drivers operate their vehicles.

PROPERTY FOR SALE

The Victoria Trust and Savings Company
Administrators Of The Estate Of Arthur Clarke Frost
Offer For Sale By Tender

The Valuable Real Estate located on Herchimer Ave., and Dundas Street, East, in the Township of Thurlow, adjoining the City of Belleville, formerly owned by the late Arthur Clarke Frost.

To facilitate the sale of the property, it has been divided into three parcels (according to a plan which may be inspected at 160 Front St., Belleville) as follows:

Parcel (1)—On the West side of Herchimer Ave. (south of Bridge St.,) Frontage 115, Depth 288'. On this property stands a solid brick, slate roofed, 8-roomed dwelling which will be open for inspection from 1 to 5 p.m., on Saturday, October 21 and 28.

Parcel (2)—A vacant plot 112' x 221' running in a southerly direction from the rear of Parcel (1), and being in the rear of the Stapleton and McCoy properties on Herchimer Ave.

Parcel (3)—The North-Westerly corner of Dundas St. East, and Herchimer Ave.
Frontages—Dundas St. E., 290'.
Herchimer Ave., 279'.
This parcel containing nearly two acres and adjoining Parcel (2) is located on No. 2 Highway. It would be an ideal site for a service station, large garage, transport terminal, motel, super-market, or for light manufacturing or other commercial enterprise.

Tenders will be received at our office for any or all parcels until November 4th., 1950.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

Successful tenderers will be notified by registered mail that their tenders have been accepted, but the notice of acceptance shall not constitute a contract for sale. The successful tenderers will be required to execute an Offer to Purchase, in standard form, and to pay 10% of the tender price in cash as a deposit and the balance in cash on delivery of the deed.

3,000 Employees May be Laid Off Next Week

Windsor, Oct. 20. (CP)—Some 3,000 F[illegible] Canada employees retu[illegible] assembly lines today [illegible] two-day layoff in the [illegible] of announcements that many of them will be laid off again next week.

The shut-down of the assembly lines Wednesday was forced, the company said, by a rash of minor sabotage to cars.

Officials of the company and the big Ford Local of United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) met Thursday and are scheduled to meet today in an attempt to resolve differences over how employees will be laid off next week to enable the company to make an auto model changeover.

The company has not announced any details of the changeover but Roy England, Local 200 president, said he believes 2,200 men will be laid off Monday with another 800 following them a week later.

No announcement came out of Thursday's meeting, but it is believed that the point at issue is interpretation of seniority should be applied on a plant-wide basis among Ford's 12,000 employees. The company feels it should be applied on a departmental basis.

Mr. England said that a controversy raised over this week's brief layoff was "not even discussed."

Rhys M. Sale, company president, charged that auto assembly men wilfully damaged paint and trim on many cars Monday and Tuesday, forcing a shut down until the cars could be repaired.

The statement was termed "fantastic" by Mr. England. It was a "smoke screen" to divert attention from union wage demands, he added. Wage talks stalled recently when the union rejected a company five-year contract offer in favor of demands for straight wage increases.

703 Members Special Forces Now A.W.O.L.

Ottawa, Oct. 20. (CP)—A defence spokesman said Thursday 703 members of Canada's special United Nations force were absent without leave at the end of last weekend's four-day leave period from the various training camps.

He did not know the exact number of deserters—men absent without leave for more than 21 days—but said it would not be anywhere near the 703 figure.

The spokesman said army authorities were not worried about the number of absentees. It was probable that many of the men had travelled to cities considerable distances from their training camps and probably now were en route back to camp after overstaying their leave a day or two.

The spokesman said the figure was not out of proportion in a force of 10,000 men.

Minister Asked To Prove Charges Vice Rampant

Toronto, Oct. 20. (CP)—Mayor Hiram McCallum Thursday invited Rev. J. R. Mutchmor to prove his charges that "vice is rampant" in Toronto before today's meeting of the Toronto Police Commission.

The mayor extended his invitation in a letter sent by special messenger to Dr. Mutchmor, secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, who made the charges in a statement Wednesday.

Inspector M. M. Mulholland, deputy police chief, said 12,986 persons were arrested in Toronto this year on liquor charges. But in 1914, when the city's population was much smaller, 22,347 faced drunk charges.

Police Break Windsor End Numbers Racket

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 20.—(CP)—Two raiding parties of the Windsor police morality squad, Thursday broke open what they claimed was the Windsor end of a numbers racket based in Detroit.

The raids—first of their kind in 18 months here—brought the arrest of Mrs. Eulia Vincent, 35, and Mason Jasper, 50, charged with operating gaming houses. They were released on $500 bail.

Police said 45,100 numbers tickets, printed in Detroit, were seized, together with an undisclosed amount of money.

Police said the racket apparently paid off on three numbers listed in stock market reports.

The raids came little more than a month after a report by two provincial police inspectors said that gambling and vice were widespread in this border city.

Phil Rizzuto One of Year's Best-Dressed Men

New York, Oct. 20. (AP)—This year's best-dressed man, as chosen by the Fashion Foundation of America, include Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, defence secretary George C. Marshall and Phil Rizzuto New York Yankee shortstop.

The Foundation, sponsored by more than 100 custom tailors and clothes merchants in the United States, cited Eisenhower for "his splendid selection of ties and hats."

As president of Columbia University, Eisenhower was picked in the field of education. Among statesmen, Marshall was chosen because of "his preference for brightly-hued suits". In the sports field, the diminutive Rizzuto was said to "set the style for short men" with his "bright but not 'loud' suits and accessories."

Others included bandleader Guy Lombardo in the music category; actor Jack Carson, motion pictures; Warren Austin, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations; actor Don Ameche, television; Winthrop Rochefeller, society.

Britons Braced For Continued Diet of Austerity

London, Oct. 20 (AP)—Britons braced themselves today for a continued diet of austerity despite the resignation of Sir Stafford Cripps, chief architect of the current belt-tighening policy.

Sir Stafford who headed the country's drive for economic recovery, resigned yesterday as chancellor of the exchequer because of ill health.

Prime Minister Attlee promptly named Economics Minister Hugh Gaitskell, who had been acting as Sir Stafford's chief deputy, to succeed him.

Political observers predicted that the appointment of the 44-year-old Gaitskell, former Oxford University teacher, would mean little if any change in government economics policies.

As firm a believer in the necessity for austerity as Sir Stafford himself, Gaitskell has been associated with the former chancellor in recovery planning for several years.

Sir Stafford, tall, spare Socialist son of a British peer, also gave up his seat in the House of Commons, although he expressed hope he might be able to return to public service after a year's rest.

He has been a member of parliament for 19 years. His resignation reduced Labor's effective majority in the House of Commons to eight.

Many London morning newspapers ignored political ties to pay tribute to the 61-year-old former chancellor who guided the country's economic policy through some of its most critical post-war difficulties.

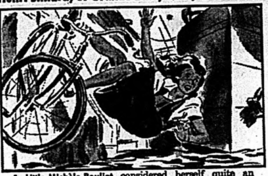
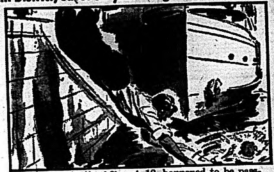
YOUTH DIVES FROM STEAMSHIP DOCK; RESCUES GIRL CYCLIST

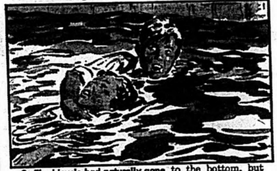
Henri Simard, of Grande Baie, Que., in the Chicoutimi District, saves 12-year-old girl from drowning



1. Little Michèle Pouliot considered herself quite an expert cyclist — at least until one late summer afternoon at Bagotville, Que. For it turned out to be a day she won't forget for a long time. She was riding her bicycle on the smooth surface of the big Canada Steamship Lines dock when suddenly she came too close to the edge. Both girl and bicycle went over.



2. Fortunately, Henri Simard, 18, happened to be passing by . . . and, fortunately too, Henri was the kind of young man who doesn't think of danger to himself in an emergency. Without wasting a second, he plunged, fully clothed, into the black, cold waters of the Saguenay — a dive of approximately 30 feet. Surfacing, he swam swiftly to the floundering Michèle.



3. The bicycle had naturally gone to the bottom, but the little girl was bobbing on the surface, choking and spluttering. Soon, however, she was being supported by the strong arm of Henri Simard. Slowly, he swam with her in to the dock and safety. We are proud to give public recognition to the gallantry of this brave young Canadian by presenting him with The Dow Award.

Top-Secret Group Handling Tickets For Distribution top-secret group in Toronto wading through tons of mail applications for Grey Cup football tickets.

The Canadian Rugby Union already has received applications for nearly 18,000 tickets for the Canadian championship game, says secretary Percy Robinson. There are 8,250 tickets available. The remaining 19,250 are to be distributed by the various senior teams of the Eastern and Western League.

"We said no applications would be accepted after Oct. 13," Robinson said. "But people are still writing in."

The mystery group, working at night on its own time, must mail two tickets to each of the 4,125 lucky letter-writers — and return the money sent in by the unlucky ones.

Mr. Robinson said the group is connected with football. Their identity will be kept secret.

Jack Bell, fatally injured in a football game, was buried in Sarnia Thursday while his home-town flags flew at half mast.

Rev. Dr. J. M. MacGillivray of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, preaching the funeral sermon, described the 25-year-old substitute quarterback of the Sarnia Imperials as "one of the best all-round footballers Sarnia has ever turned out" and said he "played the game cleanly and brilliantly."

Meantime, it was announced in Sarnia that a trust fund will be organized for Bell's widowed mother, Mrs. Jennie Bell. And in Toronto, officials said that proceeds of an Ontario Rugby Football Union game in Toronto next Sunday between Sarnia and Toronto Balmy Beach will go to the Jack Bell Memorial Fund established there.

At Lakeview Cemetery, Bell was buried with his football uniform on the sweater was his number 19, which will be permanently retired by the Sarnia club.

Woody Strode, 31-year-old pass-catching end with Calgary Stampeders for the last three seasons, has left for his home in the United States and will not be back this year, coach Les Lear announced. The big Negro import, who in the last two seasons has failed to approach the form which was a vital factor in Calgary's 1948 Dominion Football championship, plans to resume professional wrestling on the West Coast.

North Americans scored heavily in the draw in Dublin for major prizes in the richest Irish Hospital Sweepstakes since 1947.

Indications were that 40 to 50 percent of the prize pool of £906,856 (about $2,675,224) will cross the Atlantic to the United States and Canada. Payoff of the big prizes depends on the outcome of the Cambridgeshire classic at Newmarket, England, next Wednesday. The favorite is Socrates at 6-1.

Frankie Belanger, Jr., Quebec middleweight class boxer Thursday was suspended indefinitely from fights recognized by the National Boxing Association.

The Quebec City Athletic Commission said it suspended him after investigating circumstances surrounding his defeat Monday by Marc Begin of Levis. It did not amplify.

Belleville Golf Rolls 3502 For Seasonal Record

Northern Electric increased its top-spot lead over the second-place Tobe's County Gardens in the Major "A" Bowling League standing last night. Electrics now enjoy a five-point lead over the Gardens with Moore's Chiselers holding down third place.

The league-leaders rolling an aggregate of 3148 on the Bowl-O-Drome alleys, defeated the Esquire for Men team by a 7-0 score.

Belleville Golf came through with an impressive record aggregate of 3502 to hand the Lawn Bowlers a 7-0 setback while Callaghan's Ice and the CNR defeated the Chiselers and Tobe's Gardens respectively by 4-3 counts.

Four of the Golf team rolled three-strings topping 700. Scores were: L. Lennox, 748; H. Ridley, 747; Evan Barlow, 736; Joe Legault, 706 and Joe Kirkwood, 565. Other scores in the league which topped 650 were: Jim McKenzie, 708; Al. Hitchon, 726; G. Bellis, 684; B. Fraser, 652; E. Colebourne, 663; P. Drumm, 667 and Jack Bennett, 673.

The scores:—

Belleville Golf	7	3502
Lawn Bowlers	0	3044
Northern Electric	7	3148
Esquire for Men	0	2683
Callaghan Ice	4	2984
Moores Chiselers	3	3042

Three Players Awarded Barrie Flyers by O.H.A.

Toronto, Oct. 20 (CP)—Three former Toronto St. Michael's College players were awarded to Barrie Flyers and another to Guelph Biltmores in the Junior A series by the Ontario Hockey Association at a meeting here last night.

Glen Howes, Leo Labine and George Stanutz, who figured in an involved three-team deal, went to Barrie. Willie Marshall plays for Guelph Biltmores.

St. Michael's protested both deals.

The Toronto team got $2,000 and players William Sexton and McDonald from Barrie. Toronto Marlboros got Danny Poland from Barrie in the same transaction.

The meeting, which lasted until 2.30 a.m. also dealt with other players' status.

Guy Henri, formerly of Cornwall, was awarded to Stratford Kroehlers. Henri, it was found, had signed first with Stratford and later with St. Catharines Tee Pees. The O.H.A. ruled his first card was legal, and that transfer papers from Cornwall to Stratford were in order.

Harold Scholley, suspended a year ago following a dispute over his birth certificate, was reinstated. He last played for Welland.

In the case of Willie Marshall, St. Mike's was given $500 and players Ken Laufman and H. Negladuk. The ruling said Laufman must not be transferred by the Toronto team during the 1950-51 season.

Manager Father Flanagan of St. Michael's announced that for purposes of hockey the team wished to be regarded as a hockey club and not as a college taking part in hockey.

Secretary George Panter said the Barrie-St. Michael's-Marlboros deal resulted from a desire by Marlboros for player Danny Poland, formerly of the Barrie Junior B team. Stafford Smythe, acting as agent for St. Mike's, arranged the transaction. Later St. Michael's protested the arrangement.

Strong Voices Offer U.S. Words of Advice

(By The Canadian Press)

Three of the stronger voices in the United States spoke out Thursday night to offer the U.S. words of advice in these days of world-wide tension.

In New York City, former President Herbert Hoover said in a radio speech the United States should provide no more money or arms for free Europe "until a definitely unified and sufficient European army is in sight."

In Pittsburgh, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower came out against preventive war because, he said "war begets conditions that beget further war." He told a Carnegie Institute of Technology gathering the best hope is a good defence, backed by crushing offensive might.

In Rochester, Minn., elder statesman Bernard M. Baruch said the United States' "limping approach to mobilization encourages new Soviet adventures." He urged a two-year, all-out program, coupled with stiff anti-inflation measures.

Alliance, O., Oct. 20 (AP) — A "chain gang" of college students moved 65,000 books across Mount Union College's campus here so their new $600,000 library won't have that bare look at dedication today. The volunteers formed a chain from the old library to the new four-storey building. Librarians at each end directed the flow of volumes.

Reader's Digest showed millions how to wax a car in 20 minutes!

A "diamond-shine" without rubbing when you winter-wax this easy way!

How to clean before using Car-Plate

Wax should always be applied to a clean car. The finish should be free of road film and decomposed paint. That's why it is important that you clean your car thoroughly before applying Car-Plate. For quick, easy cleaning of your car, Johnson's Carnu is recommended. It contains a mild abrasive that does the job fast—leaves a perfect surface for a sparkling Car-Plate finish.

1909

Your car will come shining through the hardest winter when you wax it the no-rub way with Johnson's Car-Plate. For Car-Plate gives the finish of your car such wonderful protection that you'll surely want to use it before winter sets in. And it will only take you 20 minutes to do the job!

Car-Plate is the result of a great new basic chemical discovery in the Johnson's Wax laboratories. It's a free-flowing, liquid wax. Just spread it on the cleaned surface . . . let it dry . . . then wipe lightly. That's all! Today, give your car a "diamond shine" with Car-Plate . . . and wax-protect the finish for the months to come!

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

FROM

Graduates of the Cookian School of Applied Junior "B" hockey are beginning to get themselves known up there in the ranks of the illustrious Junior "A" army. Don Hogan who used to patrol the centre ice lanes for the Rockets banged home three goals the other day for Galt against Waterloo, Hogan's last two goals came within seven seconds of each other in the last period.

Bob Taylor flung home a neat marker from two assisting pals of the St. Catharines Tee Pees against Stratford in a three-all tie, Taylor's goal tied up the pastime early in the third period.

Tempers flared and fists flew in the Barrie - Windsor Junior "A" brawl on Wednesday with no less than ten major penalties, two misconduct penalties and a game misconduct penalty being handed out by the officials. And right in the thick of the fray was Young Marse Pletsch, former Belleville Rockets rightwinger. Pletsch was helped to a major in the second period and a major and 10 minute misconduct in the third heat.

* * *

THEY'RE OFF!

It seems that the Belleville entry in the senior hockey group hereabouts got away to a good start at the inaugural meeting of the club Wednesday night. Unable to attend because of a previous date with hunks of luscious turkey at Warden Clarke Rollins' banquet in Bancroft that night, nevertheless we were glad to hear through our Mr. Jack Brown, that there was plenty of enthusiasm shown at a well-attended meeting. The boys have elected a strong executive and therein lies the success of any organization, sports or otherwise.

* * *

THE REFS LOVE THIS!

The lational Hockey League has adopted a new rule this year which should provide for more efficient officiating and help prevent some of the free-for-oll brawls that have marred games in the past.

Formerly the sole duties of the linesmen in a game were to whistle offsides. From now on the linesmen will be empowered with the authority to note any major infraction of the rules and report to the referee for the calling of a penalty.

Commencing on the new rule, NHL prexy Clarence Campbell said, "the linesmen not only have the authority but it will be their duty to call misdemeanors of major importance. In the past they could express an opinion to the referee for him to rule on, but none of them, understandably, like to do so for fear of being branded 'stool pigeons'."

* * *

This step in the right direction should also be taken by the Ontario Hockey Association if it has not already done so. Refereeing of hockey games, is at its best a thankless task, with the hapless officials given the well - known raspberries when they fail to see infractions. In these days of flashing, speedy hockey, a referee needs two pairs of eyes in order to keep a rigid control over the game and players. Linesmen have eyes too, so why not let 'em use 'em officially. The authority of a linesman to call penalties as well as offsides would greatly facilitate the work of the referee and in addition would be of great assistance in keeping players under control. Sly trips and surreptitious pokes in the ribs, done when the referee has his head turned, would be done away with, or at least a lot of them would.

* * *

A NEW ONE!

Speaking of new rules, OHA executive member Frank Buckland of Peterborough informed us at the hockey meeting last Sunday that in the future a defending player cannot slide along the ice to divert the puck, or take a man out of play. If the player slithers atop the pond and knocks the puck away with his body he will be tabbed for interference. If he takes the oncoming player out by dumping him while sliding on the ice, he'll get the sin bin for tripping.

* * *

DOUBLE TALK

Representatives of the junior "B" group of the district get together for a scheduled confab at Memorial Arena on Sunday starting at 2:30. Nearby the Belleville Senior Hockey Club will also get around the council table to discuss important matters. There is plenty of work to be done before the schedule gets under way on October 30 and the executive is buckling down to work with plenty of enthusiasm. Convener Lorne Cook will likely have the senior schedule drawn up for the Sunday meeting so that the junior "B's" can get their sked under way.

THE SCORER FAINTED!

In 1922 the Cubs and Phillies put on what was advertised as a baseball game with the following results—

The Cubs won 26 to 23 — a total of 49 tallies in one game — the record. The Cubs made 25 hits and the Phillies 26. Included in those 51 safeties were 12 doubles, 3 triples and 3 homers.

Chicago scored 10 runs in the second inning and 14 in the fourth. Chicago used 5 pitchers. Philadelphia 2. Neither side made an error.

Tight Big Four Race Holds Spotlight in Weekend Football; Western Playoffs Now Decided

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Argonauts, self-confessed underdogs from here in, and Hamilton Tiger-Cats face grim struggles this weekend as they try to hold their own in the tense race for the Big Four football playoffs.

In the weekend's headline eastern football games, Argos, stretched thin by injuries and the United States draft, invade Ottawa Saturday to meet the Rough Riders. Also suffering from injuries, the Tiger-Cats visit Montreal Sunday to meet the Alouettes.

Toronto and Hamilton are tied for first place in the league. Tied a scant two points behind them are Montreal and Ottawa. It's still a wide open race to the league playoffs.

Playoffs are already decided in the Western Conference, where the schedule winds up this weekend. Winnipeg Blue Bombers, assured of first place in league standings, are at home to Saskatoon Roughriders, who also have made the playoffs. Edmonton Eskimos, the third place club, plays the Stampeders in Calgary.

The Intercollegiate League sees Queen's University Gaels play the undefeated McGill Redmen in Montreal, while University of Western Ontario are guests at the University of Toronto.

Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union play Toronto Balmy Beach in Toronto Sunday in a game that will probably indicate once and for all the winner of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Show Improvement

Argos have been crippled by the loss of star halfback Billy Bass with a back injury and outside Bob Heck of the U.S. Marine Corps. Big Bob Westlake has moved into Bass' backfield spot. Other injuries have shown improvement.

Hamilton stressed pass defence in its drills this week in an effort to stop Frank Filchock of Montreal, the big gun in Montreal's win over Hamilton in their last meeting.

In the Western Conference, the most crucial issue at stake is second place in the league standing. Saskatchewan is two points behind Edmonton but can take second place away from them if—and it's a big if—Edmonton loses to Calgary and the Riders beat Winnipeg.

Edmonton and Riders play a sudden-death game next week for the right to meet Winnipeg for the western championship.

Lots of Injuries

Lots of injuries confront the Bombers for the Regina game. Buddy Tinsley, out with a bruised leg, will definitely not play. Others injured are John Brown, with a torn cartilage; Sleepy Knowles, torn knee tendons; Ron Vacher, injured hip; Ed Henke, swollen ankle; Bud Korchak, twisted ankle; and Joe Aguirre, the league-leading scorer, broken finger.

So it's assumed that mostly second-stringers will be used to save the top men for the finals.

Johnny Bell, Regina's lanky end, won't see action Saturday, as he'll be scouting the Calgary Edmonton game. But the Riders will be going all out to win against the Bombers.

Most of the Intercollegiate Shenanigans will be in Toronto where thousands of Varsity alumni will flock in for homecoming weekend. But the crucial game is at Montreal— the first meeting this season of McGill and Queen's, rated the two top clubs in the league. On the basis of steamroller wins over western and Varsity, McGill is favored to take the championship.

Sunday's O.R.F.U. game in Toronto will be a benefit game for Mrs. Jennie Bell of Sarnia, widowed mother of Imperials' Jack Bell, who died of a broken neck after tackling Beaches' Carl Galbreath when Beaches beat Sarnia last Saturday.

Baseball Shorts Here to Stay Says Manager

Oakland, Calif., Oct. 20 (AP)—Hollywood's baseball shorts won't be any shorter next year but, like home runs and beefs with umpires, they are here to stay.

Fred Haney says so. The personable manager of the ball stars of the movie capital startled the Pacific Coast League in particular and all baseball in general when he trotted out his players in the abbreviated uniforms two weeks after the season started last spring.

Although he realizes the value of favorable publicity Haney makes no pretense of being a fashion dictator. He contended at the initial viewing —and claims even more so now—that the scanties he decked out his he-men ball players are the ideal garb for hot weather. As an old St. Louis Browns hireling, he recalls the days when he perspired almost more than he aspired.

Haney made his seasonal report on the "Hollywood shorts" while attending the coast league meeting here yesterday.

"They're the most practical uniforms for warm weather. Some of the players were a bit dubious at first. They didn't know how the public would accept them or how they would look."

But in Oakland, advance publicity attracted a crowd of 11,000 for a game that normally would have drawn about half that number.

Several other clubs throughout the country picked up the idea. Mobile of the Southern Association was the second team to use the more ventilated clothing. Then the Bisbee, Arizona, club borrowed 18 sets of shorts from Haney late in the season. Attendance jumped from an average 600 to close to 2,000.

Haney got the idea for the shorts after reading a column by Braven Dyer, Los Angeles sports writer, who lamented the fact that other sports had made changes and improvements in equipment and ideas but baseball none.

North Bay Wins Over Cornwall Calumets 5-3

Cornwall, Ont., Oct. 20 (CP)—Hugh Christie potted two goals in the final period Thursday night to give North Bay a 5-3 Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League victory over Cornwall Calumets. About 1,500 fans watched the Black Hawks tally their second win in the league play.

The North Bay squad, coached by Bucko MacDonald, took a fast 2-0 lead on goals by Frank Ringler and Bill Dwyer. Chick Secchnin added another at the start of the second frame before Jean-Paul Lafortune connected for Calumets.

Cornwall then took two quick goals as Black Hawks played two men short. Jim McEwen and Frank Couture evened the count, and Christie's third period goals provided the win.

Canadiens Defeat Rangers 4-0; Chicago Heat Wave Postpones Hawks and Detroit Contest

(By The Canadian Press)

hockey fans say in French-speaking Quebec when they feel they've a pretty good club: "Les Canadiens son la!"

Translated, that means coach Dick Irvin's Habitants are right on the beam in the National Hockey League this season.

They were just that last night in applying the old whitewash brush to New York Rangers, 4-0, before 14,155 approving fans.

Equally pleasing to the crowd was the performance of their hockey idol, Maurice (The Rocket) Richard who was his old high-scoring self. The Rocket fired home two goals, his third and fourth of the season.

A record-breaking heat wave in Chicago forced postponement of the night's only other scheduled game, between the Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings.

The Hawks said it was the first postponement because of heat in the N.H.L.'s 32-year history. At 2 p.m. the temperature was 79, and the stadium said it could not freeze the mushy ice to league specifications before game time.

At Montreal, Richard opened the scoring early in the first period while Rangers were short-handed, and the New Yorkers threatened often thereafter but never could get the rubber past goalie Gerry McNeil. He played a standout game, but the visitors were their own worst enemy in messing up a flock of scoring chances.

Leo Gravelle made it 2-0 late in the period on a rebound during a scramble, with Vern Kaiser and Billy Reay drawing assists. The Rangers were short a man during that one, too.

Richard's second goal came at 4:13 of the middle session, and the final tally went to Rookie Frank King on a breakaway with Bert Hirschfeld.

The game was rugged in spots and several fistic flare-ups threatened but quickly petered out. In the nets, McNeil had 23 shots to handle compared with 33 for Charlie Rayner.

The victory left Canadiens still in the lead with six points in four games, three ahead of Chicago, Detroit and Toronto.

Peterborough Sure of Place In Playoffs

Peterborough, Ont., Oct. 20 — (CP) — Peterborough Orfuns defeated Oshawa Red Raiders 6-3 Thursday night to make sure of second place in their group of the Ontario Rugby Football Union Intermediate competition.

Frank Fitzgerald ran for an unconverted touchdown in the first quarter after an Oshawa fumble, Ellis, Armstrong and March all kicked singles for the Red Raiders.

Peterborough now will represent the group in the Provincial Intermediate B playoffs. Cobourg first place winner, will enter the Intermediate A playoffs.

Trenton High Defeats Albert For Third Win

Trenton, Ont.—Trenton High School senior gridders ran their unbeaten string to three games by dumping Albert College of Belleville, 12-5 here Wednesday afternoon at Bain Park. The win gave the locals undisputed possession of top spot in the Bay of Quinte group.

Trenton opened the scoring late in the second quarter with Austin Scott taking a touchdown pass from Bill Ormshaw. Ormshaw booted the convert to make it 6-0. Albert started to roll in the final minutes of the quarter, but time ran out on them with the ball on the Trenton five-yard line.

Albert marched up the field early in the third quarter, with Blake Harris plunging over from the Trenton five. The convert attempt was blocked. Late in the same quarter Austin Scott scored his second touchdown for Trenton when he raced 30 yards around left end for the score. The convert attempt failed.

Ormshaw booted a single early in the final quarter to give Trenton a 12-5 lead. Right after this play Albert marched 85 yards down the field on running plays only to lose the ball on the Trenton one-foot line.

'Moon' Wootton Puts Crescents In Driver's Seat

Toronto, Oct. 20 (CP) — The way it appears, from statistics, goalie Lloyd (Moon) Wootton has put Owen Sound Crescents in the Drivers' seat for the Canadian Lacrosse championship.

Wootton has stopped 140 shots in the five games thus far. Gord Pogue of New Westminster Adanacs has had only 98 shots fired at him from the sticks of the older and slower Crescents.

Despite Adanacs' shooting edge, they have scored 38 goals in the series. Crescents, now leading 3-2 in games, have scored 42.

The teams here tonight in the sixth game of the best-of-seven series. If a seventh game is needed, it will be played here Sunday.

Despite the deficit, coach Bob Lee of Adanacs says: "Why we're only one game down now. We were two down at one stage but managed to win two straight. We can do it again."

If they do, Adanacs will be the first western team ever to win a Mann Cup in the East.

To do it, they will have to stop playing-coach Doug Gillespie of Crescents, who has collected three goals and eight assists in the series, Don Campbell of Owen Sound had scored eight goals and five assists.

Reo Jerome of Adanacs has five goals and five assists.

Gillespie says that win or lose, he'll quit the game after this series.

"There are three or four of us on the club who are finding lacrosse is a young man's game and won't be back next season," said the veteran who has never before played in a Mann Cup final. "We'd like to bow out with a title."

'Major' Series Of O.H.A. Opens In Hamilton

Toronto, Oct. 20 (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association's "major" series—replacing the Senior A. League of previous years—opens in Hamilton tonight with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen meeting Hamilton Tigers. The other entries—Toronto Marlboros and Toronto St. Michael's—open next week.

St. Mike's is the league's new entry taking Owen Sound's place.

Both Toronto teams won the Allan Cup—emblematic of the Canadian senior championship—in their last starts. The collegians won in 1910 and dropped out of senior hockey. Marlboros won last spring.

An influx of players—mostly to St. Mike's—resulted when the southern division of the Pacific Coast Hockey League folded.

The Tigers have 10 holdovers from last year. Goalie Bruce Dale, who ousted veteran Art Childs last season has back gith him Bobby Laurent, Carl and Tommy Smelle, Johnny and Ab Conick, Paul Miocinovich, Murray Comfort, Harold Hursley and Frankie Liscombe

The visiting Dutchmen are relying on youth with a number of recent junior A competitors moving up.

"Boat" Burley and Tommy McGrattan are goal prospects. Defencemen are "Bingo" Kampman, Bill Walsh, Harvey Jacklin, Jack Shewchuk, Joe Ripku and Ken Kesselring.

Bauer May Play Later

Forwards include Mickey Roth, Dinny Flanagan, Don Oberholzer, Albert Wrightzell, Mike Dzuira, Vic Demarco, Jim Pernfuss and Morris Levesque. Centre Don Bauer, reportedly retired, may be available later, it is believed.

Seven former players for Los Angeles bulk largely in St. Michael's plans: Johnny Arundel, defence, and forwards John Meldrum, Tom Fowler, Larry Kennedy, John Ubriaco, Ed Mulligan and Mat Mesich.

Phil Hughes and Bob de Courcey are netminders. Harry Pisuka, Frank Sullivan, Gord Hannigan, Ken Watson and Bill McCracken are the others. Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty, fohmerly of Pittsburgh Hornets, is playing coach.

Another new coach, Bill (Flash) Hollett, is handling Marlboros. He has six Allan cuppers back: Howie Lee, Don Rope, Bob Hassard, Bill Johnson, Al Buchanan and Scotty Mair.

Ed Rafferty, who understudied Bas Bastien at Pittsburgh for four years is goalie. Sandy Milne, Stan Kemp, Bobbie Robertson, and Ross Johnstone are defencemen. Ed Stankiewicw of Windsor, Bus Wickerley, Jack MacKenzie, Nick Bangay and Frank Davis are front-liners.

New Haven Eagles Still Have to Win Game in League

(By The Canadian Press)

New Haven Eagles went down to defeat again Thursday night.

The luckless Eagles still have to win a game in four starts in the 1950-51 American Hockey League season and last night they fell aprtt in the third period before Buffalo Bisons, who won 8-1.

In the only other game scheduled, Cincinnati Mohawks edged out Indianapolis Capitals, 1-0.

In the third against Buffalo, New Haven's defence fell apart. Walt Atanas got two goals and one apiece went to Grant Warwick, Gordon Pennell, Paul Meger, Pete Leswick, Les Hickey and Don Ashbee.

Emile (The Cat) Francis, former National League goalie, shut out the Caps neatly for Cincinnati. Jean-Paul Denis scored the lone goal after only 62 seconds of play.

Hockey's Big Six

(By The Canadian Press)

Maurice (The Rocket) Richard slammed home two goals last night to take over leadership in the National Hockey League's scoring race. Richard, who moved up from a third-place tie, is one point ahead of Gordie Howe and Ted Linsday of Detroit.

Richard has four goals and an assist while Howe and Lindsay have each counted once and have three assists.

The Leaders:	G	A	Pts
Richard, Montreal	4	1	5
Howe, Detroit	1	3	4
Lindsay, Detroit	1	3	4
Bentley, Toronto	1	2	3
Conacher, Chicago	1	2	3
Lach, Montreal	1	2	3

(19 players tied for seventh spot with two points.)

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Tigers defeated New Westminster Adanacs 12-8 to win the Canadian senior lacrosse championship at Toronto two years ago today. Tigers lost the two games and then won three in a row to take the Mann Cup.

Tom Gard's Note Book

One thing common to good gardeners is the ability to plan for the future. Now is the time to prepare for those harbingers of a new gardening year — spring bulbs. There is still time to plant some. If you didn't place your order early, you will likely still find some available at the stores. The planting chart and instructions given will prove helpful to the uninitiated.

Forcing Bulbs

While on the subject of bulbs, why not resolve to try your hand at forcing some for winter bloom. It isn't as difficult as it would sound and information on the subject is usually abundant at this time of year. The simple instructions given here will get you started, but check planting guides before you select your varieties — some will force better than others and rigid forcing dates should be followed.

Stovepipes

With cooler weather, we begin the annual tussle with stoves and stovepipes. I am reminded of my first ordeal — back in the days when I thought all stovepipes were the same. Instead of buying six-inch pipe, I bought some seven inches in diameter. Before it was time to use it the bill was lost and, rather than face the clerk again, I have been trying to think up uses for it ever since. Two of the best I have hit upon are illustrated. They sound rather "screwy" but they have proven satisfactory.

More About Orange Crates

My young son surprised me by walking in with a table for his bedroom — all painted and ready for use. Evidentally they are teaching shopwork in lower grades than they used to, as he made it at school. Shown is a copy of his finished product.

'Playful' Animals Irk Park Officials

Skukusa, South Africa—(CP)—Visitors to Skukusa national park discover that the animals are becoming mischievous and cheeky.

It's fatal to leave your shoes outside your tent these days. The hyenas in the district have developed a taste for shoe leather.

The disappearance of the shoes had been noticed for some time, and rangers began to doubt the presence of sneak thieves when only one shoe would be taken.

A watch was kept one night, an old hyena slipped into camp, bit into a boot and then carried it off. The animals also steal meat left hanging in trees outside the huts.

Other animals are creating nuisances of themselves, especially the younger ones.

One motorist recently was held up by a baby hippopotamus in the middle of the road. The hippo wouldn't move, and just watched interestedly as the driver gesticulated at him. The motorist finally got out and shooed the "baby" back to the river, a quarter of a mile away.

At Pretorius Kop, just outside the park boundary, one young zebra is busy wrecking mealie and lucerne fields. He's not hungry, he just gets a kick out of trampling the crops. The natives chase him away, but he's back almost before they're in their huts.

Buck, too, are giving rangers trouble. They wait until lights are out at 10 p.m., then jump the fences to get tit-bits from the rangers' gardens.

FIREMEN'S STRIKE OVER

Melbourne, Oct. 20—(Reuters)—The Melbourne firemen's push-button strike is over, Premier J. G. B. McDonald announced last night. Arbitration is to be sought in the dispute, brought to a head by the dismissal two weeks ago of 18 firemen who refused to push buttons every 10 minutes. If they failed to ring in, the emergency signal sounded. The push-button system will be suspended for the first seven days of the arbitration hearings.

AT THE McCARTHY — Virginia Mayo co-starred with Burt Lancaster in Warner Bros. Technicolor hit "The Flame and the Arrow," now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Chinook is the giant white German Shepherd featured in Monogram's "Snow Dog," now at the Capitol Theatre, today and Saturday. The Northwest Mounties story stars Kirby Grant and Elena Verdugo. On the same program, Laurel and Hardy in "March of the Wooden Soldiers." Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Direct bidding is the simplest and most accurate communication system between a pair. Those who determine hidden holdings by clever inferences may act more expert. But they are not as sure.

I have already told you how my partner took 13 tricks in this deal:

NORTH
♠A 10 6 3
♥Q
♦Q 6 5 4 3
♣A 7 6

WEST	EAST
♠2	♠J 8 5
♥10 9	♥J 8 7 3 2
♦K 9 7 2	♦J 10 8
♣Q 9 8 5 4 2	♣K 10

SOUTH
♠K Q 9 7 4
♥A K 6 5 4
♦A
♣J 3

Now you can listen to this bidding:

South	North
1 S	3 D
3 H	3 S
4 NT	6 C
7 S	Pass

My immediate jump takeout to diamonds tells my partner I have six tricks with two sures among them. His bid in hearts tells me he has a biddable heart suit as well as the spade suit he mentioned.

My spade assist told him I had support for his first suit. From this he knows what will be the final trump. From my jump he learned we had enough combined tricks to make a slam of some kind.

In answer to his four no-trump my six club bid is the convention signal for showing two aces and no kings. This tells him there is one king in an opponent hand. If he bids grand slam it is dangerous.

In duplicate championship play nearly all the master pairs will be in at least a small slam. So, we cannot hope for much gain if we end at small slam. The best we can hope for is a tie.

But why take a chance at a dangerous seven bid? It happens that my partner at the same time was a master player of unusual skill. If given the minutest chance he may dig up a coup that he can work.

Capable of handling any such opportunity, he decided to go for whole hog or none. It so happened he discovered what he sought.

Experts step out where palookas fear to venture.

AT THE BELLE — Gorgeous Gail Russell and MacDonald Carey are the romantic interest in "The Lawless," exciting romantic drama, showing with a second new thrilling feature, "Armored Car Robbery," starring William Talman and Adele Jergens.

AT THE CAPITOL — Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy in a scene from the Lippert Productions "March of the Wooden Soldiers," showing today and Friday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Snow Dog," starring Kirby Grant and Chinook, the Wonder Dog. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

MATHEMATICAL GENIUS

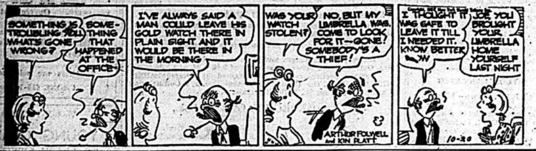
MR AND MRS — By Arthur Folwell and Ellison Hoover



SOMETHING IS TROUBLING YOU WHAT'S GONE WRONG?
SOMETHING THAT HAPPENED AT THE OFFICE
I'VE ALWAYS SAID A MAN COULD LEAVE HIS GOLD WATCH THERE IN PLAIN SIGHT AND IT WOULD BE THERE IN THE MORNING WAS YOUR WATCH STOLEN?
NO, BUT MY UMBRELLA WAS. COME TO LOOK FOR IT--GONE! SOMEBODY'S A THIEF!
I THOUGHT IT WAS SAFE TO LEAVE IT TILL I NEEDED IT. KNOW BETTER NOW
JOE, YOU BROUGHT YOUR UMBRELLA HOME YOURSELF LAST NIGHT

Little Benny's Note Book

I took a Saturday walk to the Park with Puds Simkins, and the rees were all losing their leeves, aking the ground look like a iffrent color carpit, and I said, h boy, if there's anything my other thinks is swell, it's awtum eeves.

Which she does, claiming they emind her of things, and I [illegible] up a whole buntch of them [illegible]t them in my hat and took [illegible] home for her, and ma was ack in the kitchin, and I snuck pstairs and put the leeves in er bed under the covers to serrise her, and tonite when I went bed I said, Good nite, ma, I y and nature and everything.

hope you dreem about the coun-

Being a hint about the awtum leeves, and ma said, Thank you very mutch, that's a very nice thawt, now go rite to sleep.

Which I did till ma's voice woke me up saying to pop, Well of all the crazy tricks, you mite think he was 3 years old.

Heck, I thawt, and just then I heard something flapping sounding like sheets and things, and pop said, The boy must of been out of his mind.

Probably meening me, and ma said, Imagine, slipping into bed so deliciously tired and reddy for a restful nite and then being greeted by a shambles of twigs and dust and I dont know what all. I really awt to wake him up rite now and have it out with him, she said, and I quick yelled out, Hay ma, I put some swell awtum leeves in your bed, did you find them?

Yee gods, pop said. I was pure poetry and love of nature on his part. I hope you're properly grateful, he said, and ma said, I dont know what I am, except wide awake when I was practically asleep.

And she called out, Yes I found them, thank you, we'll discuss it in the morning.

JUNIORS JOIN

Regina — (CP) — More than 9,000 Saskatchewan school children have joined 444 provincial Junior Red Cross branches so far this year, according to provincial director Eileen Scott.

EASILY SPOTTED

Sackville, N.B.—(CP)— Freshmen and new co-eds at Mount Allison University will wear bright orange berets and tags until the Christmas recess starts. The distinguishing equipment was handed out at the traditional initiation.

Sen. Ballantyne, One-Time Cabinet Minister, Dies

Montreal, Oct. 20 (CP) —Senator Charles C. Ballantyne, one-time Conservative Cabinet Minister and former leader of that party in Canada's Upper Chamber, died here last night. He was 83.

His death left the Progressive Conservative party with only 11 members in the Senate. There are 77 Liberal Senators and 14 vacancies in the 102 seat House.

Senator Ballantyne, prominent in business here since before the start of the century was Minister of Marine and Fisheries in the 1917 Borden government and served in the same capacity in the 1920 Meighen government. Defeated as a member of the House of Commons in 1921, he did not return to active politics until he was elevated to the Senate in 1932. From 1942 to 1945 he served as party leader in the Senate.

While Minister of Marine and Fisheries Mr. Ballantyne introduced in parliament several pieces of legislation, including bills concerning salmon fishing on the west coast and related to the lobster hatcheries convention between Canada and the United States.

He supported and obtained increased salaries for lighthouse keepers and during the First World War supported a program of mercantile ship-building to increase Canada's tonnage.

In Winnipeg, Hon. John T. Haig, Senate opposition leader, said Canada has lost a "great statesman who did much for his country."

"His wide experience in parliamentary affairs has been a great source to the Senate, especially to his party members," Senator Haig said. "He was one of my greatest friends for many years.

"Canada will miss him."

WESTERN MUSEUM

Macleod, Alta. — (CP) — The local Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring establishment of a museum at Macleod to be representative of Southern Alberta. An old cannon from Fort Whoop-up and Indian arrowheads and other old west relics have already been purchased for the museum.

Moose Trap Duck Hunters

Haliburton, Ont., Oct. 19. (CP) —Two duck-hunters said today a huge bull moose and two cow moose trapped them for more than an hour Wednesday on a sand bar in nearby Pine Lake.

Dr. Harry Bishop and Carl Hussey said they were hiding on a narrow sandspit when the three moose ambled out of a swamp. They advanced to within a few yards of the hunters, cutting off the men's retreat. Then, nibbling at foliage, they circled in the area for an hour.

The men, whose shotguns were loaded only with fine birdshot, watched anxiously.

Finally, the moose wandered down the beach and disappeared.

NO MYSTERY

Nanaimo, B. C. — (CP) — A member of the Cowichan Indian tribe was reported to have forecast a winter of heavy snow for Vancouver Island, and an enterprising reporter telephoned the tribal chief and asked "Could you tell me how one goes about predicting this?" Said the chief: — "Maybe they listen to the weather reports on the radio."

C. O. T. C. ACTIVE

Vancouver — (CP) — Students at the University of British Columbia appear more eager for military training than at any time since the war ended. The Canadian Officers Training Corps there has four times as many applicants to date this year then in the same period in 1949.

Scotch for Toddy An 'Awfu' Waste'

London —(CP)— Take equal portions of Scotch, French Vermouth and Drambuie, mix with ice, adding a squeeze of lemon peel and you have a "Braemar" cocktail.

This is only one of the many drink mixtures given in a new Scots publication devoted to the merits and history of Scotch whisky.

The book also tells, for the benefit of the many who do not know, the correct way to make whisky toddy:

Take a heated glass, insert a spoonful of sugar and sufficient boiling water to dissolve, add half a glass of whisky and stir with a silver spoon, pour in more boiling water and top that with whisky.

"An awfu' waste o' guid Scotch," the recipe writer admits.

NYLON LANYARDS

High River, Alta. — (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Hope Hunter of High River have completed a contract with the R. C. M. P. for making 2,000 nylon lanyards, for attaching to revolvers. The Hunters, who have a reputation for making nylon equipment for cowboys, worked an average of 16 hours a day for seven weeks to fill the police order.

HISTORIC TUNNELS

London — (CP) — Some old houses in London's Deptford district, which contain "secret" tunnels to the Thames River, and old-time smugglers' dens, are to be preserved as historic buildings.

CANADA EXAMPLE

Montreal—(CP)—Hon. Grantley Adams, leader of the Barbados assembly, told the West Indian Society of McGill University that inspiration for a possible federation of the West Indies can be gained from studying the history of Canada and the United States.

Try KEM-GLO today—an entirely NEW finish that LOOKS and WASHES like BAKED ENAMEL

Women agree that Kem-Glo Miracle Lustre Finish wears better, cleans easier and costs less to use than ordinary enamels. Requires no undercoater, easy to apply, dries in 3 to 4 hours and one coat is all that is required over most surfaces.

For kitchens, bathrooms, finest woodwork

KEM-GLO is economical to use because Kem-Glo covers most surfaces in one coat—ordinary enamels require an under-coater plus one or more coats of enamel.

Only $2.60 per qt.

KEM-GLO FEATURES
1. Kem-Glo is ready to use
2. Kem-Glo is easy to apply
3. Kem-Glo covers in one coat
4. Kem-Glo needs no primer or undercoater
5. Kem-Glo dries in 3 to 4 hours

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"Brother knows best. He still thinks of me as his kid sister. Can't you do anything about it, Judge?" He shook his leonine head.

"No, Fra[illegible]re is neither crack n[illegible]in that document th[illegible]which I can squeeze y[illegible]ce. If Jaffray drew it he can have anything he wants in this or in our New York office, even to a partnership eventually. See him before you are sure he is a calamity in your life." He tapped a slip of yellow paper on his desk.

"This cable came from him today: Boston next week. Arrange interview with Fran."

"With Fran?"

"Them's his very words." The Judge chuckled though his eyes under shaggy white brows were grave. "Cheerio, you may like him so much he will knock Blake Sinclair, your present heartbeat —that last lifted from my granddaughter's vocabularly — clear out of the showing. Could be that the boy next door was the lad of whim your aunt was afraid? He was a nice boy, until somewhere along the growing-up road he took a wrong turn."

Soft color rose to the uneven line of her bronze-gold hair. She crossed her arms on the desk and leaned toward him.

"Have you written Ken about Blake, Judge Grimes?"

"No but your brother must have many correspondents who know you both. The gentleman referred to hasn't been hiding his high life under a bushel."

"He hasn't led a high life as you call it for months."

"Who says so?"

"I say so, and I ought to know. He says he never feels the temptation to gamble or drink when we are together."

"Great Scott, Franny, you're not considering marrying Sinclair to reform him are you?"

"Sometimes I wonder if it is my duty."

"If you have that crazy bee in your bonnet I'm glad that marriage clause is in the will."

"Calm yourself, Your Honor." She laughed. "That was just to get your reaction. I don't intend to marry anybody for years, if then. I intend to be a career girl —and like it. To return to Myles Jaffray and his cable, I won't be here when he arrives."

"Where will you be?"

"Gene Sargent's father is the owner of the famous Sargent Galleries in New York City. He has a gallery in a town on the coast of Maine where the family spends summer. It is his pet and pride, Gene calls it Sargent Gallery, Jr. Paintings famous and not so famous, objets d'art, some of fabulous value, are on view and on sale. It's a Mecca for summer residents for miles away. He needs an assistant. I'm taking the job. I hear adventure calling."

"Franny where did you pick up that gay little laugh? I'm glad to see your dimples flash again. You make me think of a gorgeous butterfly just out of its chrysalis fanning its colorful wings for a takeoff into freedom. You've been held in a straightjacket so long you rate adventure. Do you think you'll get much in the State of Maine? Why don't you go to Alaska or Hollywood or some place where things happen? Besides with your training you could fill an important position, but, you don't need a job."

"You're making fun of me. Don't thrilling things happen wherever there are people? I'll take a chance on Maine. It is the first signpost I've seen since I fared forth to answer that clarion call. As for the job, I do need it, Judge. Not financially, but mentally and spiritually I need it terribly." She steadied her shaken voice. "I realize now what a tight little life I have lived these last years. You know Aunt Becky didn't want guests. The Sargents are cultivated, delightful people, with a charming home modern, the best modern, in their ideas; they attract others like themselves. It is only for the summer. When fall comes I will have a brand-new outlook, will have recovered my sense of direction, will know what I want to do with my life. I lived so close to Aunt Becky, followed her pattern of living so faithfully to keep the peace, that I feel like a jellyfish."

The Judge chuckled as Fran talked about her job in Maine. "When do you go?"

"I am leaving tomorrow. The gallery will open the first day of June. Mr. Sargent wants me there a few days before that I may learn the ropes. His wife has invited me to stay at their place, Rocky Point, but I will find a spot of my own. The Cambridge house is closed, with a caretaker engaged for the grounds. I splurged on a summer wardrobe, contributed to a couple of charities whose welfare I have at heart, and scraped the bottom of my bank account. Decided it would be interesting to live on my salary. The new trustee can't hold back my income due September fifth if I sidestep meeting him can he? That's a thought."

"Certainly not. Why would he want to?"

"You never can tell, authority does queer things to people. I'll bet Ken named him trustee of Rebecca Harding's estate to give him a financial boost on his return to practice, the fees will help him with his expenses while he waits for clients. It would be so like that brother of mine. He's a push-over for lame ducks." The Judge frowned thoughtfully.

"I wouldn't exactly call Myles Jaffray a lame duck"

"Of course you wouldn't. You are sold on him, completely sold. I can see that with half an eye. Okay, if you won't fight for me at least promise you won't tell him where I am."

"How can he forward your income if he doesn't know where you are?"

"Through you, all communications through you."

"What will be your address?" She laid a card on the desk and a small dark blue envelope.

"Here it is even to the phone number, also one of the keys to my safety deposit box at the bank. My war bonds are there also, my pearls and jewelery except for some small stuff and the large cluster diamond ring that was Aunt Becky's. I didn't want the care of it."

"Why leave the key with me?"

"If I want any of the things I thought you would get them for me. You won't mind, will you?"

"No, but I hope you won't cash the bonds Franny."

"Why should I unless the new trustee goes berserk and refuses to give me money when I want it?" She shook her head to clear her eyes of the tears that suddenly blurred them. "I—I hate to leave you Judge. I—I always feel that in a way I belong to you."

"You are not leaving me child, I'll be right here whenever you need me. I am glad you are breaking away from old associations. Forget the past and make the present something vital and inspiring. Be sure and keep me posted."

"I will you dear, I will." She kissed his cheek with impulsive tenderness, laughed and blinked away tears. "Exit the career woman."

"It's you, Miss," the operator greeted as she stepped into the passengerless car. "Remember the guy in gray who went up when you did, said he wanted to go to the roof?"

"I remember him. Good heavens he didn't fall off did he?"

"Naw but he acted awful queer. Stopped at seventh twice, then came back. Perhaps he heard Judge Grimes shoutin.' When the old fella tries to talk above the rivetin' you could hear him at the State House. Anyhow he didn't seem certain where he wanted to go."

Fran thought of the deep authoritative voice.

"He seemed to me like a person who knew exactly where he wanted to go and would get there."

"Yeah, you said something. I guess he knows where he wants to go, all right. You can't tell nothin' about guys like him, though. He was so queer I reported him to the superintendent. He's going to have him watched if he still in the building. There's been a lot of safebreaking in this neighborhood lately. Looks to me an' the superintendent as if this gent might be a finger man of a gang—they dress snappy like him." The operator's voice went flat.

"Street, Miss."

A breeze lightly scented with the salty tang of kelp, murmurous with the lazy lap of the tide against rocks, stirred the palm-designed chintz hangings at the long open windows of the dining room in the Sargent home, Rocky Point. It set a-flicker the tall tapers in the two four-branch candelabra on the handsomely appointed table.

Bare shoulders are in again for better or worse, largely worse at this table, Fran Phillips decided. "Lucky I wore my pale amber, more in harmony with the ensemble than the lettuce green taffeta I was tempted to wear. If—"

HOPE REVIVES FOR FIVE MISSING AIRMEN-HUNTERS

Smoke signals reported seen halfway between Edmonton and Grand Prairie have revived hope that five hunters missing in their plane since Oct. 14 are alive. Planes are being sent out to scour the area. Four of the missing men are shown above, left to right: Stuart Reid, Joseph Dory, Harry Morton, and James Mulcahy, all of Edmonton, and Harry Pennington, owner and pilot of the plane is shown, left. — Central Press Canadian.

Russia and Eight Other Red Countries Meet to Discuss West German Remilitarization

By WILLIAM OATIS

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 21 (AP) — Following her sharp warning that she would not tolerate remilitarization of western Germany, Russia met with her European allies today to discuss that explosive subject.

The meeting was called by the Soviet Union, which sent Deputy Prime Minister V. M. Molotov as its spokesman. Molotov is a former Russian foreign minister.

Moscow radio and the official Czechoslovak news agency reported the eight-country meeting started yesterday. Deputy Premier Zdenek Fierlinger, representing Czechoslovakia, was elected chairman.

Molotov flew in from Moscow by special plane. Other foreign delegates met him at Prague's flag-decorated Ruzyne airport.

They were Foreign Minister [illegible]cho Neychev of Bulgaria; Zygmunt Modzelewski of Poland; Gyula Kallai of Hungary; Ana Pauker of Romania; George Dertinger of eastern Germany and V. Natanajli, Albanian Minister to Moscow.

An official announcement in Prague said the ministers would "discuss questions which arose in connection with the decision of the New York conference of the three powers—France, Britain and the United States—Sept. 19 which discussed the remilitarization of Germany."

(The Big Three foreign ministers announced Sept. 19 they had agreed to strengthen Germany economically and defensively and allow it a "mobile police force," but there would be no resurrection of a German national army.)

Notes Reject Charge

Only a few hours before the Prague conference, Russia made public the contents of identical [illegible] sent to the United States, France and Britain.

The notes rejected a Western charge that the People's Police of communist-ruled East Germany actually is a military organization, and warned the Soviet Union would not tolerate revival of "the German regular army in West Germany."

In Washington, State Secretary Dean Acheson told a press conference yesterday the United States will reject the Russian protest. He insisted creation of legitimate police forces in Western Germany does not represent a back-door attempt to restore the German army.

The United States is favoring rearmament of Western Germany as part of the European defence framework. Britain accepted the idea, but wants the other North Atlantic Pact countries to rearm first. France alone among the major Western Powers has held out against the proposal.

Molotov's name seldom has been in the news for months. Last August there were reports he was visiting Peiping, capital of communist China, for talks on Asian affairs.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky succeeded Molotov as foreign minister March 5, 1949.

Unexcited Over Unsupervised Campus Romance

Madison, Wis., Oct. 21—AP—Unsupervised romance on the campus?

University of Wisconsin students refused to get excited about a sociology professor's plea for fewer restrictions, and more places where couples can be alone.

Dick Renner, Executive Editor of the Daily Cardinal, campus newspaper, said:

"Students are sort of bored with all this discussion of sex and morality."

He was referring to a plan offered by Professor Howard Gill to install Lover's-lane benches on the campus and small, private rooms in dormitories where girls could receive visitors.

"And then tell the university police to stop snooping around," Gill added.

Red Talks in Prague May Try to Pick Up Pieces Left by Defeat in Korea

By BEN BASSETT

New York, Oct. 21. (AP)—Vyacheslav M. Molotov came out of the Kremlin yesterday to spearhead a new Russian drive against the west.

The announced purpose of Molotov's meeting with satellite foreign ministers is to discuss what Russia portrays as the rearming of Western Germany—a thing Russia says she will not tolerate.

But the Prague meeting is not likely to end without efforts to:

1. Pick up the pieces left by the defeat of militant communism in Korea.

2. Decide on, or revise, a course of action against Yugoslavia.

There is little doubt Moscow started losing interest in the Koreans at about the time Gen. MacArthur ordered his troops ashore at Inchon.

Anti-communist countries have made it clear, in the United Nations, that they plan to keep control of the Korean situation even after the last shot is fired. The result could be only a military and diplomatic defeat for the communist world.

To balance that Moscow needs a communist victory. She may get it in Indo-China, where the forces of communist Ho Chi Minh, basked by communist China, are on the offensive against French and Bao Dai troops.

But most of all, Moscow could strike a balance in the Kremlin books by putting down, once and for all, the communist but anti-Moscow regime of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito.

Few diplomats in the west believe Stalin wants to send his country into another war now Thus nothing could be more natural than for the Yugoslavia job to be assigned to satellites — the satellites that are meeting with Molotov in Prague. These are Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovkia. Poland, Romania, Hungary and East Germany. Four of those countries border on Yugoslavia.

Steady harassing of Yugoslavia by the satellites, with perhaps a nominal bit of border skirmishing, might bring the situation to a head without the commitment of a single Russian soldier.

Thus it is a question just what proportion of the time available at the Prague conference will be devoted to the announced agenda —The question of Germany. It is a question, too, just what Russia and the satellites propose to do about it when Moscow announces it will not "tolerate" the rearming of western Germany.

The Kremlin can, of course, deepen the cleavage between eastern and western Germany; it can even blockade Berlin again. But Russia could do those things without any consultation with her European satellites. The Prague conference, then, may mean that Russia wants her satellites to do something, in connection with either the German or another situation, that Russia prefers not to do with her own hands

Russian, North Korean Flags Neatly Folded

Pyongyang, Korea, Oct. 21.—(Reuters)—Neatly-folded Russian and North Korean flags lay in Pyongyang city hall when United Nations Troops occupied the northern capital yesterday.

The Russians and North Koreans had fled northwards towards the Manchurian border. But they had left their traces behind.

Fifty yards from the city hall, with its beaming portraits of Premier Stalin and Kim Ir Sén, the North Korean prime minister, stands the official residence of the Russian military and civil advisers. Every desk and office of the Russian administrators had been cleared before evacuation.

In the Russian Embassy, furniture and personal belongings were all gone. In the ambassador's office was a powerful short-wave receiver linked to recording apparatus.

One of the first notices hoisted over city hall after the almost-bloodless capture read: "Headquarters of the anti-communist party."

Loses Second Race By Car With Stork

Burlingame, Calf., Oct. 21 —(AP)—A year ago Mrs. Nancy Ledesma, 17, raced the stork to a hospital in a taxicab.

Despite a collision with another car she won the race and gave birth to her third child.

Yesterday she was in another such race—same reason— same cab driver.

But Mrs. Ledesma did not win the race.

Her fourth child, a boy, was born in the taxi. The mother and child were doing fine but the cab driver was a nervous wreck.

Advance Party of Canada's Special Brigade is Ready To Move to the Pacific

By DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Fort Lewis, Wash., Oct. 21 —(CP)— The advance party of Canada's special brigade today was ready to move to the Pacific.

The army blacked out reports of the advance party's port of embarkation, destination and time of departure. But it was generally known some 350 troops were headed or Okinawa, with the entire brigade of 10,000 due to follow before the end of November.

There was the usual nervous tension all soldiers feel before shoving off. Duffle bags were packed, letters had been written home, innoculations were over, trucks were ready to roll.

There was a hurrying to and fro on this vast, 98,000 acre base. Some soldiers asked one another whether they'd be seasick, how long the voyage would take, what it would be like on that faraway island, whether they'd ever get to Korea.

Even though 95 percent of the advance party are veterans, they were not able to shake off that embarkation expectancy.

Troops Razor Sharp

The troops were honed to razor sharpness. Letter-perfect salutes passed between officers and men.

Maj. R.M. Bourgeois of Gravelbourg, Sask., comanding officer of the advance party and a veteran of the Royal 22nd Regiment, said in an interview today that morale was high. There had been only one absentee and he had returned. All of the men had had short leaves.

The advance party will take over stores and equipment on the Pacific Island, set up accommodation, prepare ranges and the like.

If Canada's full United Nations force arrives here as planned in a few weeks, Brig. J. M. (Rocky) Rockingham will have all troops under his comand in one place at one time.

Wear U.N. Flash

All the men are wearing the United Nations flash on their shoulders. At the top is "Canada" in red and below the United ensign in white on a red background.

The first troops arrived here Sept. 20 and occupied a small corner of the base. They took over 200 buildings and 32 kitchens, enough to handle the whole brigade.

The first main unit arrived Oct. 14 and in less than a week prepared to move overseas. The Canadian camp was taken from 20 units across Canada. Units represented in the advance party are Royal Canadian Regiment, Royal 22nd, Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, service corps, medical, engineer and dental units.

The force is fully equipped, said Canadian camp commandant Col. Carl R. Boehm of Ottawa. It has adopted the bazooka and transport to Canadian use but the rest of the equipment is Canadian including the Lee Enfield rifle and sten gun.

There was no indication here that the troops might be called back and sent to Europe, as suggested in view of Korean developments. There was just one word here for destination — the Pacific.

Says A-Scientist Recently Flew To Stockholm

Rome, Oct. 21 (CP) — Bruno Pontecorvo, noted British atomic scientist reported by Italian police to have flown recently to some point behind the Iron curtain, actually went to Stockholm, a Scandinavian Airlines official said today.

Italian police said last night that the Italian-born Pontecorvo, who became a British subject after the Second World War when he worked on atomic research in Canada and Britain, left for Poland en route to Moscow several weeks ago. They said the scientist and his family left by Czech airline.

Today, however, an official of the Scandinavian Airlines said Pontecorvo, his wife and three children booked passage to Stockholm Sept. 1.

(In Stockholm, however, a competent source said Pontecorvo and his family made only a one-day stop there and then proceeded to Helsinki in a Finnish plane.)

Pontecorvo worked with a team of British scientists in the United States in 1943 or 1944 and later worked in Montreal and at the atomic project at Chalk River, Ont.

Later he went to Britain where he became a naturalized citizen. He was at Harwell, Britain's atomic research centre, for a period of a year to 18 months, fellow scientists said. He is due to become professor of experimental physics at the University of Liverpool in January.

In Ottawa Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, head of the National Research Council, said Pontecorvo was not "in the middle" of the atomic energy project at Chalk River, but did much independent research on cosmic rays.

A spokesman for Supply Ministry in London said Pontecorvo "left England on July 25 with his wife and three sons for a motoring and camping holiday in France and Italy. He is due to take up a university appointment in England on Jan. 1. We have no means of checking his present whereabouts."

Winnings Unclaimed

Paris, Oct. 21—(Reuters)—Nearly $1, 000,000,000 worth of winning tickets have been unclaimed in the French National Lottery since it was founded in 1933, the Finance Minister said. Prizes not collected within a year go back to the treasury coffers.

80 Koreans Set Afire by Reds With Gasoline

Seoul, Oct. 20 (AP) —Eighty Korean political prisoners —both men and women—were set afire with burning gasoline by retreating communists at Koksan, 50 air miles southeast of Pyongyang, the commander of the South Korean army disclosed yesterday.

Maj. Gen. Chung Il Kwon told AP correspondent Bill Shinn he had never seen such an "unspeakable atrocity." He visited Koksan yesterday during a front line inspection of the Republican 2nd Army Corps.

No one could see the "horrible sight of bodies burned with gas without shedding tears," Chung said.

He said the Korean reds jailed the men and women in a warehouse near the Koksan police station and set it afire with gas.

King Farouk Wants Arms Supply Probe

Alexandria, Egypt, Oct. 21—King Farouk wants the current invsetigation into an alleged arms supply scandal to proceed regardless of whether members of the army or his court are involved.

Instructions to that effect were disclosed last night by Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha. Farouk returned to Egypt yesterday after two months vacationing in Italy and France.

Last week, a group of political leaders opposing the government told the king in a statement that they suspected some of his high palace aides of complicity in a munitions scandal.

The statement — without precedent in Egyptian history—charged 'misrule" of the WAFD party in power, urged the king to uproot "corruption" in the government, and warned of the possibility of sedition.

Six U.S. Destroyers To be Given Greece

Athens, Greece, Oct. 21—(AP) — An authoritative government source said today the United States will turn over six destroyers to Greece under its military-aid program.

Four of them are old-type vessels and are scheduled to be transferred by the end of 1950. The other two are modern ships and will be handed over later, the government source said.

LAWYERS SUGGEST QUEBEC BLAZE DUE TO SABOTAGE

Conclude Arguments Before Inquiry Board

Quebec, Oct. 21. (CP)—Sabotage was suggested yesterday as the cause of the cruise ship Quebec fire disaster, when lawyers concluded their final arguments before a court of inquiry into the blaze which cost seven lives last August 14.

The Quebec burned in the St. Lawrence river near Tadoussac, Quebec.

Gerard Lacroix, K.C., department of Transport lawyer, said evidence heard since Sept. 18 when the inquiry opened before Mr. Justice Fernand Choquette, created "strong presumption" of sabotage.

R. C. Holden, K.C., counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, owners of the vessel, said evidence indicated deliberate setting of the fire and interference with the ship's electrical alarm systems was the cause of the loss of life.

Mr. Justice Choquette remarked there was no evidence of a motive for sabotage or of persons interested in destruction of the Quebec.

Mr. Holden said it was a matter for the Attorney-General's department. He noted that in the fire of the Noronic at Toronto last years flames had also originated in a linen room, but added there was no evidence of a motive.

Tampered With System

Mr. Lacroix agreed that without tampering of the alarm systems there probably would have been no loss of life.

Mr. Lacroix asked if the fact that the Quebec raced to Tadoussac was a reason why too many crew members were away from fire duty. He said no one seemed to have taken charge of the fire. He did not wish to blame the crew, but it would have been different had the ship not been close to a port.

The Transport Department counsel suggested that drills should be more rigorously carried out.

Mr. Holden said that if the electrical alarm systems had worked, hoses would have been brought into play in the "B" deck linen room in two minutes.

"The crux of this case is sabotage of the alarm system that prevented getting at the fire in time," he said.

Three Robberies Follow

Hong Kong, Oct. 21 (AP) — A new Crown colony law went into effect yesterday making illegal use of arms punishable by death. Before nightfall, three armed robberies were reported.

E. German Restrictions

Berlin, Oct. 21 (Reuters)—East German authorities have imposed new restrictions on travel through the dreaded eastern districts where uranium is mined under Russian supervision, the west German News Agency reported yesterday. The entire region bordering Czechoslovakia, where an estimated 30,000 Germans work under forced labor conditions in the mines, has been declared a "protected area" by the east German police, the agency said.

WHALERS READY

Oslo—(CP)— The first of 10 scheduled Norwegian whaling expeditions has left for the Antarctic. The whaling season for blue and fin whales opens Dec. 22 but early fleets will hunt the sperm whale. Altogether the fleets will carry 8,000 Norwegians.

Armada of Over 400 UN Ships Now In Korean Waters, Admiral Discovers

Tokyo, Oct. 21 (AP)—An armada of more than 400 United Nations ships is in Korean waters, Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy commander of Far East naval forces, disclosed today.

Included in the 400-odd vessels are the flags of Britain, France Australia, New Zealand, the U.N.-sponsored Republic of Korea, Canada, The Netherlands and the United States.

In size, the ships range downward from the 45,000-ton U. S battleship Missouri, whose 16 inch guns have wrought havoc on Korean coastal targets. The mighty Mo recently led a big task force strike on the coastal strip leading to the borders of Soviet Siberia.

The three Canadian destroyers in Korean waters are the Athabaskan, Cayuga and Sioux.

"It's truly a United Nations fleet," Admiral Joy said.

The Royal Navy is represented by the aircraft carrier Theseus, the light cruisers Kenya and the destroyers Constance. Charity and Concord.

Admiral Joy said combined displacements of the ships under his command would be "more than a million tons."

28,000 Reds Sealed Off by Fast Moving Parachute Troops

No Organized Fighting Force Left North of Parallel 38

Seoul, Oct. 21. (AP) — Quick moving United States parachute troops today sealed off 28,000 North Koreans This was nearly half of the estimated organized enemy fighting force left north of parallel 38.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said all main roads in the Sunchon-Sukchon area, where the 4,100 Americans dropped out of the sky Friday, were blocked against the communist.

An estimated 63,000 communist fighting men left in North Korea thus will not be able to mass for any big future stand against Allied troops racing to bring the savage four-month war to an end, an intelligence officer said.

Headquarters said the communists may be able to move some of the trapped 28,000 men over hill roads but that their heavy equipment was lost.

What little opposition the North Koreans tried to put up against the paratroops was speedily overcome.

The commonwealth brigade is mopping up in the western sector.

A MacArthur spokesman said there is still no evidence of an organized defence line north of the present battle zones nor of an "auxiliary" capital.

Resistance in Pyongyang, the captured red capital, is flickering out, the intelligence officer said. American tanks have crossed the Taedong and are in the city. Small pockets of reds and snipers pecked away at United Nations troops.

The intelligence officer said the two North Korean army corps headquarters organizations have been written off. He said the commanding generals are believed to have escaped. Local guerrilla bands apparently were operating on their own.

Triumph is Near

MacArthur, who supervised the big parachute drop Friday, said he is confident that triumph for United Nations forces is near.

Five South Korean divisions are preparing to rush to the Manchurian border to cut off escape routes for remaining red forces.

More and more the communists appeared to be losing their zest for battle. They surrendered in droves and small groups. More than 82,000 war prisoners are held by the Allies.

U.S. 1st Cavalrymen and the parachute troops linked forces over the 30-mile stretch between fallen Pyongyang and Sunchon to the north.

An army war summary said the paratroopers had secured their objectives in the Sunchon and Sukchon areas.

The South Korean 6th Division joined the paratroopers a few hours after the Americans landed.

The air drop was one of the largest in the history of warfare and the only one in this war that has claimed an estimated 200,000 lives since it started June 25.

Afterward, MacArthur landed in Pyongyang and ordered the South Koreans to rush to red China's Manchurian border as fast as possible.

There was no indication the general planned to send American or other foreign United Nations troops to the border where an incident might involve Russia or red China.

The border is 80 miles north of Sunchon. Three South Korean divisions are moving up from there.

5,000 US Hunters Only 1,400 Guides

Kenora, Ont., Oct. 21. (CP)—Enforcement of a provision of the Game and Fisheries Act in northwestern Ontario has created an unprecedented situation in this Lake of the Woods district.

The act says one licenced guide must be employed by two non-resident hunters About 5,000 visiting hunters from the United States turned up for the first week of the hunting season here, but only 1,400 registered guides were available.

Numerous hunters were arrested on charges of hunting without a guide. Their guns, boats and licences were seized.

In court yesterday the hunters each had to pay $10 for the return of his gun. Each boat was impounded until a bond of $500 was posted.

As a result, it was reported that many American hunters are returning to the U.S. when unable to obtain guides.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 21. (CP)—Synopsis—Snow spread over Northern Ontario on Friday giving falls of one to five inches. It is still snowing this morning in northeastern districts, but is expected to end by noon... In Southern Ontario skies are clear and temperatures have fallen to about normal for this time of year.

Colder air is again moving southeastward across the Upper Lakes and will enter southern regions tonight bringing lower temperatures again and cloudy skies on Sunday.

Council Feels Responsibility Lies With Board

The responsibility for seeing that proprietors of hot dog stands in the city adhere to sanitary regulations as required, will be that of the local Board of Health.

This was indicated Thursday evening at the regular committee meeting of council when they requested that the Board of Health see that all such stands adhere to the sanitary regulations.

The matter first came up in council some weeks ago when the Board of Health recommended to council that licences for hot dog stands in the city be revoked. Council, however, felt that the responsibility lay with the Board.

A committee of Aldermen Hyde, Deacon and Armstrong with O. H. Scott, manager of the local public utilities, and city engineer Charles Mott, was appointed to study the application of the Eastern Gas Syndicate and to report to council. Two weeks ago in council a representative of the Syndicate approached council with the view of securing permission to supply natural gas to the city industry and residents.

Purchase of a two-way Motorola mobile radio equipment for installation in the fire station and in the fire chief's car was approved. The contract was awarded to the Rogers Majestic corporation at a price of $2,163.45 for complete installation.

Council recommended that the utilities commission remove a hydro pole on Pinnacle Street, directly opposite Patterson Street.

"Extra" Eggs Bring 70 Cents Doz. on Market

Egg prices held steady at their new advanced price on the local produce market Saturday with grade A bringing 68c per dozen and extras 70c. Mediums ranged down to 60c and pullets sold at 48c per dozen.

Price of chicken was generally 50c per pound with mature birds selling at 45c. A few ducks sold at 60c per pound.

There was a heavy offering of apples on the outside market with McIntosh and Spys selling at $3 per hamper for best grade, Talman Sweets were $2.75; Snows sold at from 40c to 55c per basket, and cookers from $2 to $2.25 per hamper. Pears were 75c the basket and grapes 75c for 11-quart and 40c for six-quart.

Potatoes were offered at $1.60 to $1.75 per bag with 45c to 50c per peck. Corn was still offered at 25c per dozen; bunched vegetables were a dime. Carrots were $1.25 per bus. or 40c per peck and Spanish onions were 60c per basket.

Watermelons sold from a dime to 50c each; cauliflower sold up to 30c and pie pumpkin from a dime up to 25c. Cabbages were a dime and 15c.

One vendor offered mudcats at 25c per pound.

Honey by comb was 40c with four pound pails fetching 75c.

There was a large offering of young pigs with prices ranging from $9 to $11 each.

Personality Most Important Thing in Salesman Speaker Tells Sales and Ad Club

Salesmen aren't the brutes most people think they are. At least, that's what J.H. McQuaig, Toronto industrial psychologist, told members of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club last night at their monthly luncheon.

Mr. McQuaig reviewed the difference between top producers and poor producers in the selling field, and told the Sales and Ad men why some men made successes of themselves in the field while others didn't. He used as a basis for his talk the salesman who goes directly to the customer to make the sale.

"First," Mr. McQuaig said, "there is a difference of opinion as to whether salesmen are born or made. In the "made" category, there are those who develop into top producers with little training, some who require more training others who will make only fair producers despite extensive training, and finally, the men who will never make salesmen.

Must Have Personality

"Personality is the most important thing in a salesman," Mr. McQuaig said. He said that the difference between top men in the field and others could be defined under four headings—attitude, stability, maturity and aptitude for selling—plus personality again. He emphasized, however, that no salesman, no matter how good he was, could change the buying habits of his customers.

In addition, the salesman must have knowledge of his product, of human behavior, and of salesmanship techniques. The latter, he said, was not dependent on talent or ability, but a few sound principles of selling."

This knowledge must be combined with experience, so that the salesman can sell his product faster, with less effort, so that he will understand why he did not make the sale, help him to sell more and enjoy it, and aid him to advance to executive posts.

"Only the smart ones who learn by experience can survive," Mr. McQuaig said. "The undertrained salesman wastes time, both his and his customer's, antagonizes his customer with high pressure methods and tricks. Millions of dollars are wasted every year because salesmen don't know how to sell".

Same in Four Ways

The salesman, through his training, knows that all men are the same in four ways: all want to gain money, prestige, friends; they all want to save what they already have; all want to gain the approval of others; and they all want to think well of themselves.

With these in mind, the salesman can work to bring the most satisfaction to his customers, and use the code for the basis for every sale. "The good salesman never takes an order unless it means that it will bring maximum satisfaction to his customer," the speaker said.

The sale itself is divided into three stages," Mr. McQuaig said. First is the sale of the interview, in which the seller must convince the buyer that he has something worthwhile. Secondly, the advantages of the product must be sold, and lastly, the product itself must be placed. The customer cannot be forced to listen, and must be sold on the listening end of it first.

Three Stages

Roughly, the process is divided into three stages: suggesting, proving, and persuading. In the first stage, the salesman must arouse the curiosity and hope of gain of the buyer. Then he must prove that there is something to gain from the product, and the persuasion is the clincher.

"The principles of selling never change," Mr. McQuaig said. "Men who know and practise these principles can be successful in selling."

Mr. McQuaig was introduced by Charles Lundy and thanked by Jim Mastine. President Bill Stovin presided.

E. Pine Suffers Flash Burns, Thrown into Bay by Explosion Of His Racing Motorboat

Edwin Pine, College Street, well known local racing boat driver, suffered flash burns to his face and arms Friday afternoon when his racing motor boat "Miss Redcap" blew up and caught fire in the Bay of Quinte.

Pine was later admitted to Belleville General Hospital for treatment to his burns but is expected to return to his home today.

The accident occurred about 200 yards out from the shore and three miles west of Rednersville. He was starting the engine of the boat when it is believed gasoline fumes exploded the blast throwing Pine into the water. Fortunately he was wearing a life jacket and was able to keep afloat until rescue.

Following the explosion the motorboat drifted ashore where it burned to the water's edge.

The accident took place in full sight of Mrs. Pine who was watching her husband from the shore. A farmer's wife in the area also saw the incident and phoned the air station for assistance. The RCAF sent out a plane and were calling for a boat when the Goodman Brothers put out a boat from the shore and rescued Mr. Pine from the chilly water.

Members of the family today stated that Pine was not seriously burned but had suffered from shock due to his dunking in the cold water of the bay.

Madoc Man Found Injured, May Have Been Hit by Car

Believed to have been struck by a hit-and-run driver as he walked along the highway near Marsh Hill, Joseph Burr, 60 of Madoc, is in Belleville General Hospital suffering from scraped hands and arms. Burr was found lying in the ditch at the foot of the Oak Hills, north of Marsh Hill.

A Stirling garage man Mr. L. Stapley discovered Burr in the ditch. Burr had been driving his truck along the highway when mechanical trouble was experienced. He stopped his truck and walked along the highway to telephone the garage and was believed to be returning to his truck when struck by another car.

Stapley found Burr in the ditch when he answered the service call.

The bearers were Jack Mouck, Thomas Walker, William Lockyer and Hector Poste.

MRS. RICHARD REID

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Richard Reid, who died Wednesday morning, were held Friday afternoon from Beulah United Church.

The services were conducted by Rev. E. Beckel, of Ivanhoe, assisted by Rev. Fred Lane. The church was filled to capacity with friends and there were many floral tributes. The choir sang "In the Garden," and two of Mrs. Reid's favorite hymns.

The bearers were Samuel Twiddy, Arthur Hagerman, Earl Benson, Goldie McInroy, John Wallace and Burton Heagle.

MRS. GEORGE F. YOUKER

Mrs. George F. Youker died in Belleville General Hospital this morning. Born in Sidney township, Mrs. Youker was Ethel Juby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Juby, before her marriage.

Mrs. Youker had lived in the Belleville district all her life. She was a member of Holloway St. United Church and belonged to the Quintena Rebekah Lodge No. 133 for many years.

Surviving her are her husband George F. Youker, 14 Boswell St., one son, Francis George, RCAF Station, Trenton; one brother, Robert P. Juby, Prescott, Ont.; one sister, Mrs. Fred Rupert, Thurlow township; and two granddaughters, Vera and Frances Youker.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, Everett St.

Funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

2 Earth Tremors Are Recorded

New York, Oct. 21 (AP).—Two earthquake shocks, the first reported as mild and the second as more severe, were recorded on the Fordham University seismograph today, Rev. Joseph J. Lynch reported.

The milder disturbance was recorded at 4:09.56 and 4:16.28 a.m. EST and was about 2,900 miles from New York. The second was at 4:49.55 and 4:55.38 a.m. and was about 2,400 miles distant. Father Lynch was unable to determine the direction of either.

John Carroll University's seismograph also recorded a mild earthquake. The Cleveland, O., school said it probably occurred on the peninsula of lower California.

Rev. Henry F. Birkenhauer, the school seismologist, said the quake might have caused damage.

Education Board Considers Hiring Supt. of Maintenance For Public, Secondary Schools

Members of the local Board of Education will give consideration to the hiring of a superintendent of maintenance for public and secondary schools in the city, it was decided at the regular monthly meeting of the Board held Friday evening.

No immediate action will be taken on the matter but it was recommended that a committee investigate and that a maintenance superintendent be hired as soon as a suitable person is available following the new year. Members felt that the Board will save considerable in school maintenance costs through hiring of a superintendent.

The west end of the school grounds at the King George School will be levelled suitable for use as a playing field, it was decided. Approximate cost of the work would be $585 with an additional $50 for levelling off the northeast section of the school grounds where fill has been dumped without being levelled. A committee was formed to arrange details and with authorization to have the work completed.

With leave of absence having been granted to Lt.-Col. E. A. Geen for the balance of the year, Fred Symons was named chairman of finance for the Board and will act in this capacity until the end of December.

Appears Before Board

Alderman C.D. Tice appeared before the Board with the request that school children in the city be asked to assist in forming a guard of honor for Prime Minister St. Laurent when he visits the city next Saturday for the unveiling of the monument to Sir Mackenzie Bowell. The matter was turned over to school principals who assured they would be happy to co-operate and to suggest to children that they take part.

General Legislative grants for vocational school purposes in the city will be cut by $9,189 this year, it was shown in the final statements of grants to be received. The reduction in the amount of grants to be received from the province this year is result of the grants system being changed for vocational schools.

Members discussed the possibility of changing Friday to Monday the day of holding board meetings. Opinion was divided as to the advantages of changing the day of meeting, it being pointed out that both nights conflict with other activities which certain members of the board would like to attend.

No Action Taken

Owing to the lateness of the season, it was decided that no action should be taken this year. Board member George Wishart warned members, however, that if he was a member next year, he would bring the matter up again. "I do not like Friday meetings,'" he said.

Approval was given to the request of Mr. Reg. Hinchey to present band concerts in school auditoriums during the fall months on Monday or Tuesday evenings. Inspector-Administrator L. A. Kells will be allowed $150 car expense per annum for local transportation, while the attendance officer will be allowed $10 per month for the same purpose.

A committee will be set up to deal with the request of school band instructor Alf. Cooper for the purchase of additional instruments for use by students of the Collegiate. If the request was granted it would mean that students in the lower grades taking music as an experimental option would be provided with instruments.

Chairman Named

Chairman of the Board, Mr. Enos David was named by the Advisory Vocational committee to represent the committee on the local apprenticeship council. The advisability of forming a Belleville chapter of the Ontario Industrial Educational Council will also be considered.

What is known as the "Playground pavilion" on the Queen Mary School grounds was recommended sold to Mr. F. Fudge for $25 for removal from the grounds. The building is in bad state of repair and members considered it would be best removed from the grounds.

Total enrolment at the collegiate and vocational school was given by Principal G. E. Currie as 1,102, with 599 or 54.4 per cent of the total enrolment being in the collegiate. Total enrolment is 96 over that of last year.

Commencement Next Friday

The annual commencement exercises at the collegiate will be held on October 27th beginning at 7.30.

In the public schools the present enrolment is slightly under 2200.

Mrs. B. Watt, public health nurse, reported that record cards of all children had been checked for immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Dr. Cronk, the medical officer of health, has advised that all children taking physical training should have an examination by the family doctor and have a certificate of health presented at the school.

Churchmen Executed

Hong Kong, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Peiping radio said today that Chinese communists executed four Chinese Roman Catholic churchmen, including two priests, Monday in Hupeh province on charges of espionage. The radio said the Catholics were convicted by a People's court of having pinpointed a bombing target for Nationalist planes in August, 1948.

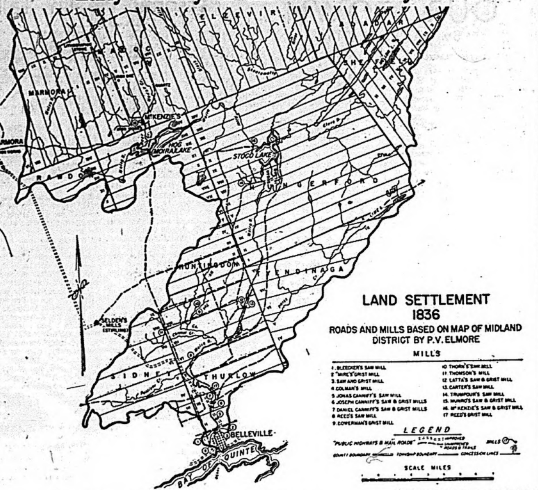
Early History of the Moira Valley



From Moira Valley Conservation Report

MILLS AND INDUSTRY

(8th Instalment)

In the townships the roads were increasing in number and improving in quality during this period, though even at the end of it their condition was mediocre at the best and often abominably bad. About 1812 a road was opened up the east bank of the river to Canniff's Mills. This remained very bad for some time, but was gradually improved and by the thirties had reached the standard of the Kingston Road and became the main artery to the back of the country (replacing the older trail up the west bank which had passed out of use before 1836).

The improved road in the thirties crossed the river on a bridge below Canniff's mill dam and joined the line of the present road to Foxboro at the fourth concession of Thurlow. From that point it followed the line of the present highway to the village of "Selden's Mills" or "Rawdon" (Stirling.)

Probably most travellers from Belleville to Madoc preferred to make a circuit by this better road to Rawdon and take the Ridge Road to the site of West Huntingdon. From that point the present county road had been opened to Mackenzie's Mills. A road had also been opened straight north to West Huntingdon from Ashley's Corners (Foxboro) past Thompson's Mill, (Holloway), but this seems to have taken a more direct line than the present road and to have been too difficult to have been much used. Travellers to Huntingdon township could, however, follow the road along the east bank of the river from Canniff's Mills to the fifth concession of Thurlow township or on to Reed's sawmill at the sixth concession. From these points roads had been opened eastwards along the front of the concessions to a sideroad through Thrasher's Corners.

This crossed the river near the present bridge (probably by means of a ferry in summer). From the river it was possible to go almost straight north to Moira on the third concession of Huntingdon (which had been opened right across the township) or to take the road to Hungerford township, which followed pretty closely the line of the King's Highway No. 37 until it ended at Munroe's Mills on the site of Tweed.

A trail branching east from Hungerford Road near Trumpour's sawmill crossed the river to Sugar Island and turned north up the centre of the island to Stoco Lake. From Munroe's Mills a road angled northwest to Lodgeroom Corners and then south and southwest to the site of Thomasburg.

* * *

On the other bank of the river a trail followed close to the stream from the river — crossing north of Thrasher's past Carter's sawmill to the eastern boundary of Thurlow. Another roughly paralleled the Moira from Thrasher's through Tyendinaga and Hungerford, to the east end of Stoco Lake beyond the Clare River. It kept to the high ground, a little back from the river and seems to have run through unsettled country, since no sideroads are shown branching from it. The only other trails marked in Hungerford entered that township from Richmond and Sheffield townships and met near the site of Marlbank, with a branch trail running half way along the north side of Lime Lake.

Mackenzie's in Madoc was the starting place for roads leading to the neighborhoods of Empey and Cooper and to Marmora village. This last track took a slightly different line from the later Marmora road and also from King's Highway No. 7. A second road from Marmora village ran northeast across that township and wandered through the northern half of Madoc township from west to east. Some other stretches of road had been opened in this part of Madoc, but there was none east of Cooper or in the northern parts of Huntingdon, Tyendinaga, or Rawdon, while on the other hand almost every concession of Thurlow and Sidney was served by roads in some part of it.

The government was assuming more responsibility for the care of a few main highways, and sometimes a road would be opened and kept up by individuals, as in the case of Marmora and Madoc roads, but for the most part the care of the roads was the charge of Statute Labor Commissioners, assisted by elected township officials. (The old name "pathmaster" went out of use during this period. The present system of township organization had not been set up. Township matters were largely settled by the Justices of the Peace in Quarter Sessions and election meetings were held at the first Session of the new year or the last of the old,) who assessed the inhabitants and apportioned the share of labor to be performed, in person or by substitute. Performance was enforced and various problems settled by the Petty Sessions. The system was not altogether satisfactory and was soon to be abandoned in the case of the main roads. It worked well enough for the less important roads and has only recently been abandoned in some areas.

It must not be imagined that these were "roads" in any modern sense of the word. The main "improved" roads may have had some sort of surfacing in places, but the best of the township roads had probably only been "turnpiked." This meant that they had been ditched on each side with a plow and the earth turned inwards towards the centre to form a crown and the wet places were "causewayed" with log corduroy When the stumps and roots had rotted or had been removed, this made not too bad a track for light traffic in good weather and on dry ground. Wet weather could turn such a road into a continuous slough and the really "soft" patches, which never dried up, had to be got over by using the bone-shaking corduroy.

* * *

Up to 1812 the "improved" roads in Upper Canada were not the cause of much complaint. They were as good as most roads in the United States and all but a few English roads. Travellers did not expect first class roads in a newly-opened country and settlers were content when they once had got themselves a road of any sort. But by 1815 the work of Telford and MacAdam had transformed the English roads and was being imitated in the United States. Canadian roads were lagging far behind contemporary standards; and from 1820 to 1850 the horrors of land travel in Upper Canada were a favorite theme of literary visitors and "the state of the roads" a regular source of complaint for the inhabitants of the province.

The macadamizing or planking of some main roads was begun in the thirties, but there is evidence that neither of these methods was in use in the Moira Watershed before 1836.

KOREA AND U.N. SAFEGUARDS

The world has seen the beginning of a new era. United Nations rallied to the call of overrun Southern Korea and the time is approaching when Northern Korea by the collapse of its strength in the field and air will become the first people who have made necessary action by the free nations to prevent and overthrow aggression and have been made an example to the world by the United Nations' action.

General MacArthur has struck blows at a strategic time in the Korean war and the capital of the north has fallen into Allied hands.

At such a time there has taken place on Wake Island in the Pacific a meeting of the deepest significance as the President of the United States conferred with General MacArthur on matters of the greatest import to the United Nations.

President Truman has spoken from San Francisco saying that the United States offers a "full partnership of peace" to all Asia with the support of American military might. His speech made it clear that the United States wants a partnership for peace with all the world, which must be a peace founded upon justice.

He called upon Russia to lift the iron curtain and permit the free exchange of information and ideas and by joining with the U.N. in a system of collective security "which will permit the elimination of the atomic bomb and and the drastic reduction and regulation of all other arms and armed forces." He said that the United Nations are prepared to build up the common defensice strength of the free world" and gave the assurance that what was done for the help of Korea would be done by the United Nations for any nation if it ever finds itself in a similar predicament.

He referred to the strength of the armed forces of Russia and the Soviet satellites are maintaining, which he said "pose a constant threat to peace. So long as they persist in maintaining these forces and in using them to intimidate other countries, the free men of the world have but one choice if they are to remain free. They must oppose strength with strength." He affirmed that the free nations hated war but loved their liberties and would not see them destroyed.

His speech was the most outspoken he has yet delivered.

Meanwhile the Korean campaign draws near its close. The world has see that the U.N. is a funtioning body. What has been achieved by General MacArthur with his forces of Americans and forces of other United Nations whose arrival has turned the scale against the North Koreans and is the first fruits of the spirit of the United Nations in the effort to preserve freedom against aggression.

THE ELUSIVE SEASON

After a summer which lacked some of the charm usually associated with the hot months of the year, the season of autumn has come when there is hope there may be some compensation in finer weather this month and the next. October has an enviable reputation with many as possibly the most enjoyable month of the year. It is the season of the gathering in of the harvests and the preparation for the time of rest which nature sends in the winter months, yet a good distance away it is hoped.

One of the spells of this time of year comes a little later, about the time of the first frost, when nature brings that dreamy season of Indian Summer, with its haze and lingering appeal, when nature seems to have become transformed and seemingly is ready to retreat from late autumn and winter.

Indian Summer usually is recognized though some years it seems but so faint a reflex of summer that it is often unrecognized by a great many people, who suddenly find winter has come and all signs of an Indian Summer are gone.

This mild and pleasant season sometimes called "second summer" was first recognized as a distinct type of weather by itself in the last decade of the eighteenth century a little before the end of autumn when winter was drawing near. It was first recognized in West Pennsylvania. The name first was used about twenty years after its first appearance. It spread to New England and, then to New York, then to Canada by 1821 and to England by 1830.

A writer describes it as characterized by haziness, smokiness and high temperature. About it gathered a rich lore.

Other names by which it is known in various climes are "St. Martin's Summer" in Germany, "Old Woman's Summer," "All Hallows Summer," "St. Luke's Summer."

It is supposed to follow the first frost. But often it so fades into the general season of late autumn as to be lost in autumn.

Half the misery of human life might be extinguished if men would alleviate the general curse they lie under by mutual offices of compassion, benevolence and humanity. —Addison.

JUST FOLKS

DISH DRIER

There's many a task I have put aside
To follow my fondest wishes,
But I'm not too proud to be allowed
To help with the supper dishes.

I'm on good terms with pantry shelves
And as well did Mother Hubbard
So long ago, I have come to know
The mysteries of a cupboard.

I'm at home at any one's kitchen sink.
These are words that I am not mincing.
I've been brought up to dry plate and cup
And I know what is meant by rinsing.

The tines of a fork I never neglect.
Let this be the end of the matter.
It's never a case of losing face
When I polish a silver platter.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 21st., 1930.

A splendid meeting took place at the Armouries of ex-officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Second battalion of the First Canadian Division and arrangements were completed for the trip to Peterborough on November 15 where the reunion of the whole battalion will be held. Enough cars have been provided to convey the crowd to Peterborough and back and it is hoped that any other members of the Second Battalion, who were unable to attend the meeting, will get in touch with authorities so that they may be allotted space for the trip.

Mrs. J. Boardman, Alexander Street, spent the weekend in Brockville.

30 YEARS AGO

Oct. 21st., 1920.

Great activity is evident in the Belleville harbor as a result of the trans-shipping of coal from sailing vessels and barges into cars. Years ago Belleville was the central distributing point for grain and in those days it was no uncommon sight to see from 15 to 20 schooners loaded with grain leaving Belleville. That this city has natural shipping advantages is obvious. During the last ten days the barge White and Friant, capacity 700 tons, has unloaded two cargoes of coal here. The steam barge Hiskly and the schooner Filer have also been in port this week. The Horace Taber with 450 tons of coal is discharging her cargo today and the schooner Oliver Mowat, 425 tons capacity, is en route from Oswego to Belleville. These barges and schooners are all under charter by the Schuster Company, to which the traffic is consigned.

THE COST OF GALLANT LIVING

As long as the Church has tried to be like the world, it has had the world's derision and contempt. As long as men of God are content to bring their congregations what these congregations want to hear, there will be plenty of empty seats in the Church. Two thousand years ago people started rushing pell-mell to the banks of the Jordan to hear John the Baptist call them vipers and to have addressed to them the disdainful question, "Who warned you to flee from the wrath to come?"

Someone has said that the prophet is never worth his salt until people are ready to stone him as a public nuisance. Many men had to mount the gallows before the fundamentals of democracy were established. And for generations the sympathy of the masses was with the hangman and not with the man who was dying for a cause.

Outstanding in the Bible is the doctrine of the remnant. A little group has to stand out against evil. The leaders of this little group are always a few individuals despised and rejected by their generation. It was a hilarious crowd which gathered around the cross of Jesus and threw jibes into the teeth of this young teacher from Nazareth who had dared to challenge the ecclesiastic big-wigs of his day.

Christianity was supposed to be all washed up on that occasion. As a matter of fact it was just beginning.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most people detest spiders and jump quickly to step on or or swat one when they see it. However, in Sicily I saw a Scot punch another man on the nose for stamping on a spider. His name was Bruce, although it is probable he was also a little sentimental at the moment.

But with the great increase in field naturalist clubs as well as in the teaching of natural history in the schools, the number of people who take an intelligent interest in spiders is multiplying. And there is no time of year better than this week of October to be abroad in garden and field to observe the webs as well as to ferret out with your eye any one of the numerous types of spider that jump, run sideways, go sailing from tree tops on private gliders, as well as those which build webs, traps, platforms, trap doors and various other handicrafts far more amusing than any of you might see in a museum or fair.

There are more than 100,000 different species of spider in the world. Either nature was very concerned about spiders, or else spiders must have been very dissatisfied with themselves for so many different varieties of them to have been evolved. They exhibit nearly all the virtues. They are ingenious and tireless. They are bold and crafty. They are quick and alert. They are suspicious, which is one of the segments of alertness. They deserve to survive. Yet with all these virtues, it seems strange that there should be 100,000 species rather than just one or two. Virtues are supposed to make us one. It is vices that divide us. Spiders must be differently constituted than we are, morally.

OUR TOWN

ERRATIC MAGIC

Been just about a year since I last had a stomach-full of television. Now, after another long bout in Boston, I can report that video doesn't seem any worse or any better, but still a powerfully habit-forming sedative.

A large number of the programs we've been watching over Boston's NBC outlet, designated as Channel Four, are as crude as early vintage movies (many of them are early vintage movies), but TV is really quite perplexing. When it's good it's terrific. Either way, it's hypnotic.

We watched the four World Series games telecast. This is the medium at its best. I've never seen a series in the flesh, but I've watched an awful lot of ball games. Seems to me that baseball through the camera's eye is just about twice as exciting and enjoyable as it is from the bleachers.

This isn't merely a matter of comfort, although there's obviously something to be said for attending a game in a Morris chair with a cooling drink at one's side.

It's also a matter of dramatic emphasis. The camera focusses directly on the particular chunk of action that has meaning and eliminates the distractions. So you're right on top of the hitter as he takes his stance at the plate or the runner sliding into second or the fielder back against the wall for the one-handed catch, all framed into a neat square of distilled action.

The cameras do occasionally stand back, as it were, and survey the panorama. But when the movement of the game is localized as baseball action usually is, the telephoto lens muscles in.

A good example of this was in the game (I've forgotten which one; pretty dull series, wasn't it?) in which Konstanty came in as relief pitcher. During the long, long hike from the dugout to the mound the TV eye ignored everything else and kept its gaze on this one dramatic figure, bringing you so close that you could see his jaw muscles moving as he chewed gum.

I would be willing to take a small wager. Within 10 years, the World Series will be played in an empty park.

Poor Drama

Probably the weakest programs in TV are the drama shows. You mightn't think it possible, but a presentation of Sinclair Lewis' "Arrowsmith," produced by Robert Montgomery and with Van Heflin, a really competent actor, playing the lead, came out as something resembling a high school play and a bad one at that.

Television's blind spot in drama is the matter of sets. They must be necessarily bare because of the confines of the screen. A detailed setting would be lost in that small square. And so the producer is able only to suggest atmosphere. Arrowsmith fighting the bubonic plague in the jungle does so against an austere backdrop which might represent anything. I thought Van Heflin looked very unhappy about the whole thing.

There's a crudeness, too, that's downright comical. In a "Light's Out" thriller, for example, a character is supposed to have found a method of floating through the air under his own power. When this took place we viewers broke into a guffaw. The piano wire used to hoist the gent in the air was clearly visible.

This sort of thing, plus the curiously foreshortened figures, make it desperately hard for a producer to keep his audience under any spell of illusion.

It has also brought a new and fantastic aspect to sex appeal. Since a full-length woman looks like a piece of wax that's been too near a radiator, the TV glamor girl has had to resort to a plunging neckline and immense, fabricated busts. In video, "cleavage" appears to have been accomplished with an axe.

Actually the best TV shows are those which are typically radio. Arthur Godfrey talking away at a desk seems natural and amusing. Fred Allen doing his patter never seemed funnier. The great secret here is to be relaxed. Indeed, Allen spoke of a friend of his who craved this gift and had his spine taken out. (He went home in a pail).

The most interesting of all the shows we watched was a quiz thing called "Who Said That?" Guests included Henry Morgan, Elsa Maxwell and Paul Gallico. The camera simply wandered interestedly from one face to another as if it were delighted to find such witty and charming people. So were we on the receiving end.

What's Best?

The Canadian exposed to the TV sideshow must automatically find himself thinking of the situation in Canada. And not without certain doubts.

Should the CBC have simply given the green light to any and all the commercial station willing and eager to get into television? Even if it meant canned shows and television at its worst?

Well, a fellow like Uncle Ed is a good argument for that. Uncle Ed (as he's known to everybody) is an old, retired sea captain whose trailer is parked next to ours. Uncle Ed put out $450 for a fine set, and a gigantic aerial mast. Every night he dims the lights and pulls his chair up before the magic screen. Uncle Ed doesn't care whether it's good or bad. It's good company, and there's always the wrestling or the boxing. For this old gentleman it's been a grand thing.

On the other hand, there's overwhelming evidence that the hucksters have clapped TV to their breasts and will never let it go. The ratio of commercials to entertainment is even higher in video than it is in old-fashioned broadcasting. At times you'd swear you were back in those days when the movie didn't begin until there'd been a half hour of advertising "slides".

My own opinion (and you can suspect it if you wish because I am practically living with Uncle Ed) is that the CBC was wise to play its cards with caution, to benefit from the mistakes that are being made down here, and to try to make TV in Canada a little less of a hit-and-miss deal.

Russian Campaign Against Lie Supported by Nationalist China

Lake Success, N.Y. Oct. 21—(AP)—Jakob A. Malik, Soviet deputy foreign minister said Friday American delegate John Foster Dulles told him Trygve Lie had followed a "double-faced policy" but the United States had made too many commitments to the U.N. secretary-general to drop him now.

Dulles denied he had made any such remarks to Malik. He said he would issue a statement later explaining why he supported Lie.

Malik met a reporter in the delegates lounge at the U.N. and relayed the information he had talked with Dulles about the post of secretary-general. Malik vetoed the re-election of Lie and the question will come up again in a secret meeting of the security council this afternoon.

No One Predicts Outcome

At this stage no one would predict the outcome of the fight over the secretary-generalship.

Russia is determined to throw Lie out because he supported whole-heartedly United Nations action to combat aggression in Korea. Russia maintains that the North Koreans were innocent victims of American and South Korean aggression.

The Soviet union is supported in its campaign against Lie by nationalist China — usually her bitterest enemy in the U.N. Chiang Kai-Shek's representative resents the fact that Lie favors seating the Chinese communist government in the U.N.

The United Nations strongly favors another term for the former Norwegian foreign minister.

India, following her usual policy of trying to conciliate east and west, had introduced a resolution calling on the big five to find an alternative to Lie. Strong doubt was expressed last night that such a compromise nominee could be found.

The British delegation insisted that they had no instructions from London as to whom to support. They let it be known, however, that they are greatly disposed to support an extension of Lie's present five-year term.

Both the British and U.S. delegations did not hesitate to admit that they would find it difficult to oppose any Indian of world-wide reputation. They are both joined in a fight with Russia for the favor of India, which they regard as the dominant power in Asia.

No one expects the council to select a new secretary-general today. The fight may continue for some time.

ACTION IS WHAT WE ALL NEED

Five days a week, having snapped the bull whip over the heads of my slaves to keep 'em working like mad, I quietly let myself out through the rear patio and toddle half a mile to the bowling green.

Three of the finest bowling greens in the country, in use the year around (except perhaps 15 or twenty days when the greens are too wet), await me. There is room for 192 players to bowl—yet only 150 to 160 persons play there. The greens are public—in a city park—and any one may bowl there any time he or she wishes, on payment of a trifling fee.

Lawn bowling or bowling on the green is a lifetime game and sport, once you learn what it is all about and try your hand at it. Anybody may play, man, woman or child. A fifteen-year-old girl won the women's state championship. A 91-year-old retired professional man gives an excellent account of himself any day of the week. An 80-year-old retired business man whose eyesight is so bad he can no longer read, enjoys bowling several afternoons a week. Ten hours a week on the bowling greens is what keeps a certain health columnist tolerably good-natured.

A few sommersaults will generally help one clear up casual or routine snags, but when a serious problem arises the bowling green is the place to grapple with it. For example, shall I quit calling readers such names as Stupid, Wiseacre, Geek, Ninnyhammer, Sucker, or shall I keep on needling readers like that?

Throughout South Africa, at least in the towns and cities, lawn bowling is the popular game. Bowling greens by the scores everywhere, and they are fully used by men, women and children every day. Neither Capetown nor Durban — two of the largest cities—had greens as fine as ours—at least I saw none quite equal to ours. The greens in England may be equal to ours—unfortunately the bowling season had not arrived when I was there.

Lawn bowling is a Godsend for any man or woman who has had the misfortune or perhaps made the mistake of retiring abruptly or entirely from business, profession, occupation or work without having carefully cultivated an avocation which will take up his or her spare time.

Think of that 80-year-old retired businessman already mentioned. With his semi-blindness he could pass the time by sitting twiddling his fingers. But thanks to lawn bowling—and he plays an amazingly good game — he bowls for two hours several days a week, and thoroughly enjoys himself in every game he plays.

As exercise the game is pretty mild—but perhaps this would be an attraction for persons who have been persuaded to believe they have weak heart. In any case I have observed that regular bowling on the green transforms gloomy, melancholy individuals who have had two or three bouts of coronary thrombosis into cheerful happy persons.

I have to laugh in the depth of relief shown by wives who have thanked me for getting their husbands interested in bowling on the green. They say that since retirement the man has been so restless and such a constant nuisance around the house—but now he is off for the bowling green right after lunch and he is more like his old self...

It is dangerous for any one to retire from his or her regular activity to sheer idleness. It shortens life. To stave of early decrepitude you should have something to do that you like to do, preferably some outdoor physical activity, such as gardening, walking, golf, fishing, hunting with camera not gun, painting, carpentering, lawn bowling, pitching horseshoes, laying brick or other masonry, in which you can engage: every day the year around.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Offers Much, Delivers Little

What relief do the new wonder drugs acth and cortisone offer to hay fever and asthma sufferers. (T. T.)

Answer—Like all new wonder drugs introduced via news bureau and magazine exploitation, much and little. Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on Asthma. If you would like also a pamphlet on Hay Fever inclose 10c in addition.

Dampness Not Cause of Rheumatiz

Would a part dirt basement that is always damp cause a person to have stiff, swollen joints? (Mrs. E. M.)

Answer—Aside from personal comfort, dampness has no effect on health. Worrying about it doesn't benefit your health.

Mineral Food

Have had fine results from supplementing my diet with calcium phosphorus and vitamin D as you recommend for chronic arthritis. However, I forgot your warning about these being food! I have gained several pounds. (Mrs. A. F.)

Answer—Not on minerals and vitamins. It was not a warning but just a reminder that minerals and vitamins recommended in the booklet The Ills Called Rheumatism are not medicine but nutritional elements every one needs and too many fail to get in sufficient amounts to maintain health. For the booklet send 25c and self addressed envelope.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TAKE IT EASY!

Again I say that Nature is the best teacher—she takes time to work out her plans. Many years ago I visited those great trees in California—some of them young when Christ was born. You can't rush the growth of a tree, but you can keep it in good health while growing and help to prevent its dying.

Every flower has a certain time in which to mature, as has every animal. The great Creator planned it that way. When man interferes with that law he lowers the quality of the product. The life span of man has been increased because we have gotten close to the very laws that extend life.

The majority of automobile accidents result from too much speed, and not taking it easy and observing the rules of safe driving. More people worry out than wear out. Relaxed workers are the best workers and the happiest. They accomplish most. Take it easy and there will be given to you additional enjoyment as well.

People take stimulants, erroneously thinking they pep them up. They do the opposite. They slow them up and disarrange the natural process of the mind and body. It's like whipping a dog to make him more obedient. His natural pride is hurt and his loyalty is decreased. The champion golfer keeps relaxed. By taking it easy he confounds his anxious adversary.

By taking time to think things out one's errors are reduced, and one's judgment is increased. You have read or heard of that admonition to be slow to anger. By taking it easy, when in a tight place, you increase your ability to come out all right. In a dispute, by letting the other fellow "talk it out," you have the better chance to win your argument—and perhaps save trouble in the bargain!

During the most crucial moments, preceeding the Civil War between the States, it was Lincoln who stated that nothing was lost by taking time, and considering everything before initiating war. Trouble usually results from not taking it easy when emergencies arise. Take it easy and your regrets will remain at a minimum!

Govt. Shows Signs Of Buck-Passing Says Jolliffe

Toronto, Oct. 21 (CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the C.C.F. opposition in the Ontario legislature, [illegible] Friday the government sho[illegible] of buck-passing in [illegible] crime-and-vice in-[illegible]

"[illegible] restricted scope of a police commission," Mr. Jolliffe said in a statement, "makes it impossible for that body to go to the root of the trouble.

"The fact that the former Crown Attorney (E. C. Awrey) was retired after the attorney-general's department had left him in office for years, indicates that the problem is not merely a local one.

"The commission has no authority to investigate the crown attorney's record or anything else outside the work of the municipal police force."

Premier Frost, commenting on Mr. Jolliffe's statement, said he is certain Windsor's newly-appointed commission and crown attorney will do everything they can "to lay bare all there is down at Windsor."

He said there was no ambiguity about what the province was doing in the situation.

Mr. Jolliffe's two-page typewritten statement said in part: "Law enforcement in Windsor has, in my opinion, been no better and no worse than in many other municipalities. No good is done by those who point to Windsor as though it were in some way unique...

"The attorney-general's department must accept the responsibility for law enforcement generally and for the record of crown attorneys in particular. If the department pleads ignorant of the record, the plea would merely constitute a declaration of its own negligence and incompetence."

$60.53 AVERAGE SALARY

Washington, Oct. 20 (CP) — Weekly earnings of 12,900,000 factory workers in the United States hit an all-time high average of $60.53 in mid-September, the bureau of labor statistics said yesterday. That was an increase of 21 cents over the record level reached in August.

ROSSMORE

RECREATION CLUB

Rossmore Recreation Club held their first social evening of the season Monday night last in the form of a community card party. Mrs. Bisdee, Mrs. Kropinak and Mrs. Empey were hostesses to the various euchre players.

At the close of the evening the guests assembled in the Sunday school rooms where a buffet luncheon was prepared. The table was attractive with flowers, cakes and sandwiches.

The president, Mr. C. Cornell, called the meeting to order and a presentation to the past president, Mr. Earl Morgan was made. Miss Joy Belnap read a suitable farewell address to which Mr. Morgan replied.

Prizes for the evening were awarded to the card players and the remainder of the evening was spent in enjoying the refreshments and good fellowship.

Later in the month another jolly evening for the Rossmore young people will be held as the Recreation Club are holding a Hallowe'en masquerade party in the Sunday school rooms at 8 o'clock. Good prizes for costumes will be given and a grand evening of fun promised to all.

The regular euchre was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Empey Wednesday night. A good attendance was reported, the prize winners being Mrs. C. Reddick, Mr. E. Anderson, Mr. Reddick and Mrs. Empey. The next euchre will be at the home of Mrs. Mabel Russell.

OFFER REWARD

Sudbury, Oct. 21 (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Janis Miglinieks have offered a reward of $100 for information leading to the whereabouts of their 14-year-old son, Gunars Ozols, missing from his home since Oct. 3. He was last seen here wearing grey trousers, red windbreaker and a black raincoat. He was carrying a brown packsack.

Moose Answers Yodeller's Call

Steamboat Springs, Colo., Oct. 21—(AP)—Jack Kelton, 25-year-old ranch hand, liked to yodel and hear the Swiss yelps bounce back from the mountains.

He was at work near Haans Peak a few days ago, happily yodelling and chopping brush.

Suddenly a hefty bull moose charged out of the timber straight for Kelton.

"I had only an ax," said former yodeler Kelton, "and I had to run like hell. Anyway, it's against the law to kill a moose."

PICTON

Evening Branch W.A.

Picton—The Evening Branch of the W.A. of St. Mary Magdalene's Church met in the Parish House on Tuesday evening with 25 members present.

The president, Miss Wycott, received the secretary's report. Plans were made to hold a fancy-work table at the Guild bazaar early in December. It was decided to purchase ten dozen bleached sugar bags to make pillow cases and tea towels for this sale.

During the evening the members quilted a quilt to be sent in the bale to an Indian residential school. At the social hour the hostess was Mrs. Philips, assisted by the wives of members of the R.C.S.A. (A.A.) on the Hill.

Master Norman Lightfoot underwent an appendectomy in P. E. County Hospital on Monday and is making progress towards recovery.

Miss June Lovell, of Toronto, spent a few days in town owing to the illness of her mother, Mrs. George Lovcall Reg. N., who underwent an appendectomy in P.E.C. Hospital.

$25,000 SET AS MINIMUM

Sarnia, Oct. 21 (CP)—A group of Sarnia industrial and business leaders has organized a Jack Bell Memorial Trust Fund and a minimum figure of $25,000 was named as an objective.

The purpose of the fund is to give monthly assistance, as long as she lives, to Mrs. Jennie Bell, widowed mother of the former quarterback with the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union Sarnia Imperials who died of injuries suffered in last Saturday's game with Toronto Balmy Beach here.

SHIPMENTS CUT

Washington, Oct. 21—(AP) — Russia cut shipments of manganese to the United States in August holding them to $300,000 worth. She sold $800,000 worth to the U.S. in July. Manganese is used in hardening steel. It is one of the metals the U.S. seeks to stockpile against a war emergency.

Henry L. Stimson Held Office Under Four Presidents

Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y., Oct. 21 (AP) —Henry L. Stimson, 83, first American to hold cabinet office under four presidents, died yesterday of a heart attack.

Stimson was secretary of war under Presidents William Howard Taft, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman and was Herbert Hoover's only secretary of state.

Three months ago Stimson fell and broke his hip, but was making a good recovery and getting about with wheelchair and crutches. Yesterday he and Mrs. Stimson set out on a drive around the estate. He was stricken in the car.

Stimson was the first leading statesman in any western country to demand a tough crackdown on aggressors of the 1930s. His policy failed at the time, but as American secretary of war from Pearl Harbor to Hiroshima, he directed the army and air force that helped redeem it.

While Stimson's four years as secretary of state, 1929 to 1933, were distinguished, military men and historians have ranked him with Lincoln's Edwin M. Stanton as one of the two greatest secretaries of war in American history.

Association Unique

His association with the war department was unique.

He was first called to t[illegible] fice in 1911 by President [illegible] At that time the American army had only 75,000 men and had just taken over the German general staff system that had been adopted by every big army in the world.

He left the post in 1913 and did not take it up until 1940—27 years later—when Franklin D. Roosevelt called him back to duty during the Second World War at the age of 73.

A life-long Republican, Stimson was asked to serve in a move to gain bi-partisan support in the war emergency. As a result of his acceptance, he was read out of the Republican party.

When he left the office for the last time in September, 1945, he had directed the mobilization and use of an 8,000,000-man army that fought in every part of the world and had won praise from defeated German generals for its combat efficiency.

Tall, austere and described as "a New England conscience on legs," Stimson was a Wall Street lawyer whose private practice was continually interrupted by public duty.

FOR
ONLY

I'M MARY, and I'm speaking to women only. I would ask you men NOT to read this.

Now I guess I'm like all other married women. There are times when I think my John is pretty wonderful, and there are other times when I don't think he is quite so wonderful — As a matter of fact — but you know what I mean.

However, there is one point where we are in perfect accord, and that is the necessity to save so much each week, even if it is only a small amount. We have a program worked out at Victoria Trust and Savings, and I'd like to tell you about it.

Some months ago we opened a savings account here, and we picked Victoria Trust for two reasons. One is that they pay 2% on Savings and the other is that there is no charge on Checking Accounts. Now we have an arrangement whereby as soon as our account reaches $150, Victoria Trust invests for us $100. in G. I. R's or Term Deposits, which still leaves $50 in our account. These G. I. R.'s or Guaranteed Investment Receipts run for 5 years and pay 3% interest. They have coupons attached which can either be cut or left to accumulate. Should we need money these G. I. R.'s can be cashed at any time. You know we have two one hundred dollar G. I. R.'s now and we're saving for a third. And believe it or not, but it's developed into sort of a game, and we're saving money at a rate that we never believed possible.

Oh, Heavens! It's 5.30, and I haven't started John's dinner! Bye.

Euchre Party

At the home of Mr. F. Windsor, Cannifton, a successful euchre was held in aid of the Cannifton-Corbyville Women's Institute. The door prize, donated by the Windsor's, was won by Mrs. J. Horne. Euchre prizes supplied by the Institute were won by the following—ladies' Mrs. Urch, Miss Morgan, Mrs. Hubert; men's, Mrs. Milton, Mr. Taylor, Mrs. Jowett; lone hand prize to Mr. Taylor.

Thank you was expressed to "Bush's" for use of chairs and a hearty thank you was given to the Windsor's for opening their home and for their donations in furthering the cause of the work of the Institute.

WEDDINGS

BRIDGER—SMITH

St. Mark's Anglican church, Barriefield, decorated with a profusion of flowers, was the setting for a pretty double ring ceremony when Rev. Canon A. O. Cooke united in marriage Gladys Nadine, elder daughter of Mr. Charles L. Smith, Willowdale, and Mrs. Smith, Barriefield, to Leonard Bridger, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bridger, Belleville, recently.

Miss Agnes Stanton played the wedding music and Mrs. Melbourne Herrington, aunt of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Leslie Smith, Lyndhurst, wore a gown of bridal satin, with a fitted bodice and full skirt caught up at the sides by two large satin roses. The gown had a sweetheart neckline. The sleeves formed in points over her hands. A beaded coronet held in place the three-quarter length veil. She wore a single strand of pearls with matching earrings. Her bouquet was of red roses and bouvardia.

Miss Marlene Smith, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She chose pale blue nylon with fitted bodice, full skirt with ruffles at the back, and matching gauntlets. She carried a nosegay of yellow baby 'mums and pink carnations with yellow roses and matching streamers. Her veil was of pale blue net, fingertip length and her headdress, a coronet of sequins.

The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Philip Bridger, with Mr. Walter High and Mr. Melville Clarke as ushers.

The wedding reception was held at the Barriefield hall where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a navy blue crepe dress and navy accessories, assisted by the groom's mother who chose a navy blue ensemble and wine accessories. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake and adorned with white candles in silver holders. Autumn flowers decorated the table and hall. A buffet luncheon was served. Assisting in serving were Mrs. W. M. McKinnon, Mrs. Howard Murray, Mrs. Walter High, Miss Pauline Cheetham and Miss June Smith.

Toast to the bride was given by Canon A. O. Cooke, Mrs. Melbourne Herrington sang "I'll Walk Beside You", and "Because", with Mrs. N. Stanton at the piano.

For a wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a hunter green gabardine suit with yellow and black accessories and wore a corsage of roses. The couple will reside in Kingston.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Trenton, Belleville, Brockville and Lyndhurst.

STOREY—LAZIER

The marriage of Frances Helen Lazier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stuart Lazier, of Toronto, to William Howard Storey, Toronto, son of Mrs. Storey, of Kemptville, Ontario, and the late Dr. William Edward Storey, was solemnized in Grace-Church-on-the-Hill, Toronto, on Friday, October 20, at 7:30 p.m., by the Rev. N. Clarke Wallace, Woodbridge.

Miss Christina McLean provided the traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of heavy, ice-blue satin with Dior neckline and fitted skirt flared to the floor, fanning out to a short train. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion fell from a matching satin Juliet cap.

Mrs. C. H. A. Walters, of Belleville, Ontario, was gowned similarly in heavy, heavenly blue satin with matching Juliet cap.

The Reverend William J. Robinson, of Napanee, Ontario, was groomsman and Mr. Thomas A. Lazier, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Mr. Samuel S. Lazier, of Toronto, Ontario, were ushers.

At reception was held for the immediate family at the Windsor Arms Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Storey will reside in Toronto, Ontario.

Distinguished Topcoat

THE shorter-length overcoat emerges as one of the major, and one of the smartest trends of the new season. It is a brisk, crisp fashion, youthful and exceedingly chic. Seymour Fox designs this distinguished coat of gray wool fleece and points it up with black velvet arrows and an inlay of velvet on the graceful collar. Velvet-lined, it has easy dolman sleeves of the push-up variety, and buttons high.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Most people have little use for stock market tipsters who make a good living by distributing regular market letters to subscribers for a monthly or annual fee. There is always the point that if people could predict the fluctuations of the stock exchange, they would be millionaires many times over, and would not need to be busy mailing out mimeographed sheets of market forecasts . . . On the other hand, everybody knows that one way to make money is to put capital to work in the form of paying investments.

If a woman has little knowledge of the buying and selling of stocks, it is only common sense for her to consult someone who is close to the movements of all the stocks on the market, and someone who is highly recommended as a sound adviser. Years ago, nearly all investment was a gamble. Today, while there are still plenty of wildcats, investing money wisely has become a science.

Among the scores of market tipsters who go under the name of market analysts, are to be found some who can be relied on to give good advice on how to invest money. One particular sheet this week contains mighty sound counsel when it warns you not to plunge the rent money into speculative situations.

This tipster suggests how small capital may be best distributed to protect savings as well as to invest it. He says "If for instance you are receiving a steady income and have about $5,000 to invest and speculate with, then you should have at least $3,000 of this in sound stocks — that is, 'investments for the box.' The fourth thousand should be in semi-speculative stocks and the fifth thousand in speculations.

"For traders," he continues, "the time to sell is fully as important as when and what to buy. I suggest that a profit of anything over 25 per cent is worth taking, except in very unusual stock situations. When in doubt, selling out half your position is a good rule to follow."

Descriptive new word in current speech is the participle infanticipating. It is especially economical when used in classified ads under Apartments Wanted or in telegrams, instead of wordy phrases which give the same information.

And speaking of babies, the funniest infant's gift yet is the one sent to a new mother by her dentist. Wrapped in cotton and tucked inside a pretty pink box, was a dainty set of false teeth for babe — just her size. Visitors catching a peek at the wee one are startled by the smile of the infant with pretty little teeth that resemble simulated pearls.

BRIDGE STREET Y.P.U.

Monday night's meeting of the Bridge Street Y.P.U., opened at eight o'clock, with the president, Betty McGowan, in the chair.

After a brief business period at which it was decided to hold a reception after the organ recital at the church on the 29th., of October, convener Miss Felicity Bennett, took over the meeting.

Discussion groups on "How Radio Affects Christian Culture", were held. The general consensus was that radio was of value to a greater or lesser degree in different types of programs.

Two new members were welcomed and the Union was also favored with a visit from the Rev. E. F. Church.

Mr. Jim Bailey distributed church calendars which the group are selling again this year.

A devotional period closed the meeting.

MADOC

Home and School Assoc. Holds "Open House"

Madoc — The Madoc Public School Home and School Association held their opening meeting of the 1950-51 season in the school room on Tuesday evening with an attendance of about 50 members.

The principal, Mr. Rothwell, addressed the gathering, expressing his pleasure at seeing so many members in attendance and extending a welcome to newcomers. He then introduced the teaching staff to the members. The projector was used to show a series of pictures that could be used in teaching.

Following this, "Open House" was held when all the rooms were thrown open for inspection by the parents and an opportunity extended for a friendly visit and discussion with grade teachers. Open House night is always appreciated and enjoyed.

The meeting re-assembled to enjoy a sing song which was followed by a social hour. Doughnuts and coffee being served.

Mrs. C. McBride New President Bowling Club

A most enjoyable evening was spent Thursday evening at the club house on Yeomans street when the women of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club held their annual banquet and election of officers. Over fifty members turned out to enjoy and partake of a delicious pot luck dinner which was capably convened by Mrs. J. Legault and her committee.

Following the dinner, a business meeting was held and annual reports read by different committee chairmen. A successful year was reported by all. Prizes for the year were distributed by Mrs. L. Gerow, games chairman, while Mrs. R. C. Clarke did the honors for the bridge playing members.

Cups Presented

The president, Mrs. W. Gilbert, presented the cups to the winning rinks. Winner of the Brading cup was Mrs. K. Smith, Mrs. C. Mott and Mrs. C. Hyde as skip. The doubles were won by Mrs. B. Humphreys and Mrs. C. Hyde as skip. The trebles went to Mrs. A. Lloyd, Mrs. G. Vince and Mrs. Hyde, skip, while the rinks went to Mrs. A. Lloyd, Mrs. N. Kyle, Mrs. W. Gilbert and Mrs. H. Thompson, skip.

Mrs. Gilbert then thanked her committees for the excellent co-operation given her during her term as president and turned the chair over to Mrs. C. Hyde for the election of officers. Mrs. C. McBride was elected president; first vice-president, Mrs. Gordon Vince; secretary, Mrs. H. Thompson; treasurer, Mrs. George Watkin; games convener, Mrs. G. Vince; house convener, Mrs. J. Legault; and bridge convener, Mrs. P. Hart. Mrs. Hyde then vacated the chair to the new president and Mrs. McBride asked for co-operation of all and hoped for a successful 1951 season.

The balance of the evening was spent in playing euchre. Thus another successful bowling season was brought to a close.

Dionne Quints Get First Look At Big City

New York, Oct. 21 (CP) — The Dionne quintuplets, shy but smiling, faced up like veterans before the pop of photo-flash guns as they got their first good look at big city sights yesterday.

The 16-year-old quints — Yvonne, Marie, Cecile, Emilie and Annette — were accompanied on the tour by 11 classmates from Villa Notre Dame High School near their home town of Callander, Ont.

With Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, as their host, the celebrated sisters sandwiched in sightseeing with a radio broadcast, a visit to St. Vincent's Hospital, and posed holding babies at the New York Foundling Hospital.

In addition, they appeared at New York's Cathedral High School to sing "The Sidewalks of New York."

About 1,500 onlookers and scores of camera fans greeted their appearance at Rockefeller Center. They got their first look at the Center's famed ice skating rink. Their nurse, Mrs. Charles McMillan, said the "girls were fond of skating".

Had Lunch At R.C.A. Building

They viewed New York from the 75-storey R.C.A. building and had lunch in the building.

The girls talk little, a bit embarrassed — says their father, Oliva Dionne — about their poor English. On the radio broadcast they repeated, five times in identical voices, "Yes, we are having a wonderful time".

The girls were dressed alike in smart flannel suits with green chiffon scarves, feathered hats and green, high-heeled shoes.

In contrast with their formal gown appearance at a dinner on Thursday the quints wore no lipstick during the day.

It was late afternoon before the girls and their party embarked on a private bus tour of Central Park.

In the evening, Margaret O'Brien, teen-age screen star, visited the quints at the Uptown Convent where they are staying. The well-known actress may accompany them on their rounds of sight-seeing today.

MADOC

New AYPA Group Formed, Elect Officers

Madoc—On Tuesday evening a meeting was held in the town hall to organize a branch of the A.Y.P.A. in Madoc St. John's Anglican Church.

Mrs. Eagle, leadership organizer of the Provincial Council, accompanied by a group of members from the Belleville Youth Group attended. Mrs. Eagle gave a brief review of the history of the A.Y.P.A. and explained the object of the association.

The meeting proceeded with the election of officers which are as follows:-

President—Mrs. O. Wurm; vice-president, Mrs. Dr. Bruyns; secretary, Miss L. Lessard and treasurer Miss L. Phillips.

Rev. Mr. Good, the rector, stressed the importance of each individual member as well as the executive. Each has a responsibility and there must be full co-operation on the part of all members if the association is to be a success.

After the meeting closed a social hour with dainty refreshments followed.

MARMORA

Centre Hastings WFTA Elects 1951 Officers

Marmora — On Saturday last, the fall meeting of the Centre Hastings Women Teachers' Federation was held at the home of Mrs. E. A. Manchester, at Queensboro. Representatives were present from the Tweed, Madoc, Marmora and Stirling units.

The following is the slate of officers for 1950-1951.

Past President, Miss Loreen Connor; President, Mrs. E. A. Manchester; Secretary Treasurer, Miss Hilda Henderson.

The presiding officers of the local units are: Tweed, Miss Jean Love; Marmora, Mrs. Muriel Began; Madoc, Miss Thelma Mullett and Stirling, Mrs. Margaret Thompson.

The delegates to the F.W.T.A.O. held in Toronto, presented their reports. Topics introduced by the president were discussed and four delegates were appointed to attend the fall conference of Region IV to be held in Belleville on October 21.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. C. Deans of Marmora and Miss Richards of Queensboro.

ROSLIN

Women's Institute Holds Social Evening

Roslin.—On Wednesday evening the Roslin Women's Institute held a social evening and nylon plastic demonstration in the hall.

Mrs. Empson, vice president, presided, and introduced the guest demonstrator, Mrs. Ann Haggerty, of Belleville, who had kindly consented to carry on with the demonstration for Mrs. H. Elvidge.

The program given during the evening included, piano numbers by Miss Rita Slingerland; solo by Mrs. Earl Gray, "Daddy's Little Girl"; recitation by Mrs. Stanley Webb, "Reducing".

Guests present included several members from Chapman, Bethel W.I., and the local community.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Approach the "Other Woman"?—No!

"Sometim[illegible]go I became ill and wa[illegible]spital for a long time. [illegible]t home, I heard that m[illegible]band had been going out with another woman. I could not believe it at first, because he has always been wonderful to me, but as time went on, I found out it was true.

"I went to see the woman and pleaded with her not to see my husband any more. But it didn't do any good."

"My husband has been having an affair with a young married woman for some months. The more I think about it, the more I think her husband should know what kind of woman he's living with. I know where they live. Do you think I should go and tell him?"

"Recently, and quite by accident, I discovered that my husband was having an affair with an unmarried woman much younger than himself. I have tried ignoring the situation. I have tried discussing it with him. I have even tried inviting her to my home and being friendly with her, but with no success whatever."

These extracts from three different letters that have come to my desk specify as many different ways of tackling the problem of "the other woman". And they are all misguided and futile.

In the first anguish and terror that overwhelms any wife who suddenly learns that her husband has been unfaithful to her, her initial impulse is almost invariably the same. She will, she thinks, go straight to the woman in the case and ask her—and the "asking" usually means crying, pleading or threatening—to let her husband alone.

It is, of course, the most natural and logical impulse in the world; almost a primitive one. Someone else has taken something that belongs to her. She will go and get it back again. It's as simple as that, though perhaps not quite so simple phrased in her own mind.

How such a wife is really looking at it when she imagines herself going to confront the other woman, is that the latter just doesn't realize the tragedy she has created. She hasn't thought about the misery she has brought upon a devoted wife and upon trusting and innocent children. Once this were pointed out to her, the wife believes, she could certainly have the decency to relinquish her hold on the husband she has managed to bewitch.

Reasoning of this kind, however, as many a wife has learned to her sorrow, doesn't go far enough. It doesn't take into consideration the fact that the type of person capable of stealing another woman's husband in the first place, isn't likely to be touched by her victim's tears. So any such plea is doomed to failure in advance of even being made.

Or suppose it's the other woman's husband to whom the wronged wife thinks of going.

The idea here is that he'd be able to put an immediate stop to such goings-on. Either he'd bring such indignant pressure to bear on his wife that she'd be so outraged that he couldn't stomach it at all and would toss her out of the picture for keeps, unwilling to have her in his home another day.

The second of these two possibilities is no doubt what actually sends an injured wife to an injured husband, whether she realizes it or not. What she's after, even more than getting back her man, is to have the interloper paid back in kind. The hussy broke up a home, the reasoning unconsciously runs. All right; she deserves to have her own home broken up. The dictionary has a word for this kind of thing. The word is revenge.

Then, besides trying to deal directly with the husband-stealer herself, or exposing the affair to the husband, there's the third way some wives try to eliminate the hazard of the other woman. This is to use what they fancy is the diplomatic approach and try to soften her up by seeking to make a friend of her. Back of this approach, of course, lies the hope that the intruder will be so abashed by receiving generous and kindly treatment from the woman she has hurt that she will put a hasty end to her monkeyshines.

To the wife who is tempted to decide on any of these three procedures in the effort to get her husband out of the clutches of a competitor for his affections, I have only this to say: Don't do it!

Don't throw away your self-respect by seeking out the other woman to either plead with her or berate her. Don't descend to the level of a vengeful talebearer by stealing to the other woman's husband to inform on his wife and your husband. Don't pretend a friendly feeling for the other women that it wouldn't be humanly possible for you to have toward her in the hope that she'll take your pretense for real and be ashamed of herself.

Don't do any of these things for all the reasons I have given, but most of all for the reason that none of them will work. All any one of them can achieve is to further aggravate an already inflamed situation.

For the sorry truth is that the wife who tries to drag a husband out of an extra-marital entanglement by this kind of main force usually succeeds only in turning him against her; in antagonizing the other woman, and, if she is foolhardy enough to pull the woman's own husband into it, in stirring up such a welter of bitter feeling all around that she ends by making things far worse instead of better.

Sheer Silk Nightgown

By PRUNELLA WOOD

Two extra-special fashion points in this handsome and unusual nightgown: Although made of sheer, the sheer is pure silk, for a change; and the full skirt is a surprise because its several width are free floating panels from below the smooth hips.

Colors are lovely, and they include black and white. The lace is matching Chantilly, which has been embroidered over with metallic floss thread.

Lovely Peruvian Matador Says Bull Ring No Job for Wife

Biarritz, France — (AP) — Conchita Cintron, the beautiful girl bullfighter from Peru who is retiring this year to get married, wants to have lots of children, but she'll never allow any of them to become bullfighters.

"It's much too dangerous," she said at her hotel here, just after she had fought and killed two bulls at Bayonne, not far from the Spanish border.

Still dressed in Spanish cowboy costume, the classic garb for female bullfighters, 28-year-old Conchita confessed her own parents had spoiled her.

"My mother wanted me to do anything that made me happy." Conchita explained. "But my father — he's an American and a graduate of West Point — resisted to the last. He said it was too dangerous. Finally, when he saw I was set on it, he gave in.

"But when we are married, my husband and I will never spoil our children to that extent," she said emphatically.

Conchita is lovely to look at. She has a pale face, large blue eyes and jet black shoulder-length hair tied into a flat velvet bow on the nape of her neck.

Her fiance is the 33-year-old son of her Portuguese trainer, who was once the greatest bullfighter in Portugal.

"What made me start fighting bulls? That's like asking a composer why he starts composing or an artist why he paints.

"Afraid? Yes, I'm always scared to death when I enter the ring but once the fight starts it's a case of life or death. The bull is trying to kill me, so I kill the bull," she said, dipping into a box of chocolates.

"I've been badly gored twice. Last time was last year in Mexico when I had a long deep slash right down here," she said, pointing to her thigh.

"But when you're in the bull ring, the excitement is so great, you don't feel the pain. It's the same with the bulls."

"Cruel? I love bulls and I don't think it's cruel. At least the bulls in the ring can fight for their lives. That's more than they can do in the slaughterhouse.

"What about the horses? Only very old ones are sent into the ring and it is better they should die. They feel very little because they are heavily padded and injected with morphine.

"But don't be confused between these Spanish picador horses and those which are trained to dodge the bull in the Portuguese style of bullfighting which I practise," she emphasized.

Conchita said her own horse, a magnificent white beast which flies all around the world with her, had taken six years to train.

When she stops talking about bulls Conchita is very feminine.

"I love clothes and my biggest thrill in going to Paris is that I can shop to my heart's content."

She reads a lot, loves to dance and listen to music. She is a devout Catholic.

A Hollywood film about bullfighting, starring Esther Williams, made her laugh all the way through — "It was ridiculous from start to finish."

"When I get through with bullfighting," she said, "I'm going to write a book which will be an account of my ring experience."

REFUSE ADMISSION

London, Oct. 20—(Reuters)—Immigration officers have been told to refuse admission to foreigners coming to Britain merely to get free treatment from the national health service. The new policy was announced yesterday by health minister Aneurin Bevan who has often faced criticism that the taxpayer foots the bill if people visit Britain to get operations "on the cheap."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Minister always asked to say grace

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
My husband's cousin, a young minister, is to be our guest at dinner soon, when he is to be in our city. My husband always says grace. But on this occasion should my husband or his cousin say grace?

Ethel M.

It is the proper and taken-for-granted gesture that, when a minister is your guest at a meal, he is asked to say grace.

At today's afternoon wedding receptions, simple foods usually served

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
Is it absolutely necessary to serve elaborate food and drinks at an afternoon (5 o'clock) wedding reception? Even if the reception is a large, formal reception following a large, formal church wedding? My daughter, who is making her wedding plans, and I are having serious arguments about this . . . I won't tell you who thinks what, so I won't influence your advice about this. (There will be about 300 or 350 guests.)

Mother

At today's afternoon wedding receptions the food usually served is extremely simple. . . and this is true whether the reception is formal or informal, and whether there are several hundreds of guests or only a few guests. The two essentials are: (1) the wedding cake and (2) champagne or other beverage for the toasts.

Very often this is the menu: Sandwiches (very small, very simple); little cakes and/or interesting cookies; tea or coffee (usually coffee); champagne or punch; and, of course, the wedding cake. Ice cream or water ice is sometimes served also. Of course this menu may be elaborated, but this is not necessary.

"Lunch and dinner" or "dinner and supper"?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
To settle a discussion we had last evening, will you please answer this question: Are the meals of the day named correctly as "breakfast, lunch, and dinner," or "breakfast, dinner, and supper"? We have heard so many use one form, and so many use the other form.

Robert N.

Both are correct, and equally correct. The most substantial meal of the day is referred to as "dinner" whether it is eaten in the middle of the day or in the evening. If the other meal, the less "substantial" one, is eaten in the daytime, it is called "lunch", or "supper" if eaten in the evening.

Seating arrangements at dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
When we invite one other couple to dine with us at our house how should they be seated?

N. H.

You, the hostess, sit at the head of the table. . . your husband, the host, opposite you. . the wife, the woman guest, sits at your husbands right. . .and the husband, the man guest, sits at your right.

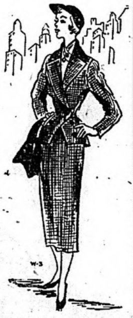
Which side of chair?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
From which side of the chair do you seat yourself at the dining-table?

Elsie Y.

It makes no difference. . . . either side, whichever is more convenient.

Town Suit



Distinguished checked outfit.

By VERA WINSTON

FINE wool worsted in a muted brown and gray check has been deftly worked into a distinguished town suit. A black velvet collar tops the long revers that terminate in a double-breasted closing at the nipped-in waist. There are bone buttons on either side of the cutaway peplum which is slightly padded for a rounded hipline. The skirt is straight and narrow.

Warding Off Signs of Age

For that satin-smooth look so important in later years, apply a foundation before patting on powder. Use a cotton ball for easy applicaton.

By HELEN FOLLETT

IT is expected that in middle age, the birthdays may be registered in a woman's face in the form of wrinkles. Yet many women of sixty are not so afflicted. They have taken care of their health, have treated their complexions tenderly and wisely. But it sometimes happens that a woman of thirty will have little sun rays around her eyes.

These fore-runners of beauty griefs bode no good, are no help to the spirit. Like prematurely grey hair, they are depressing.

If the eyelids have a slightly shriveled look, that is your time to call yourself to an accounting. Caught young the tiny lines can be erased.

Face Washing

Every face washing can be a form of treatment. Before soap is used, lave your eyes with warm water. Dip the wash cloth in warm water, hold it close to the flesh. After soap is used, apply ice-cold compresses. The purpose is to bring a reaction of the blood streams that take nourishment to depleted tissues. An occasional ice friction is a help.

Massage Cream

Get out your par of massage cream. Spread it over a clean skin surface that should be as dry as a bone. Sweep your creamed fingers along the jaw line, back and forth across the forehead.

Do circles around your eyes, starting at the inner corner of the upper lid. Be gentle. Heavy treatment isn't to be thought of in that area.

Finish with a brisk slapping and patting from collar bones to forward hairline. The impulse is to send the fingers in wide circles over the cheeks, but that is not a good idea as it is likely to press the flesh up into folds under the eyes, making the crinkles take a firmer hold.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

To marinate means to soak food in a pickling or flavoring mixture.

The liquid in which the food is soaked is called a marinade. It may be anything from salt water to white wine. Meat like corned beef, for instance, is soaked in a salty marinating solution to preserve it, and then, before cooking, is re-soaked in plain water to remove the excess salt absorbed in the marinade.

Large pieces of fresh beef are marinated to make the meat tender and to give it a snappy sour flavor, as in sauerbraten.

The same process can be used to give piquante flavor to small pieces of meat as in marinated lamb steaks. Lamb steaks are crosswise slices about 1-2 inch thick cut from the centre of a leg of lamb. Use the shank end of the leg for roasting and the thick end of the leg for stewing.

Lamb must be young to be free of a strong "wooly" taste. The meat should be light pink in color and the fat firm and white.

Serve with the lamb steaks a light rice pilaf with mushrooms.

Marinated Lamb Steaks. Serves 4.

Order 4 lamb steaks cut from centre of a leg of lamb.

Prepare a marinating mixture as follows: in a mixing bowl put 1 smashed clove of garlic, 1 sliced medium size onion, 1 tablespoon pickling spice, 4 sprigs of parsley, 1-2 cup of dry red wine, 1-2 cup vinegar and 1 cup water.

Put the lamb steaks in the marinating mixture for 3 to 4 hours. Remove meat from liquid. Wipe dry. Brush with oil, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put meat under a moderate broiler flame. Broil 4 to 5 minutes on each side.

Drain the contents of a 3-ounce can of mushrooms, stems and pieces. Measure liquid and add enough water to make 2 cups. Put the liquid in the top part of a double boiler. Add 1 cup of rice washed in 4 cold waters. Add 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon salad oil and 1-2 teaspoon vinegar. Cook covered over simmering water 35 to 40 minutes or until rice is tender. Do not stir during cooking. Add mushrooms.

Fashion Flashes

NEVER SUCH A SEASON for fabric coats as this one! A beauty is of dark gray flannel, full length, with a tiny petal collar and a deep, half cape, loose in front, and a yoke in back. The coat is double-breasted, and is edged with black silk braid at collar, cape and front.

ANOTHER COME-BACK must be recorded. Along with fox, civet cat, that beautifully marked fur, is returning. Used principally as a lining for luxury coats, it is being talked of for jackets come spring. It lines and forms the soft collar and curved, notched revers of a handsome full-length coat of yarn-dyed taupe woollen.

ALL CLUES point to jersey as the big fabric this winter, not only for general-wear clothes, but for smart models as well. New weights and textures have helped this fabric into first place. A charming afternoon dress is in sable brown lightweight worsted jersey with black jet buttons at the shoulder and continuing down the bodice at either side. Black passementarie braid outlines each button. Skirt is fairly full.

WATCH for beige and beige tones. This color is slowly emerging as a "stepper" for smart winter wear and should be more popular later on. A handsome coat is of soft beige woollen, a fitted design, with a deep cape and collar of black Persian lamb which dips around the shoulders and makes a V in back. Double-breasted; slit seam pockets.

SURE FIRE in its appeal is the good faille dress or ensemble. Black faille for a baretop dress and separate jacket. The dress top is scallop-edged, with tiny rhinestone garlands outlining the embroidered edge. Skirt is moderately gathered. The fitted jacket closes snugly with tiny rhinestone buttons and has a little scalloped-edged collar and turn-back cuffs.

SUGAR BEET RECORD

Alberta's sugar beet industry this year rose to 400,000 tons for a record yield.

BEAUTY

Noses that blush like the rose.

Some good-looks griefs are imaginary. A girl just thinks she has them. A red nose does not belong on that list of pulchritude woes. Blushing is not its business, and a girl can get pretty mad about it. When it throws a vermillion rage it becomes odious and detestable. There are complexion blemishes that one can bear with a certain degree of fortitude; the flaming beak is not one of them.

There are various reasons for the redness. One has to do with the circulation of the blood. Girls with clammy hands and cold feet may be among the complainers. In some cases of anemia the facial surface is pale, but the nose takes on a rosy coloring. It doesn't seem to make sense, but there you are!

The big question is: "What can one do about it?" If it is persistent, it is well worth while to scuttle to the doctor's office. An infection or skin trouble may be brewing. The nose is a conspicuous feature, though it holds an insignificant place compared to the mouth and the eyes. Its appearance should be healthy, to say the least.

Redness can be caused by dietetic errors. It is recommended that highly spiced, highly seasoned foods should be avoided, and that the daily allowance of protein be cut down. The diet should be a balanced one—with the proper proportions of carbohydrates, proteins and fats—so that one will get the necessary vitamins and mineral salts. Rich pastries are taboo; fruit should be substituted for them. It is advisable to drink plenty of water.

There should be a balanced diet.

In the matter of local treatment, it is necessary to avoid very hot or very cold water when washing the face, as both hot and cold water have a stimulating effect upon the tiny capillaries that are close to the surface of the skin. Stimulation creates redness. Use water just warm enough to form a suds when soap is used. Rinse, dry and apply ointment of zinc oxide. Do not friction it in; the less friction the better, even when applying cream during the bedtime beautifying session.

When plying the powder pad, be gentle. The vigorous manner in which some girls grind in powder makes even a respectable nose resentful. The pad must be scrupulously clean; in fact, if the nose shows any sign of irritation, boric talcum should be applied instead. Absorbent cotton should be used in place of the pad.

Cook Vegetables With Beef Roast

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 20 —(CP)— Next time there's a roast for Sunday dinner mother might try cooking the vegetables with the meat. Not only is this a tasty oven dish, it also is a labor-saving device which permits the lady of the house to spend more time in the living room with the family than at her usual Sunday post — the kitchen.

Sliced onion cooked with a roast of beef adds to the flavor of this popular food. Carrots and potatoes are the vegetables suggested for oven cooking with beef. They should be put in the same pan with the roast about an hour before dinner is due to be served.

Gingerbread and whipped cream might complete this "oven" meal.

Hot Water Gingerbread — Ingredients: 2¼ cups flour; one-half cup sugar; 1½ teaspoons ginger; one- half teaspoon cinnamon; three-quarters teaspoon soda; one teaspoon salt; two-thirds cup molasses; one egg; four tablespoons softened fat; one-half cup seedless raisins (may be omitted).

Mix and sift dry ingredients, add raisins which have been washed and floured. Make a hole in the middle of mixture, pour in molasses, melted dripping, beaten egg and boiling water. Mix quickly. Pour into buttered pan and bake in a moderately slow oven about 50 minutes.

* * *

If a baked pie crust is on hand, Sunday work could be cut down even more by whipping up a lemon chiffon pie.

Ingredients: one-half cup sugar; three egg yolks; one lemon (grated rind and juice); four tablespoons boiling water.

Sprinkle sugar over beaten yolks, and then beat all of the above ingredients together. Cook in double boiler until thick. Cool. Beat whites of three eggs, add one-half cup sugar and gently fold into the lemon custard mixture. Pour into baked crust and brown quickly in a hot oven.

* * *

Health experts regard cheese as a good source of calcium protein, vitamin A and riboflavin. It should be included in the diet at least three times a week by itself or in a combination with other foods.

Incidentally when planning the day's meals be sure to include foods from every group in Canada's food rules. These groups include milk, fruits, vegetables, cereals, bread and meat. A balanced diet which is necessary for good health requires some of each of these foods every day.

IT'S TIME TO CLEAN WINTER CLOTHES

MacKenzie's Column:

Britain Losing Key Figure In Sir Stafford

By DEWIT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press News Analyst)

Britain is losing a key figure of government in the retirement (described as temporary) of Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, because of ill health.

It is this world personality who, largely by his own genius, pulled his country out of the economic slough of despond in one of the empire's darkest moments. He inaugurated an economic regimentation so fierce that the hard-pressed public labelled him "Austerity Cripps".

However, the historic fact is that while the people grumbled, they tightened their belts and took the punishment.

Thus it has come about that between Cripps' stubborn skill and the public's dogged support, the grave emergency has been overcome. So we find the Chancellor able to bequeath a tough but encouraging situation to his comparatively young successor — 44-year-old Economic Minister Hugh Gaitskell — who is expected to follow in the footsteps of the old master.

Cripps is a complex character—an aristocrat, reputedly of much wealth, who long ago cast his lot with the Labor party. The talents which once made him the highest paid corporation lawyer in Britain have been devoted to public work.

Praised By Churchill

In 1947 when Cripps assumed the position of Chancellor of the Exchequer, former Prime Minister Winston Churchill characterized him as "the greatest brain in the (Labor) administration." During the war Churchill, then prime minister, made Cripps a member of the cabinet as minister of aircraft production. At that time I had a long talk with Cripps in London, and find that I recorded these observations, among others:

"Next to Prime Minister Churchill he is probably the most talked of man in Britain. Many people believe that he may one day be prime minister.

"He is an enigma even to his friends. He represents a Labor constituency in parliament, but he's not a Laborite in the generally accepted sense of the term because the Labor Party read him out of its ranks long ago on the grounds that he was to extreme for it (since then he has been reinstated)."

Sir Stafford is leaving both the cabinet and parliament so to get a complete rest. His retirement will be a heavy blow to the Labor government, particularly if, as has been feared, the cabinet also loses Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin because of ill health.

Increased Costs May be Passed On to Readers

Toronto, Oct. 21—(CP)—Roy H. Thomson, president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, said Friday that rising newspaper costs "cannot result otherwise than in increased costs being passed on to newspaper reader and advertiser."

Commenting on price increases recently announced by two newsprint mills, Mr. Thomson said that in his opinion a general price increase in newsprint could not be absorbed by the publishers.

Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., advised its customers Oct. 17 that it will increase its newsprint from $100 to $110 a ton delivered in New York and from $96 to $106 in the base Canadian price. A similar increase was announced Oct. 13 by Powell River Paper Company.

"In addition to considerable increases in labor costs, zinc, mats, ink and other essentials," said Mr. Thomson, "newsprint costs alone were up 23 per cent since 1946.

"While Canadian daily newspapers are today selling advertising at a milline (rate per line per million circulation) rate of $2.82 against a 1939 milline rate of $2.88 because of increased circulation in that period it would yet seem probable that there may be fairly general increases in present advertising and circulation rates.

"The Canadian daily newspaper's present rate is abnormally low by the standard of advertising rates in the English-speaking world, as recently measured by the British export trade research organization.

"At the current subscription rates prevailing in Canada, a great number of newspapers are providing the reader with a newspaper at a charge to the reader that does not even begin to equal the cost of the newsprint involved in the production of the newspaper."

Circulation of the 87 Canadian Daily Newspaper Association member newspapers is 3,440,000, Mr. Thomson mentioned, and it is almost impossible to keep abreast of current need for newsprint.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

SEED EATERS

We would indeed be badly off if there were no seed eaters in Canada. Not only do they comprise one of the largest classes of birds, but many of them are late in getting away in the autumn, and some are able to remain all winter in our cold climate. It is actually because of their food preference that our type of weather holds no fears for them. Long after flycatchers, and even after fish eaters have been obliged to move to a land where their appetites can be satisfied, those birds which subsist on seeds are enjoying as good meals as they were getting in mid-summer.

Nature has given seed eaters bills that are conical and stout, especially adapted for cracking seeds. Crossbills are the exceptions, being provided with a tool that removes seeds from the cones of evergreens in a twinkling. They, along with pine siskins (birds with much the same food tastes), come down for the winter from the northern part of the country to our settlements. Snow buntings and redpolls, being able to feed on weed tops that protrude above the snow, are able to stop off with us instead of going farther south. Evening grosbeaks, with exaggerated seed eater bills, have no set habits of migration, but wander to various places — particularly to where Manitoba maple seeds may be had.

Most sparrows, including the vesper, Savannah, white-crowned, white-throated, song, and tree sparrows, eat large quantities of weed seeds, several being exceptionally fond of ragweed. Though they keep largely in the underbrush, out of sight, and are quiet at this season, most of them are here, picking up a living, until late autumn or even actual winter weather. It is not unusual to come upon tree sparrows, song sparrows, juncos, and goldfinches in December, and some individuals never cross our southern border.

Certain species, as chipping sparrows, wisely eat insects when they are plentiful and seeds later on. Cardinals have such varied tastes that of recent years they have stretched their northern boundary line, and now some live all year round in Southern Ontario, eating seeds when cicadas, potato bugs, cutworms, and other summer insects are not available.

Migrating seed eaters, though favored in some respects, are at a disadvantage when journeying. They are obliged to feed in daylight, necessitating a short rest in the hours of light, and darkness for flight. Welcome these flocks, should they pass your way, because they will destroy numberless weeds in a few minutes.

DEVELOPING POWER

Capetown (CP)—South Africa will spend more than £25,000,000 in Britain for electrical equipment during the next five years. The expenditure is just under half of the estimate for power development, the remainder being for civil engineering and other costs in South Africa.

Storm Fizzles Out in Florida

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 21—(AP)—A nuisance hurricane which failed to live up to advance billing fizzled out in a Florida wilderness today.

The rich Tampa Bay resort area, once threatened with a possible knockout punch, escaped entirely when it lost steam and veered north.

The Florida highway patrol said the storm hit inland just north of Cedar Key, the fishing village devastated by the Labor Day hurricane.

Winds were well below the 75-mile-an-hour minimum for a hurricane. Apparently the once-threatening blow was breaking up harmlessly in that sparsely inhabited section of the swamps and woodland some 100 miles north of Tampa.

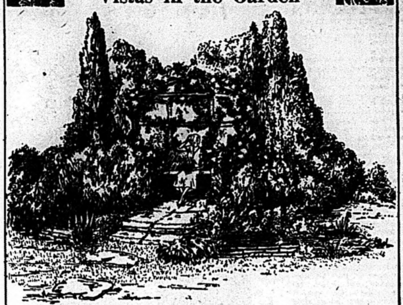
NEED CLASSROOMS

Halifax—(CP)—The war boom in population of this seaport is still showing its effect in the schools. Dr. F. G. Morehouse, school supervisor, reports more than 800 children are attending part-time classes because of a shortage of classroom accommodation.

PROBE DISPUTE

Capetown—(CP)— The South African government has appointed a commission to investigate trouble among natives in the Witzieshoek reserve in the Orange Free State. The trouble arose over efforts by the authorities to control soil erosion and reduce livestock.

Vistas in the Garden



This sketch illustrates an inexpensive and attractive way to terminate a garden axis. Rustic cedar saplings are used to construct a garden arbor and seat. This is slightly elevated with stone flagging in irregular patterns leading from the lawn. To be appreciated such a feature must be framed. This is the secret of good shrubbery and tree planting.

Indicated is a group of tall cedars or upright yews with spreading yews at the base. The arbor is covered with pink climbing roses and flanked with tall clumps of delphinium, and pink hollyhocks. Some attractive alpines tucked in the rock crevices complete the picture.

MORE ALUMINUM

Cardiff, Wales—(CP)— One of the biggest industrial projects completed since the war, a $4,500,000 aluminum mill with annual capacity of 60,000 tons has been built in South Wales. It will increase Britain's aluminum production by one-third.

Watford, Hertfordshire, England—(CP)—Lord Knutsford reports that the top of every fir tree on his estate has been cut off by intruders stocking up on Christmas trees.

Cranwell, Lincolnshire, England—Police Sgt. C. Lingard, 38, is emigrating to Australia to become a gold miner because, he says, "magistrate and jurors are so lenient with offenders here they make our work futile."

Richmond, Surrey, England—(CP) — People do so many odd jobs on Sundays, says a local minister, that they can't be bothered to change and go to church. They've been invited to attend dressed as they like—"I don't care if mother comes in her apron."

Wells-on-Sea, Norfolk, England—(CP)—Councillor H. N. Aldridge wants a "distressing practice" stopped. The practice is publishing rent arrears of town tenants along with minutes of council meetings. Other councillors say it gets the rent paid.

Canterbury, England—(CP) — Very Rev. E. N. Porter Goff, provost of Portsmouth, told a church meeting here that his memory of a marriage in a registry office was the parting words of the registrar to the bride: "Will you see that your name is altered on your ration book and registration card."

London—(CP) — A technical hitch halted the electric rabbit at Wimbledon Greyhound Stadium and made the greyhound's dream come true. The odds-on favorite dog Magna Hasty seized the rabbit and ran round the track with other dogs and track officials in hot pursuit.

Bromley, Kent, England—(CP)—The local harvest festival service was held in a public house with the choir singing behind the bar. Customers piled gifts on the counter and joined in the hymns and Rev. John Jackson said "it was splendid."

Lancaster, England—(CP)—Six of a group of young men trying out for jobs as soccer referees were found to be color-blind, unable to distinguish between team colors.

King's Lynn, Norfolk, England—(CP)—Two library books taken out 27 years ago have just been returned. The fines would have amounted to $38 but the chief librarian waived them.

Mousehole, Cornwall, England—(CP)—Fisherman Dick Sampson stunned a 16-pound devilfish with a rock. "They're ugly to look at but they're good to eat," he said.

PICTON

Picton — Mr. and Mrs. Colin Carter and Elizabeth and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Calnan and Patricia are on a holiday through the eastern States, including a visit to Boston.

Miss Dorothy Keep has returned from a buying trip in Toronto in the interests of the G. E. Fraser and Song store.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jones attended the chicken dinner at Adolphustown on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Anglican Church there.

Chancel Guild Afternoon Tea

Many ladies attended the final tea of the season arranged at the home of Mrs. J Herbert Hodgins, by the Chancel Guild of St. Mary Magdalene's Church on Wednesday afternoon.

Guests were received by Mrs. Hodgins, assisted by Mrs. Hope Swayne who visited with the guests in the living room. Tea was served from the table in the dining room which was covered with a lace cloth and centred with a large bouquet of autumn flowers in tones of pink.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Arthur McDonald; Mrs. Howard Walmsley, Mrs. H. LeHeup and Mrs. J. C. Cooper.

The very artistic home of Mrs. Hodgins made a charming background for this social gathering, which was very much enjoyed by those present.

ROSLIN

Roslin—Rev. L. Arthur Page, and Mrs. Page arrived last week from Prince Albert, Sask., and have taken up residence at the rectory.

A special service for children's day was held in St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon. Members of the Sunday School sang several numbers. The new rector, Rev. Mr. Page, delivered an inspiring sermon.

On Friday the two local schools were closed for the teachers convention. This year the teachers in South Hastings went by bus to Kingston, where their convention was held.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

LIKE[illegible] YOUNGSTERS

[illegible]air, American - born coach of the Toron[illegible]gonauts thinks Canadians need not take a back seat to any nation in sports.

Interviewed by Lloyd Percival, Sports College director, Clair in a radio appearance, summed up the fundamentals of football for the benefit of young players and their coaches. He stressed condition and desire as the two most important factors in football. He was impressed, he said, with the Canadian boys he has seen. "I like their attitude, competitive spirit, and ability to absorb rugged contact, such as you get in hockey."

The former American pro star warned high school coaches that they often hurt their team's chances by teaching too many plays, while failing to concentrate on the fundamentals of blocking and tackling. "I played on an undefeated team in high school," Clair said, "and we only had twelve plays."

He urged coaches to adapt their system to the player, not the player to the system.

"I can always tell when a player on my team has been well-coached in high school, because of his attentive attitude and the habits he has brought with him."

He said the real secrets of coaching success are a sound knowledge of the game's fundamentals, plus proper presentation and organization of practices.

SOCCER

This afternoon Toronto Nationals Soccer Club travel here to take on the Belleville United squad at the Fairgrounds with the kickoff being scheduled for 3 p. m. This will take the form of an exhibition encounter. The Belleville United team will be selected from the following: — Boyd Findlay, Frank Dale, Tom Barclay, Jim Cathcart, Sid Scott, Jim Cox, Eric Carter, Bill Salter, Jim Williamson, Bob Alexander, Alec Gemmell, Les Digby, Fred Jones. Thanks to good management on the part of the club executive, the Belleville United club finished the season with a financial deficit of only one dollar. The club wishes to thank those merchants and friends who so generously donated to the club funds at the beginning of the season.

WHAT, NO POPCORN?

"Come down to this man's village come Wednesday next" writes Harry (Yip, sometimes Yippee) Radley, master schedule drawer-upper, and general pencil factotum of the Central Ontario Baseball League," and we'll show you a smart movie, and what's more we'll have someone to hold hands with you (so you won't get in our pockets)"

According to Yip, the COBL is going "knife and fork" (buffet) at a swan-song party in the La Salle Hotel (Salon "A") Kingston, next Wednesday evening at eight where the master-minds et al will draw the curtain on the loop's 1950 activities.

Prexy Bob Nesbitt has arranged to have a movie, either a football or baseball film for the troops and possibly other entertainment. He should, perhaps toss in a half dozen boxing gloves, should by any chance, the Smith's Falls and Picton sports scribes are present. As a matter of fact, the hon. Robert could make a special three-man attraction of the affair if he allowed Napanee's "Red" Miller in the ring with the feudin' twosome from the faraway places.

COBOURG WINS LOOP

Peterborough, Oct. 21 (CP) — Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts defeated Peterborough Orfuns 10-6 here Friday night to wind up their ORFU schedule. The top-place Ghosts go into Provincial Intermediate 'A' playdowns now, while the runner up Peterborough pack takes the 'B' playdown trail.

Cobourg got all 10 points in the second quarter, Darragh going over for a touchdown, which Jones converted; Cooper hoofing a single to deadline and Jones later kicking a field goal. The homesters counted six points in the fourth when Don McGillis took a long forward from Bill Huntley for a touchdown, with Huntley then kicking the convert.

Barrie Flyers Score Fourth Straight Win

(By The Canadian Press)

Perhaps it's too early to judge, but veteran Ab Conick seems set for another fine season in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

The Hamilton Tigers sharpshooter turned in two overtime goals last night — the winning margin—as Tigers downed Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 3—1 in Hamilton.

It was the first game of the senior 'A' season. The juniors started their schedule a week ago.

Frank Liscombe opened the scoring for Hamilton in the first period. The second was scoreless and Art Hurst netted the tying goal in the third frame to send the contest into extra time.

All 10 junior 'A' teams saw action, with Barrie Flyers winning their fourth straight to take a three-point lead in the standings. The winless Waterloo Hurricanes lost another to stick in the cellar. Stratford Kroehlers won to take over second slot, with five teams in a third-place tie.

Flyers blasted St. Michael's Majors, 10-4, after spotting Saints a 2-0 lead in the 90 seconds of play. Jerry Toppazzini led Barrie with two goals and two assists. Leo Labine also got two, singles going to Jack McKnight, Real Chevrefils, Lionel Barber, Reg Campbell, Don Emms and Fred Pletsch. Fred Sandford, Bill Dineen, Jack Weldrake and Harold McNamara tallied for St. Mikes.

Another 2-0 deficit was overcome in Stratford, as Kroehlers whipped Waterloo Hurricanes 6-4. Larry Lemenchick with two, Roy Leckie, Ray Ross, Bob Bailey and Gord Myles were Stratford scorers. Charlie McDonald, Alf Treen, Don Savage and Jerry Horton tallied for the losers.

Generals Win Another

Alec Delvecchio and Rene Leroux paced Oshawa Generals to a 5-4 win over Guelph Biltmores with two goals apiece. It was Bilts' first loss of the season. Bobby Atersley got one for Oshawa. Chuck Henderson scored twice for Guelph, others going to Andy Bathgate and Herb Dickenson.

Windsor Spitfires grabbed a 3-1 first period lead over Toronto Marlboros but wilted later, losing 7-4. Bill McFarland, Ron Hurst, Bob Cooper, Dan Poland, Parker McDonald, Ron Stewart and Bibber O'Hearn were Duke scorers. Larry Thibeault with two, Jim Anderson and Eddie Joss scored for Bilts.

Goalie Clark Sommerville starred for Galt Black Hawks as they downed St. Catharines Teepees 3-1. Bob Carruthers, Tony Poeta and Don Hogan tallied for Hawks, Skip Teal for the losers.

Today sees Hamilton at Kitchener in the senior loop. In the junior loop, Stratford visits Galt.

Next Week's Games

Tuesday: Senior, St. Michael's at Hamilton; junior, Waterloo at St. Catharines, Oshawa at Galt, Windsor at Guelph.

Wednesday Senior, Marlboros at Kitchener; junior, Barrie at Stratford.

Friday: Senior, Hamilton at Marlboros; junior, Marlboros at Barrie, St. Catharines at Windsor.

Saturday: Senior, Kitchener at St. Michael's; junior, Stratford at Waterloo, Guelph at Oshawa, St. Michael's at Galt.

Argos Title Hopes Rest on Young Bob Westlake

(By The Canadian Press)

A large part of the title hopes of Toronto Argonauts rest today on the inexperienced shoulders of young Bob Westlake.

Westlake will take over the plunging half spot from which the brilliant Billy Bass led the Scullers to a series of lopsided early season victories in the interprovincial Rugby Football Union. Bass now is sidelined with cracked vertebrae.

His injury, plus the loss of big outside wing Bob Heck to the U.S. draft, has left the one-time favorite Argos up against it. Today's game with Ottawa Rough Riders in the capital is the key game in their title drive.

Meanwhile, Hamilton Tiger-Cats, tied with Toronto for the Big Four lead, square of against the surging Montreal Alouettes in Montreal tomorrow. A Hamilton win and Argo loss can put Cats alone in first place, while if both Toronto and Hamilton lose all four teams will be tied for first. All teams have three games left.

In the West, it's more than a formality. The four teams wind up their 14-game schedule today with nothing more at stake than second and third place, both playoff posts.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, first-place already salted away, play Saskatchewan Roughriders in Winnipeg. Edmonton Eskimos face the cellar-dwelling Calgary Stampeders in Calgary.

Edmonton now are in second place, but if they lose while Roughies are downing Winnipeg they will be tied with Saskatchewan. All that is at stake is the home field for a sudden-death game to decide who will meet Winnipeg in the western final.

The East's Intercollegiate League reaches the half-way mark today. McGill, undefeated in two starts, meets Queen's, who have a one-and-one record, at Montreal. Meantime the winless University of Western Ontario plays Varsity at Toronto.

Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Balmy Beach meet in Toronto Sunday, with proceeds going to the widowed mother of the late Jack Bell, Sarnia quarterback who died as a result of injuries suffered in last Saturday's game between the two teams. Both teams are sure of the two Ontario Rugby Football Union playoff berths.

Leafs Request Permission To Use Bobby Copp

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs of the N.H.L. pulled a surprise last night in an attempt to bolster an injury-ridden defence.

The Leafs announced that they have requested permission from N.H.L. president Clarence Campbell to use defenceman Bobby Copp of the Ottawa Senators on a three-game lend-lease basis

The 32-year-old former Leaf would replace Bill Barilko, injured Wednesday at Boston. Copp, a big, steady rearguard, has been practising dentistry in Ottawa while playing for the Senators of the Quebec Senior League since voluntarily retiring from the Leafs after the 1943 season. If the request is granted, Copp will play in Chicago Sunday Night.

An official of the Sherbrooke Saints recommended last night that the Quebec Senior Hockey League withdraw from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association as a result of a ruling on two defencemen.

The C.A.H.A. announced in Midland that Bill Heindl and Larry Zeldel, two former Q.S.H.L. players, had been awarded to Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Canada League. The Sherbrooke suggestion would be to protest the action.

An extra five days of racing in Ontario to follow the scheduled close of the season Nov. 6 — because of the "dire straits" of many horse owners—has been requested by the Ontario division of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association.

S. Tupper Bigelow, chairman of the Ontario Racing Commission, said Friday the request will be studied at the next commission meeting Wed. Oct. 25.

Fred S. Orpen, owner of west-end Dufferin race track, which starts the season's final two weeks today, has agreed to stage the extra racing at Dufferin if permission is granted.

Vince Sheridan, head of the Ontario division of the H.B.P.A., said four of the eight daily races at the extra session would be limited to horses owned by Canadians, with Ontario residents preferred. About $60,000 in purses would be provided.

The large influx of horses from Western Canada and Quebec—where the season closes earlier—has resulted in difficulty in overcrowded entry lists with many horses unable to get racing chances.

Chris Spencer, eight-year-old gelding owned by the Bostwick Farm, Shelborne, Vt., won both heats of the Toledo Times $25,000 free-for-all trot at Fort Miami Raceway Friday night.

The famed Proximity, driven by Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., finished a weak fifth in the first heat and was scratched in the finale.

Boxing promoter Jack Solomons returned from Paris to London Friday after failing to arrange a European middleweight title fight between Randolph Turpin and Robert Villemain.

Press reports were than Villemain's manager wants a $17,000 purse, whereas Solomons offer was $7,000.

The 15-round bout between heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and Nick Barone, scheduled for Nov. 28 at Cincinnati was approved Friday night as a title contest by Arch Hindman, president of the National Boxing Association.

CAR CHECK FINDS 43% DEFECTIVE

TAMPA, Fla. — Patrolmen found 1,350 defects in 2127 autos and trucks checked in safety inspections here recently, according to Lt. Joe Gallop, chief of the State Road Patrol.

Primarily, patrolmen sought defects in steering, brakes, front and rear lights, truck reflectors and other items of equipment necessary to safe driving.

Chief Gallop stated the most people had defects attended to because they like to know that their cars are in good condition. Also, that under State law it is illegal to operate a car or truck on the highway unless the vehicle is in such safe mechanical condition as not to endanger the driver or occupants or any person on the highway.

FOR SAFE DRIVING FOR YOU AND ALL OTHERS, we strongly recommend 5,000 mile inspections. By this your vehicle is checked thoroughly from one end to the other, no point is left untouched. This is the only method by which you can be positively sure of your vehicle being in 100% safe condition. You owe it to yourself, your family, and to all others to keep your vehicle mechanically safe. One little defect can make your new or old car a deadly killer. Call in at J. B. Boyce and Sons Ltd., and have this complete inspection made of your car.

Unbeaten Detroit Red Wings Hook Up With Habitants In Doubleheader Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League's only unbeaten teams, Montreal's red-hot Canadiens and the Stanley Cup champion Detroit Red Wings, clash twice during the weekend.

One or the other ought to give but picking seems as difficult as picking the winner of next year's Grand National Steeplechase.

Les Habitants, who have a record of two triumphs and as many ties in four starts, lead the league with six points. That's three more than Detroit has picked up in two starts—a win and a tie.

The Montrealers are at home to the Wings tonight and have a chance to widen the gap between them and their guests. By the same token, the Wings can narrow the gap with a victory—and move ahead with another in Detroit Sunday.

In tonight's only other scheduled game, New York Rangers invade Toronto whose Maple Leafs are a bit shy on defencemen. Toronto are tied in second place with Detroit and Chicago with the Rangers one point back in fifth place.

On Sunday, the Leafs travel to Chicago while the Rangers visit Boston for a game with Coach Lynn Patrick's young winless Bruins. The Bruins are in the cellar with one tie and two losses in three starts.

Defencemen Bill Barilko and rookie Hugh Bolton of the Leafs are sidelined with knee injuries. As a reinforcement they reached into the Quebec Senior Hockey League for Bobby Copp of Ottawa, and planned to use him on a three-game, lend-lease basis starting Saturday.

The 32-year-old dentist voluntarily retired from the Leafs after the 1943 season. Since then he has played for the Ottawa Senators.

Winner May be Next Year's Derby Victor

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 21 (AP)—Today's Breeders' Futurity, closing day feature at Keeneland, is expected to give a line on who's who as the winter book favorite for next year's Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs in Louisville.

Twelve of the nation's top two-year-olds are entered in the seven-furlong event. Gross value of the race is $42,935. The winner will add about $28,000 if all 12 go to the post.

The favorite is expected to be Greentree's Stable Big Stretch, who will run as an entry with Banjoist. Big Stretch was beaten in a photo-finish by Battlefield, this year's two-year-old champion, in the Belmont Futurity, but Battlefield is not entered in today's race. Ted Atkinson, Big Stretch's regular jockey, will be astride the juvenile son of eight thirty today.

Another eastern invader Woodvale Farm's Away Away, drew top weight of 122 pounds. Woodvale's hopeful, Son of Whirlaway, will be ridden by Ovie Scurlock.

Gardner Pulls Hat Trick For Cornwall Team

Ottawa, Oct. 21—CP—Fred Gardner pulled the hat trick Friday night as Cornwall Calumets squashed Hull Volants 6-1 in an Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League game.

Gardner whipped up three goals in one minute and 19 seconds to take a major slice of the scoring. He did it in the second period and the effort made it 4-0 for the Calumets. Because of penalties—Cornwall had a 4-3 edge in the lineups when Gardner put on his spurt for the first goal. Hull was two men short for the second effort and one man light for the third.

In the third period, Gardner did most of the work in assisting his linemate, Jean-Paul Lafortune, to the fifth tally and Jim Denneny finished the scoring for the winners just 13 seconds before the contest ended. Lone Hull goal came from the stick of Ron Landry.

New Westminster Adanacs Tie Mann Trophy Series

Toronto, Oct. 21 (CP) —We'll win Sunday by three goals."

That was coach Bob Lee of New Westminster Adanacs talking last night after his western champions defeated Owen Sound Crescents 6-5, deadlocking the Canadian Senior Lacrosse finals at three wins apiece.

But playing coach Doug Gillespie of Owen Sound was just as confident the eastern champions would win the seventh game and the Mann Cup.

"All we need is a break," Doug said after the game. "We needed a break tonight but didn't get it."

The Crescents did get a break early in the game—a bad one.

Goalie Lloyd (Moon) Wooton, a leading choice for the Mike Kelly trophy as the most valuable player of the series, went over on an ankle after a hard shot from Bob Bremner of Adanacs sent him off balance, causing recurrence of a former injury.

"I think the ligaments are torn," the 205 pound netminder said. "I twisted the left ankle when I fell."

Wooton, who won't be playing Sunday, went to hospital for an X-ray while his teammates returned to Owen Sound. The Owen Sounders had flouted lady luck by cancelling their hotel reservations. So they'll have to return to Toronto for the seventh game..

Gave Outstanding Display

Doug Favell, who played for Hamilton Tigers this season and was spare goalie for the Mann Cup series, filled the gap for Wooton with an outstanding display.

Favell, going in cold midway through the first quarter, was great. One of the three shots that beat him in the second quarter was an easy try but he stopped at least 10 in the second half that could easily have been goals.

Owen Sound, trailing 6-2 early in the fourth quarter, staged a great rally that produced three quick goals and held Adanacs scoreless.

But the easterners couldn't beat big Gordon Pogue for that important tying counter while his mates were bewildered by the Owen Sound Assault.

Lee was confident Adanacs would win because he figured such sharpstooters as Jack Northup, leading point-getter in the coast league, and Bremner would not continue their scoring famine.

Northup didn't get a goal last night and has fired only six in the six games. Bremner got one to bring his total to seven.

"We count on them to get two or three goals a game," Lee said.

Last night Harrison Smith, a 22-year-old forward who hadn't got a point in the previous five games, tallied twice, one of them the winning counter 10 seconds after the start of the fourth quarter.

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 21 (AP) — In spite of yelps about radio, television, etc., hurting minor league baseball, International League President Shag Shaughnessy figures the 24-hour recall of optioned players has damaged his circuit more than anything else...That's what really ruined Jersey City says Shag...The team was just going well when the Giants started calling up men on short notice and without sending adequate replacements...The same squawk has been heard from other cities.

The Rangers couldn't do anything about getting Detroit's Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe, rated the best pair of wings in hockey, so they signed a pair by the same names for their Rover farm. Vic Howe is Gordon's young brother Jack Lindsay isn't related to Ted.

Weak End Notes

In his Ecuadorean tuneup for the pro tennis tour with Jack Kramer, Pancho Segura played Frank Parker nine times and lost only four sets...Frank Patrick, who scouted Nebraska for Penn State, reported: "Bobby Reynolds runs like Marshall Goldberg, only faster."...Frank means the Marshall Goldberg he played with at Pitt...The Bobby Riggs-John Jachym all-star baseball tour figures to lose about $55,000—which approximately equals what Hacjym took out of Washington, or Bobby's pro tennis take last year.

O.S.D. Gridders Score Upset Over B.C.I. 13-12

By DON DOLAN

At O.S.D. field, yesterday afternoon O.S.D. upset B.C.I. Juniors 13-12 in a game that was a real thriller. This was B.C.I.'s first defeat of the season.

The O.S.D. team showing tremendous improvement over their initial game with B.C.I. deserved the victory on their play. On the ground, the O.S.D. squad ran roughshod over the B.C.I. line which had been so strong in previous games. New plays, especially a razzle-dazzle reserve were worked by the winners and many large gains were ripped off. The entire backfield of Beaulne, Gravelle, Perrault, McAlpine and McCrindle showed plenty of running ability, while Beaulne, the quarter aided his team greatly with many accurate passes.

In the first half O.S.D. showed B.C.I. that they would be no pushover such as there was in the previous meeting between these two teams. After runs by Gravelle and Perrault brought the ball near the B.C.I. goal line, Beaulne sneaked over for an O.S.D. touchdown. Moore for B.C.I. kicked a single point as did McAlpine for O.S.D. to comlpete the first half scoring and giving O.S.D. a 6-1 lead at this point.

Added to Score Early

O.S.D. added to its score early in the second half as McAlpine booted a single point. On taking the ball on their own 25, B.C.I. started on a downfield march which ended only when Philp streaked across the goal for a touchdown to put B.C.I. right back in the game. Great defensive play by both teams prevented further scoring in the third period.

However O.S.D. took to the offensive at the beginning of the fourth quarter and paced by a long pass from Beaulne to Renout followed by three successive runs by Gravelle brought the ball deep into B.C.I. territory. After two unsuccessful smashes at the B.C.I. line, Beaulne ran over for a T.D. which was converted by McCrindle and O.S.D. led 13-6.

In the dying minutes of the game John Thompson ran over from the 3 yard line for a B.C.I. touchdown which was converted by Philp. B.C.I. tried desperately to score again but great work by the O.S.D. team held B.C.I. from scoring and the game ended with O.S.D. leading 13-12.

Beaulne, Gravelle and McAlpine carried the greater amount of the offensive load for the victors while the whole team was good defensively.

For B.C.I. Ken Burroughs did so great running as did Hagerman. The Philp to Page passing combination was working quite well for B.C.I. Wayne O'Hara come up with some fine defenive play for B.C.I. as did Baker Nickle and Kellett.

Lineups:

O.S.D.: Ends, Elliott, Renout; middles, Klym, Monroe; insides, Heppner, Denome; centre, Wilson; quarter, Beaulne; halves, Gravelle, Perrault, McAlpine; flying wing, McCrindle. Subs, Harris, Micetice, DeRose.

B.C.I.: Ends, Page, Farmer; middles, Nickle, Adamson; Insides, Goyer, Kellett; centre, O'Hara; quarter, Philp; halves, Hagerman, Burroughs, Thompson; flying wing, Baker. Subs, Hiles, Mathews, Cherry, Lewis, Ashley, McPartlin, Soule, Moore Meyers, Mazer, Spencer.

Referee: A. Fitzsimmons, Umpire, H. M. Townsend.

La Starza Yells For Return Shot At Marciano

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—Handsome Roland La Starza yelled for a return shot at Rocky Marciano today.

The 23-year-old New York heavyweight contender clamored for the bout after he had batted out a 10-0 shutout over Italy's Duilio Spagnolo in the St. Nicholas arena last night.

All three officials voted for the United States army veteran by the same 10-0 score. No one could recall such a one-sided count at a main bout here before.

La Starza, who outweighed the 4-to-1 luong shot, 190½ to 184, hit Spagnolo with everything but the water bottle, but he couldn't floor the game Italian.

It was Rollie's 41st victory against one defeat. Marciano, unbeaten Brockton, Mass., slugger, handed La Starza his only loss last March 24. It was a split decision.

His manager, Jimmy (Fals) De Angelo, said if he couldn't get Marciano he would take his fighter to London for a crack at either Tommy Farr or Jack Gardner.

It looks like it's London for Rollie since Marciano, it is understood, may fight Joe Louis next March.

EXPERT JUDGE

Aylmer, Ont., —(CP)— Helen Bompas, 26-year-old Ayrshire breeder from Bell's Corners near Ottawa, made her debut here as a judge of dairy cattle and decided it wasn't as difficult as showing cattle. John L. Stansell, Western Ontario breeder, said "I've seen men judges do a worse job of placing a class."

FIND ANCIENT TREASURE

Oslo—(CP)—A large treasure of silver coins, believed 1,000 years old, has been discovered during excavations at Trondheim in Central Norway. Some of the coins were minted by King Ca ute and others are of German Arabic origin.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 21 (AP) — Moira Shearer, the red-headed ballerina who soared to fame in the film "The Red Shoes," says she's not mad at Hollywood.

Ever since the English film, the ballet beauty has been reported as scoffing at Hollywood offers. She is now in town with the Sadler's Wells Ballet, and I pinned her down on this over lunch.

"It isn't true," she replied as she dipped into a salad. "How can you scoff at a place you've never seen?"

"But you have turned down offers for films here," I said.

"Yes," she replied, "but only because there wasn't enough dancing in the scripts. After all, I am a dancer, not an actress. I don't feel that I should give up something I have been training for since I was nine or ten years old.

During lunch Miss Shearer managed to destroy common misconceptions some people have about the ballet. I thought that ballet dancers had to eat like birds to keep their slender figures.

"As a matter of fact," she corected me, "it's quite a scandal when ballet dancers attend a party. They head right for the food table and eat voraciously. The dancing keeps their weight down."

Miss Shearer admitted that she has to eat sparingly on performance days. She has a small breakfast and a light lunch, sometimes as late as four p.m.

She eats nothing before the performance, but consumes a quantity of glucose for energy. "And then after the show," she said enthusiastically, "we feast."

AIRMEN DEFEAT ARMY

Ottawa, Oct. 21—CP—The R.C.A.F. Flyers overcame tight first-period play by Ottawa Army as the Airmen came through with a 4-2 win in an Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League fixture Friday night.

R.C.A.F. goalie Jack McLeod was the most important single factor in his team's victory, coming through with sensational saves throughout the contest and particularly in the final period. In this frame he turned back what looked to be certain Army goals seven times.

It is a special occasion when this theatre has the privilege of presenting a motion picture of such scope, beauty and stature. The story of a white man's love for an Indian girl, and a vision that won the West for all Americans, red and white. This film I can unqualifiedly recommend. It is great entertainment. The Manager

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning at breakfist ma said to pop, William, these new shoes of mine pintch a little. I wish you'd drop them off at the shoemaker's up on the Avenue and tell him to stretch them, she said.

Isn't there a boy in the house? pop said.

Meening me, and ma said, I dont want to provide him with an excuse to be late for school. His life is alreddy enriched with excuses and I'd just as soon not add fuel to the fire, she said, and I said, Well jimminies, ma, why cant I take them when I get home from school this afternoon?

Because I expect them to be stretched by that time, so I can wear them, ma said.

Being a good reason, and pop said, Oh, I'll take the shoes and show Benny that a bizzy bizzness man with a thousand things on his mind can find time to squeeze in an exter task that really should be done by an idle urchin with nuthing to do but be erly for school. I'll prove that I'm not like Hozay Snoozegow, even if Benny is, he said, and I said, Who was he, pop?

He lived in a semmy tropical country where all he had to do was lie under a bannanna tree and wait for the fruit to drop into his outstretched hand, pop said. The roof of the bedroom leeked, and Hozay Snoozegow knew it, but he decided not to fix it till his usual luntch of 4 bannannas dropped into his hand. Well, bannannas dropped unusually slowly that day, and by the time the 4th

And he folded his paper and went to his office and left ma's shoes on the hall table on account of forgetting them, and ma claimed she would take them herself on her way.. to the market on account of still not wanting to give me a free excuse to claim I couldn't help being late for school.

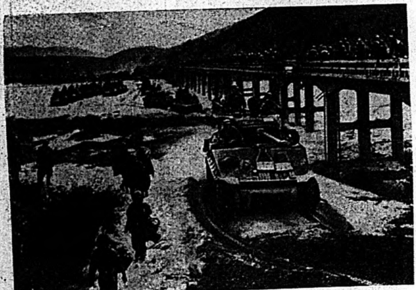
DESTROYER IN ACTION

The Cayuga, one of three Canadian destroyers serving in Korea, has seen plenty of action. This Royal Canadian Navy photo shows an empty four-inch cartridge case, ejected from a gun, flying through the air as the gun's crew reloads during a bombardment of communist installations on the coa st of Korea. — (CP Photo.)

HIGH ROAD AND LOW ROAD IN EMBATTLED KOREA



Unwilling to trust the shaky bridge that crosses a river in North Korea, Allied tanks take to the dry river bed as the safest way of reaching their objective on the opposite bank. Infantrymen, seeking a shorter route, take the high road to their goal. Hitting from four directions, in a giant pincer movement, Allied troops have raced into the centre of the North Korean capital city of Pyongyang, in an all-out drive to end the war quickly. Reports say they are meeting very little enemy resistance. — Central Press Canadian.

NO BROOM OR CAT, BUT BEWITCHING ALL THE SAME.

For bewitching purposes there's no need for this Hallowe'en character to mix poisonous potions and ride around on a broom. Her smile is as powerful as a potion mixed in a witch's cavern and she needs no jet-propelled broom since everyone will come her way anyway. — Central Press Canadian.

WARNING FAILED TO STOP DAMAGE

HARBOR HOUSE
ESTAURANT

Hurricane flags over Miami docks wave at the height of the "Big Blow" that swept down on the mainland from the Caribbean. Damage was estimated at $5,000,000 in spite of elaborate precautions and hours of warning before the hurricane struck. — Central Press Canadian.

T. W. Watkins, and his wife, Jewel, of Homested, Fla., are shown giving their two nephews their evening meal at a Red Cross shelter. The Watkins family was one of the hundreds who were evacuated to high ground before the hurricane struck. This is the 15th time Mr. Watkins and his wife have moved to high ground during the past eight years, each time as a hurricane precaution. — Central Press Canadian.

UNDISTURBED BY CURRENT GOSSIP

L GOLDSTEIN
SENATO
HAN

New York Governor Thomas E. Dewey, left, and Lieut.-Governor Joe R. Hanley, seem unconcerned about newspaper headlines shrieking about the letter Mr. Hanley wrote, and which Democratic spokesmen are gleefully using the letter as valuable campaign fodder. The letter is interpreted as explaining how Mr. Hanley decided to step aside in the gubernatorial race after Gov. Dewey had promised him the protection of a state job should he be defeated in the run for the Senate against Senator Herbert Lehman. — Central Press Canadian.

BUZZARD WHO STRAYED TOO FAR FROM HOME

Meet "Oswald" a young fellow who strayed too far from home. He's a turkey buzzard, native of the far south, who was captured in Oshawa, Ont., after he had laid claim to a car and wouldn't let the owners come near it. Lloyd Flower, left, Oshawa pound keeper, captured the bird and here shows the six-foot wingspread. — Central Press Canadian.

FIND HEADLESS CORPSE IN SHACK

Returning to their cabin in the woods west of Grimbsy, Ont., after a three-month absence, John Horton, his wife, left, Mrs. Jane Horton, and Mrs. Daisy Soar, all pipe smokers, found the hea and decomposed body of a man, later identified as Leamon Potts, brother of Mrs. Horton, and father of Miss Potts. Later they found the man's skull in a box beside the bed. Investigators believe the man died of natural causes, that the body became decomposed and that prowlers disturbed the body, causing the head to roll into a box beside the bed.—Central Press Canadian.

WOMEN AT U.N.

Three women representatives to the United Nations General Assembly at Lake Success, N.Y., cha informally before a session of the Assembly's Third Committee — which deals with social an cultural problems. Left to right are: Mrs. Barbara Castle of London, Mrs. Bodil Begtrup of Denmar and Mrs. D. N. Sinclair of Canada. This is a U.N. photo. — (CP Photo.)

SCIENTIST REWARDED

Dr. Douglas Alexander McIntosh of Toronto has been awarded the Society of Chemical Industry (Canada) Medal. The medal is symbolic of the highest Canadian honor in the field of chemistry.—(CP Photo.)

SAYS U.S. SHIPS TAKE STEEL TO REDS

First engineer Calvin F. Bonawitz, left, of the U.S. Isbrandsten Steamships Lines' Flying Cloud, tells a Senate Merchant Marine subcommittee in Washington that the ship delivered armor plate to communist China late this summer. He admitted writing the letter which touched off a congressional probe into shipments of war goods to red China ports. At right is Senator Herbert O'Connor, chairman of the investigating committee. — Central Press Canadian.

CHILDREN JOIN IN EAST-WEST BATTLE

Anti-communist youths of West Berlin make a bonfire of co munist propaganda leaflets distributed by rival communist you along the U.S.-Russian sector border during a communist elect rally last week. So far the battles between the rival youth grou have been confined to propaganda and name calling. West Ber authorities try to keep it that way. — Central Press Canadian.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"I take it you don't care for littleneck clams, Miss Phillips," the man [illegible] her left commented in [illegible] voice of a conspira[illegible] the fourth you've [illegible] under the ice on which [illegible] served."

Fran laughed as she met his amused dark eyes.

"Don't betray my guilty secret. I just can't swallow them. It would be a social blunder to leave the six poor little things untouched, so I give them decent burial. A method distinctly my own. Rather original what?"

"Do you apply the same deep-freeze method to persons you don't like?" Before she could answer he turned to reply to a question of the hostess at whose right he sat.

Who is he, Fran asked herself, she must have been in the throes of a mental blackout when they were introduced before dinner; perhaps they hadn't been introduced— he wasn't the sort of person one forgot. Perhaps they hadn't met—the apertifs were being served when she entered the library, she had been detained at the gallery.

"You haven't heard a word I've said," accused the man at her right. "I don't believe you know my name."

"It is Morrison Grove, 'Morrie' to your hostess. When I refused a cocktail you brought me a glass of tomato juice with the lugubrious air of one offering a poison cup. We came in to dinner together and you asked if I had begun to feel at home in the State of Maine, an astonishing cliche coming from 'one of our rising men politically,'" Mrs. Sargent speaking.

"One hundred percent correct, even to that quote, if I say it who shouldn't." The slightly bald slightly rubicund, slightly overweight old-young man beamed at her. "How do you do it? Apparently in spirit you were miles away from this room. What cataclysm of events landed you as assistant in the Sargent Gallery here?"

"Mr. Sargent needed an attractive, up-to-the-minute young woman to help—that's me, if I say it who shouldn't—I needed desperately an entire change of environment, Gene and I were classmates at college, she suggested that I come here for the summer. Here I am. Does that answer your question? It should. You now have the story of my life in tabloid."

"I'll bet I haven't. I'll bet a man was involved in that change of environment you needed so desperately."

Morrison Grove turned to answer the question of a woman in pale blue at his right. The man at Fran's left, who had detected the hideaway of the clams, was listening intently to his hostess, who, Fran had discovered years ago, was a nonstop conversationalist.

"I'll bet a man was involved in that change of environment." The repetition of Morrison Grove words in her memory sent her thoughts backtracking to the day in Judge Glme's office three weeks ago. Since then he had written that the change of the trustee for Rebecca Harding's estate had been allowed by the court. In closing he added:

"I've had four conferences with Jaffray re your affairs. Your brother showed good judgement in the selection of his successor. Glad to hear you like your job."

He had not mentioned Myles Jaffray's reaction to her refusal to meet him. Apparently it had not made the slightest dent in the life of the new trustee. She had expected he would write to her and demand a hearing, had mentally composed a courteous but frigid reply. It had been good. It would be a pity if she never had a chance to use the literary masterpiece.

"Did you mutter 'darn,' or was the sound something the breeze brought in?" Morrison Grove inquired. "What goes? Your cheeks are flaming. I like your hair. Natural or permanent wave?"

"The fairy who attended my entrance into this world endowed me with a permanent."

"Hooray for the fairy. The lady at my right is a political power—known as the Terrible Tassie—Miss Trent to you —originally an FFV—she can influence a lot of votes in my direction—we both keep our legal residence in this county—I'm out for re-election to Congress. I had to listen to her, much as I prefer to look at and talk to you.

"Of course you had to listen and just to keep the record straight, my cheeks are not flaming because of your neglect."

"Maybe not, but you are disturbed about something, can't fool your uncle Morrie. To proceed with my diagnosis, could it be that you have quarreled with the blond screen-lover-good-looks lad directly across the table His hair is as shining and smooth as the gold dome of your State House, his mustache resembles nothing so much as a third eyebrow. His gloomy gaze has been fixed on you in the intervals between turning his deadly charm on the gals each side of him."

The lad directly across the table was Blake Sinclair. She had felt his eyes on her and had carefully avoided meeting them. She had been amazed then angry when he had spoken to her in the library before dinner. She had told him before she left home that she wanted neither to see nor to hear from him until September. She had left unanswered his indignant, incredulous "Why?" She couldn't explain that she needed time and distance to get a perspective on that "deadly charm" to which she had not been unresponsive, while she kept him determinedly on the plane of friendship.

"Your expression gives you away." Grove chuckled complacence.

"Is it part of your campaign program to probe for the secrets of a maiden's heart? Shame on you."

"Say you know you've got what it takes. I didn't realize that girls would have your sparkle, charm and warm friendliness who were raised in the shadow of the Sacred Cod."

"Speak softly when you say that name, stranger. It's a must when you play with one of us Sacred Cod girls." His shout of laughter drew startled eyes in their direction.

"Hold it. Having settled that question to our mutual satisfaction, what are you and gloomy Gus across the table fighting about? Confide. Me, I'm that congenial spirit remember? I—" He turned to the woman at the right.

"Certainly I'm interested in what the women in the organization of which you are the head think of the Russian situation, Miss Tassie. It is of vital importance. The Bear is growling and—" Fran lost the rest of the sentence.

As the man at her left still was held on the conversational leash by his hostess her thoughts trekked back to the Blake Sinclair and his presence at this table. She had introduced him to Gene when she was at college, the estate of his family adjoining Rebecca Harding's. Could she make him understand that it was useless to follow to her? That she would not see him?

"Our hostess serves the most delectable salads in the state." Morrison Grove had broken away from his constituent. "I know. I get around. None of the jellied stuff I hate. This combination of chilled avocado, grapefruit and a fig bursting with cheese mixture is the berries. I'm something of a chef myself. Keep bachelor hall in ye old homestead. Like to pick up ideas. White wine in the dressing, what?"

"Could be. Ask Mrs. Sargent after dinner. She'll tell you."

"Not I." She would immediately embark on a lecture as to how and where the fruit is grown, whence the wine, and so forth. I admire the lady for her good looks, good works and expert housekeeping, but, I side-step her edtcational monologues."

Fran disciplined a smile. Criticizing one's hosts of their hospitality was a breach of courtesy she abhorred but Morrison Grove was right, one couldn't comment on bird, beast or flower to Mrs. Sargent without precipitating a discourse on the subject.

"I see by your not too well controlled smirk that you get what I mean." She ignored his comment.

"While I was left high and dry like a boat on a beach at low tide with no one to talk to, did the lady at your right assure you that your re-election is in the bag?"

"No, quite the reverse." The question she had intended for a light touch clouded his face. "She says that her organization has been examining my records to see how I voted on foreign policy matters, it is not satisfied, and what the Terrible Tassie says, goes."

"Loud cheers for those women Right on the job, aren't they? They know that the entire nation has foreign policy on the brain. Does it mean that you didn't go all out to help establish a lasting peace?"

"Perhaps I disagree with the plan to bring it about."

"You mean you think that our enormous productive capacity should not be used to overcome the chaos and suffering following the last tragic war?"

"What do you know about the plan being put before the country?"

"Not much, I am ashamed to admit, but from now on I'll be listening to the campaign speeches from the candidates themselves, if they are near, from radio if they are not. I'll form a policy of my own."

"You won't have to travel far to hear some of them. Miss Trent gave me the jolt of my life when she told me that a returned serviceman was being proposed by the Good Government Association of this district as a candidate for my seat in the House."

"Being proposed doesn't necessarily mean he will be nominated, does it?"

"Haven't you accomplished enough on your record to offset your foreign policy bad mark?"

I hope so, but there is more to it than that. His family has loads of the moolah, have been citizens here since the beginning time—mine goes back only two generations—it produced a colonial governor. The house built on the land he acquired was the largest in the town, it's a knockout in architecture and grounds, it opened when a charity stages one of those Historic Landmarks shows. It was called Shore Acres then and the name stuck. He's my friend, he's a grand guy, but he's had all the breaks."

"Ours is a democracy. A man desn't need wealth and a social background even to become President. You'd better take a refresher course in American history."

"I get what you mean, but six years in the service added to what he had before will fire the imagination of the voting public."

"What were you doing through those same years?"

"Slaving at a desk in Washington for three of them. It wasn't my fault I didn't get into the fight. Had fifteen pounds sweated off me the day before I went up for examination and say, is that something to do for one's country? But they wouldn't pass me."

"I'm sorry you were disappointed. You won't quit the Congressional fight because another candidate may be or has been proposed? You won't give up, will you? The easiest thing to do in the world is to give up."

"Not a chance. I'm right back in there pitching. Miss Trent's news knocked me out for a minute, that's all."

Wounded by Accident As Revolver Falls

Ottawa, Oct. 21—CP—Morality officer Harvey Slade, 31, was wounded today when his service revolver accidently discharged during a liquor raid on a home in Ottawa's lowertown district.

The bullet entered his left shoulder only two inches above the heart. Hospital authorities said his condition was not serious.

The officer's shoulder-holster became entangled in an overhanging curtain, and when Slade attempted to free himself, the .32 revolver fell to the floor and discharged.

Advance Party Special Brigade, Going to Korea

Destination of Rest of Force Has Not Yet Been Decided

Ottawa, Oct. 23 (CP) — The advance party of 345 officers and men of Canada's Special United Nations Brigade, which sailed Saturday from the west coast in a U.S. transport, is going direct to Korea, defence headquarters announced today.

Headquarters said that this advance "working party" would "prepare the way for the special force should any part of it later be sent to Korea."

The headquarters announcement quoted Defence Minister Claxton as reiterating that the destination of the fighting brigade of 9,000-odd men has not yet been decided.

Mr. Claxton, who is in Montreal today, was quoted as saying: "The force was offered to the United Nations for combat service in Korea and until information received from the United Nations makes it clear that it is not needed in Korea, it is not possible to decide that all or part of the force shall not go there.

"The government from to day has been waiting for the information which will enable it to take its decision."

In regard to absenteeism from the special force—placed at 703 a week ago—Mr. Claxton was quoted as saying "by far the greatest number had overstayed their four day leave on completion of basic training."

Force Will Be Needed

"Some of them may have mistakenly felt that their services are no longer needed now that the fight is nearly over in Korea. Termination of hostilities in Korea will neither terminate the need for the force nor the purpose for which it was raised—to be ready to take action on behalf of Canada under the United Nations charter or the North Atlantic treaty."

The statement did not contain any new figures on Special force absenteeism.

Dealing further with eventual destination of the force, the statement said the minister referred to a statement Oct. 6 by Prime Minister St. Laurent in which the prime minister said:

"It may be that circumstances will make it expedient to employ this Special force in some other area and, if circumstances make such a course seem advisable in the interest of increasing the common security of ourselves and of our allies, the government will not hesitate to recommend to parliament that this force be employed elsewhere.

"That might well mean its employment in Europe if that is what best fits into the joint plans when those joint plans have taken definite shape.

Mr. Claxton added that "one of the purposes of the meetings next week at Washington is to discuss these joint plans."

He was referring to the meetings in Washington Oct. 28 of the defence ministers of the Atlantic Pact Nations. A meeting of the Pact Nations' Military Committee will be attended by the chiefs of staff of Canada's navy, army and air force.

Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chief of the general staff, already is in Washington for this military meeting which opens Oct. 24.

Jet-Stream of Air Reported By Canadian Pilots With Winds Upwards of 200 Miles Hour

Toronto, Oct. 23—(CP)— The assistant controller of Canada's meteorological service said today that high-flying Canadian pilots are providing "valuable service" by reporting movements of a so-called jet-stream of air in the sub-stratosphere.

P. D. MacTaggart-Cowan said trans-Canada air lines and Canadian Pacific airlines pilots take observations on special forms if their planes climb above 20,000 feet. Their notations of unusual weather conditions are sent to the weather service's head office here for analysis. Air force pilots send in similar reports.

The jet-stream, with winds upwards of 200 miles an hour, drifts across Canada "like a big snake," Mr. MacTaggart-Cowan said. On occasion it has been traced right around the world.

A jet-plane formation reported encountering it near Cornwall, Ont., last Friday. Pilots said the speed of their planes immediately dropped from 425 miles an hour to 225.

"It is possible that some of our wartime squadrons' heaviest operational losses may have been due to the jet-stream," Mr. MacTaggart-Cowan said. "Little was known about it then and it is possible that planes flying against it ran out of gas far short of their destination without their pilots' realizing what was happening."

It can help fliers, too, he added. Recently an American airlines stratocruiser, flying at about 25,000 feet was helped acrss the Atlantic by a 100-mile-an-hour tail-wind all the way from New York to London.

Capt. Arthur J. McConnell, Public Information officer at the U.S. Air Force base at Sefridge, Mich., said he "never heard of the so-called jet-stream."

He told the Sarnia Canadian Observer in a telephone interview:

"Upper air hurricanes do appear sometimes but they are usually the result of some freak weather conditions and are not a prevailing phenomena."

Jet pilots from Selfridge often encountered a "steady prevailing wind" of 200 miles an hour or more and at between 30,000 and 40,000 feet. This was during the first three months of the year, he said.

STEAL COLLECTION 250,000 STAMPS WORTH $40,000

Professional Thieves Blamed in Toronto Haul

Toronto, Oct. 23—CP—Rewards totalling $2,000 were offered today for recovery of a stolen stamp collection valued at upwards of $40,000.

The collection, more than 250,000 stamps, was in 70 stock book albums. It was taken Saturday night from the suburban Forest Hill home of D.A. Davenport, a stamp dealer for the last 10 years and a collector for 40.

The stamps ranged in value from one cent to $100 each. Mr. Davenport, who with his wife was attending a dinner of the Toronto Stamp Collectors' Club at the time of the theft, said no outstanding rarity was among them.

He added that disposal of the stamps may pose a problem for the thieves. They would probably be spotted at once if they tried to unload the collection on the open market.

Mr. Davenport said he believed the raid was the first Canadian venture of a gang of professional stamp thieves that has been operating in the United States.

"They knew what they were after and systematically went to work as soon as they saw me leave for the dinner. They forced the milk delivery door and sorted out the worthwhile stuff from the rubbish. They took 70 stock books and put them in five suitcases which they stole from the attic."

Red Party Hdqtrs. At Sydney, Australia Raided by Investigators

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 23. — (Reuters)— The first raid under Australia's new anti-communist law was made on party headquarters here today.

Ten government investigators dragged large numbers of documents and books to a police car during the two-hour raid. Employees were questioned while uniformed police guarded the entrances.

The bill which became law Friday outlaws the communist party and gives the government sweeping powers to remove communists from public and trade union posts.

Canadian Couple Lose Fight to Retain Custody of Adopted Two-Year Boy

London, Oct. 23—(Reuters)—A Canadian couple today lost their fight to retain the custody of a two-year-old boy they adopted two years ago.

The Privy Council refused the application of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Martin of Dunnville, Ont., for leave to appeal against a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada which last June awarded the custody of the boy to his mother, Miss Lily Duffell, 30, formerly of London

The child was born out of wedlock in Toronto in 1948 while the mother was visiting Canada.

Lord Porter announced the Privy Council's decision not to reopen the case after hearing a petition by Arthur Maloney, Toronto lawyer on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Martin.

"We do not feel this is a case in which we can grant leave to appeal," said Lord Porter, presiding over a panel of four law lords of the Privy Council.

The Canadian parliament has ruled that the Supreme Court of Canada is the dominion's final court of appeal but the custody appeal was launched before parliament acted. Today's decision was perhaps one of the last Canadian applications to be considered by the Privy Council.

"Baby Duffell", as he is referred to in the legal documents, is still in Dunnville where he has been with his foster parents for more than two years.

He will now be brought to England by his mother, to be adopted by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Duffell, of Ilford, Essex, it was understood.

Custody of the child was returned to the mother by the Supreme Court of Canada after she produced a letter from her father, a retired police inspector, offering to adopt him.

Neither the mother nor the foster parents came to England for the appeal.

Maloney told the court today that Miss Duffell signed a consent to the adoption soon after the baby was born in April, 1948.

He argued that the Canadian Supreme Court's decision was a threat to the system of child adoption in Canada.

"It means," he said, "that the mother of an illegitimate child can reverse the adoption procedure simply by showing that she is a woman of good character and has a proper home in which to bring it up. Such a precedent is bound to work in a most destructive way by affecting the whole system of adoption in Ontario and six other provinces of Canada."

Lord Porter said that the paramount consideration in any litigation involving a child must be its ultimate welfare. "That is the consideration which must influence the judgment of any court," he said.

U.S. Prisoners Who Survived Tunnel Massacre Owe Lives To Gen. Who Checked Report

By DON WHITEHEAD

Sunchon, North Korea, Oct. 23 (AP)—Survivors of the Sunchon Tunnel massacre were saved because a brigadier-general dared to push into communist territory to check a report that American prisoners of war had been killed by North Korean communists.

At least 68 American prisoners were slain with machine guns by their red guards Friday night near the Sunchon railway tunnel 10 miles north of here. They were led from a train into nearby fields under the pretext of being taken to supper.

At least 21, many of them wounded, lived through the hour-long massacre.

Had Brig.-Gen. Frank A. Allen of Cleveland not been so persistent many of the wounded undoubtedly would not have survived the bitterly-cold night.

This is the way the atrocity was discovered:

An assistant divisional commander of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division, Allen decided Saturday to drive by jeep from Pyongyang to Sunchon to check on the progrss of the task force driving north. This task force from the 1st Cavalry Division had gone north to link up with American paratroopers who had dropped near Sunchon.

At Sunchon we heard a rumor of a massacre at a railroad tunnel. Allen was determined to run the report down. He stopped at the headquarters of the South Korean 6th Division and requested a guide to the tunnel.

At that time the United Nations had no troops in this area.

At the tunnel, we began finding the survivors and the bodies of men murdered by the North Koreans.

Two American officers with the South Koreans as military advisers quickly had troops swarming in to help the wounded and to search the hills for other possible survivors.

Slowly the men moved over the ridge—pitifully emaciated figures whose clothing hung in folds from their starved bodies. The wounded were carried in litters improvised from mats and poles. Survivors were put on trucks brought up by the South Koreans and taken back down the road to Sunchon.

Most of them were taken to a crude little house which had been a red army hospital. A U.S. army doctor worked all through the night, but two of the 23 survivors died.

An American chaplain with the paratroops—Capt. James A. Skelton of Hancibal, Mo.—came to the hospital to see the men. They asked Skelton if he would lead them in prayer.

The men knelt in the campfire light and repeated the Lord's prayer.

Wm. C. Mikel, Local Master Supreme Court, Dies at Home

WILLIAM C. MIKEL

William Charles Mikel, B.C.L., K.C., a founder of the Ontario Bar Association and former mayor of Belleville, died at his home, 214 William Street, on Sunday. He was 84 years of age and had been ill for six weeks.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 24th from St. Thomas Anglican Church with service at 2 p. m.

The late Mr. Mikel was born in Belleville the son of the late W.Y. Mikel and Matilda (Wilson) Mikel. He lived in this area all his life.

He was educated in public school and the Belleville High School later graduating with honors from Albert College. He was a graduate of the Ontario Business College. He received his B. C. L. from Trinity University in 1897.

Starting his legal career here 60 years ago following graduation from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, the late Mr. Mikel had been local master of the Supreme Court of Ontario since 1928. He had been crown prosecutor at Ottawa, Toronto and other places in Ontario and had appeared before the legislature and Parliament in several important matters. He acted as one of the counsel for the depositors of the Farmers Bank of Canada.

Served as Mayor

He served as alderman, auditor and city solicitor for the city of Belleville and was created King's Counsel in 1908. One of the founders of the Ontario Bar Association, he was named its president in 1911 and 1912.

A staunch believer in matters municipal, he was named head of the Ontario Municipal Association in 1907 and 1908. In 1924 he was elected mayor of the city of Belleville by the largest majority ever given any candidate municipal or parliamentary and in 1925 was returned to that office with a still larger majority.

Among the several offices he held in various organizations of the city and province were, president Liberal - Conservative Auxiliary, Belleville; vice president of the United Empire Loyalist Association of Canada, 1928; vice president Ontario Magistrates Association, 1928; president Canadian Fraternal Association, 1918-19.

Fraternally Mr. Mikel was a life member of Moira Lodge No. 11 A.F. and A.M. and Moira Chapter No. 7 R.A.M. and King Baldwin Preceptory. He was also Past District Deputy Grand Master of the Prince Edward District. He was a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge, Benjamin L.O.L. No. 274, and also a member of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland, and Past County Master for Ontario East.

Associated with the old 15th Battalion, Argyll Light Infantry he attained the rank of captain and volunteered for service in the First Great War in 1915. Rejected he offered to organize and take command of a battalion but this offer was rejected.

Secretary of League

He was the secretary of the Speakers Patriotic League of Belleville and assisted in recruiting several military organizations for service overseas. He was also a member of the council in the Win-the-Law League.

He took an active part in movement to bring about better understanding between English and French speaking Canadians and presided at several meetings for that purpose at Ottawa, Montreal and Belleville.

He was magistrate of the city of Belleville for a number of years; a member of the Albany Club Toronto and of the Belleville Yacht Club.

The late Mr. Mikel took a keen interest in his native city and county of Hastings and a few years ago compiled a book, "The City of Belleville History". He was a strong advocate for the preservation of landmarks in the city and county, on several occasions spoke on the construction of a "Quinte City" He was a member of St. Thomas Anglican Church.

Surviving are Mrs. Mikel, the former Lillian Ewen, daughter of the late T. E Ewen, M.A., and one daughter, Mrs. Frank Milne-Jeffrey of Toronto, one sister, Mrs. J. E. Robinson, of Buffalo, N.Y., and one brother, Robert Mikel, of Rochester, N.Y.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

FREIGHTER LOST WITH 25 ABOARD OFF NFLD. COAST

Disappeared After Sending Frantic SOS

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 23 (CP) — The United States Coast Guard reported today that a search plane has sighted floating debris 50 miles southeast of Cape Race, in the general area from which the former Canadian freighter North Voyageur sent an S O S yesterday.

The report, from the U. S. base at Argentia, on Newfoundland's south coast, said the Coast Guard is investigating the debris and continuing its three - plane search of the area. The 1,104-ton North Voyageur disappeared after sending its distress call early yesterday.

Asked if the freighter, now owned in Greece, was considered lost, a spokesman for her agents here said: "I'm afraid it looks that way."

The North Voyageur's radio failed before she had time to give details of her plight. Ships which raced to the area 60 miles southeast of Newfoundland found nothing, shrouding her fate and that of her estimated 25 crew members in mystery.

The search was abandoned for the night after four vessels and an aircraft reported no clue to the missing ship's disappearance. A short statement from Cape Race, Nfld., marine radio said in part: "There is nothing to report."

Ships in the area or passing nearby were asked to watch for the Voyageaur, but no full - scale search was organized.

Strong winds swept the area yesterday, the tail-end of a 40-mile an hour gale which lashed the coast Saturday.

Officials here doubted whether any crew members had managed to get off in lifeboats.

The 41-year-old North Voyageur, formerly named the Gaspesia and the Alexandra, was a First World War German prize vessel and for three decades operated as a passenger and coastal trader in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

During the Second World War the 252-foot craft carried passengers between Montreal and Corner Brook, Nfld.

British Trawler Arrested by Russ

London, Oct. 23—(Reuters) — The owners of a British fishing trawler have received a radio message saying the vessel had been arrested by a Russian gunboat in the White Sea fishing grounds, north of Russia, it was learned today.

The 49-ton trawler, the Hugh Walpole, carrying a crew of 21, is owned by the British Newington Steam Trawling Company.

Last month the Russians arrested the British trawler Swanella, also in the White Sea. She was detained for five days and then released.

Wayward Tank Decided to Come Home After Hectic Sea Voyage

With U.S. 1st Cavalry Division, Korea, Oct. 23—AP—Hear now the tale of an American tank that floated out to sea—and floated back again!

The truant tank went away for a day while it was being ferried across the Yesong River near Kaesong during the United States 7th Cavalry Regiment's march on the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Engineers had improvised a ferry by putting planking across six large rubber pontoon boats.

"The first tank they rolled on it was a 37-ton Sherman," said Capt. Art Westburg of Washington, D.C.

"No sooner was it on the ferry than the mooring cables snapped. There is an 18-ft. tide differencial in the river that creates an 8-to-10-knot current. It took hold of the ferry and off it floated down stream."

Besides the crew of five surprised tankmen there were several chagrined engineers and about 15 frightened South Korean laborers aboard.

The waterborne tank rode majestically down the mouth of the river into the estuary and out to sea. Along the way it passed a shoreline and several small islands still held by the enemy.

The startled reds took a long unbelieving look at this unusual target and joyously began banging away at it wth mortars and machine guns.

Before a Navy tug could arrive to recapture it, the sea decided to return the footloose ferry itself.

It floated through the estuary and up the river, still bowing its gun grandly. The entrenched reds on the banks and hills must have rubbed their eyes at this second chance at the strange target. They opened fire again.

Shortly after nightfall the tides gently grounded the ferry about 150 feet from the point where it had begun its brief odyssey.

Broken Remnants Fleeing Frantically Toward Mountains

Reds Moving so Fast Cannot Take All Prisoners Away

By LEIF ERICKSON

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 23 (AP) — South Korean forces swept within 50 miles or less of the Manchurian border today.

Shattered remnants of the North Korean army were fleeing frantically toward the mountain triangle north of Kanggye. It was there that the communist chieftain, Kim Il Sung, carried out his guerrilla war against the Japanese before Russian occupation forces installed him as Premier of North Korea after the Second World War.

Kanggye is about 20 miles from the border in the centre of the peninsula.

Three South Korean divisions were driving for the Manchurian border to finish the four-month war.

Observers said the South Koreans can make 30 miles a day in forced marches, were capable of reaching the Yalu River on the border sometime Tuesday.

(Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo was non-commital. A spokesman said only that the army "had several estimates of when Allied troops were expected to reach the Manchurian border.")

On the north bank of the river, red China troops guard Manchuria.

The desperate red Koreans were fleeing northward so fast that they no longer could herd all their allied prisoners along with them. Many were escaping; others were massacred by the reds in a brutal last show of defiance.

Sixty-eight Americans were found machine-gunned 40 miles north of Pyongyang, the fallen red capital. Five hundred South Koreans were reported murdered on North Korea's East coast.

Air Support Heavy

A United States army intelligence officer in Tokyo said the red Koreans had put up "no real organized resistance in the last 24 hours."

The fleeing reds were reported turning inland in their retreat before the advancing United Nations forces. Officers said they were entering an area dotted with ancient walled cities.

These will not offer much defence, a spokesman said, adding that air attacks "will take care of them."

As the allied tide rolled northward, the bag of red Korean prisoners swelled past the 120,000 mark. United Nations forces captured 26,000 North Korean troops in the last 24 hours.

David Woodcock, Trenton, Instantly Killed by Truck

Struck by a small eastbound truck as he attempted to cross the highway four miles west of the city, David Woodcock, 77, of Ontario Street, Trenton, was instantly killed early Saturday evening.

Woodcock was said to have been visiting friends living on the Belleville - Trenton highway when he attempted to cross the pavement and apparently failed to see the approaching truck driven by James Gibson, of Oshawa. Woodcock was said to have been in poor health and had poor eyesight.

Gibson's vision was hampered by the bright lights of an approaching auto and he failed to see the pedestrian.

An inquest was ordered, the preliminary hearing being heard Saturday night before Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott and was adjourned until October 30. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable McLeod of Belleville.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 23 (CP) — Synopsis. A flow of cool air from the northeast covers all regions from James Bay southward this morning. An extensive area of high pressure extends in an arc from the Gulf of St. Lawrence across James Bay to Western Lake Superior and the Central United States. Pressure is low over the eastern United States where the remnants of two tropical storms are drifting northeastward.

Rain and snow are falling across the Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions and a few snowflurries are occurring in the far north. Elsewhere there is occasional drizzle.

A disturbance moving across Saskatchewan this morning will bring some rain or snow to western White River and James Bay regions late Tuesday.

Woman Critically Injured in Car Crash Near Tweed

Thrown out onto the roadway when the car in which she was riding went out of control, Mrs. Violet Sallons, 29, of Actinolite, is in critical condition in Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Sallons is suffering from severe internal injuries.

The accident took place midnight Saturday as Mrs. Sallons and William Osborne of Eldorado were driving east on the Marlbank county road about eight miles east of Tweed. On a straight stretch of road the vehicle went out of control with Mrs. Sallons being thrown out onto the roadway.

Dr. R. T. Potter stated Sunday that Mrs. Sallons was in critical condition with but a small chance of recovery.

The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable Hector Gould, Madoc, Charges are pending against the driver, it was stated.

Large Oriental Poppy Still in Bloom

Reports of unusually late growth have been common this fall and range all the way from raspberries in October to autumn flowering of spring and summer plants.

The latest report is that of an Oriental poppy which has bloomed in all its glory in the garden of W. P. Marvin, Wellington. The poppy is approximately five and a half inches in diameter. Mr. Marvin grows the poppies as a hobby and says that the poppies normally at this time have died down.

Residents Asked To Get Falling Leaves to Curb

Got any old leaves? If so, get them out on the street, and the city street cleaning department will take them away. Charles A. Mott, city engineer, asked this morning that householders put the falling glories at the curb as soon as possible, to facilitate the fall clean-up.

And if you want any leaves for your garden, call the city yard at 1378. Down there, they are making a list of the people who want to keep their plants cosy, and leaves will be delivered if desired. The idea of the list is to save steps — instead of hauling all the leaves to the yard, they can be distributed route-fashion with less trouble.

Fireside Club Of YMCA Holds First Meeting

Something new has been added at the Y.M.C.A. Last night, for the first time, the Fireside Club had a meeting, and the results were gratifying, according to officials. Walter Bent, new program director of the "Y", said this morning that there was a "very good turnout".

Three films were shown, one on the Leslie Bell Singers, one a sing song film, and the third on boys' camping. The guests were welcomed by Al Davis, Y.M.C.A. secretary.

In addition, a local barbershop quartet sang. A sing song was directed by Walter Bent, accompanied by Mrs. M. P. Duff, organist of Tabernacle United Church.

Mr. Bent said this morning that there will be another Fireside next Sunday night, starting about 9 p. m. "It will be broadcast over station CJBQ at 10.00 p. m." he said.

Mr. E.G. (Brock) Burley Celebrates Two Memorable Occasions

Mr. E. G. (Brock) Burley, celebrated his 65th birthday and superannuation of 39 years service with the Canadian National Railways in Belleville,, Thursday October 19th. At his residence at 409 Bleecker Avenue, there were over 125 callers including out-of-town guests from Toronto, Picton, Wellington and Ottawa.

Mr. Burley's entire family of seven sons and five daughters were present with the exception of one son, Ralph of London, who cabled wishes to his father on this memorable day.

One of the many gifts received by Mr. Burley was a lazy-boy chair presented to him by his family and to Mrs. Mildred Burley, his wife, a beautiful bouquet of red roses and a lovely pearl necklace.

Mr. Burley's railroading career is being carried on by three sons, Benjamin, Clayton and Douglas all employees of CNR in Belleville. During his 40 years here in Belleville, Mr. Burley has been very active in city affairs holding the chairmanship of Bleecker Ward for several years as well as being a trustee on the Board of Education, an official office in the B. of L. F. and E.—local 66 for over 37 years which is a record here in Belleville, and has attended conventions in Houston, Texas, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

As an interest to older railroaders, Mr. Burley has on hand at his home, an honorary invitation to the annual assembly in the IOOF Hall, dated Nov. 1st., 1905, signed by Mr. Geo. F. Ray, chairman and Mr. John Fitzgerald, secretary treasurer; also his first official receipt of acceptance into this lodge, signed by Mr. George Naylor, president, and Mr. J. A. McBride, organizer.

Mr. and Mrs. Burley are planning on celebrating the end of this road of daily routine with a several weeks' visit to Florida and other American cities.

Teachers Present Many Subjects For Discussion

One of the three fall conferences of Region Four of the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario met on Saturday morning in the parish hall of St. Thomas' Anglican Church under the chairmanship of Mrs R. Clarke, of Port Hope. Over 90 delegates were present from various points, including Peterborough city, and county; Ontario South; Northumberland and Durham; Victoria; Hastings South; Centre and Prince Edward. The theme of the conference, "Broader Horizons", was prepared by Miss B. Wood, of Toronto, president of the F.W.T A.O.

Following the devotional period, under the direction of Miss Cooke, the president's message was read by the presiding chairman, Mrs. R. Clarke, in which Miss Wood conveyed the thought that the teachers should broaden the scope of their professional activities, taking into consideration "Honoring contracts," "Loyalty to the profession", and in case of any professional difficulty, to contact the office at once," adding her appreciative thanks for the co-operation from all members throughout the province and extending best wishes for a successful fall conference and Broader Horizons in Federation activity in the future.

Various Reports

Mrs. Clarke called upon the various delegates to present the different reports, including "Educational Research," prepared by Gertrude Bergy, Provincial convener of Educational Research and read by Miss Kathryn Farmer, of Combermere, regional convener; "Superannuation," prepared by Norma Hackett, Provincial convener of superannuation, read by Miss Marion Weatherhead of Cornwall, Ontario; "Sick Benefit," prepared by Mabel F. Sabine, read by Miss Clara Doughty, of Peterborough; "Educational Finance," prepared by Mrs. Montgomery, read by Mrs. D. Gray, of Millbrook; "Legislation," prepared by Maude Sage, provincial convener, read by Mrs. L Young, of Grafton, Ontario and "Status," prepared by Nellie V. MacDonald, provincial convener of Status, read by Miss C. Bailey of Peterborough, and "Religious Education," prepared by Mrs. Eva Gordon Rankin, provincial convener of Religious Education, read by Mrs. R. Clarke, of Port Hope.

Discussion on Reports

Each of these reports admitted of considerable discussion, which brought the morning session to a close, after which the gathering of delegates and guests retired to the Kiwanis Centre for luncheon. Among the guests at the head table were Mrs. Donald McKinnon, formerly of the "Homemakers branch of the Consumers Department, Ottawa; Mrs. H. Thompson, hostess, Miss J. Tickell, Mrs. R. Clarke, presiding chairman; Miss M. Green; Miss G. Houston; Mr. L. A. Kells; Mr. R. Macklin and Mr. G. Wishart.

Following the luncheon, the guest speaker, Mrs. Donald McKinnon, who was introduced by Miss Houston, spoke briefly on "The Home Maker" in connection with the Consumer's section, which is currently heard over CBC.

Mrs. McKinnon, told of the ideal location of the Consumer's section in the capital, and of its various departments consisting of executive officers, and modern kitchens in which the recipes are tested before being given to the public.

Some of the things done in this department of the government, is the answering of consumers' letters regarding methods of canning and the preservation of foods; the releasing of tested recipes to the press; short talks by radio and the instructing in the advantageous purchasing of canned goods for the specific purpose for which they were needed.

Miss Pearl Campbell, former president of the F.W.T.A. extended a vote of thanks to Mrs. McKinnon for her interesting and informative talk.

An afternoon session was again held at the parish hall where more reports were read and discussed.

Obituary

MRS. E. J. PYEAR

Carmel United Church was filled to capacity with an overflow of friends in Jubilee Hall for the funeral of Mrs. E. J. Pyear, formerly Mary Iva Potter, on Thursday afternoon, October 19.

Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of St. Paul's, Carmel paid glowing tribute to her life at Carmel and her work in church and community ever since her marriage forty years ago. Mrs Pyear was organist of the church for several years and was a past president of the Women's Association and she and her husband and family all took an active interest in the Carmel Church.

Mrs. Pyear had been in ill health for the past three years and has been given loving care by her husband and daughter, Helen.

Mrs. A. E Baker, A.T.C.M., contributed appropriate music previous to the service and rendered a beautiful solo "Goodnight Beloved" The congregational hymns included "The Sands of Time are Sinking."

The bearers were Messrs Charles Bailey, Milton Hagerman, Charles Johnson, Ernest Carlisle, Lorne Brooks and Joseph Grills.

Interment was made in Stirling Cemetery.

LORNE FOSTER
(Denholm, Sask.)

A native of Moira district in Hastings, but a resident of the Canadian West since 1910, Mr. Lorne Foster of Denholm, Sask., died Saturday in St. Paul's Hospital at Saskatoon. He had been ill about one month.

Mr. Foster was born at Moira 71 years ago, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Gilbert Foster and lived there until shortly after the turn of the century, when he moved to Myrtle, Ont., where he resided for six years before moving to the west. He was a successful farmer in the Denholm district of Saskatchewan.

Surviving are his wife, the former Susan E. Roe and six children. There are five sons, James Roe Foster, superintendent of the experimental farm at Regina; George Ralph Foster, manager of the Canada Packers plant at Clinton, Ont., Lorne Douglas Foster of Battleford, Walter Glenn, farming at North Battleford, and Harold Gilbert Foster of Atlanta Georgia. There is one daughter, Mrs. K. L. (Jean) Alexander at Denholm, Sask.

A brother George F. Foster, Bleecker Ave., and three sisters, Mrs. Ethel Allison, Toronto; Mrs. Mary Pereman, Columbus, Ont., and Mrs. Bertha M. Hudson, of Belleville, also survive. There are nine grandchildren.

MRS. M. FLORENCE HANNAH

Funeral services for Mrs. M. Florence Hannah, who died in Toronto, October 16, were held Thursday, October 19, from the Meyers Elliott Funeral Home, Dovercourt Rd., Toronto.

The services were conducted by Rev. H. R. Howden of St. Michael's and All Angels Church. The bearers were H. McGarvin, B. Millar E. Sherry, H. Wannamaker, T. Sherry and R. Carleton.

Mrs. Hannah is survived by three stepchildren, Harry of Florida, Jack and Bessie of Toronto; three sisters, Mrs. Wm. (Beatrice) Chapple, Shoal Lake, Mrs. Harvey (Eliza) Carleton, Kingston and Mrs. Edmund (Frances) Sherry, Belleville; three brothers, John of Ameliasburg, William of Belleville and Blake of Toronto. Her husband predeceased her a year ago.

LATE WILLIAM DUMINIE

The funeral of the late William Duminie was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. Henry Hill of Christ Church. Mr. Hill also conducted the last rites in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were old friends of the deceased.

LATE ARTHUR SWAYNE

The funeral of the late Arthur Swayne was held from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home on Sunday afternoon to Coe Hill United Church for the service. At the funeral home chapel a service was conducted by Dr. Stanley Osborne of Whitby assisted by Rev. Robert Gay. At the church, Rev. A. Wheeler conducted a service and also the last rites at Coe Hill cemetery.

The flower bearers were six grandsons of the deceased, Arthur, Wesley, Ellwood, John and William Swayne and Geo. Fairhead, while the active bearers were Norman Gilroy, David Moore, Frank Sprackett, Richard Gunther, Harold Johnson and Thomas Henthorn.

FIREMEN OVERCOME

Oakville, Oct. 23. (CP)—One fireman was injured and two others were overcome in a $10,000 fire here in a garage. Norman Carter suffered head injuries and a broken arm when he fell into a repair pit. Daryl Cavin and George Shaw returned to duty after being revived from smoke effects.

Military Whist New Card Game Played in City

The Christ Church senior branch of the A.Y.P.A. is leading the way in introducing to this city a card game which has, for some time, been a leading group game in the larger centres. Military Whist, as the game is called, is a very easy game to learn and provides an excellent evening's entertainment.

Hands are played as in bridge except that the most difficult part of bridge, the bidding, is eliminated, the trump being named by some person in charge. Ace is high card as in bridge and tricks are taken in a similar way. The partners winning the larger number of tricks wins the hand and a flag.

A group divides into teams of four, select a captain and are allotted a certain number of flags. The captain sends two at a time to other tables in an attempt to "capture" a flag while he and the remaining team member stay at their own table to try and hold their flags. The team having the largest number of flags at the end of the game is the winner.

Sounds like fun? Well, the A.Y.P.A. is holding their first Military Whist of the season at Christ Church Parish Hall on Wednesday evening.

Police Alerted By Reported Picton Break-In

Provincial Police in the Bay of Quinte area were alerted early Sunday morning as result of a reported break-in at the Prince Edward County Co-operative plant at Picton.

The report turned out to be false with police reporting there was no evidence of a break-in at the plant.

Some time between four o'clock Sunday morning the night watchman at the plant heard a noise inside the plant office and he notified police. The night previous a nearby C. N. R. toolshed had been entered and a bar and hammer stolen and the noise inside the office led to the belief a break-in was in progress.

Provincial police from Belleville raced to Picton and city police were requested to check cars coming off the bay bridge. Police activity was called off when it was discovered there was no evidence of a break-in at the plant.

Cabinet Reshuffle In Australia

Canberra, Oct. 23 — (AP) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies today announced a cabinet reshuffle because " in light of the international situation it is essential the defence minister be located in Australia."

Eric J. Harrison, resident minister in London, is resigning his defence post to become interior minister. He will be succeeded by Philip McBride, present interior minister and acting defence head.

Poppy Wreaths Now Being Sold By Veterans

Poppy Day sale in Belleville will be Saturday Nov. 11th., "Remembrance Day."

The Belleville Poppy Fund committee are again making an appeal to the citizens of Belleville and asking their usual support to the campaign. Canvassers are already out soliciting orders for Vetcraft Poppy wreaths. From reports already received by the chairman, Henry Drury and secretary Everett Liddle, results are beginning to look up and it is to be hoped that Belleville will again lead the province of Ontario. Belleville has for the past two years been on the honor rolls for wreath sales. There were two cities namely Toronto and Ottawa who naturally by their large population sold many more wreaths.

The committee this year has been re-organized and all Veterans' organizations are represented on the committee with the Red Cross added.

The committee consists of the following organizations and their personnel are: Branch 99 Canadian Legion Max Matthews, Roy Madden, Everett Liddle.; Army Navy and Air Force Veterans, Henry Drury, Jas. H. Lazenby, R. Hewson; Canadian National Veterans, Harold Foote; RCAF Association, Les Digby; Red Cross, Ed Turner.

Henry Drury was elected president, Everett H. Liddle, secretary and Jas. H. Lazenby, treasurer. The investigation committee for welfare from the fund being L. G. Madden, Canadian Legion, Henry Drury, A.N. and A.F. Vets, and Les. Digby, RCAF Association.

The sale of poppies will be Saturday 11th November (Remembrance Day) and will be conducted by the Ladies Auxiliary of Canadian Legion and A.N. and A.F. Vets, assisted by members of the various Veterans' Associations and the Red Cross.

The usual Remembrance Day service will be sponsored by the Belleville Branch Canadian Legion and all citizens are requested to attend the service at the Cenotaph at 11 a.m. All veterans are requested to be on parade. The parade will form up at the armory and will be in charge of Lieut. Angus B. Duffy, past president of the Belleville Branch Canadian Legion. The annual Remembrance Day banquet will be held in the Armouries on the night of the 11th of November and is in charge of Les. Digby, 1st vice president of the Legion.

Father and Son Nab Man in Bowling Alley

Welland, Oct. 23—(CP)—Louis Pierce, proprietor of a Crowland bowling alley, and his 21-year-old son, Louis, Jr., collaborated Sunday in nabbing a burglar who broke into the bowling alley.

Tony Victor Esipu was charged with breaking and entering by night.

Police said the youth entered the father's bedroom and rifled his trouser pockets and then entered the son's bedroom. The son watched the intruder lift a wallet out of his pants pockets and walk out of the room.

The son wakened his father and the two of them went down to the bowling alley where they captured the youth after a struggle.

IN MEMORIAM

KNIGHT — In fond and loving memory of a dear husband and father, Charley Knight, who passed away October 23rd, 1949.

He is gone but not forgotten
And as dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us
Friends may think the wound is healed
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.

Lovingly remembered by wife and family. O23

HAGERMAN — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother who passed away October 23, 1945.

Today our thoughts they all go back to just 5 years ago
When all our smiles were turned to tears
By a sad and bitter blow.
We often sit and think of you
And talk of how you died,
And to think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
Forget you, no we never will
We loved you then, and always will.

Always remembered and sadly missed by her loving husband and daughters, Catherine, Annie and son-in-law Earl Gray and grandchildren, Billy, Bobby, Barbara Gray. O23

HARVEY — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Gladys Robotham, who passed away on October 23, 1948.

Her loving face I hope to see again,
Though the days have passed away;
Sleep on, dear wife, and take your rest.
They miss you most who loved you best.

Ever remembered by husband and daughter. O23

COXON — In loving memory of a dear son, Able Seaman Thomas Coxon, lost in the sinking of H.M.C.S. Margasee, October 22nd, 1940

The garment of his soul has passed away,
The shining spirit and the love stay,
The echo of his voice, his eyes, his smile
Just as they were, are with us all the while.

Ever remembered by his mother, dad and brothers, Jack and Ray. O23

CANADIAN DOLLAR

New York, Oct. 23—(CP)—The Canadian dollar was unchanged at a discount of 5 per cent in terms of United States funds in opening foreign exchange dealings today. The pound sterling was unchanged at $2.80½.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 23—CP—Industrials became irregular as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

After opening strong industrials turned mixed with gains slightly more than losses. Steels showed the only real majority of gains in the groupings. Algoma headed the list adding $1.50 at a new high of $28.75. The rest of the board was mixed with the exception of refining oils which slipped fractions.

Base metals continued Saturday's advance into new high price ground. Gains more than doubled losses and ranged up to $1.

Senior gold producers were mixed with Teck Hughes and Wright-Hargreaves ahead and Dome Mines and McIntyre lower. Junior producers declined with many of the more speculative issues showing small losses

Western Oils continued their recent decline with a wide list of leaders lower

Ontario Grain Average Possibly Highest on Record

Toronto, Oct. 23 (CP)—Despite a late harvest, average grain crops in Ontario this year were probably the highest on record, the Ontario Agriculture Department said today in its monthly crop report.

Quality was generally good although wet weather and frost caused some damage.

The department said cool, wet weather since early September has affected the quality of the dry bean crop and held the yield below average. Late blight in southern Ontario and frost in the north are reducing the potato crop.

Divorce Petition By Ex-Army Major Dismissed

London, Oct. 23—AP—A divorce petition in which an ex-army major cited his 66-year-old father as co-respondent, was dismissed in divorce court today.

The court ruled that the petitioner, 41-year-old John De Perigault Mayhew, "gave no direct evidence" of adultery between hs third wife, Mrs. Frances Phoebe Mayhew, and her elderly father-in-law, a former conservative Member of Parliament.

In tossing the younger Mayhew's petition out of court, the judge ruled he must pay his own costs.

The son had asked £10,000 ($29,000) damages, a claim that died with dismissal of his divorce petition.

Justice Charlton Hodson suggested that the son and wife were merely seeking money.

The whole case hinged on the wife's testimony that her father-in-law repeatedly seduced her, promising to deed her a £6,000 London house in which he allowed her and his son to live rent free.

Judge Hodson ruled: "I cannot accept her evidence in the face of the elder Mayhew's denial and in the absence of corroborating evidence. The house was never given her."

Young Mayhew had been cashiered from his commission in the army, had untruthfully represented himself to other people as a lawyer, an electrical engineer and a member of the R.A.F. and had written bogus cheques which his father had redeemed, the judge said.

Three Boy 'Explorers' And Small Dog Saved from Cavern

Harlansburg, Pa., Oct. 23—AP—Three young "explorers" and a small dog were rescued today after their flashlights failed while they wandered through the maze-like passageways of a cavern.

Apparently none the worse for their 12-hour stay in the bat-filled tunnels of the cave were Herbert Harkless, 12; Eddie McClelland, 16, Ernest Mallinak, 26, and "Andy," year-old Cocker Spanial owned by young McClelland.

The plight of the three turned this western Pennslyvania town of 500 out in full force to aid in the search.

Troops of the South Korean 8th met the stiffest red resistance of the day. An enemy battalion supported by artillery attempted to slow their advance in the Pukchong area, 50 miles northeast of Pyongyang, fallen red capital.

But a spokesman at U.S. eighth army headquarters said a South Korean column had thrust north of Huichong, almost another 50 miles north of Pukchong in the centre of the peninsula.

This column was within 50 miles or less of the Manchuria border.

The South Korean 6th division was pursuing the reds up a new escape route toward Kanggye, reported to be red Premier Kim's new army command headquarters.

Lt.-Col. G.W. Black Dies at Hamilton

Toronto, Oct. 22—(CP)—George W. Black, 75, a former lieutenant-colonel of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, died in hospital here yesterday after a brief illness.

Col. Black, who served with the 120th Battalion in the First World War, was stricken with coronary thrombosis Friday while visiting at his daughter's home in nearby Thorncrest village.

Two Youths Die In Car Crash At Curve in Road

Windsor, Oct. 23 — (CP) — A traffic accident at Farnham's curve on highway No. 18 today claimed the lives of two teen-age Detroit youths.

Tom Carpenter, 19, was dead on admittance to hospital here and Tom Davidson, 18, died an hour and a half after being admitted. They were injured when the car in which they were passengers left the highway and crashed into a hydro pole.

Edward Tretheway, 21, driver of the car, suffered minor lacerations about the face and a possible fractured elbow; Julius R. Chevalier, 18, lacerations, and a possible shoulder injury, and Richard Whittaker, 17, slight cuts. Roy J. Marden, 18, escaped injury. All are Detroit residents.

Hydro power in some parts of Windsor was cut off when the Detroit car snapped the heavy pole off at the base.

Ambulance attendants and police said live high tension wires were wrapped around the car and trailed on the ground when they arrived on the scene.

Federal Council Urges Changes To Save Marriages

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America urged that stiff and out-moded legal procedures in divorce cases be relaxed so more marriages can be saved.

The council yesterday joined in a move by the American Bar Association to apply the less formal juvenile court principles to the divorce courts.

"In such procedures, difficulties between married people are approached through the informed insight of a third party, sympathetically helpful of salvaging the marriage," the council said.

The council represents 27 protestant and orthodox denominations with approximately 29,000,000 members.

Change of Venue Given Fosbraey For His Trial

Toronto, Oct. 23 — (CP) — A change of venue was granted Saturday to James Fosbraey, 28, of Napanee, Ont., for his second trial on a charge of murder in connection with the stabbing of his wife last Nov. 28.

Sheriff H. J. Colliver of Prince Edward County said in Picton last night that the trial would open there Nov. 6, almost a year after the body of Mrs. Fosbraey, mother of a four-year-old girl, was found in blood-stained snow near her parents' cottage in Napanee where she had been living. She had been stabbed once in the heart.

The change of venue was granted by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence reversing a decision he made last Tuesday when he ruled against a motion by Fosbraey's counsel, who claimed that local prejudice would prevent a fair trial in Napanee.

At the time, Mr. Justice Spence directed that no account of the proceedings be published. Reports of the hearing appeared in some newspapers which had not been advised of the judge's request. Saturday's ruling was made because of this publicity.

Fosbraey, convicted of murder at his first trial in Napanee and sentenced to be hanged Sept. 21, was granted a new trial on the grounds that there was a misdirection of the jury by the trial judge. He was accused of stabbing his wife to death four days after he returned from a visit to England, his homeland.

FIVE JUVENILS HELD

Toronto, Oct. 23. (CP)—Five juvenils aged between 11 and 14 were arrested Sunday night by police who waited eight hours near a cache of $2,000 worth of cigarettes hidden in a warehouse yard. A break-in at Ridgeway and Atterly Company, Limited, was discovered Saturday and detectives found the loot hidden under packing cases.

IMPRESSIVE MIGHT

Events in Korea have been moving with impressive rapidity and might. Airpower of the United Nations has been demonstrated in the swiftness of the blows which fell upon the North Korean communists. Co-ordination of all the forces, air, land and sea, has been demonstrated in the campaign. The U.N. forces have delivered effective blows, not only in the early days but in the latter period of the past few days with the parachute landings. Co-ordination has been shown in its most effective manner.

The effect upon the Koreans of the north must be bewildering as they have seen their armies forced into retreat with a suddenness which descended when once the U.N. forces were ready to make their drive to force the campaign to a swift close.

On Saturday it was revealed one of the greatest armadas of history is in Korean waters. A Vice Admiral said the naval forces of the United Nations numbered more than three hundred-odd vessels, the combined displacement of ships under his command being more than a million tons.

The United Nations have in this the first campaign they have been compelled by circumstances and a sense of duty to carry out acted with an effectiveness and resolution, the influence of which has not been lost on the communist world. Determination to prevent aggression wherever it raises its head is the united will of these powers banded together for world security.

POPULARITY OF HORSES

Signs that the horse is coming back are reported by Lethbridge Herald which cites word from Glenville, Minnesota, that a farmer has undertaken to supply a demand for horses. However it is said this demand is not for the Clydesdales, the Percherons and the Belgians, which were formerly the source of farm power in that part of the continent. According to Glenville reports the horses which are wanted today are the Fancy Dans, the riding horses, the trotters and pacers and the flat racers. The reason given is that greater time for recreation has made possible this popularity of horses of this type.

Displacement of horses by machinery in the farm power field has spread. But according to this story "farmers now want horses to admire, for pets and for riding for recreation. And a lot of townspeople are joining in the fun which horses for recreation and for show can provide."

The Herald comments, "We note some indication of a similar trend here in South Alberta. If the Minnesota story is right, the horse may stage an unexpected comeback."

Horses still hold everywhere a charm for those who have been in close touch with the industry despite the advance of the automobile and the truck in general favor for business, and for the extension of the area of travel which a motorist can enjoy, whereas travel by horse and buggy was limited in comparison with the coverage which a motorcar and truck can give besides the saving of time.

In respect to replacement the horse alone among the animals which have been for ages associated with the growth and development of the human race, has been compelled to compete with one of the greatest inventions of time — the motorcar. But still this noble animal retains an appeal, especially for those who have early been brought into association with horses. Horse-lovers are still as ardent admirers as they ever were. They still place the horse on a high pedestal as may be seen at fall exhibitions where horses are on show and where they participate in trials of speed and in the show ring. Other animals, like cattle, or sheep have no such rival as the motorcar. It would be a pity if the world should in time to come forget the noble animal which has for thousands of years borne the burden of humanity and advanced the frontiers of civilization — the horse.

However mechanical means of locomotion may advance, the horse has left his mark on civilization and still holds a place.

PONIES FOR PETS

Due to the advent of tractors, ordinary horses aren't worth much on the market these days. But there is one type for which a ready sale does exist, ponies for pets.

We note a Scottish exporter has obtained orders for 1,000 Shetland ponies, at $150 each, in Texas. Wealthy Texans find these fat, gentle little poines ideal pets for their children; perfect mounts upon which boys and girls can learn to ride, says Windsor Star.

The Scot concerned is not the only one with enterprise. We know an Ontario farmer who has quite a lucrative sideline, breeding ponies for sale to gentlemen farmers and others who want the little horses for their children.

JUST FOLKS

WAITRESS

There's a ring upon her finger, just a simple hand of gold;
On that hand a tray of dishes that a coward wouldn't hold.
She takes scorn from many a proud man, silly chatter from a fool,
And the reason why she does it — is to keep her child in school.

She must play the gracious lady; keep a smile upon her face.
Of resentment, of ill manners, she must never show a trace.
Were she robed in silk or satin, men would find her a delight
But to send her child to college she wears sombre black and white.

She never seeks for pity as she does her dreary tasks.
Just respect and mere politeness I am sure is all she asks.
Just the way you'd treat your sister (Why not make it now the rule?)
Were she working as a waitress so her child could go to school.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

We are coming to see that no nation today can be neutral when world struggle is threatened. A few nations try to stay on the fence, but they soon fall to one side or the other. The world has become so much of a neighborhood that our neighbors cannot be struck without our feeling the blow. Political and military neutrality are impossible in the modern world.

And moral neutrality has always been impossible in any age. Jesus urged men either to make the tree good and the fruit good or else to make the tree corrupt and the fruit corrupt. Be decisive, He said. In the great eternal issues you cannot stay perched on the fence. Decide for God or for Satan. "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." More than a thousand years before Jesus' day, Joshua had said to the Israelites, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve."

The most certain guarantee of a drab personality and an inglorious career is an attempt on the part of anyone to be morally neutral in a world bristling with moral challenge. We've just got to take sides. There is no point of neutrality in the great struggle going on in the world between good and evil. If we refuse to choose, we have already chosen. Neutrality is surrender.

Board Allows Three Companies To Deduct Fees

Ottawa, Oct. 23—(CP)—The income tax appeal board has ruled that three Toronto companies, charged in 1947 with being parties to an illegal combine in dental supplies, should be allowed to deduct legal fees incurred in defending themselves against the charges.

The companies, all acquitted of the charges laid under the Combines Investigation Act, were the S. S. White Company of Canada, Limited, Dominion Dental Company, and Goldsmith Brothers Smelting and Refining Company.

In judgments made public Saturday, the board ordered that the Dominion Dental Company and Goldsmith Brothers each be allowed a deduction of $312 for 1947, and the S. S. White Company a reduction of $1,125.

The appeal reached the board after the revenue department refused to allow the companies to deduct their legal fees from their 1947 taxable income.

In the judgment in the White Company case, Fabio Monet, assistant chairman of the board, said that in most cases legal fees are not deductible for income tax purposes because they are not considered wholly necessary for the purpose of earning income.

However, in the combine case the company engaged lawyers to answer charges that it was conducting its day-by-day business in an illegal manner.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

IT COULDN'T, IT SHOULDN'T, BUT IT DID

Last night at Lindy's a bunch of us were discussing what, for want of a better term, I'll call the inevitability of the impossible

"The most improbable yarn I ever heard," said Deems Taylor, is the one about a missionary named Renault who was captured in 1949 by a tribe of cannibals in French Equatorial Africa.

"According to a report in the files out at the U.N., just as they were about to roast him over a fire, shish-kebob style, the missionary fell to his knees and asked the Lord to have mercy on his servant, Renault. And when the cannibal chief heard the name, he untied him and told him to go about his business.

"No, it wasn't the prayer that did the trick—it seems that six months before, they had cooked and eaten another gent named Renault and he had turned out to be tough and tasteless."

"I know an equally implausible story," I piped up. "The one about the clerk in Tacoma, Washington, who was handed five thousand dollars to buy insurance for a bridge that was under construction. The fellow had never stolen a nickel in his life, but this was one temptation he couldn't stand off—what in the name of the five Ringling Brothers could happen to a bridge?

"Suiting misdeed to thought, the clerk went to Reno and blew the whole five grand on a couple of gals and then, the night before he was due to start back, the Mayor of Tacoma phoned and wanted to know about the insurance. It seemed that the bridge—the famous Galloping Gertie of the newsreels— had come apart at the seams and fallen into the gorge."

"The believe-it-or-not that tops them all is the one about Charles Coghlan," said Eugene Burr who writes the theatre pieces for Playbill.

"Charles who?" I asked.

"Coghlan," said Burr, "the actor who used to play opposite Lily Langtry back in the last century. When he was 50, he bought himself a farm on Prince Edward Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and quit the stage for what he thought was good. A few years later, however, Forbes-Robertson made him a very attractive offer to play Mercutio in a touring production of 'Romeo and Juliet,' and while Coghlan hated to leave the island, he couldn't afford to turn the offer down. In one season, he'd earn enough to be able to live comfortably the rest of his life.

"When his neighbors came down to the boat to see him off, the actor assured them that, come heaven or high water, he'd return when his tour was ended. And he did— but it took both heaven and high water, and in that order, to arrange it.

"Heaven got into the act shortly after the tour started—in Galveston he suffered a heart attack and died, and was buried in a cemetery not far from the sea. The high water came a year later, September 8, 1900, when a tidal wave hit Galveston, drowned six thousand people and washed away a good part of the waterfront, including most of the coffins in the cemetery.

"Some months after the disaster, a fisherman on Prince Edward Island went down to the beach one morning to inspect his nets, and found a coffin which had washed up on the sands.

"On it was a brass plate with the name 'Charles Coghlan' — the actor, with an assist from the Gulf Stream, had made good his promise to return."

MacKenzie's Column:

Countless Millions Under-Privileged Folk in Asia

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Both the western and the eastern worlds finally are taking practical cognizance of the fact that there are in Asia countless millions of terribly under-privileged folk whose condition is a deterrent to stability.

The Moslem states of Asia and the Middle East now are uniting to alleviate the sufferings of this class within their own countries. This follows the decisions by the Commonwealth nations and the United States to inaugurate general relief measures for the hunger-stricken areas of Asia.

These moves are stimulated by the knowledge that under-privileged peoples are subject to political exploitation and thus are liable to fall prey to communist propaganda. The position was well summed up at an 11 - nation Islamic economic conference just concluded in Tehran.

Chulam Mahommed, Pakistan finance minister, said:

"The common man has so far hardly figured in the economic or political thinking of Moslem countries, but nevertheless it is he who is the backbone of our strength.

"He has been the victim of neglect so far, but we cannot afford to neglect him any longer. Unless the living standards — and at present there are none worth the name — of our people are raised, and they are made free from fear or want, we must realize that we can have no political, social or economic stability."

This move by the Moslem countries will come as a welcome complement to the measures projected by the U. S. and the Commonwealth, for the need far exceeds the relief available. There are scores of millions of people so under-privileged that they literally never know what it is to be without hunger, to say nothing of lacking suitable clothing and shelter.

Much of the hunger and poverty, of course, is the result of conditions with which Asiatic governments find it difficult to deal. The scarcity of food is due in many instances to agricultural limitations. Many things enter into this situation — want of irrigation, primitive farming methods, lack of seed and fertilizer, inability to purchase proper tools.

This inability to produce adequate food crops is what the U.S. and the Commonwealth countries propose to remedy. The idea is to help the Asiatic farmer to grow bigger and better crops.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

All the innocent men away at work all day in office, factory and shop little know what is going on at home these days.

Little do they know what a procession of high-pressure salesmen, wooey saleswomen, crooners, sob-sisters and other subversive characters is being entertained by the hour from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Radio is careful not to let the men find out what goes on at home. There is not the slightest resemblance between the programs that are fed into the homes all day while the men are away, and the programs at night, when the men are at home and on guard.

Before the men leave in the morning, the programs are brisk and rowdy and gay. The minute nine o'clock strikes — by which time the vast majority of homes are left defenceless — the whole tone changes. The programs become furtive, cosy, chummy, sotto voce. The music becomes muted. Even the voices that merely talk still croon. Sometime around noon, the soap operas begin. The house becomes a setting of tragedy and unrest. Male voices mutter. Female voices sob. There is not a moment of the day in which our women are not being wooed, serenaded, coquetted, ogled, blandished, and their hearts wrung, their emotions torn, their sentiments played with.

But when five o'clock strikes, look out! The tone changes instantly. On come the rowdy programs again, aimed at the youngsters, fresh home from school. Good, lusty programs full of rootin', tootin', and shootin'. As Dad comes weary in the door, the house is full of the lively and up and at 'em spirit which will animate the radio for the balance of the evening.

In the old days, salesmen and saleswomen from door to door could not get past the sill because there was work to be done inside. In the old days, a woman could not lie around reading novels all day, because there was work to do. Now they can work and weep at the same time; or what is worse, be rolled for a ten spot while waxing the hardwood floor.

A MAN IS NOT A FROG

The zoologists tell us that the skin of a frog serves as a respiratory organ. When submerged, the frog obtains oxygen from the water through its skin. When not submerged, the skin appears to function as an auxiliary respiratory apparatus, in addition to the frog's normal air passages and lungs.

From time to time the statement goes unchallenged that the skin of man also "breathes." Nudists seem disposed to the notion that the unfettered skin aborbs oxygen from the atmosphere and augments a theoretically deficient supply obtained through the lungs. Here and there a doctor may be found who has never taken the effort to disabuse his mind of the notion, held over from his pre-medical days, that the human skin absorbs oxygen.

Scientifically, the skin serves to protect the organism from external injurious influences; it serves as an organ of sensation; it excretes certain substances—about which, more later—and it serves to regulate the body temperature.

The substances which the skin excretes are chiefly salt and water; this in the form of perspiration. Very minute quantities of uric acid may also be recovered from perspiration. So far as the "excretory" function of the skin is concerned, this covers it. But not this: The word "excrete" does not mean the same thing as the word "eliminate". The skin has an excretory function. It does not have an "eliminative" function. I make this distinction because the word "eliminate" ordinarily has reference to the discharge of "waste" or "toxic" substances such as found in the expired breath, the urine or the stool.

Many glands "excrete" essential substances such, for instance, as digestive juices. True, these glands first "secrete" these substances. The process of delivery, however, involves excretion. I hope this clears the atmosphere for what follows.

The skin will excrete anything of a soluble nature which it may happen to contain in its superficial layers. But, and this is a very large but, the substances thus excreted are contained largely within the cast off cells of the superficial layer. These substances can in no sense be considered as "eliminated" as an essential function of the skin.

Thus, a deeply jaundiced skin will leave traces of bile on a wet pack applied to it. This bile is not "eliminated" by the skin, in the sense that certain by-products are eliminated by the kidneys. The skin merely contains the bile and if the superficial cells are rubbed off, the bile comes with them.

The skin does not eliminate "poisons", either as a substitute or auxiliary function of the usual elimnative organs—the kidneys, lungs and bowel. The skin is not designed for any such function. In common with all other tissues of the body, the skin may contain certain by-products when the kidney function fails. The fact that these by-products can be demonstrated in the sweat does not indicate that the skin is exercising an "eliminative" function.

Iron in appreciable amount may be found in sweat. But the more cells (superficial skin cells) contained in the sweat, the more iron is found.

In reverse, so to speak, the skin does not absorb all the substances with which it may come in contact. If a mouse, for example, is deprived of water to the point of desperate need and is suspended in a jar of water in such manner as to prevent the water from being swallowed, it will die of thirst just as readily as it would out of water.

Thus, the skin is neither an "eliminative" organ nor is it an "absorptive" organ. This should dispose of such quaint notions as those involved in the process of taking steam-baths to "sweat out poisons", going nude to "absorb" more oxygen or smearing on "tissue foods" in the form of ointments

What to expect of your skin and what to do and not to do to it, is covered in some detail in the booklet titled, "Save Your Skin," which you may have by requesting it by name and enclosing in your letter addressed to me in care of this newspaper, 25c in coin and a stamped, self-addressed, return envelope.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Calcium Stops Many Ailments

Your advice about calcium has completely stopped my migraine headaches, besides a number of other minor ailments. (D. C.)

Answer—Trouble is that many sufferers from migraine or the numerous minor ailments due to calcium deficiency can't get it through their heads that correction of the deficiency is not a matter of "trying" medicine for a week or two. It requires (a) restoration of the high-calcium foods to the diet and (b) supplementation of the diet with optimal daily rations of C and vitamin D—which is essential for utilization of calcium. Send stamped self - addressed envelope for pamphlet Why Have Headache? If you would like also the booklet The Calcium Shortage inclose 25c in addition.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CITIZENSHIP

On this North American continent citizenship is something of which every one of us can well be proud. It is an inheritance as well that has cost many a sacrifice, and hardships beyond description, by those who were pioneers in freedom with a love of liberty.

Here it is that we may think, worship and vote as our conscience may dictate, and no one can interfere. How we should guard it against any foreign ideology, no matter how disguised. In every election, not only should we register, but vote/ And that vote is our sacred right to exercise as we may choose, without the interference of anyone or any government.

I have never understood how anyone who would take the time to register would then fail to vote, yet the record shows that in some instances nearly half of those who register do exactly that. Strange, isn't it? Why did such people register in the first place? It's the actual voting that counts. And how it counts! You have no right to find fault with conditions, that appear to you to be wrong, so long as you do not realistically protest.

What a weapon for freedom and good government is this ballot that a free nation has so generously given to the humblest of its citizens! How can anyone barter it away when it means so much to him and to the nation as well? Citizenship is largely an inheritance, but to vote in a free country is a privilege that should thrill the voter, as it always does that one who loves his country.

Your vote is never thrown away —even though your candidate may be defeated. It isn't always the best candidate, or the best party, that wins. The important act for you is to know that you have voted freely, and as you wanted to vote. You have then fulfilled your obligation to citizenship. Study history. How often minorities have become majorities!

Take pride in that citizenship of yours, and all that it means to you. Never neglect any of its obligations or sacred rights. Always register, where it is essential, and always vote.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

ASK "WHAT KIND OF INSULATION"

Before insulating your home, compare any other kind of insulation with a Johns-Manville Longfibre Super-Felt Rock Wool Batt.

Feel how resilient it is and note the extra-long fibres of rock wool are firmly felted. A J-M Batt won't crumble or lump up; even with rough handling it holds its shape and thickness, fits perfectly between rafters without gaps or thin spots. Nor can J-M Batts ever burn or rot. Once installed, they are good for a lifetime. Year after year, they'll save up to 30c of every fuel dollar.

Don't gamble on just "any" insulation. For new construction, insist on J-M Longfibre Batts — for existing homes, specify J-M "Blown" Rock Wool. For more information, write Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto— or see your nearest J-M dealer.

A BELLEVILLE FINANCIAL INSTITUTION

- Managed by the Givers.
- Combining gifts.
- Providing for three Agencies' needs.
- Eliminating three separate solicitations.

WHAT IS THE COMMUNITY CHEST?

THE COMMUNITY CHEST IS THE BELLEVILLE CITIZENS WHO POOL THEIR GIFTS to provide the annual financial needs for three Belleville Agencies:

Children's Aid Society
Victorian Order of Nurses
Y.M.C.A.

NOTE: This eliminates three separate solicitations.

●

1. IT RAISES FUNDS
by organizing one efficient campaign annually, which takes the place of three annual Agency solicitations.

2. IT COLLECTS
the Givers' subscriptions which may be pledged in 10 monthly payments.

3. IT DISTRIBUTES
these gifts among the three agencies according to a scale determined by the Volunteer Budget Committee, which consists of prominent Givers.

4. IT IS MANAGED by the Givers through a Volunteer Board of Directors representative of large gifts.

5. IT REQUIRES that the Volunteer Board of Directors of each of the three agencies be responsible for the proper use of Chest funds, and the proper execution of its program.

●

● It is hoped that by next year all of the eligible and desirable agencies of the community will be included in the annual Chest appeal.

WHAT THE CHEST AGENCIES DO FOR YOU!

THEY SAVE . . .
lives of your loved ones and friends by preventative medical care and treatment, by caring for the sick and by preventing the spread of disease plus the cost of sickness.

THEY SAVE . . .
hundreds of dollars in property and penitentiary costs through the prevention of delinquency and crime through character-training, leisure time direction and the building of good citizens.

RAWDON

Bride-To-Be Feted By 30 Leaders

Rawdon.—Last Friday evening, Mrs. Raymond McConnell and Betty entertained over 30 ladies of the Allan School Section S.S. No. 3, at Mount Pleasant, in honor of Miss Lois Weaver, a November bride.

The home was artistically decorated with evergreens, pink and white streamers and bells, a silver basket of pansies and other autumn blooms.

A special chair was decorated with a canopy above from which hung balloons filled with confetti which popped at the appointed time showering the bride.

Mrs. McConnell presided over a brief program which opened with a round of singing, led by Mrs. Marguerite McMullen with Betty as accompanist after which some time was devoted to each lady writing her favorite recipe. Mrs. Ross Jeffs read "Advice to the Bride". Miss Carol Sharp sang "Hop Scotch Polka", with her mother as accompanist. Mrs. Herbert Smith read "The Farmer Takes a Wife", Mrs. Ross Hoard contributed a piano solo, "Coronation Medley". Miss Ruth Sharp read "To the Bride-to-be".

Mrs. Percy MacMullen conducted two contests: "The Intelligence Test", was won by Mrs. Frank Smith, while "The Motor Romance", was won by Miss Doris Sine, Mrs. Douglas Campbell and Mrs. Ross Jeffs.

The hostess staged "A Word-finding contest", and each group received a prize.

The guest of honor was seated and Mrs. Carleton Potts read an appropriate address in rhyme, while Misses Shirley McKeown and Betty McConnell pricked the balloons at the proper intervals.

Gifts Presented

Little Miss Carol Sharp and Master Kalvin Sharp wheeled in the gifts in a decorated doll carriage and when Lois opened her wrapped parcels they revealed an electric kitchen clock and an electric tea kettle.

Lois graciously thanked her friends and invited them to view her trousseau at an early date and to visit her when she is settled at West Huntingdon.

Several ladies assisted the hostess in serving refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour and wished Lois every happiness on her matrimonial voyage.

STIRLING

St. James the Minor Church Holds Card Party

Stirling — A successful card party was held in the Legion hall on Friday evening under the auspices of St. James, the Minor Church, there were nine tables of cards.

The following were the prize winners: Ladies, Mrs. Arnold Forestell; men's, Mr. J. E. Fellion; consolation ladies, Mrs. J. Legrow; consolation men's, Mr. J. E. O'Donnell; lone hand prize, Mr. Arnold Forestell.

Bountiful refreshments of sandwiches, cake and tarts were served at the close.

Women of The Moose

Last Monday night around 20 members of the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435, got together with the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, Jr. Grad. Regent Kathleen Donnavon and held a surprise house warming for co-worker Melissa Carey, who had reecently moved into her new home.

After the fluster and excitement of so many surprises and faces the hostess invited all in. Junior Grad. Regent had entertainment for guests in games, spelling bee and finishing riddles, with prizes being won by many.

Melissa was then invited to open her gifts which consisted of beautiful cups and saucers and towels.

She graciously thanked the guests and invited all to visit her.

Co-worker Donnavon served delicious refreshments assisted by the hostess, Nellie Scrymgeour, Barbara Burshaw and Mary Haslip.

The Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435, held their regular euchre last Thursday in the Saco Club rooms, with prizes being won as follows—ladies' Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Hall, K. Bean; men's, Bryum, Hickey, Beckstead, Bean; lone hands, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Nevery; freeze out, Mrs. Johnson, Kitty Lennox.

Last Thursday night was quite a Moose affair. The W.O.T.M. Chapter 435, attended social evenings at Belleville and Port Hope. The co-workers attended Belleville Lodge 1004 and were well entertained with euchre and novelty dances. Refreshments brought a grand evening to a close.

A sincere vote of thanks goes out to Bro. Jack Hammond, chairman of the entertainment committee, to Governor Bill Thompson and all Brothers who made a success of a good social evening.

The girls visiting Port Hope also had a grand time. Enjoyed film on "Mooseheart Our Child City", which always touches the heart of every loyal Moose to see the good all are doing.

A large class of candidates were initiated in honor of Bro. Robb, chairman of the membership committee, who in turn presented each new brother with a Moose pin and welcomed them into the fraternity.

Refreshments were served by Governor Bashey and his entertainment committee.

HOLLOWAY ST. CHURCH W.A.

On Thursday afternoon the October meeting of Holloway Street United Church W.A. was held in the Sunday School rooms.

Reports of the various committees were received and a numbers of business items concerning the bazaar to be held in November, were attended to. A few moments of silence were observed in memory of Mrs. Dunphy, a valued member, who had recently passed away.

Mrs. T. A. Tucker and her group had charge of an interesting and inspiring program. The following ladies taking part—Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. Ricketts, Mrs. Deline, Mrs. Burrows, Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Hitchon, while the pianist, Mrs. Downey, played softly throughout.

A delightful solo was sung by Mrs. Ross Bell, who first gave a brief account of the song which was written by Seth Parker.

Refreshments were then served by the group in charge.

Washable White Kid Gloves

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE FINAL touch of good taste to a lovely costume has been white or egg-shell glace kid gloves, for years and maybe a century of years.

The last word on such gentle accessories today is the washable glace kid glove, which takes away none of its charm, and on the contrary, heightens its value.

The gloves, above, are sixteen-button classics, and they cost about the average price for such gloves. In other words, their hidden suds talents are not prohibitive. The length which stops just short of the elbow is also a treat to see and have, not forgetting ordinary wrist length models, too.

Vickie O'Neil V.O.N.

"There now, Mrs. Coles, your husband is resting comfortably, and all is ready for the day. Vicki spoke softly as she closed the bedroom door of the tiny cottage and stepped into the living-room to pull on her trim, blue coat, glancing in a nearby mirror to push and tuck in stubborn, gold curls under her soft, brimmed hat. "You won't need to worry about him, and I'll be around tomorrow."

"Miss O'Neill", the woman's voice broke and she paused, then, "How much do we owe you for this visit?" and Vicki sensing her distress said matter of factly, "Sit down, and rest a minute yourself, and I'll explain to you. "You see," she went on as the woman sank wearily on the couch, with Vicki beside her, "every single visit is estimated to cost $1.50. So that sets our fee. I've been in Dalebrook now a little over a year and during that time out of all visits made, 56 per cent were free. That means that has to be made up from somewhere, and the V.O.N. must rely largely upon the generosity of those who donate to the Community Chest, for help."

"How I'd love to pay $1.50! Its a small amount indeed for the wonderful service you do." Mrs. Cole said earnestly. "But even that small amount is impossible for us just now. My husband has been in the hospital for three months, following his heart attack. His income was cut off. Unfortunately we didn't have the Blue Cross and the hospital bill was as you might suppose, a dreadful blow to our budget. Now we do not know how soon it will be before we, that is, my husband can go back to work. The children have to be dressed for school; there's food to buy, coal-rent, unfortunately we don't own our home, and right now, I hardly know where to turn."

"Keep your wonderful courage and don't lose faith, Mrs. Cole," Vicki thinking that in being fair to her Order, she must also do the same for her patients, "Suppose for the time being we give free visits, two a week, until we see how things shape up. There are many, you know, who can pay, in full, some less, and some none at all. You must understand that. Remember, everybody is subject to trouble, it may strike anytime and is no respector of persons. When it does come, that's where the V.O.N. steps in. To give help, to as many, for as little, as it possibly can. Now I must be on my way. See you, next visit."

"We won't forget this, your kindness, making it possible to get on our feet again. And you will be paid, just as soon, as we are able. This is my promise."

"Of that I have absolutely no doubts," Vicki smiled warmly. The woman was sincere, deserving and honest as the day was long. She waved her good by with a singing heart. On her way to the office, she stopped at the post office. There in her box lay a letter. She couldn't wait to get it out of the box.

If you are in need of any kind call the V.O.N. 1125, who will call on you, regardless of financial status.

Dionne Quints In Montreal On Way Home

Montreal, Oct. 23. (CP)—Canada's famous five—the Dionne quintuplets—arrived here from New York Sunday night and played a hectic two-hour game of hide-and-seek with about 5,000 Montrealers.

The game began when the quints stopped off at Windsor station for a two-hour visit with Roman Catholic Archbishop Paul Emile Leger of Montreal between trains en route to Ottawa.

More than 1,000 people filled the concourse of the station and more than four times that number jammed the entrances.

The quints, accompanied by their father Ovila Dionne, and several relatives and attendants, alighted from a special railway coach. Police brushed aside press photographers and hustled the quints to a specially-cleared laneway and a fleet of waiting automobiles.

But they never made it!

There was a cry of "it's them," hundreds broke the police barrier and the game was on.

Police rushed the quints to another entrance but the crowds got there first. Papa Dionne moved his daughters into a nearby baggage room while police made arrangements to clear them through the freight entrance. No good.

The five girls, neatly dressed in tailored grey suits, grey velvet hats, green shoes, grey suede handbags and green boy ties, remained calm.

Poured Inside

The crowd outside the station rushed police barriers, broke them, and poured inside. A strong cordon of police hid the quints behind a stationary railway train, then sneaked them over to a baggage elevator and let them out on a railway parking lot.

A crowd had already assembled there. They broke down a gate and surged in. Police pushed them back. Automobiles were ordered. Two large black cars were filled with officials and relatives as a blind. As they moved off the crowd rushed after them.

Then the quints were bundled into another car and sent on a cruise of the city to throw off pursuers.

Half an hour later they met Archbishop Leger. He gave them gifts of gold medallions from Italy and boxes of candy.

The five all agreed they like New York "very much". Papa Dionne said the girls were tired and did not want to be asked questions.

The group left for Ottawa without commotion.

WILL RECEIVE ALL MONEY

Regina, Oct. 21—CP—The Saskatchewan Roughrider Quarterback Club will make its contribution Sunday to help out the widowed mother of Jack Bell, Sarnia Imperials football player who died from injuries suffered in a game last Saturday.

New Autumn Velours

By ALICE ALDEN

FINE materials, with interesting surface treatments, deftly manipulated into graceful head-hugging lines, are top news for Fall. Exquisite colors and novel trimmings are added attractions. This all adds up to what is best in the latest millinery styles. Chanda, a trend-setter where the small, young hat is concerned, comes up with this one, a close fitting velour turban, trimmed with a cascade of newly minted Roman gold coins tied on with purple wool.

CAMPBELLFORD

Patsy Wallace Wins First Prize At Oratorical Contest

Campbellford—A large crowd filled the Campbellford High School auditorium on Thursday evening, when the Seymour township schools held their oratorical contest.

The musical part of the program included a chorus by pupils of S.S. No. 11, Burnbrae, a piano duet by Marilyn Haig and Pearl Craighead; folk dances by pupils of Burnbrae, and a quartet composed of Patsy Wallace, Gladys Fraser, Marilyn Haig and Pearl Craighead.

At the conclusion of the contest Ward Archer presented the Fraser trophy to Patsy Wallace for first prize, Aylmer Petherick presented the Seymour Trophy to Jerry McCullouch, second place, Mrs. Lewis presented the Seymour West W.I. trophy for third position to Elizapeth Barnum, and Mrs. Willian Hume presented Gladys Fisher, fourth place winner with the Seymour East W.I. trophy. Reeve J. Billen was chairman.

By winning first place in the township contest, Patsy Wallace earns the right to try for the county honor at Warkworth on Nov. 3rd. Judges were Mrs. Gordon McCulloch and Mrs. Jack Rannie.

Club Activities

GOOD COMPANIONS' CLUB

The Good Companions' Club of Tabernacle United Church met in the church parlors for their regular meeting on Friday night last.

Rev. F. R. Harback conducted the devotional period, centring his talk around the book of Philemon, showing how Paul, as a Christian, had met certain practical problems of his day. Mr. Harback also brought out the fact it was the lives of the early Christians that won people to their way of life.

Following the devotional, Mrs. Herb Parks delighted the group with her beautiful solo "Where E'er You Walk", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ken Bird.

President Morris Smith introduced Mr. Jack Murray, of Peterborough. Mr. Murray, representing the Davis Agency, spoke to the group on the work of the agency. As the Good Companions' Club are planning to act as representatives of the Davis Agency in Belleville, Mr. Murray went into some detail as to how to handle the work.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

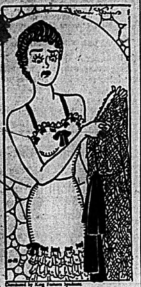
BEAUTY

Style starts with the foundation garment.



Distributed by King Features Syndicate

You cannot wiggle into the new form-fitting dresses

Unless a woman has a youthful, slender figure and carries herself with splendor, she should wear some sort of girdle or foundation garment. The buyer should be fussy, since a corset has much to do with concealing anatomical faults and creating the attractive silhouette. It is well worth while to seek the services of an experienced corsetiere, one who is familiar with all the funny quirks of the feminine shape and knows what should be done to camouflage them.

Though corset designers offer many models, it often happens that alternations are necessary. Only an expert is qualified to decide upon these matters.

To buy a foundation casually is a waste of money. Body forms are so varied that it is impossible to make a good selection merely from measurements of bust, waist and hips.

The ideal figure of 1950 has a high, rounded bust; a neat, sculptured waistline; compact hips. If you do not possess this statuesque shape do not despair, the correctly fitted corset will help you attain it.

The wrong model will have a deplorable effect upon posture, while the one that is beautifully molded to the figure will inspire a woman to pull up her spinal column, lift her chest, hold in her abdominal muscles, appear proud and regal.

Young girls who think it is cute and arty to slump will maintain better posture if they are properly harnessed. If the breasts are over-developed, causing them embarrassment, they must have the supporting help of a neatly fitted brassiere. If this support is lacking, the weight of the breasts will cause them to sag, lose firmness and pleasing contour.

The woman with a little shelf south of the waistline—caused by slack muscles and the accumulation of fat cells—will require a special garment that will flatten the spare tire.

After a summer of freedom—neglected exercise and diet, weeks of a complete lack of anything pertaining to restraining garments—some sorry silhouettes are produced. You cannot wiggle into the new form-fitting skirts and dresses and have an extra wrinkle or bulging line anywhere. Not if you want to join up in the fashion parade!

There are new ideas that will intrigue you—elastic sections that stretch from east to west; others that go north and south; inner belts that nip inches off the waistline.

OPERATE LATER

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 20 (CP)—Locks in the St. Mary's Falls canal will operate later than usual this year, C. E. Aune, canal superintendent, announced Thursday. The locks normally close Dec. 17 but the shipping season will be extended if weather permits because the locks opened a month later this spring.

BATEMAN MOTORS

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

Cooks can always take advantage of the power of suggestion. No dinner gongs are necessary when the fragrance of roasting meat or the aroma of melting cheese carries its keen message through the kitchen air.

Even the milk from which the cheese is made is produced under the stimulus of the right suggestion. Recent research shows that cows begin producing milk when the rattling of milk pans send the right message to the animals' brain.

Old Canadian cheese, when raw doesn't have a particularly appetizing aroma. But when it begins to melt over a gentle flame, the warm scent will make the dullest appetite spring to life.

Avoid too strong a flame when cooking cheese or the protein will toughen and become stringy. The best precaution is to cook the cheese over the indirect heat of a double boiler.

The word rarebit, meaning a melted cheese dish, was originally rabbit. Poor Welshmen who were unable to afford rabbit had to content themselves with cheese instead.

Today Welsh rarebit is a speciality in the swankiest clubs and hotel restaurants. When green peppers and tomatoes are added to the dish, it is known as creole rarebit.

Creole Rarebit—4 Servings

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1-2 cup diced onions
1-2 cup diced green peppers
1 cup canned tomatoes, chopped
3-4 pound old Canadian cheese
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon cornstarch
4 slices toast
Paprika

Melt butter or margarine in the top part of a double boiler over a direct flame. Add onion and green peppers. Panfry until onions are tender. Add tomatoes using pulp only, not the juice.

Place over bottom part of double boiler which contains simmering water. Add Canadian cheese cut into 1-2 inch cubes. Add Worcestershire sauce, salt and mustard. When cheese is competely melted, stir in the cornstarch mixed to a smooth paste with 2 tablespoons cold water. Continue to cook rarebit over hot water 15 minutes together.

Place toast on serving plates. Spoon rarebit over toast. Sprinkle with paprika.

Britain Gives Better Status To Domestics, Their Training

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP) — A new state-trained British "army" badly needs recruits.

Its members call themselves "trained houseworkers" and their purpose is to help combat the after-war antipathy to domestic service.

Recruits spend six months at a government training school, receiving a salary of 19s (2.95) weekly. Instruction includes first aid and home nursing, how to get along with a family, how to shop and cook, do general domestic chores and be a handy-man on fuses and other household gadgets.

The girls are also expected to be skilled in fine and heavy laundry as well as hand and machine sewing. At graduation, the lucky ones leave with a diploma from the National Institute of Houseworkers and prospective employers are told:

"You may employ our houseworkers only if you agree to our standards of wages and conditions."

These include a minimum wage of £2 1s 6d. with 30s extra for living out, a 48-hour week, 1½ days off a week and time off for all recognized holidays. A two-weeks' paid holiday yearly, with three weeks for five-year diploma holders, is also guaranteed.

Asked if housewives would be willing to accept these conditions if the number of state-trained houseworkers became so great that women could pick and choose Mrs. Marion Spikes, chief officer at the London headquarters, said: "I don't think we shall have any trouble at all over that."

Most authorities agree. Anyway, the test is a long way off. So far there are fewer than 1,200 of these smartly-dressed girls in blue cotton dresses and beige collars and cuffs. Prospective employers range in the six-figure category.

Women's Institute

ROSLIN W.I.

The October meeting of the Roslin Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of the Misses Wilson with nineteen ladies and five children present.

The president, Mrs. W. Slingerland, presided.

The Area convention will be held in Belleville on Nov. 8-9. It was decided to hold the next meeting on first Thursday instead of second Thursday, at the home of Mrs. D. Chisholm.

Conveners of Standing Committees reporting were, Mrs. D. Leslie, "Agriculture and Canadian Industries", who gave a resume of duties of the convener. "Citizenship and Education" was reported by Mrs. K. Sharpe with a paper, "Snettisham-Ingoldisthorpe W.I. Branch in England and Help for Home Builders".

"Historical Research and Current Events" was given by Mrs. D. Chisholm with a piece taken from the recent Moira River survey.

"Home Economics", was given by Mrs. W. Chisholm, who explained the many ways of making fancy sandwiches.

Mrs. M. Fargey gave "Publicity" and read an interesting account of a trip to Wallace Havelock Robb's "Abbey Dawn", taken by a Women's Institute group.

Appreciation Voiced

The president at this time expressed thanks to Mrs. Empson, vice president, and the members who had assisted with the social evening and nylon plastic demonstration held on Wednesday evening in the hall and which she has been unable to attend.

The leader for the day, Mrs. J. Fargey, gave a paper on the motto "One Little Act Performed is worth a million good intentions".

Community singing was enjoyed.

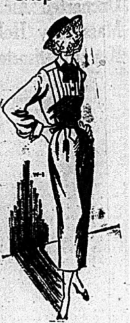
Mrs. W. Colden gave a paper on the topic "The Value of the W.I. to our Country", and ended with a poem "Blessed Are the Loyal Souls".

The leader conducted a turkey contest.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time was enjoyed.

A display of fancy sandwiches was given at this time by Mrs. W. Chisholm and Miss H. Wilson.

Crisp Look



Crease-resistant beige dress

By VERA WINSTON

FOR the career girl, the college girl, or indeed for any one who admires the neat, crisp look, here is a nice dress of beige rayon flannel that is crease-resistant. There are folds down either side of the buttoned-down centre band that dips in a little tab below the brown calf belt. To soften the line it has a white faille collar and cuffs. The skirt is cut on modified peg-top lines. A brown velvet tie matches the calf buttons.

Correct form for divorcee's name in telephone directory

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have recently received my divorce. My ex-husband has remarried, and he and his wife live in the city where I live. I have two children, in their early-teens, who live with me. Under these circumstances, how should I list my name in the telephone directory?

Martha H.

You should list your name in the telephone directory as you should list it on all other occasions . . .Mrs. Robinson Hall. In other words, you drop your ex-husband's first name, and in its place use your maiden surname. This is the correct form of name for a divorcee to use, because it is both dignified and practical . . . .shows at once, and in a dignified way, your status.

Please don't be tempted to use your first name of the "Mrs." . . .please not 'Mrs. Martha Hall' or 'Mrs. Martha Robinson Hall.' This form of name is not correct for a divorcee to use . . .and why take trouble to be incorrect when it's so simple to use the correct form of name? If for any reason you feel that you must indicate your first name in your new name, use the initial . . . . Mrs. M. Robinson Hall.

(It is particularly important for you, with children of this age, to use the form of name that you know is correct, and that they can be assured is correct.)

Today's favorites: Shaded Antique Roman and Script

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm shopping for my wedding invitations, and I can't decide what to choose. Especially as to lettering. What do you consider the most popular type of lettering for wedding invitations and announcements today?

Bride-to-be

The favorite type of lettering for today's brides is, I should say, Shaded Antique Roman. Deservedly so, too, I think, for this type is graceful, youthful, very effective. However, always in excellent taste—indeed the most conservative and traditional lettering—is Script, either the conventional size Script or the larger lettering, the so-called London Script. (Warning: If you do choose Script, please don't choose the small tight lettering, which has a skimpy appearance.)

To renew a summer friendship

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last summer during my vacation I visited relatives in a city some distance from here, and during my visit I met a very charming young man who took me out several times, dancing and to the movies. When I was leaving for home, he asked if he could write to me, and we exchanged addresses. I have been back home two months now and I haven't heard from him. Must I wait to receive the first letter from him, or would it be proper for me to write a letter to him?

Marie T.

You'd be a smart girl not to write to him first, I think. . . this would look too much like "crowding" him, pursuing him. Men are famous, you know (or should know) for procrastinating about letter-writing. However, you might send him a bit of a hint. . . a picture postcard of something in your home city, for example, with a brief, casual, merry greeting.

Apple Becomes One of Most Versatile Foods

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa (CP) — For the modern housewife, the apple evidently is becoming one of the most "versatile" of foods.

She still can bake it in a pie; or turn it into sauce for pork. But there are other uses too — she will try it in a stew; and an apple with some ham is about the finest dish what am.

Seriously though, home economists of the consumer section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, recommend apples baked with ham as an ideal meat course.

Ingredients: One slice of uncooked ham (about 1½ inches thick); one teaspoon dry mustard; two teaspoons vinegar; two apples; one-half cup brown sugar; one teaspoon butter.

Trim rind from ham. Mix mustard and vinegar together and spread on ham. Slice apples thinly and spread in layers on ham. Sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until ham is tender — about 45 minutes.

Flavors Soups, Stews.

..These food experts recommend adding a half cup of grated raw apple to beef stew or chicken soup. They say it adds a new and interesting flavor.

Apples also have gained favor in salads and pickles and, of course, it's hardly necessary to mention that they're still popular in pies and desserts.

Another agriculture department recipe is steamed apple pudding—an ideal cold weather dish.

Ingredients: 1½ cups grated apples; one cup carrots (grated); one cup chopped raisins; 1¼ cups sugar; 1¼ cups chopped beef suet; two cups flour; one teaspoon soda; one teaspoon cinnamon; one-half teaspoon ground cloves; one-quarter teaspoon salt.

Mix all ingredients together, sifting soda and spices with flour. Pour into large buttered mold and steam three hours; individual molds require 1¼ hours steaming. Serve with hot pudding sauce.

Cheese Crust.

Recent suggestions that cheese and apple pie be served tourists as Canada's favorite dish finds the agriculture department with a recipe for apple-pie with cheese crust.

Line pie plate with pastry and cover with layer of thinly sliced apples. Allowing about two tablespoons of sugar to each apple, sprinkle sugar, mixed with a little cinnamon or nutmeg over the apples. Dot with butter. Repeat until pie plate is well filled.

Roll one-half cup grated cheese into pastry for upper crust. Cover apples with the cheese crust. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees F. and bake for 20 to 30 minutes longer or until apples are tender.

Advance Party Special Brigade Well Out to Sea

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 23. (CP)—The advance party of Canada's special brigade was far out on the blue Pacific today—believed headed for Okinawa.

The 350 Canadian troops had a somewhat lonely leave-taking when they piled into the 11,000-tin United States Navy Transport ship James O'Hara here Saturday. The band which sent them aboard with "Rule Britannia" was from the United States army, Americans watched them from the dockside and more American troops waited for them on board.

The advance party—95 per cent veterans—is en route to a Pacific Island (generally reported to be Okinawa) for further training. An army spokesman said the rest of Canada's 10,000-man United Nations force will follow by the end of November at the latest.

(This differed from previous information from Ottawa that only part of the Korean brigade will go to Korea and most of the special force will go to Europe after advanced training in the Southern United States.)

The soldiers, brought here by bus from nearby Fort Lewis Army base, looked in top physical shape. Boots shone like stars. Americans, dressed only in fatigues, look drab beside them. The younger G.I.'s glanced with admiration at the rows of ribbons nearly all the Canadians wore, at hard faces that had seen battles on the other side of the world.

First Canadian aboard was Cpl. E. A. Vigurs, of Edmonton.

"Glad to be aboard," he told reporters.

Volunteer Altar Boy Now Wanted

Chicago, Oct. 23 (AP) — The services of a volunteer altar boy added $67 to the expenses of the Louis Plotke-Geraldine Oken wedding yesterday.

The youth borrowed a surplice and cassock from St. Alphonsus Church, claiming he was a friend of the Oken family. He told the bride and bridegroom the church had directed him to "stick around and help the bride."

He carried the bride's bouquet down the aisle. He went to the wedding dinner and reception. Then he vanished. With him vanished envelopes containing $67 on display among the wedding gifts.

But he may have played his part too well. He posed with the others in the wedding pictures.

Police are waiting for them to be developed.

Uncharted Air Mass May Hold Key to Disasters

Toronto, Oct. 23 (CP) — The Toronto Globe and Mail in a copyright story on seven R.C.A.F Vampire jet fighter planes running into 200-mile-an-hour headwinds at 30,000 feet advances the theory today that this uncharted air mass may hold the key "to a series of unsolved air disasters."

In an accompanying front-page story, played under an eight-column headline, the newspaper also advances the possibility that the "invisible wall" of wind might be the solution to the mystery of flying saucers. Both stores are by James Hornick, the paper's aviation writer.

Hornick in his main story told of the seven jets, flying to Toronto from Chatham, N.B., last Friday, encountering headwinds in eastern Ontario that suddenly cut their speed from 425 miles an hour to 225. The formation quickly "got under the wind" and completed the flight safely. Hornick's story continues:

"For Sqdn. Ldr. Bob Davidson and six other pilots, it was nothing unusual. They had encountered the jet stream, a three-dimensional ribbon of high-velocity a that blows diagnonally and moves with the seasons up and down the North American continent.

"This is the new-found phenomenon that may hold the key, many aviators are convinced, to a series of unsolved air disasters It has given birth to a branch o meteorology in which Canada is a pioneer."

No Comment Made

Hornick described the "jet stream" as the same type of weather condition as low altitude, that produces heat lightning, comparable to the condition that creates fog—two air masses meeting at different temperatures. In this case, the air masses met at high altitudes.

There was no immediate comment from leading meteorologists.

In his flying-saucer story, Hornick describes last Friday's aerial incident as follows:

"If you had been hiking Friday between Cornwall and Prescott, something high in the sky might have caused you to stop, strain your eyes and panic.

"More than six miles above seven silvery objects appeared standing still. Then, as the sun reflected from their polished surfaces, they suddenly darted out of sight.

"If your imagination was in good repair, you'd have sworn they were flying saucers...

"The objects were jet airplanes battling a severe headwind."

Thirteen Persons Die Violently During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Thirteen persons died violently during the weekend in eastern Canada, seven in Ontario, three in Quebec and three in the Maritimes.

A compilation by The Canadian Press showed seven were fatally injured in traffic accidents, two died in the accidental discharge of guns, and two were crushed to death.

Ontario had four traffic deaths: David Woodcock, 77, of Trenton, by a truck Saturday near Belleville; Herbert Messenger, 68-year-old New Liskeard farmer hit by an automobile. Mrs. John Watt, 59 of Perth, fatally injured in a two-car crash and Peter DeFina of Toronto, victim of a truck-station-wagon collision at Richmond Hill.

Keith Teizzard, 16, of Dixie, near Toronto, died from a blast in the stomach from a shotgun held by Jack Karr of Toronto, a companion on a hunt for starlings. Police said the trigger of the gun caught in Karr's jacket and discharged.

At French River in Northern Ontario, Anthony Plebon, 36, highway worker, fell from a bulldozer Saturday and was crushed beneath the tracks. Gordon A. Cooper, 26, of Newtonbrook, near Brampton, Ont., was crushed to death under five tons of hot asphalt Saturday when his dump truck crashed into a cement culvert.

Quebec's fatalities were: Lucien Landry, 17, of Montreal, when his rifle accidentally went off while duck hunting near Lachute; Adrien Desmarais, 14 from injuries suffered when he fell from the third floor of an orphanage at Huberneau; and Dennis Boyer, 5, hit by an automobile in front of his home at Masson, 20 miles east of Ottawa.

At Saint John, N.B., police are investigating the deaths of two men, Robert Bothwick and Leslie Steel, 70.

Steal died in hospital Saturday from head injuries received in an attack by an unknown assailant. The body of Bothwick, reported missing from his home for a day, was found Saturday in Johnston Lake.

The Martimes third fatality was Claire Barry, 41, of Newcastle, killed there Saturday when hit by an automobile as he alighted from a taxi.

British Seaman Held for Trial On Burglary Count

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—A British seaman accused of twice entering heavily-guarded Buckingham Palace and stealing a diplomatic dispatch box was held for trial here today.

Defendant Douglas Monro, 25, told the Bow Street court he was "under the influence of drink"—£1's worth of beer—at the time of the escapade Oct. 12. He pleaded innocent to the burglary charge at the hearing. The court denied bail.

F. D. Barry, for the crown, said Monro succeeded in eluding palace guards just before midnight Oct. 12, climbing a railing, entered a ground floor window, and made his escape with the dispatch box.

Barry said the seaman carried the locked box several blocks away, enlisted the aid of a pushcart pedler in prying open the lock with a pair of wirecutters, and examined the contents.

Monro allegedly told the questioning pushcart merchant he wanted some of the documents printed in Britain's "Daily Worker," communist party organ. The pedler told the court he thought Monro "was a bit potty."

Monro is accused of throwing the dispatch box into an ash can from which it was retrieved by a tramp. The latter turned it over to an Irish Guards sergeant.

Barry claimed Monro returned to the palace grounds a second time and penetrated into the inner precincts of the great building via a wall before a policeman and an army guard seized him.

HIT DITCH NOT SKUNK

Peterborough, Ont., Oct. 23—(CP)—Motorist Frank Fitzgerald, 24, told police he swerved on the highway to avoid hitting a skunk. The skunk ambled safely away while Fitzgerald's car hit a ditch, then struck a hydro pole which sheared off one side, injuring Fitzgerald and Maureen Humsdale, 20, of Oshawa.

THOUGHT SHE WAS A WREN

Ottawa, Oct. 20 (CP)—Mistaken identity Thursday cost Richard Floyd, 40, of suburban Eastview, $10 and costs when he appeared in magistrate's court for trying to "pick-up" policewoman Edna Harry. Floyd told the court he thought she was a navy wren. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Traditional Peepholes in Doors Not Forgotten in New Chamber

[illegible]OLD K. MILKS

[illegible] (AP) — The historic chamber of the House of Commons, burned out by German bombs in 1941, will re-open October 26, rebuilt completely even to the traditional peepholes in the doors.

The new chamber, a far cry from the one in which members of Commons first met in 1925, is a clever combination of the ancient and modern. The peepholes, at first forgotten, were included as a bow to old tradition.

Always, in the good old days, members peered through the holes to inspect the King's "Black Rod," the messenger who came to summon parliament into session. An alert member of today's Commons spotted the omission of the peepholes from the new doors.

Take Out Glass Panels

Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, the architect, agreed it was a mistake. Out came the new glass panels and in their places went wooden ones, complete with holes through which Commons members may peer to their hearts' content.

The King and others in the royal family will help open the new chamber. But the ceremony will not be held there. It will be in another part of Westminster Palace.

This will be for two reasons, one traditional, the other practical.

A king never visits the House of Commons. The practical reason is equally important — the Commons chamber is just too small for the hundreds of dignitaries. Like all halls of the Commons back through the ages it's too small to accommodate on the benches even all its 625 members.

The new Commons chamber still seats only 939 persons counting spectators. There are green felt-covered benches for 437 members. The other 188 members will have to stand if all should be on hand at one time.

The floor of the chamber remains precisely the same as that of the old house, 68 feet by 45½ feet.

The new chamber, like the old, is Gothic. But there has been a marked attempt at embellishment by what the architect describes as "horizontal bands of enrichment alternating with plain areas."

The walls are covered with English oak treated to give a mellow color.

Churchill Arch.

Most obvious new feature of the rebuilt chamber is the Churchill Arch, constructed from damaged stones of bomb-battered old meeting place and named in honor of Britain's wartime prime minister.

Most of the commonwealth countries have contributed replacements for the ruined furnishings.

Canada contributed the table of the House of Commons. Newfoundland, before it became a province of Canada, contributed six chairs from the former prime minister's conference room.

Clearing of the burned-out chamber began May 10, 1945, four years to the day after German planes hitting at the nearby Battersea power station and Waterloo bridge sent two salvos of bombs screaming into Westminster Palace.

Clifton Brown, then and now Speaker of the House, laid the cornerstone of the new chamber, May 26, 1948.

Since 1941 Commons has had temporary accommodations in the old House of Lords.

Army to Probe Absenteeism in Canada's Force

Ottawa, Oct. 21—(CP) — The army today prepared to make a statement on how many men of Canada's special service force are not on hand.

High brass got into high gear yesterday when reports got about that a startling number of the special 25th Brigade—built in a hurry to fight in Korea or elsewhere if necessary—were "A.W.L."—absent without leave.

Reports were called for from each of the stations which have been training 25th brigade troops. The army was concerned as to whether the later reports would show more or less absenteeism than was reported last weekend, when 703 of the 9,000-man unit were said to be A.W.L.

The 703-figure was reported to contain at least 100 deserters—soldiers absent without leave for 21 days or more.

Defence Minister Claxton ordered the latest check-up, after newspaper reports pointed up the total of absentees. However, he declined comment on the 703 figure.

So many factors enter into the matter of A.W.L. that high army sources would not hazard a guess as to the general nature of the absenteeism. Experienced officers pointed to these factors—the hasty recruiting, the heavy training of the force, the fact that Canada is not at war, the fact that the war in Korea seems almost over, and the general uncertainty of the eventual destination of the special force.

Meanwhile, a special force of 300 officers and men the brigade's advance party—have arrived at Fort Lewis, Wash., and will embark shortly, presumably for Okinawa.

Defence Minister Claxton is expected to make a statement next week on whether the main body of the 25th will go to Fort Lewis by mid-November, as planned before the Korean campaign started drawing to an apparent close.

Bunche Hopes West Has Learned Lesson in Korea

London, Ont., Oct. 21 (CP)—Dr. Ralph Bunche, winner of the 1950 Nobel Peace Prize and United Nations mediator in Palestine in 1948, said last night that he hopes recent events in Korea have taught the Western Democracies a lesson in their relations with the people of Asia and Africa.

He spoke after the University of Western Ontario conferred on him an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. He is believed the first Negro to be honored in that way by a Canadian university.

Descendants of many of the Negros who fled from the United States to Canada about the time of the American Civil War nearly 100 years ago were present to witness the honor accorded a member of their race. The University of Western Ontario is situated in that part of Canada in which the fugitives found haven.

Dr. Bunche said Korea was an object lesson that might well deter future adventures. Now the time had come when Korea must be unified and united.

JUNIOR "B" — TWO GROUPS

Repres[illegible]s of eight junior "B" teams waggled [illegible] the council chamber in Memorial Arena [illegible] afternoon and the outcome was two junior groups in this neck of the Central Ontario woods.

After the smoke of discussion had cleared, the reps under the chairmanship of OHA executive member, Frank Buckland, Peterborough and Lorne Cook, Kingston, decided that an eastern group would consist of Kingston Vics; Queen's University; Gananoque; Brockville, with possibly Smith's Falls and Perth. The western group will consist of Belleville; Peterborough; Lindsay; Oshawa and Port Hope.

With Brockville, Gananoque and Perth in the Rideau Valley League, it will be necessary to get the permission of officials of that loop for these teams to operate in the OHA. Brockville, it was stated, has made definite plans for a junior squad and will use Gananoque ice until the new arena is ready.

Considerable discussion took place over the admission of the Port Hope team. Motion and amendment flashed over the board until it was finally decided the Port Hope team would take its chances as a Junior "B" team with the other four entries.

Port Hope representatives insisted that its team be classified as Junior "C" to go on in the playdowns of that category at the conclusion of the group schedule. Belleville, Oshawa and Lindsay and Peterborough interests objected to this, and at one time the Lindsay representatives moved that a four-team group be formed with Port Hope out.

However, Port Hope agreed to enter the group on the junior "B" basis, and that is the way it will be, providing they finish in the first four teams. If they finish at the bottom of the standing they will go on in the "C" playdowns.

The group will get started on or about November 15th and the first four teams will enter the playoffs. There was some objection raised to this suggestion but the wrinkle was finally ironed out with all in agreement. Playoffs will consist of the best of five semi-finals and the best of seven finals if time permits. If not the finals will be the best of five.

The schedule, which will be drawn up by executive member Buckland within a day or so, will be a triple affair with each squad playing twelve games at home and away.

The senior schedule will be ready within a couple of days, according to Lorne Cook. The Belleville team has asked for a postponement of its opening and scheduled for November 3rd. This will be done in order to allow the team to get its house in order and also some practices under its belt.

Cleveland Barons In Top Spot West Division

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons are up on top of the American Hockey League's western division today.

Last night the Barons squeezed a 3-2 victory from Providence Reds with the winning goal coming less than two minutes from the end.

Meanwhile, Cincinnati Mohawks — erstwhile division leaders — were knocked off 4-2 by St. Louis Flyers.

Springfield Indians won an easy 7-3 triumph from New Haven Eagles.

Fred Thurier, veteran A. H. L. star, scored the winner for Cleveland while Ken Davies of the Reds was in the penalty box. Les Douglas and Sunmor scored the other Cleveland counters in the second period. Davies and Ray Laplante scored for Providence.

Kenny Hayden scored twice for Springfield while others went to Johnny Horvath, Ford, Charlie Gagnon, Burnett and Bill Gooden. Johnny Holota, Louis Blake and Manson counted for New Haven. The Indians counted three times in the first period.

New Haven now has lost six in a row.

The Flyers banged in goals by Billy McComb and Ed Nicholson in the third period to beat the Mohawks.

McComb also scored the opener while Henry Backor got the fourth goal. Moore and Robert counted for Cincinnati.

Hershey Bears took command of the eastern division by beating Buffalo Bisons 5-4 and Pittsburgh edged Indianapolis 2-1.

The Hershey victory snapped the Bisons' unbeaten string at 4 games. Jerry Brown scored the winning goal with Walt Atanas of Buffalo in the penalty box and other Hershey goals went to Red Sullivan, Sam Bettio, Russ Lows and Frank Mario. George Pargeter got two for Buffalo and Gordie Pennell and Bob Dawes one each.

Bill Ezinicki scored the first Hornet goal, Chuck Blair fired the winner. Larry Wilson counted for the Capitals who have lost 5 straight.

Weekend Stars

Tod Sloan and Harry Watson, Toronto, tallied twice each Sunday night to lead the Leafs to a 5-3 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

Jack Gelineau of Boston and Chuck Rayner of New York who kept their cages clear as the Bruins and Rangers played to a scoreless tie.

Jim Peters, Detroit, whose goal midway through the third period gave the Red Wings a 3-2 decision over Montreal Canadiens. It was the Montrealers first loss of the year.

Gerry McNeil of Montreal and Turk Broda, Toronto, who both turned in their second shutout Saturday night. Montreal blanked Detroit 2-0 and Toronto downed New York 5-0.

Toronto Leafs Move Into Second Place by Winning Two Games During Weekend

By The Canadian Press

It took two tries on successive nights to do it, but Detroit Red Wings Sunday finally tagged Montreal Canadiens with their first loss of the new National Hockey League race.

The Stanley Cup champions slammed in two goals within 14 seconds in the final period for a 3-2 triumph over the Habitants who in Montreal Saturday night inflicted the season's first loss on the Wings, 2-0.

In other weekend games, Toronto Maple Leafs defeated New York Rangers 5-0 and Chicago Black Hawks 5-3, and the Rangers and winless Boston Bruins played to a scoreless tie, the first of the season.

Canadiens are still in the lead with eight points, one ahead of Toronto. Detroit is third with 5 points, Chicago and New York tied in fourth place with three, and the Bruins occupy the cellar with two.

At Detroit last night, Gerry McNeil of Canadiens extended his streak of shutout netminding to 158 minutes and 37 seconds—more than two full games—before Len (Red) Kelly beat him.

Montreal got off to a 2-0 lead in the first seven minutes of play as Calum MacKay and Elmer Lach drilled sizzlers past Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuck. Maurice Richard drew assists on both.

Kelly, the big man on the Wings attack, got his second goal and the tying marker at 9:41 of the third period, and Jim Peters poked home Clare Martin's rebound for the winning tally 14 seconds later.

Rollins Played in Chicago

After chalking up two shutouts in a row, goalie Turk Broda of the Leafs sat it out in Chicago Sunday, giving understudy Al Rollins a chance to show his mettle under fire.

Broda, 36, and oldest active player in the N.H.L., was given his rest by coach Joe Primeau. Rollins responded with a fine chore in his first appearance as a Leaf away from Toronto. He played part of one game and all of another in Toronto last year.

Big Harry Watson and rookie Tod Sloan took matters in hand in front of Rollins, clicking for two goals each. Flem Mackell got the fifth goal.

At Boston Sunday, the Rangers and Bruins skated futilely about for an hour with not being able to put the rubber past the goalies. Chuck Rayner in the New York net played a standout game.

Broda scored his second straight shutout of the season in Toronto Saturday night before 13,467 fans. Goal-getters for the victors were Cal Gardner, Sid Smith, Tod Sloan, Max Bentley and Harry Watson.

The Rangers, who haven't scored a goal in their last three games, play their first game of the season at home Wednesday when they'll entertain Boston.

Canadiens extended their unbeaten streak before 14,642 hometown fans in blanking the Wings Saturday. Calum Mackay and Leo Gravelle got the goals.

Boston Players Pass Out Cigars For First-Borns

(By The Canadian Press)

Two Boston Bruins hockey players passed out cigars in the dressing room last night before the team played New York's Ranger in National Hockey League game.

Veteran Woody Dumart became the father of a boy Saturday night and Eddie Harrion became the father of a girl Sunday.

Dumart, whose first child was born at Phillips House of Massachusetts General Hospital, is a Kitchener, Ont., native now living in Boston. The eight-pound, eight ounce child will be christened Bruce.

The Harrisons, who live in Toronto, haven't yet decided on a name for their first child, a seven-pound four ounce daughter who was born in St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto.

Stan Burns, president of the Ontario Basketball Association, said in a statement Sunday night that secondary school basketball players are not compelled to play only for their school teams.

He said Windsor education officials have been creating the impression that students could play only in one league. Each player has the opportunity to choose the league with which he wishes to affiliate, Burns said.

He said player-status announcements recently made by John Forster, principal of Sandwich Collegiate and Percy P. McCallum, vice-chairman of the Windsor Board of Education, needed to be clarified.

Eighteen year old Jimmy Dryden of Medicine Hat Tigers has lost the sight of his right eye.

He suffered a serious skate cut in Friday's Western Canada Junior hockey league game here when Tigers lost 4-3 to Moose Jaw Canucks.

An operation to remove the eye will be performed today.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker, who is setting the pace in the race for national riding honors, booted home five consecutive winners at Bay Meadows Saturday to boost his season's total to 287.

Joe Culmone, his nearest rival rode one winner at Jamaica and his total now is 278.

Minor league baseball attendance fell off more than 8,000,000 during the 1950 season, the National Association of professional baseball leagues reported Sunday.

The minors' office said 57 minor leagues had a total attendance of 35,566,346, with paid admissions totalling 32,910,377.

This total was 8,127,352 persons below the 1949 total.

Playoff games drew 1,456,923.

Eva Novak of Hungary bettered the world mark for the 200-metre breast stroke swimming the distance in 2:48.8 in the country town of Eekesfehervar, Bucharest, newspapers reported Sunday.

The world record of 2:49.2 is held by Miss Nelly Van Vliet of Holland.

Charlie (King Kong) Keller, who hit a payoff blow for baseball's New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers, socked a hole-in-one on a golf course at Grand Rapids, Michigan, yesterday.

It was Keller's first ace. The ball travelled 120 yards, propelled by a No. 8 iron, on the third hole of the Blythefield Country Club.

With Gary Kearns pitching a three-hit game and striking out 14, Mimico Painters won the Ontario Baseball Association bantam crown Saturday, defeating Peterborough 13-3.

It was the second straight playoff win for Mimico and the 14th verdict in a row for the Mimico righthander.

CANADA PRODUCES GOLD FOR ALL THE WORLD

Canada, world's second largest producer of gold, exports more than ninety-five percent of her product—an important contribution to the world supply of this universal medium of international exchange.

Why Seagram's sells Canada first

This is an adaptation of one of a series of advertisements which, for the past two years, The House of Seagram has published in magazines and newspapers printed in many languages and countries throughout the world. These advertisements feature various Canadian products—lumber, salmon, furs, nickel, apples, plywood and many others.

Nature has endowed our country with an almost limitless supply of valuable resources. Properly used and converted to manufactured goods, these resources can carry our nation to unprecedented greatness. But first, the peoples of other lands must learn of the prestige and quality of Canadian products.

Argos Lead Tight Big Four Race by Securing 21-21 Draw With Ottawa Over Weekend

[illegible] Canadian Press

T[illegible]expected—a tie game—may well prove to be the key result of the Big Four football season.

It happened Saturday, when Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts fought to a 21-21 stalemate in Ottawa. With Montreal Alouettes edging Hamilton Tiger-Cats 16-13 Sunday, that left Argos alone in first place. But not by much.

One point behind are the Tiger-Cats and Alouettes each with five wins and five losses. Ottawa is another point back.

The tie put Argos in a preferred spot for winning a playoff position—they can virtually assure themselves of a berth by winning one of their two remaining games. On the other hand, any of the other three teams must figure on winning both of its remaining games to catch a playoff spot.

In the west, Saskatchewan Roughriders walloped Winnipeg Blue Bombers 36-1, and Calgary Stampeders upset Edmonton Eskimos 13-7 in the last games of the regular schedule.

That left Saskatchewan and Edmonton tied for second, six points behind Winnipeg. Calgary ended in last place. Roughies and Edmimos meet in a sudden-death playoff in Regina Saturday for the right to meet Winnipeg in the best-of-three league final.

Balmy Beach on Top

Toronto Balmy Beach took undisputed hold on first place in the Ontario Rugby Footfall Union with a resounding 24-7 win over Sarnia Imperials Sunday.

McGill Redmen swept to their third straight intercollegiate victory by handing Queen's Golden Gaels a 25-8 defeat, while Western Mustangs won their first game in three starts, swamping Toronto University Blues 41-6. McGill are in first place, four points ahead of the other three teams.

It took a brilliant fourth-quarter drive by Argonauts to salvage even one point in their tie with Ottawa.

Trailing 21-9, Argos fought back for two converted touchdowns before the final gun. A third-down gamble pass by quarterback Al Dekdebrun to Rod Smylie, and a blocked kick by big Jim Kerns saved Scullers' skins with two majors.

Bob Westlake got the other Argo touchdown in the first quarter. Nick Volpe booted a field goal and converted all three touchdowns. Ottawa got touchdowns from Pete Karpuk, Bill Stanton and Howie Turner plus a field goal and three converts by Eric Chipper.

47-Yard Field Goal

A booming 47-yard field goal by Jack Scollard was the margin for Montreal Alouettes over Hamilton.

Virgil Wagner and Tommy Manastersky scored majors for Als, and Scollard converted both scores. Edgar (special delivery) Jones augmented his league scoring lead by scoring two Hamilton touchdowns and converting both.

Two upsets featured the closing games of the western union—but they didn't mean anything.

Playing without regulars Jack Hartman, Al Bodine, Ken Charlton, Mike Cassidy, Matt Anthony, Johnny Bell and Toar Springstein among others, Saskatchewan rolled freely over Winnipeg for six touchdowns.

Winnipeg, assured of first place, used its aces sparingly. Sammy Pierce and Nels Green each racked up two touchdowns for Riders, with Sully Glasser and Mike Yakymyk getting the others. Greene kicked a single and Roy Wright converted five of the six majors.

Stamps Run Wild

In Calgary, Stamps went wild in the first quarter, scoring all their points in the opening 10 minutes. Sugarfoot Anderson took two Keith Spaith passes for touchdowns, converted by Vern Graham, and Chuck Feneboch hoofed a single.

Outside Rollin Prather scored Edmonton's lone major and Annis Stukus converted. Ken Sluman added the other.

The Toronto-Sarnia game, played as a benefit for the widowed mother of Jack Bell, Sarnia quarterback who died as a result of head injuries suffered while playing Beaches a week earlier, was featured by the heads-up play of Carl Galbreath, Beaches Negro half. Bell suffered his fatal head injury tackling Galbreath.

Galbreath ran for one touchdown and passed to Art Scullion for another. Gerry Tuttle and Billy Haddleton added majors for Beaches, while George Watson converted three and kicked a single. Jim Burr scored Sarnia's touchdown, converted by Johnny Chorestecki.

McGill Downs Queen's

Speedy Pete Robinson led McGill University's Redmen to their win over a stubborn Queen's squad, racking up two touchdowns. Haskell Blauer plunged for a third, and quarterback Harry Invin made a spectacular 90-yard run for another. Fred Wilmot converted all four. Jack Sisson ghosted around the McGill line for Queen's only touchdown.

Western Mustangs came to life behind the brilliant play of Doug Gray and Bob McFarlane to hand Varsity their worst defeat in history. Gray scored two touchdowns, and McFarlane got one major and four converts. Blake Taylor, George Arnott, Charlie Allan and Don Beatty also scored touchdowns. Varsity's only touchdown was scored by Tony Cecutti.

Galt Takes Over Second Place In Junior 'A'

By The Canadian Press)

Galt Black Hawks took advantage of a curtailed weekend schedule of action in the Ontario Lockey Association to take over undisputed possession of second place in the junior "A" standings.

In the only junior game, the Hawks Saturday blanked Stratford Kroehlers 4-0 at Galt. Bob Carruthers sparked the winners' offensive, clicking for two goals. Singletons were potted by Jack Sleaver and George Gosselin.

Scheduled Sunday games in Toronto between Guelph and St. Michael's College and Waterloo and Marlboros were postponed to free Maple Leafs Gardens for the seventh and final game o the Mann Cup lacrosse series.

A single game was the only action in the senior loop, too. It saw Kitchener-Wateloo Flying Dutchmen edge Hamilton Tigers 2-1 at Waterloo Saturday.

The victory, fashioned from a two-goal third period rally, enabled the Dutchmen to take over the league lead from their victims. Mickey Roth and Jim Pernfuss scored for the winners, Harold Hursley for Hamilton.

St. Michael's College seniors make their season's debut Tuesday when they play hosts to the Tigers at Toronto. Marlboros, Toronto's other entry in the loop, are at home to Kitchener in their first start Wednesday.

Here's the junior schedule of games for Tuesday: Walterloo at St. Catharines; Oshawa at Galt and Windsor at Guelph.

PARENTS FINED

Kitchener, Oct. 21 (CP) —The parents of a 14-year-old boy were fined a total of $125 and costs Friday because their son showed obscene pictures to school classmates. The mother told police the cards were left in her home by U.S. visitors, and that she had locked them in a drawer, intending to dispose of them. The son said the drawer was not locked.

Owen Sound Crescents Win Mann Cup and Lacrosse Title

Toronto, Oct. 23 (CP)—Owen Sound Crescents are the 1950 Senior Lacrosse Champions of Canada and a large chunk of the credit goes to their playing coach, Doug Gillespie.

Gillespie, 29-year-old hardware store operator, drove hi steammates to a 15-7 victory over New Westminster Adanacs here Sunday in the seventh and deciding game of the Mann Cup finals.

Playing with a substitute goalie Crescents weathered an early New Westminster attack and were tied 6-6 at half-time. Then the eastern champions broke loose to smother New Westminster before 6,588 fans.

Doug, a heady forward who had scored his team's winning goal in the fifth game, fired the counter that gave his team the lead for the first time in yesterday's game. He was the leading point-getter of the series with seven goals and 10 assists.

After the game, the Orangeville, Ont., veteran announced his retirement as a player.

In the New Westminster dressing room, coach Bob Lee said "the better team today" had won "We just ran out of steam — we weren't getting the faceoffs of the loose balls."

That just about summed up the New Westminster loss.

Scored Once in Second

New Westminster, never headed until 6:06 of the third quarter, scored only one in the second half while Crescents were getting nine goals.

Scorers for Owen Sound were coach Gillespie with three, Grant Gillepie, Arnold Smith and Harry Kazarian, two each; Bill Allum, Russ Slater, Jack Mason, Marlowe Woods, Don Campbell and McWhirter, one each.

For Adanacs, Jake Proctor and Jack Northup got two goals each and singletons were scored by Bob Bremner, Stan Tyson and Reo Jerome.

The Mike Kelly trophy awarded to the most valuable player of the series, went to Lloyd (Moon) Wooton, Owne Sound netminder who didn't play in the seventh game and was in the nets for only a small part of the sixth before he hurt his ankle.

Doug Favell of Hamilton Tigers, who replaced Wooton, was solid in the nets for Owen Sound in both games, particularly in the second quarter yesterday when he made 14 stops.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Maurice Richard of Montreal and Tod Sloan of Toronto today share the spotlight in the young National Hockey's League 1950-51 scoring race with seven points apiece.

Both Richard and Sloan have counted four times each and both have assisted on three markers.

Tied for third spot with five points are Gordie Howe of Detroit and Cal Gardner of Toronto with one goal and four assists and two goals and three assists, respectively.

Seven other players follow with four points.

Dog Knocks Owner Out of Window

Chicago, Oct. 21—AP— A small dog jumped onto her mistress' lap today and knocked her out of a third-storey window.

Mrs. Alice McElligot, 32, taken to Woodlawn Hospital for examination, said she was sitting on the sill of an open window when her dog, Bridgett Ann, leaped affectionately onto her lap. She was thrown off balance and toppled out the window. Her fall was broken by tree branches. She landed on soft ground.

Doctors couldn't find anything serious—just some minor cuts and bruises.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 21 (CP)—Britons, who wager millions of dollars annually on the horses, greyhound racing, football pools and other sports, may be given a fling at a state-sponsored lottery.

The proposal, worked out by Major Dennis E. Smith, 51-year-old Londoner, provides for a total pool of $150,000,000, half of which would be distributed among lucky ticket-holders. The remainder would be turned over to the government to be applied to tax revenues.

Full details of the plan have not been disclosed, pending examination by the Royal Commission on gambling and betting, which for months has been conducting an investigation into wagering practices generally.

Sponsors of the lottery scheme, pendent survey shows a strong public leaning in favor of a state-operated sweepstake. Organizations that have aggressively opposed the idea in the past, they said, were coming around to the view that state control might serve the purpose of combatting the "more evil forms" of gambling.

"Here is something concerete through which we all can get together to help our country in meeting its financial problems,' said Major Smith.

Two-Year-Job

For more than two years, he added, he and a team of voluntary helpers had been working on the plan. He figures that followers of sport in Britain wagered more than $1,500,000,000 every year. a large slice of which went into the pockets of book-makers and promoters.

Under a state lottery, Major Smith said, every person not lucky enough to win a prize would have the consolation, at least, of knowing he would benefit indirectly. His taxes would either be reduced or revenue received by the government used in the furtherance of some needed national undertaking.

The trade union movement had already been canvassed about the scheme and many unions had reported to the Royal Commission they were in favor of it.

Spokesmen of the National Association of Probation Officers, however, take a different view of the matter. In a memorandum submitted to the commission, the association claims to have evidence of matrimonial strain, due to impairment of earnings, inability to maintain a family or comply with maintenance orders, because of gambling losses.

The memorandum adds: "Some of our members speak, not of the harm done by weekly losses, but of greater harm done by winning when there is celebration of success, encouragement to continue. and destruction or damage to the belief in the value of a good day's work."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

All bridge groups can boast of at least one rule-misquoter. A favorite saw of theirs is "eight over, nine never" or "nine ever, eight never." What it means they probably know not.

What they have reference to is probably this: With eight cards of a suit in both hands, always finesse; with nine cards of a suit in both hands, never finess. Or something like that.

In master play, to finesse or not to finesse depends on the need. The need is reduced to the number of tricks the player can afford to lose. Then is the safety play applied to the situation.

Take the combination of cards shown here:

SOUTH
♣A 9 5 4 2

NORTH
♣K 10 6 3

With nine cards in north-south the opponents must have four between them. These may be divided four-none, three-one, or two-two.

Leading ace and king straight up is good only if opponent split is exactly two-two. With any other split such leads must give up at least one trick and could give up two tricks.

The safety play is to finesse the first trick. This prevents the possible loss of two tricks; holds the loss to no more than one trick; and may prevent the loss of any trick.

This is always the percentage play, therefore, when you can afford the loss of one trick and not two. And it prevents the loss of a trick when the finesse happens to be in the right direction.

What makes this finesse advisable, of course, is the fact that opponents do not also have both the nine and eightspot. Because if these cards were also with opponents, no finesse would be there.

When no trick dare be lost, playing ace and king straight up may be the winning play. So, there are times when this play must be attempted. When to do so is the problem.

Times are when your hunch is better than a bunch of rules.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 23 (AP) —The scene was backstage in an Australian theatre. Joe E. Brown wiped off his make-up, opened his big mouth and murmured:

"Sorry, kid, I've carried you long enough; this is where you get off."

This signalled the end of a five-year friendship between the famed comedian and Harvey, the six-foot rabbit from the play of the same name. The occasion, happily enough, marked Brown's 1,500th. performance in the show. Which is a long time to spend with a rabbit, even such a big and friendly one.

Joe E., who has toured with "Harvey" throughout the U.S., in England, Canada, Hawaii and Australia, said his last performance will remain his last. "Never again," he vowed.

Cut Tour Short

He had to cut his Australian tour short by five weeks to return here for the role of Captain Andy in "Showboat." It cost him money to get out of the contract, but he said it was worth it.

He nearly played the Captain Andy role once before, in the Rodgers and Hammerstein revival of the show on Broadway a few seasons ago.

"I thought Carol Bruce was perfect for the Helen Morgan role and should do it," he explained. "But the budget couldn't afford her and me, too. So I bowed out.

He added that Oscar Hammerstein and Jerome Kern, who wrote the music, told him that Edna Ferber had created the Captain Andy character with him in mind. "So naturally I'm glad to be finally playing it," Joe E. said.

Capsule Review

"The Milkman" makes little sense, but proves a happy romp for the unique talents of Donald O'Connor and Jimmy Durante. The title tells you what the story is about. Jimmy is a veteran milkman who tries to break Donald into the business. There is a harmless plot about a jewel robbery and some songs and dances.

Toronto Soccer Club Defeats Belleville 4-0

Toronto Nationals soccer club beat Belleville United in an exhibition match at the fairgrounds on Saturday afternoon by four goals to nothing. The visitors who fielded several players from other Toronto Senior League clubs were somewhat late owing to transportation difficulties, and hence the match was not able to get off to the scheduled three o'clock kick-off. The Nationals won the toss and elected to with the strong sun at their backs. They scored three goals in the first through Kelly, Kernohan and Layton. Midway through the first half the local contingent lost Jim Williamson with a twisted ankle and somehow couldn't seem to click against the strong Toronto squad. In the second half the play was a bit more even and the visitors were held to one goal by Layton. The Belleville boys had one or two scoring chances in this half but the Nationals defence held firm. There was a possibility that a return match will be arranged in the Queen City some time after the Bay of Quinte F.A. banquet that is scheduled to be held in the Queensway Hotel in Trenton next Friday.

Teams . . Belleville United. Scott, Findlay, Dale Salter, Carter, Cox, Alexander, Williamson, Digby, Barclay, J. Cathcart. Sub—Gemmel.

Toronto Nationals. Swires, D. Smythe, Woods, McConkey, B. Smythe, Kernohan, Kelly, Munro Layton, Moran, Pringle. Referee. T. Cathcart.

MARMORA

High School Gridders Defeat Stirling 20-5

Marmora — Marmora High School rugby team again proved superior to their Stirling opponents whom they met on the Deloro grounds on Friday afternoon, winning by the score of 20-5.

In the first quarter Jones of Marmora ran to the two yard line allowing P. Nicholson to get in good position for a touchdown which Killian converted.

In the second quarter Drummond got a second touchdown which Killian again converted. Drummond for the home team received an injury in a tackle, but his retirement from the game was only temporary.

Stirling staged a comeback for one of their players to score a touchdown which was not converted.

Halftime score Marmora 12, Stirling 5.

In the third quarter P. Nicholson broke through again for another touchdown. Killian added the extra point and Nicholson kicked another.

In the fourth quarter, Nicholson kicked the final point. The quarter was unfortunately marked with an accident to Killian who sustained concussion through diving for a loose ball. As a result of their win, Marmora remains in second place in the loop standing.

BELLEVILLE'S FINEST IN FAMILY ENTERTAINMENT

AT THE CAPITOL — Good friends, though on opposite sides of a bloody war, frontiersman Jimmy Stewart explains a point to Cochise, Apache warrior chief played by Jeff Chandler, in this scene from "Broken Arrow," starting tonight at the Capitol Theatre for its first Belleville showing. This friendship, which is actually part of Arizona history, helped bring peace between Whites and Apaches in that state.

AT THE McCARTHY — Poppa (James Burke) hits the jackpot with his invention; sweethearts (Ray McDonald and Peggy Ryan) decide to kiss and make up, while Grandma (Mary Gordon) gives her approval. It all takes place in the tuneful comedy "Shamrock Hill," now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre along with "Deported", featuring Marta Toren and Jeff Chandler.

AT THE BELLE — Van Johnson wins Esther Williams, All-American sweetheart in "Duchess of Idaho", MGM's handsome new Technicolor musical, continuing until Wednesday at the Belle Theatre. The sweethearts of "Thrill of a Romance" now do their romancing amid the splendors of picturesque Sun Valley and against a background of songs, dances, skiing and water ballet spectacles.

FIRST BELLEVILLE SHOWING!
It is a special occasion when this theatre has the privilege of presenting a motion picture of such scope, beauty and stature. The story of a white man's love for an Indian girl, and a vision that won the West for all Americans, red and white.
This film I can unqualifiedly recommend. It is great entertainment. The Manager

Little Benny's Note Book

The doorbell rang and I answered it and it was some lady, saying, Is your mother at home?

Yes mam, I said, and she said Well tell her Mrs. Clatchey would like to see her.

Which I went up and did, and ma said, Mrs. Clatchey? Are you sure you got her name rite?

Yes mam, I said, and ma said, It sounds familiar, and yet I cant quite place it. It seems to me I met a very nice woman somewhere by that name, and we hit it off so well together that we promised to look each other up What does she look like? she said

She's got a kind of a blue dress, I said, and ma said, Sutch a discription, cant you be a little more definite?

Well, she hasn't got glasses, I said, and ma said, That's a very vivid picture of a million women. Oh dear, I'm sure I'd remember who she is if I only had a mental picture of her. It's very imbarrassing to go down to greet somebody totally unprepared. Cant you be a little more helpful in discribing her for land sakes, she said.

Well, she's got a black bag and it says on it in gold letters, "Daisy Cosmetics," I said, and ma said, Why, you silly thing, I dont know her from Eve and she doesn't know me from Adam. She just gave you her name as a trick to fool me. And I dont want any Daisy Cosmetics, I know that mutch from the very name of them. Go down and tell her I'm bizzy. No, you better not. She's been waiting so long now that I better go and send her away myself as gracefully as possible. Oh dear, Daisy Cosmetics, sutch a boy, she said.

The result being she went down and bawt a bottle of Daisy hand lotion and a Daisy blushing dawn lip stick.

Natives Flooding Industrial Areas of South Africa

Johannesburg (CP) — Supporters of Prime Minister Daniel Malan's policy of apartheid-race separation — claim it is capturing the imagination of white South Africa because the huge reservoir of Africans in the native reserve has broken its historic bounds.

Throughout South Africa natives are pictured as pouring into towns which, only a few years ago, were predominantly white.

Since the beginning of white civilization in South Africa there has been a sort of geographical apartheid. The Africans are largely concentrated along the immense watershed of the Drakensberg, a range of mountains just inland from the east coast running hundreds of miles from north to south.

A century ago in a series of wars and campaigns by Boers and English troops, white civilization pressed them back to the mountains and then turned north and skirted them to the Rhodesian border from beyond.

Now the rise of South African industry has broken the dikes. With few prospects of a slim livelihood in their own crowded reserves and the reasonable certainty of jobs and wages in the factory and mining towns, native youth began trickling into the white areas shortly after the turn of the century. The First World War saw the stream of native immigration swelling, and it grew steadily between the wars.

Then the Second World War turned the stream into a flood. Since 1939 tens of thousands of Africans have flowed into every nook and cranny of the white industrial system. Overnight satellite African townships sprang up around every one of the Union's major towns. Even smaller towns and villages, wherever there is a factory chimney, have found new black populations on their doorstep.

Even under the previous government of the late Field Marshal Jan C. Smuts town after town erected legislative barriers against the encroaching natives. But these paper controls had little effect.

One reaction was to bring defeat to Gen. Smuts' government at the height of his power, because inevitably linked with his name was the policy of industrialization and the vision of satellite African townships around every white town.

While Smuts lived his United Party stood firm on this policy. Only a few days after his death in September it began to waver. The tide of white fear was too strong.

Now the flood is lapping about the cities and finding the Europeans unprepared. Even Dr. Malan's Nationalist Party so far has little more to offer than a slogan, a vision of a return to the geographical separation of the last century. It is a vision which finds increasing support among the whites. Its practical application meets physical resistance and world hostility.

MARMORA

Marmora—Mrs. A. V. Yates, of Hamilton, and Mrs. W. Hilton of London visited Marmora and Deloro friends for a couple of days this week.

John Cook is in Guelph this week attending the interprovincial judging contests.

Mrs. Drummond is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Mrs. Eugene Brady has returned home from Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

BURR'S

Burrs W.A.

Burrs—Mrs Murney Parks and Mrs. Don Parks were October hostesses to the W.A. on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Rosa Anderson, Cannifton, and Mrs. Jack Bruining were guests at the meeting.

The president was assisted in the devotional period by Mrs. F. Burkitt and Rev. M. Poulter.

Business consisted in making plans for a Hallowe'en social. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. H. Caldwell and Mr. K. Blakely, collectors for the thankoffering which amounted to over $115.

A thank you letter was received from Mrs. A. Chase. The president requested that the penny bags, travelling apron and autograph quilt blocks, be handed in at the November meeting.

Mrs. Douglas Harns and Mrs. H. Hall favored with readings.

Mrs. Ross Burr invited the November meeting.

The Rally day service and offering was held at the Sunday School with Mrs. Douglas Harns giving the supplement story of a small Korean boy, a victim of leprosy, who miraculously escaped death as a cast out and how through the work of missions in that land, he was guided into a useful life.

Mission Band

The Mission Band convened at the school on Wednesday afternoon. Miss C. Tait led members in pre-session games and motion songs.

Miss Tait led in an interesting illustrated talk on Korea and selection of scripture.

Business included that Miss Tait be paid for study book, that Band pins be ordered and that subscriptions for World Friends magazines be forwarded.

Interest in local bird study is being shown with several scrap books in the making. The sale of Christmas cards continues.

A feature of the Hallowe'en social will be a parcel post sale.

CAMPBELLFORD

U R WELCOME CLUB

Campbellford — The U R Welcome Club of St. Andrew's Church held a business meeting in the church basement on Thursday night, with Mrs. Aileen Hazell in the chair. The meeting opened with a devotional period. at which Mrs. Fred Rabethge read the Scripture.

There was a considerable amount of correspondence received during the summer, which the secretary, Alma Wallace, read.

The invitation to a Hallowe'en party sponsored by St. John's United Church Young Adult Club was accepted. The party will be held on October 26th. A suggestion to have the club sell Christmas cards was also accepted.

A co-operative plan involving clubs in three churches — Presbyterian, Anglican and United — for the purpose of holding a monthly Sunday evening service with a fireside hour afterwards, was accepted. The plan will operate on a rotating basis in the churches participating.

Plans for a joint monthly tri-church club meeting to be held during the week, will likely be arranged. This will be in addition to the Sunday meetings.

After the business session, a short program was presented. Ruth Fraser rendered a piano solo, and little Miss Iona Sharp a vocal solo. An interesting talk on her native city of Glasgow, Scotland, was given by Miss Copeland, exchange teacher at the local public school.

Refreshments were served to the guests at the close of the meeting.

MELROSE

Melrose— Friends will be sorry to hear Mrs. Newton Demill is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

A large number attended anniversary services in Melrose United Church on Sunday morning. Rev. J. L. Lane was the guest minister. Special music by the choir and a solo by Mrs. A. Reilly added greatly to this service of worship.

Among those who attended the Sunday morning service and were entertained at the various homes were: Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Robinson, of Salem, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Badgley, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Macfarlane, Shannonville, at the home of Mr. George Macfarlane, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kimmerley at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgley; Mr. and Mrs. George Badgley at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren.

Jack Fair has been a patient in Belleville Hospital following an attack of appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell MacFarlane spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Hall, Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Allison and children of Carmel, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jeffery.

Local teachers attended Teachers' Convention in Kingston on Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kimmett of Ebenezer spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan and attended the morning church service.

A number of the young ladies along the line attended the shower at Mrs. Roy McLaren's on Tuesday night in honor of Miss Dorothy Boulton, a "bride to be".

Icelanders Mark 75th Anniversary of Trek

Winnipeg (CP) — On a cold October day 75 years ago, 285 settlers from a north Atlantic island arrived in Winnipeg. They were the first Icelanders to come to Manitoba.

Today, there are about 25,000 in Canada. They are among the country's smallest Ethnic groups.

Only a small portion of the 285 settlers stayed in Winnipeg. The rest continued to the present site of Gimli, 60 miles north, where on October 21, 1875, they began an exclusively Icelandic settlement.

The story of Icelandic colonization in Canada began with the arrival of young Sigtryggur Jonasson in Quebec, September 12th., 1872. The following year about 300 settlers arrived, and each successive year the influx continued until the First World War almost terminated the flow.

The first group settled temporarily in the Haliburton and Muskoka districts of Ontario, but lack of suitable land for a separate colony induced them to seek a secluded colony in the west.

Five men set out for Manitoba in the summer of 1875 and decided on a plot of land on the west shore of Lake Winnipeg. That fall, after a five-day stopover in Winnipeg to purchase boats, provisions and equipment for the coming Winter, the settlers set out on the last leg in flat-bottomed boats.

No preparation has been made for their arrival. Before them lay the desolate lake shore. Further inland were small but endless bogs.

The first Winter proved a severe test. An improper and mikless diet and poor housing caused deaths from scurvy, exposure and starvation.

During the Summer, some 1,200 new settlers arrived direct from Iceland. They formed an almost unbroken settlement along nearly 40 miles of lake shore.

The following Winter was the most tragic of the settlement's history. The colonists set up their own constitution, drew up a complete code of laws and elected their own representatives.

Provision was made for tax revenue, road building and support to widows and orphans. Every man over 21 years of age was required to contribute two days of 10 hours to road building or pay $2 for each day he did not work. Electors also paid an annual fee of 25 cents to the general district fund.

Strangely, there was no criminal code of any sort; perhaps it was deemed unnecessary.

The affairs of government functioned under this constitution until 1877, when municipal government was regularly instituted and the territory was formed into the municipalities of Gimli and Bifrost.

MOIRA

Moira — Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInroy and Dean were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Morton, of Thomasburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ketcheson, Owen and Linda, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Richardson, Thomasburg, for Sunday dinner.

Miss Blanche Reid, of the staff of the Bank of Montreal, Stirling, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elliott.

A number of Young People from here were present at the banquet held in Bridge St. United Church of Belleville, and they were presented with the Trophy (silver cups) as the winner of the South Hastings Softball League.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McInroy were tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott, Stirling, on Sunday.

Mrs. Ruth Thomson and David, of Campbellford, and Mr. Hugh Humphries, of Calgary, spent Sunday with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wilson, Foxboro, Mrs. Glen Brooks and Miss Mae Scott left Friday morning for Quebec City to meet their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Scott, who have been to Ireland for over two months and expect to land on Saturday.

Group two were entertained at a quilting at the home of Mrs. Angus Mumby, on Tuesday.

Mrs. George Foster spent last week visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jack Ketcheson, of Guelph.

FRANKFORD

Frankford — A number of Frankford folks attended the Community Concert in the Trent Theatre Thursday evening.

Rev. T. Tucker, United Church Missionary, in Angola, Africa, spoke to a large audience in the Rose-Lowery Hall, Thursday evening. Rev. Tucker gave an interesting talk on conditions in that land.

Ray Kelly, of Toronto. is visiting his mother, Mrs. Ellen Kelly, for a few days.

LITTLE TOO RED

Thaxted, Essex, Eng. (CP) — Rev. Jack Putteril, a Socialist, protested that a bright red telephone booth outside the 15th. Century Church here hurt his eyes. The box was repainted

STIRLING

Stirling—Winners of the draw at the bingo held by the Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter of the I.O.D.E. in the community hall on Wednesday night were: Mrs. J. Sleeper, the quilt; Mrs. J. Mahon, of Exeter, the radio; and Mrs. Harry Cordon, Belleville, the electric tea kettle.

A good crowd was in attendance and the proceeds will go to the Trenton Memorial Hospital fund.

Friends of Mrs. Sid Williams will regret to learn that she is a patient in Belleville General Hospital where she underwent an operation on Tuesday morning.

Misses Doreen Sleeper and Eva Ann Bastedo, have accepted positions as switchboard operators with the Bell Telephone Company at Belleville and have begun their duties.

Reeve H. J. Wells and ex-warden W. J. C. West attended the Warden's banquet at Bancroft on Wednesday night.

A large number from Stirling attended the Benefit dance held for Ted Ashley last Friday night

Baptismal Service

Last Sunday morning at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the sacrament of baptism was administered by Rev. W. H. V. Walker on Beverley Anne and Betty Diane, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Stapley of Campbellford, and Jo Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Montgomery, of Batawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer West have left for their home in Portage La Prairie after spending some time with relatives in town.

MADOC

Madoc W.I.

Madoc — A beautiful sunny autumn day attracted 27 Madoc Women Institute members and three visitors to motor out to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Forestell on Friday afternoon for their October meeting.

The president, Mrs. Nicol, was in charge and conducted the business period. The treasurer reported on the Fair Day lunch and after all expenses were paid there was a balance of $167. It was suggested that a letter of thanks be sent to the Nescafe Co. for their co-operation. A special announcement was made of a meeting to be held on Monday evening of the citizens of Madoc and all interested in the possibility of a new sports centre for the village. Delegates were appointed to the area convention to be held at Belleville, Nov. 8-9, namely Mrs. McGowan, Mrs. Love, Mrs. J. Henderson and Mrs. Hulin.

Mrs. Allan Franks contributed two vocal solos, "Smilin' Through", and "Beyond the Sunset."

The guest speaker was Mrs. Percy Derry. "Home Economics", teacher in Madoc Public School. She outlined the year course for grades 7 and 8 in nutrition, cooking and sewing, discussed the "School Lunch" as recommended by the Department of National Health, and gave a brief resume of the economic course which she took last summer at Toronto. Her talk was very informative and interesting.

Mrs. B. Tanner gave a reading on "The Beginning of Wheat", and Mrs. Ken Caskey a paper on the "Detection Cancer Clinc", Woman's Cottage Hospital in Toronto.

A vote of thanks was extended by Mrs. Hulin to Mrs. Forestell for her hospitality and to the guest speaker and all who took part in the program of the afternoon. A cup of tea and dainty refreshments concluded a pleasant afternoon.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. George Pattison and children of Toronto have been spending a week with Dr. S. C. and Mrs. Beatty.

Mrs. Keating of Toronto, and Mrs. Collins, of Detroit, Mich., spent Saturday in Madoc.

Mrs. Walter Whytock is spending a few weeks with relatives in Toronto.

Mrs. (Dr.) Currie, Miss Odel Currie and Dr. Currie Jr. spent a few days with Mrs. C. F. Aylesworth. Mrs. Aylesworth returned home with them to Toronto where she spent a few days.

Miss Phyllis Beatty, of Toronto, spent the weekend at her home in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Lewis, of Oshawa, spent the weekend with relatives in Madoc.

BEING EJECTED

London, Oct. 23—(Reuters)—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph reported today that "hundreds of anti-communists are being ejected from their homes in Prague and Budapest and deported to the countryside." He said this was part of a campaign by the Hungarian and Czechoslovak governments to turn their capitals into "strongholds of communism."

Dates on Bonds Of Importance To Finder

Richmond, Va., Oct. 23—AP—Mrs. Bonny Walker, 76, of Vinton may have the Commonwealth of Virginia over a financial barrel. She has found in her attic two $1,000 bonds issued by the State about 85 years ago.

The date is not too legible—it could be 1861 or 1864. The important question is which.

If it was 1864, the bonds are worthless. The 14th Amendment to the United States Constitution forbids states from making good any obligations to finance the Civil War. If the date is 1861, before Virginia seceded from the Union. . . ?

At six per cent compound interest Mrs. Walker figures the bonds are worth $250,000.

COSTLY DAMAGE

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"Perhaps she is mistaken. Is she an authority on the political situation?"

"[illegible]rity! That woman is a [illegible] herself. She is the po[illegible] arbiter of this country."

"[illegible] is your potential rival interesting? Having met you I would like to see him. Maybe I'm physic, maybe I can see the winner in my crystall ball."

"Hey, soft-pedal. He's the man at your left. This dinner is a sort of Hail to the Hero welcome home to him."

Fran thought of the man's laughing eyes, of the richness of his voice even when hushed when he said, "I take it you don't care for littleneck clams, Miss Phillips." Had he known who she was? They hadn't met before dinner.

"What is your hero's name?" she whispered. "I'd like to know, I can't very well say 'you, there,' when I speak to him."

"Jeepers, do you have to ask? His service record has been front page stuff in the local news for two days. Airborne division. Made some spectacular jumps. He's been decorated and redecorated. He's Myles Jaffray, Major Myles Jaffray."

Myles Jaffray! Fran was unaware of her shocked repetition.

"Did I hear my name?" the man at her left inquired. He turned his back on his hostess as squarely as etiquette permitted. Not Ken's Myles Jaffray, she reassured herself while her eyes clung to his as if hypnotized. "If you don't like clams you do like raspberry mousse with marrons, don't you?"

His voice broke the spell of unbelief. Was he warning her that she was attracting attention?

"Mad about it." Would he notice the hint of vibrato in her voice? "I am a person of very strong likes and equally strong aversions."

"And loves and hates. You're telling me. You have stepped into the glacial age. You were gay, responsive and charming the first time I spoke to you. Didn't know who I was? Since then you have discovered?"

"I have. You know I didn't want to meet you. Why did you follow me?"

"Follow you." His low incredulous voice, his brows raised in surprise, sent a wave of color to her hair. Stupid, why had she given him that lead? "My dear Franc."

"Don't call me that."

"Dear or Fran?"

"Neither."

"Sorry, being with Ken so much I got the habit of thinking of his kid sister as Fran. It won't happen again. Get this. Personally you went out of my life when you refused to meet me at Judge Grime's office; nevertheless, I shall carry on my trustee duties in every detail. Mrs. Sargent has given me the high sign to her husband." As she rose he drew out her chair and added close to her ear:

"And I mean in every detail. That's a warning to watch your step."

* * *

A voice singing, "You're So Sweet to Remember" drifted from a concealed radio as hostess and women guests entered the book-walled library where soft green hangings were pushed back from the long open windows. I'll wager Myles Jaffray never will think that of me, Fran decided as she dropped to a deep rose-color pouf, I stepped off on the wrong foot with him.

"How come the shiver, Fran?" Gene Sargent's pale pink skirt billowed as she seated herself behind the coffee table. She dropped a cube of sugar on the saucer of Sevres cup. "You can't be cold so near that gay little fire behind you. Didn't pick up a bug today, did you?"

"No, must be a reaction from the excitement of the dinner party. I'm a temperamental person."

"I'll say you are, if you call this boring evening exciting." Her mouth, which nature had intended to be lovely, had acquired a discontented droop at the corners. "You are wearing yourself to shreds at the Gallery. You go into everything you do up to your elbows. That suits Dad to a T. He's a slave driver. The New York Galleries are a business, this summer project is an avocation, his pet and pride."

"It is fast getting to be mine. I'm thrilled over it. I was late getting home tonight because I wanted to make sure we were ready to receive the paintings tomorrow for our—notice that our—one-man show the day after."

"That leads up to what I want to talk to you about, that is my chance before the men come in. Mother and I think you should be nearer the Gallery, you waste so much strength getting back and forth." As she filled the gold-lined cups with dark, liquid amber the aroma of coffee fused with the scent of burning pine cones.

Surprise halted the raised cup on its way to Fran's mouth. When two weeks ago she had begun to look for a place to live—delightful as this home was, she wanted to be on her own — Gene and her mother had protested vehemently, had insisted that there was plenty of room at Rocky Point. What did this sudden change of front mean? The reason that it was to save her strength was a phony. The two places were but a ten-minute walk apart, she had her own car to use in bad weather.

"Your friend Gene doesn't happen to have green eyes, does she?" As clearly as if it had been spoken to her ear Judge Grime's question echoed through her memory. They had been talking of Myles Jaffray and Gene's story about him and her sister-in-law. Myles was here now and—

"For Pete's sake, you look as if I had knocked you out, Fran. We don't want you to go, we are thinking of what is best for you."

What was the matter with her that someone was always deciding what was best for little Franny? First Aunt Becky, then Ken, Myles Jaffray, and now the Sargents. Did they think her a moron? She'd show them.

"If I looked stunned it is because you have divined what I have been thinking since your sister-in-law decided to visit you with her little girl. I have been scouting the surrounding country. The sixty-four-dollar question, in my life, is where can I go? Where find a spot of my own? I'm a career gal now, remember."

"I have the answer, the two room and bath apartment above the Gallery. It was planned for a second chauffeur before the species became extinct. With a record breaking demand for accommodation in this summer resort, Mother decided to rent it and had the time of her life furnishing it like an illustration she saw in a magazine. It is really attractive, but Dad howled 'No.' He wouldn't have a stranger housed above his adored Sargent Gallery, Jr., so there it is, vacant."

"I took a look-see at it the other day when the door was open. It's adorable."

"If you want it, it's yours. The rent, as the living here, is part of your salary. Lem Digby, the caretaker, and his wife live on the ground floor of the ell, and Si Pond, watchmen, patrol the place at night, so you needn't be lonely or frightened. Betsy told Mother she would furnish your meals if you wanted her to."

"What a heavenly arrangement. As to being lonely, or frightened, I don't know the words."

Even as she made the smiling denial her heart did a cartwheel. Live alone over the treasures which could be stolen so easily? Henry Sargent had impressed on her the fact that many of them were of untold value. How much protection would be Digbys be in the ell? Silas Pond, the night watchman, was a gangling native who looked as if he had enough vitality to chew gum and no more. Could she do it? She could and would for the present. Suppose something exciting happened? Hadn't she told Judge Grimes that she was off for adventure? Nothing to prevent her moving to one of the resort hotels when there was a vacancy. She was not dependent on her salary for a living — her mistake, until September income date she was, and how. The change of view of Gene and her mother was still inexplicable. If it was because of Myles Jaffray it was the joke of the season.

"What's the verdict? I've given you time to think," Gene prodded.

"That the apartment suggestion is nothing short of inspired. There is room in the Gallery garage for my sedan. With that trusty steed at hand I can go out to dinner if Mrs. Betsy fails me. I'm all excited. May I move my bags in tomorrow?"

"Absolutely. You understand, don't you, Fran, that we hate to have you go, that it is for your good? I urged you to take the position and I never would forgive myself if you got overtired and broke down."

"Don't give it a thought. I'll have the time of my life."

"One thing more I want to warn you about, Fran. I saw you talking with Myles Jaffray at dinner. Beware the wolf, my child. Watch out for his 'You're the one woman in my life' line. He loves and leaves. To be frank I think you are too unsophisticated to attract him, but I felt it my duty to put you on guard."

"Thanks." It was a wonder Fran could get the word on the air. Fury made her head spin. Once she had heard an angry man swear until the walls reverberated. If only she had as adequate a way of expressing her wrath. Myles Jaffray was "a wolf" she was "too unsophisticated to attract him." Was she? It would be exciting to make him aware of her.

Friendly of you to flash the stop light, Gene. I'll heed the warning. Now that I have been put on guard, let's tune in on another station. How come that Blake Sinclair is here? I thought him miles away."

"He phoned this morning that he would be at the Inn for a month, intimating he was here for the dine and dance at the Country Club tonight. As one of mother's guests had cancelled I asked him to fill in at dinner. You haven't forgotten the rush he gave me when I visited you, have you? I haven't, he almost turned my head. He has the profile of a Greek god, and that boy's got charm, he has. There's the explanation. Simple as that."

"Is anything simple in this cockeyed world, Gene?" Myles Jaffray inquired as he held a cup for her to fill.

Something in the bend of his head, a tone in his voice, struck a spark in Fran's memory. He was the many in gray who had been in the elevator the day of her conference with Judge Grimes. His cable had read "next week." Undoubtedly he had recognized her from her photographs and had been waiting for her to leave the building before he called on the judge.

Errol Flynn Weds

Monte Carlo, Monaco, Oct. 23—AP—Movie actor Errol Flynn was married "for the third and last time" today in an 18-minute civil ceremony in the Monaco city hall. Actress Patrice Wymore was the bride.

The couple said "oui" before Mayor Charles Palmaro as more than 100 guests watched and a crowd of 3,000 chattered excitedly in the city hall courtyard.

The best man for the Australian-born, 41-year-old Flynn was his fellow countryman, yachtsman Fred McEvoy. McEvoy's wife Claude, was the matron of honor for the 24-year-old bride from Salina, Kan.

There was no mob scene at the wedding, though Monaco's police had been mobilized to handle 10,000 persons. Reporters and photographers far outnumbered the guests.

WENT OUT OF CONTROL

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 21 — (CP) —Truck driver William Smith Friday night wrestled his 17-ton vehicle to a halt after it had plunged over an embankment at nearby Lundy's Lane Hydro Canal, missing six fellow-workmen below. The truck loaded with seven tons of mixed concrete, went out of control when a hydraulic brake line broke as it rolled down a steep road to the canal bank. Smith was unhurt.

Truman Calls On Russia to Agree To Disarmament

Allies Will Build Forces Until Answer is Given

Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 24—AP—President Truman challenged Russia today to agree with a "fool-proof" disarmament plan so that the United Nations will be free to wage a world-wide "war against want."

The United States and other countries, Truman said, will continue to build up their military forces as insurance against aggression until there is unanimous agreement on "international control of atomic energy and the reduction of armaments and armed forces."

The United States, committed now to that course, will follow it as long as necessary, the President said in an address prepared for the United Nations General Assembly on the fifth anniversary of the day on which the U.N. charter came into force.

He left the door open for East-West peace talks both "in where"—a reference he did not expand—but said the free countries have learned the hard way that negotiation alone will not preserve peace. There must be armed strength as well to resist aggression.

With delegates from Russia and her iron-curtain satellites in his audience, Truman avoided mentioning Russia by name, but his indictment of Communism aggression followed the lines of his San Francisco speech a week ago.

At that time, he said "the Soviet Union and its colonial satellites"—in both Europe and Asia—are maintaining vast armies which pose "a constant threat to world peace."

Offers Three Principles

Much of today's talk was devoted to the hope of world disarmament

In that connection, he said that the U.N. might well consider whether its work in that field "might be revitalized" through merger of two groups it has had working on the problem—one of general disarmament and the other on control of atomic energy.

Truman offered these three "basic principles" for disarmament:

"First, the plan must include all kinds of weapons. Outlawing any particular kind of weapon is not enough. The conflict in Korea bears tragic witness to the fact that aggression, whatever the weapons used, brings frightful destruction.

Manitoba Govt. Having First Test of Strength

Winnipeg, Oct. 24 — (CP) — The Manitoba coalition government today undergoes its first test of strength since the general election last year — and it may be its last test too.

The tests are by-elections in the constituencies of St. Andrews and St. Clements — both government seats — on opposite sides of the Red River just north of Winnipeg.

Later this week — Oct. 27 and — the provincial Conservative party meets in Brandon to decide whether it will continue in the coalition with the Liberal - Progressives.

Errick F. Willis, Progressive Conservative leader who personally quit the coalition and his post as public works minister last August, is expected to be re-elected as leader. Last night he said in a radio address that he intends to ask withdrawal of the party from the coalition.

If they withdraw — and it is generally considered this is the overwhelming prospect — it will not endanger the administration of Premier Douglas L. Campbell, who has a safe working majority.

The two major parties have both run candidates only in St. Andrew's where Thomas P. Hillhouse is the Liberal candidate and John Veitch the Progressive Conservative. The C. C. F., the official opposition in the Legislature, has William Gordon.

Mother Rejoiced To Hear Voice Of Son from Japan

Detroit, Oct. 24—AP—The telephone rang at the Martin home in suburban Ferndale last night.

Mrs. Mildred Martin picked up the receiver.

"Japan calling, said the operator.

Then another voice—a voice that thrilled her—broke in:

"Hello mom. This is John. I'm okay except that I've lost a lot of weight—almost 40 pounds."

It was the first time the graying mother had heard from her soldier son since July 5 when he left California for Korea.

She cried for joy when she was told Sunday that Pte. John Martin, 18, was among the 21 American troops who survived a massacre by North Korean Communists of at least 68 Americans.

But she grew concerned as reports came in that some of the survivors were in pitiful condition and might not live.

Her happiness was complete last night.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 24 (CP)—Synopsis: An extensive layer of cloud covers the entire province this morning. The cloud will break briefly today in sections of southern and eastern Ontario, but in general will persist throughout today and tonight.

An intense disturbance moving across northern Ontario will bring drier air to all regions Wednesday. Meanwhile rain and snow are falling in advance of the disturbance and showers will occur in southern regions tonight.

Temperatures will remain somewhat below normal in southern regions today but Wednesday will be a little milder. There will be little change in northern regions.

Warnings of westerly gales are displayed at Lake Superior ports.

UNITED NATIONS CELEBRATE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

From West Berlin to Korea Day is Observed

New York, Oct. 24. (CP)—From communist-encircled West Berlin to war-torn Korea, the United Nations celebrated its fifth anniversary today.

President Truman came to New York to make a major foreign-policy speech before the U.N. General Assembly. Church bells were to ring in many communities and schools planned special ceremonies.

In a U.N. day message, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada said in Ottawa that the day came at a "crucial period of test" for the U.N. but the Korean action was an encouraging step forward in the free countries' search for peace and security.

It was "a disappointment that certain countries have refused to associate themselves with this work of constructing a better world."

Celebration in Korea

United Nations day loomed especially large in Korea. Special services were held in Seoul, with the speakers including President Syngman Rhee, U.S. Ambassador John J. Muccio and Dr. Chong Il Hyung, executive director of the Korean Association for the United Nations.

U.N. troops, who already had freed most of the country from communist armies, continued their drive toward the Manchurian border.

The U.N. charter was proclaimed effective Oct. 24, 1945, following its ratification by the "Big Five" permanent members —the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China—and by a majority of the other original signers of the charter.

Berlin. (AP)—The challenging tones of the freedom bell rang out for United Nations day today in this "only spot of freedom behind the iron curtain."

The communists tried frantically to drown out its voice. Within two miles of the dedication site they held a big demonstration. Angry communist agitators denounced the bell as "a war bell, a hunger bell, a death bell."

But a crowd of nearly 500,000 Berliners — from both east and west sectors — jammed City Hall Square and overflowed into the by-streets.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, once U.S. military governor in Germany, his voice husky with emotion, solemnly dedicated the bronze symbol, set in the 200-foot tower of West Berlin's city hall, with this pledge:

"To resist aggression and tyranny wherever they appear on earth — that this world, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom."

North Atlantic Military Committee Meets to Further Plans for Mutual Defence

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley told military leaders of the 12 North Atlantic treaty powers today that mutual forces for common defence must be created now "or we may be forced to improvise them in the face of enemy attack" later.

The chairman of the United States joint chiefs of staff sounded this note of urgency in welcoming members of the military committee of the North Atlantic Treaty organization. The sessions of the committee, composed of the chiefs of staff of each of the 12 nations, will lay the groundwork for a three-day session of defence ministers of the nations, starting Saturday.

Canada is represented at the military committee meeting by Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Commodore R. W. Bidwell, Maj.-Gen. H. F. Clark, Air Vice Marshal H. L. Campbell and Brig. J. D. B. Smith.

Time for Action

Bradley, in his brief prepared text, emphasized that "now is the time for action."

He noted that this was the third session of the military committee. In Paris last December, he said "we forged the strategic concept." At The Hague in April "we vitalized an over-all strategic plan and adopted the principle of balanced forces."

What the military committee will do is to prepare recommendations for the defence ministers. Some off the defeated points will arise only before the defence ministers and, in turn, some of those may have to be referred to the top-level North Atlantic Council.

A potentially - knotty problem for the defence committee is the matter of utilizing German manpower in the integrated defences of Western Europe. The council, in its New York meeting last September, agreed that Western Germany "should be enabled to contribute."

But the foreign ministers of the council didn't see how. They left that for the defence committee session. Talk of creating some German divisions, under Allied control, has raised disturbing questions for France.

The council has agreed on the broad idea of a supreme commander for the integrated forces, together with a chief of staff. That was passed along to the current sessions here for incorporation into the broad pattern of the mutual defence machine.

While the defence committee probably will set up the offices and may suggest which countries shall provide the two officials, the actual naming off individuals will be beyond the scope of either the committee or of the Atlantic organization.

If, as has been speculated, the United States should be asked to provide one or both men, their names would be chosen by President Truman, under the same procedure used in the case of the United Nations request for a Supreme Commander in Korea.

Missing Boy Found Unharmed Crouched in Grass Near Creek

Edwards, Ont., Oct. 24—(CP)—Chubby Robert Thayer was found alive and unharmed today, 24 hours after he had wandered away from his home in this village 14 miles southeast of Ottawa.

The 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thayer was found within a half-mile of his home, crouched in tall grass a short distance from a creek. His first words to his rescuer—Gilbert Shane, 60, of Ottawa — were "I want a cookie."

The youngster, who went out yesterday to play with his bulldog, was first taken to his home and then to hospital in Ottawa. Although obviously suffering from the affects of his ordeal in below - freezing temperatures throughout the night, the tot was bright and cheerful.

More than 350 persons—police and volunteers — participated in the search.

"I was just going through the long grass—looked like hay to me —when I saw something that looked like a stump," said Shane. "I bent down and there he was, all crouched over in a heap with his head down between his legs."

The boy was conscious when found but could say little at first.

The blaring of motor horns signalled to searchers that the boy had been found.

Mrs. Thayer, 28-year-old mother of the child, was standing near the farm home when the horns began to blare.

She exclaimed: "they have found him." Her face white and tense, she added almost in a whisper: "Oh! My God there's a well over there."

When the first carload of searchers arrived from where the boy was found, one man shouted: "He's alright; he's alive and he's all right".

Eight Survivors Think Other Crew Members Lost

St. John's Nfld., Oct. 24—(CP)—The United States coast guard cutter Sorrel was nearing Argentia, Nfld., today with eight seamen, survivors of the ill-fated North Voyageur, aboard.

The survivors, discovered clinging to a bobbing raft in the North Atlantic yesterday, said they believe the other 12 missing crew members went down with the ship.

The men were rescued as three U.S. aircraft and another coast guard cutter criss-crossed the area about 50 miles southeast of Cape Race, Nfld., after the 1,100-ton vessel disappeared early Sunday.

The ship issued a terse S O S call and a brief pinpointing of her position before her radio went dead.

The R.C.A.F. at Halifax, intercepting a message from the Sorrel, said there was no immediate indication of the fate of the other 12 members of the Voyageur's crew.

The Sorrell was to rendezvous with the cutter Humboldt some 60 miles south of Argentia before coming to port. Another cutter, The Duane, along with aircraft, will continue the search for the other crew members.

Times Predicts Canadian Dollar Will Go Up

London, Oct. 24 (Reuters) — The Financial Times, in an editorial-page article today predicts the Canadian dollar will "drift" closer into parity with the United States dollar.

Commenting on the Canadian currency's performance on the free market since it was freed Sept. 30, the newspaper says:

"The wisdom of the action of the Canadian authorities in letting the laws of supply and demand work is shown by the narrowness of movements in the rate since the beginning of the month.

Had the dollar been pegged at parity, it says, the Canadian economy would have suffered "discomfiture" through speculators removing profits.

As it is, such profits have been limited and the Canadian dollar has moved slowly but steadily towards parity.

"It gained a further cent in London yesterday and it is believed that it will continue to drift closer to its fellow dollars."

It reports leading U.S. banks as saying Canada attracts serious investors since rates of return there often exceed those in the United States.

"What is of absorbing interest, however, is that this unleashing of the Canadian dollar has raised hopes that others will be following suit—'ere long."

New Powder May Aid in Treating Chronic Sinus and War Wounds

By ALTON L. BLAKSLEE

Boston, Oct. 24 (AP)—A white powder that eats up dead tissue and pus in a chest infection without hurting healthy tissue, was reported today to the American College of Surgeons.

It promises to become a new wonder medicine to clean up infected wounds, chronic sinus trouble, and other infections.

The powder is pure crystallized trypsin, a natural chemical in your digestion. The trypsin made in your body digests the meat and other proteins you eat. But it doesn't touch living proteins, or otherwise it would dissolve the intestines.

Trypsin has easily dissolved jelly-like masses that sometimes form in the chest cavity, outside the lung, in people with tuberculosis, said Drs. Howard Reiser, L. C. Roettig and George M. Curtis of Ohio State University College of Medicine, and Clark County and Rocky Glen Tuberculosis Hospitals, Columbus, O.

This condition, called empyema, is one of the worst complications of lung tuberculosis. The mass is made up of blood, bacteria, pus, serum and dead tissue. It tends to get hard, while the pleura or covering of the lungs may become thickened. Sometimes it is impossible to operate to remove ribs to rest the infected lung.

Trypsin, injected by needle, liquefies the mass, turning it into a tawny, watery fluid which can be sucked out of the chest cavity. The cavity itself seems to become sterilized in some cases, by a peculiar action not yet understood.

The trypsin, extracted from the pancreas glands of cows, was supplied by Armour Laboratories, Chicago.

Armour is stepping up production and supplying trypsin to various clinics to study other uses of this chemical that automatically separates living from dead tissue.

One possibility is treating war wounds or any infected injuries. In these there is danger of gangrene, an infectious process that spreads to and destroys healthy areas. The dead areas have to be cut out, with much healthy tissue also removed for safety. Trypsin may remove the dead tissue and halt the infection quickly.

In chronic sinus, hollow cavities in the head can become clogged with debris, including germs and dead tissue. Drugs can't reach the germs. Trypsin may clear the way for the drugs.

It also may help in external ulcers, in bone fractures that resist healing, or in peritonitis, an infection of the lining of the abdomen.

AL JOLSON, FAMED 'MAMMY' SINGER, DIES SUDDENLY

Recently Returned From Trip to Korea

San Francisco, Oct. 24 (AP) — Al Jolson, the veteran jazz singer who was the first United States star to entertain troops overseas in both the Second World and Korean wars, died unexpectedly last night with a quip on his lips:

"Hell, Truman had only one hour with MacArthur. I had two!"

Then. . .

"I'm going, boys," the famous mammy singer told two long-time friends with whom he was playing gin rummy in the St. Francis Hotel.

He died quietly, quickly, of a coronary occulsion, and without pain, said the house physician.

Jolson, 64, had returned only two weeks ago from Korea, where he sang to allied troops. He had a two-hour luncheon chat with Gen. MacArthur in Tokyo en route.

President Truman and MacArthur talked privately just an hour on Wake Island a week ago in their historic meeting.

With Jolson were two old friends, song writer Harry Akst and Martin Fried, Al's accompanist and arranger. They had come with him from southern California for a scheduled guest-star spot on a Bing Crosby radio show, to have been recorded here tonight.

Akst telephoned Jolson's fourth wife, Erle Galbraith, whom he married in 1945. She was at Encino, Calif. She was reported to have collapsed with grief.

Warns Bondsmen To Locate Man They Bonded

Toronto, Oct. 24 — (CP) — Two bondsmen may lose their homes unless John Wilfred Muir, 37, appears in court Friday to answer a charge of armed robbery.

The $5,000 property bail was put up by Mrs. Ellen Rippey and Thomas Erwin. Muir, charged with William T. McGill of Oakville, with a $600 armed robbery of a groceteria eight months ago, had been remanded until today.

McGill was given a further remand until Friday. Crown counsel Fred I. Malone warned Erwin and Mrs. Rippey:

"You'd better locate this fellow, if you don't want to lose your home."

TOWER COLLAPSES

Canadian Surgeons Report Machine That Starts Heart that Quits Beating

Boston, Oct. 24—AP—A new electric shock machine can start up a heart that quits beating, two Canadian surgeons reported Monday.

Its tiny currents also can keep a heart beating at a steady normal rate, to help a tired heart. The currents are applied to a little lump on the heart which is the heart's own pace-maker of its beating. This lump or node is the source of natural electrical impulses controlling and co-ordinating your heart beat.

The metal-tipped electrode giving off the shocks can be inserted through a vein to reach the heart, and stimulate it artificially.

The artificial pacemaker machine was described to the American College of Surgeons by Dr. J.C. Callaghan and Dr. W.G. Bigelow of the University of Toronto.

Used only on animals so far, it may become a new way of saving people whose hearts suddenly stop during operations, they said. Surgeons sometimes can start a heart by massaging it, or by injecting drugs. The machine might also help people whose heartbeats suddenly go dangerously haywire and irregular.

The stopped heart of one dog was stimulated to beat again and then was kept going in controlled beats for 30 minutes until his own heart took over again, the surgeons said. The dog recovered without any apparent ill effects.

The pulses come from a special machine, a Thyratron Stimulator. By use of long tubes, the electrode can be pushed through a large ven to reach the heart. The electrode doesn't have to actually touch the heart's own pacemaker bump. It works even when the tip of the electrode is nearly ¾ths of an inch from that spot, Drs. Callaghan and Bigelow said.

N. Korean Troops May be Mustering For Final Stand

U.N. Troops Moving Rapidly Toward Manchurian Border

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 25 (Wednesday)—(AP)—A large communist column was reported moving south today from the north Korean refugee capital of Kanggye toward advancing south Korean troops.

It was the first indication in more than 36 hours that the reds may be mustering for a final stand, near the northwestern borders of Korea.

Kanggye is only 20 miles southeast of the Manchurian border.

Air force pilots spotted the column Tuesday but did not speculate on its make-up or destination, a field dispatch said.

A night intruder pilot reported "many, many" north Korean vehicles south along the road.

Latest frontal reports placed the vanguard of advancing republican troops 20 miles south of Kanggye. It was thought possible that north Korean Premier Kim Il Sung's forces were moving south to meet the south Korean troops.

The U.S. marine fliers Tuesday reported they had drawn anti-aircraft fire from the Chinese side of the border while flying five miles inside Korea, near Kanggye.

Meanwhile U. N. troops approached the Manchurian border.

They were reported about 30 to 35 miles from communist Manchuria. A new U.N. bomb line was drawn in an arc 12 miles south of the Chinese red-guarded border. The allied bomb line is usually 20 miles ahead of forward foot soldiers—in this case south Koreans.

The commonwealth brigade composed of British and Australian troops was reported leading the chase along the northwest coast towards the border.

Reuters news agency said it was understood the Britons and Australians will advance to a "so-far-and-no - further" line. about 20 miles from the border. There was no official confirmation of this report.

A reliable source at Allied 10th Corps Headquarters, Wonsan, said South Korean troops would drive all the way to the Manchurian border.

No Area Left Unoccupied

The informant said no buffer area would be left unoccupied. There had been reports of a decision to halt Allied troops 50 miles south of Manchuria to avoid possible incidents with communist China.

Sketchy battlefront reports showed the South Korean northward drive had lost some of its momentum. A build-up was in progress for the final thrust to destroy red Korean remnants.

An Eighth Army spokesman said 20 Russian-made T-34 tanks were seized Monday near Huichon, northernmost large town overrun by South Korean troops. Three tanks were captured Sunday near Kunu.

South Korean troops also seized 50 boxcars of ammunition on the rail line north of Kunu.

Tokyo intelligence officers said only about 25,000 North Korean troops remain north of parallel 38. From a military standpoint all organized resistance had ceased.

But briefing officers at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said remnants of 16 red divisions still have divisional headquarters in Korea and are considered organized units.

323,000 Reds Surrendered

Wholesale lots of North Korean soldiers continued to surrender today. An estimated 323,000 had laid down their arms or become war casualties. More were coming in from the hills to surrender.

Premier Kim Il Sung, the Korean communist leader, had fled. American planes dropped leaflets, declaring that the man who posed as Kim was an imposter named Kim Sung Chu, who was sent to Korea in 1945.

The leaflets said the real Kim Il Sung, a Korean hero, died 15 years ago in Manchuria.

Three North Koreans who lived under the red regime for five years in Pyongyang said the Kim Il Sung they knew in the red capital was a "robot" leader who answered to the name Ho Kai Li. He was a Russian citizen of Korean extraction.

West Germany Nearly Exhausts Credits for Year

The Hague, The Netherlands, Oct. 24 (AP) —A crisis in the European payments union as a result of west German exhaustion of her entire year's allotment of credits was reported here today.

In Frankfurt, Germany, American officials said the west Germans are taking drastic steps to reduce their imports. U.S. officials, confirming the report that Germany was the No. 1 debtor nation in the E.P.U., said Germany already has used nearly $300,000,000 of the $320,000,000 assigned to her.

In this capital, foreign minister Dirk U. Stikker of The Netherlands, who is chairman of the organization for European economic co-operation, said he was leaving for Paris tomorrow to seek action on the situation he said resulted from the imminent "bankruptcy" of west Germany.

The situation will shove into the background the question of further trade liberalization which is on the O.E.E.C. agenda for its council meeting Thursday.

Helicopter Joins Search for Boy Missing in Bush

Madawaska, Ont. Oct. 24—(CP)—An R.C.A.F. helicopter from Trenton joined the search today for 10-year-old Ted Rose, missing since Sunday in the Algonquin Park bush near this village 100 miles southeast of North Bay.

Aboard the plane is Sgt. William Farr of Hamilton, who will parachute if the boy is sighted. Flt.-Lt. George M. Kightley of Barrie, Ont., is pilot

Provincial police and almost the entire 200 population of the village helped in the search.

The youngster and a chum, Alex Yankovich, 12, went fishing near the "Big Rapids" on the Madawaska River about two miles north of here. Ted refused to leave when his friend wanted to come home.

The swift-flowing river was dragged today in the belief the boy may have slipped and fallen in.

Special Meeting Of Authority Will be Held

Members of the Moira River Conservation Authority will hold a special meeting at Shire Hall on Thursday afternoon to consider recommendations submitted in the Moira River Survey report. The report on the survey was released last spring and contained various recommendations with respect to the river valley.

Mr. A. H. Richardson, chief conservation engineer of the Ontario Department of Planning and Developments will be present at the meeting to assist members of the authority in considering the recommendations. Thursday evening Mr. Richardson will be guest speaker at a supper meeting being held by the Five Circle men's club at Plainfield.

All members of the authority are asked to turn out for the afternoon meeting at Shire Hall and are also invited to attend the evening meeting at Plainfield.

Lawrence R. Buck Elected District Governor of Ontario Region of Y's Men's Clubs

Lawrence R. (Larry) Buck was elected District governor in the Ontario Region of Y's Men's Clubs at the annual regional conference held in Hamilton over the weekend. The Ontario region is the largest region of Y's men's clubs in North America comprising 28 clubs. Larry has held many offices in the Belleville Club including that of president A large delegation from Belleville attended the conferences which had an attendance of over 150 delegates.

Past International President, Rollo Smethers of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, gave the key-note address at the convention banquet speaking on the subject 'accentuating the 'positive' in which he indicated that Y's dom was worthy of the best of every member. He said this should entail sacrifice of time which might be devoted to pleasure, business or family life but that anyone can put a great deal of himself into anything in which he believed. As a Christian movement, he continued, clubs could and must accentuate the positive character building traditions of the YMCA which were founded and have been nourished in Christian principles for 100 years. He reminded his audience that the YMCA and Y's Men's Clubs have been pioneering world movements and that no one can any longer claim he does not believe in or support service to his fellow man in any part of the world. People cannot get along without one another and what is done in a family, in a community in any country affects persons the world over. He pleaded for a broadening of outlook in which he said we cannot fail and yet recognize the world brotherliness of the teachings of Jesus.

Other speakers included John R. McCurdy, metropolitan general secretary of the Toronto YMCA, a delegate to the recent meeting of the world's committee in Denmark. Mr. McCurdy had the opportunity to visit many of the refugee camps in Europe and expressed the belief that the settlement of these millions of displaced persons, permanently, presented a problem to every citizen the world over.

New County Home Not Completed Until July 1951

The new million dollar Hastings County Home now under construction on the Trent Road west of the city will not be completed until July it was learned at city council last night.

Warden of the county Clarke T. Rollins of Coe Hill together with Charles Buskard of Deloro, and Lee Grills of Sidney township, appeared before council, the warden stating that delay in the contractor getting required materials would delay completion of the structure.

"We thought originally that the new home would be completed by the end of this year, but now we find that this is impossible," stated the Warden.

In appearing before council, the county representatives asked approval from the city for a further extension of time in vacating the present home which has been sold to the city. The Warden stated the county would undertake to keep up insurance on the property and to do ordinary maintenance.

City approval was really given to the request and the present agreement under which city old people are quartered in the county home will continue until the new home is ready for occupancy.

40 Local Barbers Brush up Voices In Harmony

That sound of voice harmony heard almost nightly coming from various residences throughout the city does not mean that members of church choirs are taking to practising at home.

No siree. It just means that the local members of The Society of the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America Incorporated are doing a bit of brushing up in readiness for their twice monthly meetings at the Kiwanis Centre.

The organization to encourage the revival of barbershop singing has now about 60,000 members throughout North America and the Belleville branch has about 40 members in Belleville and the immediate district. Membership of the local branch will be confined to 60, but all men in the district who fancy themselves as harmony singers are invited to the twice monthly "workouts" at the Centre.

The idea of the whole thing is to form a men's chorus from which a number of quartets will be drawn for competition in the provincial sing song to be held at Massey Hall in Toronto later this month.

LOOKING FOR CHILD

Edwards, Ont., Oct. 24 (CP) — A party of more than 200 persons — police and volunteers — combed semi-bushland in this area 14 miles southeast of Ottawa Monday night, seeking 2½-year-old Robert Thayer, who has been missing since about 10 a.m.

The lad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thayer, went out to play Monday and disappeared with the family bulldog. The bulldog returned to the home a little later, but there was no trace of the Thayer tot.

Life Underwriters Dine at Trenton, Award Diplomas

Twenty-seven members of the Quinte Life Underwriters Association and their guests, attended a special luncheon at the Queensway Hotel in Trenton on Friday last to honor three members, Charles D. Lundy, Ralph A. Knowlton and Ralph Morden, all of Belleville, who were awarded the degree "Chartered Life Underwriter of Canada."

Ezra Smith of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, representing the mayor, Ken Couch, welcomed the delegation to the Town of Trenton.

Guest speaker for the occasion was William T. Green, C.L.U., training consultant of the Prudential Insurance Company of America's field training division, Toronto.

Mr. Green, who was introduced by Harry Sager of Trenton, selected as his topic "The Clean-up Fund." Under five separate headings, Mr. Green discussed the importance of the Clean-up Fund to every estate, small or large. He estimated that there was an average shrinkage of up to 28 percent when last illness expenses, funeral expenses, outstanding current bills, outstanding mortgages, bank loans, and estate settlement administration costs have been paid.

Immediately following his address, Mr. Green who is a Chartered Life Underwriter himself, presented C.L.U. diplomas to the three graduates. "With the honors that accompany this degree, there are responsibilities. I'm sure you will recognize them and will do your utmost to contribute in every way to the advancement of the profession of life underwriting in your community" concluded Mr. Green.

First year C.L.U. certificates were also presented to three successful first year candidates; Don Williams, Perry Everett and Bill Holway, all of Belleville.

Annual Stipend For Aldermen Increased $200

Members of city council at their regular meeting Monday evening voted themselves a $200 annual increase of pay, the increase to take effect the first of the year on approval of the Ontario Municipal Board.

The recommendation passed by councillors would increase the annual remuneration for aldermen from $300 per year to $500 per year with $5 to be deducted for each "regular" meeting missed by any alderman.

The original motion called for a deduction of $10 from the pay of each alderman for missed meetings but when the by-law came up Alderman Haig said he thought this was unfair as aldermen spent much time working for this city for which no recognition was given.

Alderman Hyde felt that pay for aldermen should remain as it is, claiming that in light of the city's finances it would not look well for pay to be increased. He agreed however, that the chairman of finance, public works chairman and the chairman of fire, should have extra money as their jobs were more demanding of their time.

The by-law carried with but four aldermen dissenting.

Re-Surfacing Will Cost $10,000 More Than Expected

Resurfacing of Dundas Street, West, from the Devil's Elbow to Sidney Street, and of Bridge Street West from Front Street to Highland Ave., will cost the city roughly $10,000 more than was originally anticipated.

This was learned Monday evening at the regular meeting of council when the by-law and agreement for the re-surfacing came up for approval by members of council. Total cost of the project will be roughly $40,000 instead of the $30,000 which was first estimated.

The increase in cost of the work will result from necessary excavation in front of Albert College where the base will have to go down to bed rock to eliminate the "boiling" which has been troublesome at that particular section in the past. City Engineer Charles Mott stated that the contractor H. J. McFarland Construction Company, would not guarantee the work unless the excavation went to bed rock.

City Did Some Work

The maximum cost in the contract will be $34,000 but added to this is the cost of the work done by the city on the stretch of pavement last spring.

Mayor Allin pointed out that the city was getting a one third grant on the original $30,000 cost, but he was not too sure that the grant would be received on any additional expenditure that might be made. He suggested that the city go along as far as the $30,000 and let the balance of the work go.

"I'm afraid that I cannot go along with the Mayor's suggestion," said Alderman Haig. "We are into this now and the work will have to be completed. But it just shows that council must be more careful in incurring expenditures which are not thoroughly discussed in committee."

Obituary

MRS. ANNA D. BOWERMAN

Mrs. Anna Delhi Bowerman, of 131 Isabella Street, Toronto, died in Belleville General Hospital this morning at the age of 78. Born in the United States, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Irwin, and had lived in Belleville all her life with the exception of five years spent in Toronto.

Her husband, Smith Bowerman, predeceased her in 1925. Mrs. Bowerman had been ill for two months before her death. She was a member of the Standard Church, and took an active part in church work in her younger days.

Surviving her are one son, William A. Bowerman, Hay River; three daughters, Mrs. William (Ina) Calbury, Belleville, Mrs. E. B. (Amy) Grieve, North Bay, and Miss Dorothy Bowerman, Toronto; one sister, Mrs. Robert Todger, Lakefield, Ont.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, Everett St.; the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

LATE MRS. RUSSELL M. J. TERRY
(Tweed)

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Annie Terry, wife of Russell M. J. Terry of Tweed, were held Saturday morning from the Tweed United Church with interment in Victoria Cemetery. Rev. A. L. Siscoe took the service at the church and also at the graveside.

The bearers were Stan Clement, George Archer, Bill Barnett, Alley Dafoe, Ron Dunkin and Dorian Bosley.

Mrs. Terry died in Belleville General Hospital last Wednesday following an illness lasting over the past two years.

She was born 56 years ago at St. Helens, England, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Green. She had lived in Tweed for the past 25 years where she was a member of St. John's United Church. A very quiet person who thought much of her home and family, Mrs. Perry had a great many friends in Tweed and district.

She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Helen Archer of Toronto, and Mrs. Stan Clement, Trenton. There are two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Eccleston, Seaforth, England, and Mrs. Sadie Moffatt, Toronto.

DAVID RYERSON WOODCOCK
(Trenton)

Funeral services for the late David Ryerson Woodcock, 79 Ontario Street, Trenton, were held this Tuesday afternoon from the Weaver Funeral Home at Trenton where service was conducted by Capt. E. W. Ibbotson of the Salvation Army. Interment was made in Mount Evergreen Cemetery.

Bearers included Albert Farrar, Dave Phillips, Robt. McCloud, Archie Woods, William Watson and A. Walt.

The late Mr. Woodcock met accidental death Saturday night when he was struck by a truck while crossing No. 2 highway west of Belleville.

He was born at Tweed, 77 years ago, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Woodcock and had lived in Trenton for several years.

He is survived by his wife, the former Nettie Joslin, five daughters and five sons. They are Mrs. Grace Brough, Carrying Place, Mrs. Ed. LaBelle (Gladys) Trenton; Mrs. B. Robillard, Havelock; Miss Eva Woodcock, Trenton; Mrs. Earl (Helen) Downs, Oshawa; William Woodcock, Belleville Road; Alfred, Trenton; Norman, Campbellford; Frederick and Melvin of Oshawa.

There is one sister, Mrs. Bert Dalton, Trenton and 27 grandchildren.

ROY LANCASTER

The funeral of Roy Lancaster Stirling barber, was held at his home on Saturday afternoon, with his pastor Rev. A. E. Baker, St. Paul's United Church officiating, and was largely attended.

The bearers were Messrs. John Grills, Jim Cranston, Bob Hatton, Albert Ashley, Joe Irish and Ralph Vandervoort.

The interment was made in Stirling Cemetery.

MRS. MORLEY DEMPSEY
(Ameliasburg)

Mrs. Morley Dempsey died late Monday night at her residence on the third concession of Ameliasburg Township. Born Bessie Alice Hillman, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hillman. She was born in Read, Ontario, and died in her 58th year.

Mrs. Dempsey had lived in Ameliasburg Township for forty years, and previous to that lived in Thurlow Township. She had been in ill health for five months. Mrs. Dempsey was a member of Victoria United Church, sang in the choir, was president of the Women's Association, taught in the Sunday School and was a member of the Rednersville Women's Institute.

Surviving are her husband, Morley Dempsey; one daughter, Miss Betty Jean Dempsey, at home; one sister, Mrs. John Moreau, Belleville; two brothers, Alfred N. and Clifford Hillman, both of Ameliasburg Township.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, 27 Campbell St.

Funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 24 (CP) — Industrials declined strongly as the session progresed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

After a mixed opening, industrials declined sharply by as much as a point. Losses more than doubled gains.

Papers led the decline with every issue but one, Bathurst Power, in the minus column. Utilities steels, agricultures, foods, liquors, refining oils, banks, textiles, manufacturing companies and retail stores showed a majority of losses. Constructions were mixed.

Base metals were irregular. After starting strong in continuation of yesterday's good gains, they lost their trend with losses up to $1. Consolidated Smelters, East Sullivan, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, Labrador Noranda, Sherritt Gordon and Waite Amulet led the list down. MacDonald and Anacon Copper were most active and made good gains.

Senior gold producers lost up to 20 cents. McIntyre bucked the trend for a 50 cent gain. Junior producers were quiet with only a few issues trading. Prices stayed in a narrow range.

Western Oils sagged with losses up to 15 cents. Atlantic Oil, Calgary and Edmonton, Federal Petroleum were among the many declines.

The exchange's 2 p.m. index showed industrials down 1.70 at 281.74, golds down at 84.61, base metals down .41 at 153.33 and Western Oils down at .91 at 86.38 Volume for the first three hours was 1,644,000 shares, about 226,000 shares more than the same period yesterday.

Ratepayers Will be Asked To Consider Setting Up Health Department in City

City ratepayers will be asked to decide at the forthcoming municipal elections whether they favor the setting up of a health department sufficient to take care of the health needs of the city. Cost of the department would run approximately $25,000 annually, it was estimated.

Mayor H. J. Allin broached the matter to council and in his motion recommended that the voters be asked their opinion regarding the setting up of a health unit.

Alderman Dr R. T. Potter, however, pointed out that a health unit as set up by the Department of Health would be patterned to embrace the city and the county and as result the cost would be prohibitive if the program was carried out alone by the city.

As an amendment to the Mayor's motion he suggested that a health department be set up in the city as recommended by the Department of Health to efficiently take care of the health needs of the city. In this way the cost could be held to $25,000 or less while he noted that a health unit would cost anywhere from $35,000 to $40,000.

Judge to Set Price

County Judge J. C. Anderson will be asked to set a price for the land in the city industrial area in the northeast section of the city. Mayor Allin said that he had received a request from two industrial firms as to the cost of land in the area but this had to be set by the county judge.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance and one member of the fire department were authorized to attend a training course on civil defence to be held in Toronto. Alderman Haig suggested that a civilian person interested in this work go along also. "This will become a very important thing," he said.

The proposed installation of storm sewers in the Veterans Homes project on the former county home property ran into a delay when it was learned that the cost of the work, along with other development work done by the city, would cost more than the $600 per unit allowed by Central Mortgage and the $300 grant from the province.

Alderman Armstrong noted that if the work was proceeded with it would be necessary for the city to finance the amount of the overdraft by issuing of debentures.

Tenders Called

Tenders have been called for the construction of storm sewers in the area the Port Hope Construction Company tender of $11,947.40 being the lowest tender. It was recommended that the contract be signed and the work started immediately but when it was learned the cost would result in an overdraft the recommendation was changed to authorize the city solicitor to prepare the necessary by-law for submission to the municipal board.

City Engineer Charles Mott said the storm sewers planned for the Veterans' Housing area would be of ample size to carry the water which would drain across beneath the highway from Bayview Heights area.

Turn Rinks Over

Operation of outdoor rinks will be turned over to the local recreation committee, it was decided by council members. All materials for the construction of the rinks was saved from last season and is stored at the city barns. A recommendation from the Arena Commission, which last year operated the rinks, will be presented in council next week authorizing the recreation commission to operate the rinks this year.

Alderman Haig struck a note of alarm with respect to the budgets of several of the city departments, stating they would have to go easy for the balance of the year if an overdraft was to be avoided.

"The time has come when every item of expenditure must be carefully scrutinized," he stated. He noted that the public works department was in the worst shape with allowances for snow removal and sanding already over the estimated cost—with no snow condition or sanding thus far this autumn. At the same time Alderman Haig complimented Alderman Thomas as chairman of public works for the job he was trying to do.

Asked About Suit

Alderman Potter wanted to know what the situation was with respect to the damage suit entered against the city by the Climak Construction Company with respect to alleged breach of contract. He said he understood that the consulting engineers were said to be assuming the responsibility but now learned that the city was also involved.

Alderman Haig replied that the city was the primary defendant in the damage action with a contingent liability of between twenty and thirty thousand dollars. "The case was not yet completed," he said.

Introduction of a by-law which would place employees of the city outside Ontario Labor Relations Act brought stiff objection from Alderman William Argue as chairman of Labor. The by-law had been introduced in connection with the work agreement between employees of the public works department and the city.

The alderman said the by-law was tantamount to denying workers the right to organize and to bargain collectively.

Alderman Thomas replied that employees of the public works department were not being denied the right to organize. He said the work agreement had been approved by the guild which was 100 percent behind the by-law.

Alderman Tice added that the workers felt they could do better working through their own guild than they could through an outside union.

When it was pointed out that the city should not try to restrict its employees from joining any union, the by-law was tabled with the understanding that the original work agreement between the city and the public works employees would stand.

Unexplained Case Discussed by Commission

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 24 — (CP) —The Windsor police commission, continuing today its probe of law enforcement here, is faced with another unexplained case of a criminal charge being withdrawn without benefit of a court hearing of the evidence.

Judge Archibald Cochrane, commission chairman, found no answer yesterday to his questions why and how "a straight open-and-shut case" of drunk driving a year ago against a Windsor salesman, Finley Munroe, was withdrawn.

Three police officers used the terms "very intoxicated . . almost paralyzed . . . stumbled to his knees" in describing to the commission Munroe's condition when he was arrested Oct. 20 last year.

The charge of drunk driving, laid under the Criminal Code, was dropped Oct. 28 with no evidence taken in court. The notation "withdrawn" on the back of the court record gave no indication of who ordered the withdrawal. It was endorsed by Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan.

John Burns, inspector of prosecutions for the police, said he was in court Oct. 28 but had no recollection of the case. Shorthand records of the court stenographer contained no reference to any action taken in court that day on the case.

Both Inspector Burns and Police Chief Claude Renaud told Judge Cochrane they didn't know how the Munroe case was withdrawn.

The judge said he was "certain" that they didn't know how it was dropped. He declined to tell reporters which of two Crown officials handled the case because he was sure they didn't know either.

QUICK SERVICE

Boreham Wood, Hertfordshire, Eng. (CP) — Mrs. A. Axtel, a food committee official, asked colleagues to remove a waste bin from outside food stores near her home. She later told the committee: "Somebody moved it all right. They put it outside my front door."

Says Husband 'Enticed' Away By Widow

Toronto, Oct. 24—CP—A 5[illegible]-year-old woman who claims her husband was "enticed" away by a widow who lives on a neighboring farm testified today that she twice tried suicide when she saw her marriage breaking up.

Mrs. Gertrude Brydon took the witness box for the second day as she continued an Ontario Supreme Court hearing for unstated damages from slim, dark-haired Mrs. Ruth Abernethy.

Mrs. Brydon said that when she found her husband, Andrew, paying attention to Mrs. Abernethy, she "took a whiff" of groundhog gas. Another time she used razor blades. She did not elaborate.

She claimed—also without elaboration—that Mr. Abernethy, crushed to death by a tractor in 1948, "did not die by accident."

Prior to Mr. Abernethy's death, Mrs. Brydon testified, the two couples frequently entertained each other at their homes.

"What would happen at dances?" asked George Walsh, counsel for Mrs. Abernethy.

"Well, we would meet at dances and he would stop dancing and go over and put his arms around her, while her husband would sit by himself."

Mrs. Brydon said yesterday that after Mr. Abernethy's death, she and her husband and Mrs. Abernethy took a motor trip together.

She told of her husband and the widow "dressing in front of one another" and having pillow fights.

"Sometimes we could get only one room with two beds," Mrs. Brydon told the jury. On one occasion, "we had only one room and only one bed—he slept in the middle.

Baby Falls 10 Feet Down Hot Air Grate

Guelph, Oct. 24. (CP)—Elaine Schuett, nine-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schuett, is in serious condition in hospital as the result of a 10-foot fall down a hot air grate on the second floor of her home here yesterday.

The baby and her two-year-old brother had been lying on the floor peering down at another brother in the kitchen. The two-year-old in some manner raised the grate and his sister fell through to the kitchen below.

Mark 5th Anniversary Of U.N. in Middle Of Blue Water Bridge

Sarnia, Oct. 24 — (CP) — In a hands-across-the-border gesture Sarnia and Port Huron dignitaries met today in the middle of the Blue Water Bridge to mark the fifth anniversary of the founding of the United Nations.

Congressman Jesse P. Wolcott of Port Huron, presented a blue-and-white U. N. flag to J.W. Murphy, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament, for Lambton West, as a memento of the occasion.

Cost Accountants Hold Inaugural Meeting of Term

A review by periods developments in industry in general and accounting in particular was given the Bay of Quinte Chapter, Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants at its 1950-51 inaugural meeting by E. H. Gibson, Toronto, Ont.

The meeting held in Lattimer's Town Room was well attended and conducted under the chairmanship of Mr. Robert Taylor.

Speaking on the "Accounting Office of Tomorrow," Mr. Gibson pointed out that from 1900 to 1920 cost accounting and anticipated profits depended largely on the "know how" of individuals. Economic conditions brought drastic changes and with the vast industrial expansion of World War II cost accounting and accounting again expanded to meet requirements of a government controlled economy.

From 1940 to 1950, Mr. Gibson said the trend has been toward mechanization and decentralization with branch offices producing their own accounting reports instead of having them developed in head offices.

Mark Vanner expressed the appreciation of the branch to the speaker. Reports of various chairmen were heard.

Kinsmen Given Report on Progress Of Swimming Pool

Members of the Belleville Kinsmen Club at their regular fortnightly meeting Monday evening at the Hotel Quinte heard an address on the latest in radio transmission equipment such as is being used on two of the largest broadcasting stations in Toronto.

Guest speaker for the evening was J. C. R. Punchard, engineer with the Northern Electric Company here. He gave an illustrated talk on the new twin transmitters, which was much appreciated by the members. The speaker was introduced by Don Bacon with club appreciation being expressed by Ray Lennox.

Harry Rollins gave a brief report on the progress of the club's community swimming pool, stating that the pouring of the concrete had been started by the contractor. Ted Follwell reported on the success of the club's recent ladies' night.

Two new members, Harold G Farrow, assistant manager of Quinte Paint and Wallpaper, and Harry C. Coppel with the entomological staff of the Dominion Parasite Laboratory, were inducted into the club by Norman Garbutt and were presented with their pins.

NEW WONDERS

New wonders which are being revealed by man's experiments and observations high in the air or deep in the sea are helping to transform knowledge and influencing the lives of people. Life is made in one sense more mysterious and in another sense more understandable as these new findings are made.

Until the recent age of scientific discovery there was a great unknown even of the surface of the earth, let alone about the nature of the upper air. Columbus the sailor was the discoverer of a new era and launched all the myriads of voyages of discoveries since his time.

He pointed a way around the earth and since his time global discoveries have been made and the end is not yet.

As to the "jet stream," it brings new facts to man's knowledge hitherto hidden because there were no means of finding them. But discovery grows from discovery to discovery.

Today with all the discoveries there are many new inventions, truly as striking as any in all history.

In medical science there is a continuing and endless revelation of facts.

That which has been hidden for all time until a few years ago, the fact about atomic energy, is likely to be proven the greatest of revelations, hidden, though it was known to man for ages and never revealed until 1945.

THE LOST IS FOUND

The other day two explorers, not older men like Columbus and Cabot but mere boys, accompanied by their small dog, became lost in a maze in a cavern in Pennsylvania. They had spent twelve hours in their lost condition but suffered nothing from their prolonged stay and anxiety.

Caves since primitive days have had an appeal to boys and men. News that a new cave had been found would stir a neighborhood and bring out every available man and boy to search the mysteries of the new discovery.

In those early days the cave was the hideout of fugitives and defeated warriors and ancient stories tell with an air of mystery those wonderful events which had happened there according to tradition handed down from generation to generation.

The story of fugitives in hiding is as old as the race. Modern civilization has not even destroyed it, today's fiction uses this situation with lasting effect. Boys' books are full of it. It makes fine reading. Even the story of men of today lost in forest or in a cave makes one of the appealing stories of the very modern press.

How often in this age there are stories in the press of posses being formed to hunt for lost children, men and women. To the glory of human nature these posses are not scanty formations but great groups of men who give up work and make any effort to find that which was lost.

The story of the lost is one of the thirty-six dramatic situations in life. Out of these thirty-six are formed all the stories man ever told or ever wrote.

DOCTORS AT SCHOOL

Physicians and surgeons from all parts of the Maritime Provinces are in Halifax these days finding out the latest "what's what" in their profession. Patients they have left behind them in city, town and country feel a little better, knowing that their chosen medical practitioner is keeping up with the times.

New "cures" or what purport to be "cures" turn up almost every day, such a confusion of them that it seems that soon mankind will escape all diseases. Even the day the doctors' conference, or refresher course organized by Dalhousie University, was announced, there was forecast a treatment that should, if successful, do a lot to create sweetness and light in many households. The Montreal Medical Society was told of encouraging results in the treatment of peptic ulcers with banthine, a drug recently introduced into Canada. It may raise a false hope; the drug may, in the end, prove to be more of a handicap than a help and thousands may be doomed for a longer or shorter time to a colorless diet and a constant battle between appetite and common-sense.

Whatever the truth of the matter, doctors have to know. They have to keep in touch with banthine, with all the other "ycins" and creations whose names mean nothing to the un-learned. The wonder of it is that doctors do try to continue their education. Most of us, confronted day after day with the same job, the same problems, tend to rest on our oars — if not prodded — to be content with methods that always have worked and not to look for others. Doctors know that lives are at stake if they falter and fail, that if they miss a new scientific development they may by their dis-interest commit someone to an earlier grave. They are determined that that is not going to happen; they are committed to a great cause, the prevention of suffering and its cure when it occurs, and they renew their knowledge that they may further that cause to the limit of their abilities. — Halifax Mail-Star.

JUST FOLKS

ANCESTRY

Behind us all there lies a host
That hoped and dreamed, as now do we,
And toiled for those they cherished most
And gave to our ancestry.

The men their maidens wooed and wed.
The mothers, as do ours today,
Knelt nightly at some little bed
To hear their sleepy children pray.

And some were strong and some were weak
And some were brave and some afraid;
Some arrogant and others meek.
A few their little fortunes made.

They lived for us, but knew us not.
Descendants of that host are we
And after us, when we're forgot,
Will children come we'll never see.

ROOT GROWTH AND TOP GROWTH

"What can we do about this tree? It looks as if it isn't going to live very much longer."

The tree expert examined the tree for a few minutes and then gave this judgment. "Dig around the tree and work peat moss into the soil. Then cover the soil with two inches of peat moss. By doing that you will hold in the moisture and force root growth. And as you force root growth you will get top growth."

Added root growth results in added top growth—that is the formula. And it is the formula not only for trees but for everything else in life. There are a lot of business failures every year largely because business fundamentals were in some way violated. Firms that pay attention to the fundamentals usually pay dividends.

There is a lot of stuff labeled education which is being handed out today, and a lot of it is not education at all, for the simple reason that it never gets down to the fundamentals of life. It isn't practical, it isn't intellectually sound and it doesn't take into account such eternal verities as moral character and religious faith.

Force root growth and you will get top growth. That is the formula.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is sad but true that even in some of the best-run of big businesses, a certain amount of dirty work has to be done. Thus it is that not infrequently big men in industry and business find themselves obliged to employ someone on their staff as a sort of confidential man.

He is not exactly a spy or informer. But the handling of the dirty work falls on him. Naturally, the man so chosen is not of a very high calibre as far as his own personal integrity is concerned. When the big boss looks around for somebody to help him in a wholly necessary bit of dirty work, such as giving the axe to an employee who cannot be axed for any rational reason, the person he chooses is not one of his best men. The execution of dirty work calls for a special calibre, not large enough for big game, but not too small to be effective.

After two or three such confidential jobs, the big boss finds himself saddled with a curious sort of debt. It is one he can't pay off. A confidential man is the only man an employer cannot fire.

The confidential man becomes, as it were, the living embodiment of the boss's conscience, guilty conscience at that. The boss would be better off with a millstone tied around his neck. But the poor fellow, finding himself manacled to his confidential man, does his best to see something good and useful in the human burden he has assumed.

Not having been of very high calibre to begin with, the confidential man is not long in realizing that he has got the boss where he wants him. If he was not a spy and informer before, he soon becames one. He proceeds to advance himself at the expense of people he never could hav overtaken in the organization normally. This is how some of the worst rapscallions in business have risen to high places.

The best advice to bosses is: if you are obliged to get anybody to do any dirty work for you, be sure to fire him by the end of the month.

OUR TOWN

THE MIDDLE ROAD

Politically and in most other ways, John Longmore, the tall gangling Maine school teacher and his precise-mannered wife, Dorothy, are about what you'd expect from their own definition of their status as "ordinary, middle-of-the-road Americans." In this last of four columns about the Longmores, I'd like to explore their ideas.

About Canada, for instance. Both John and Dorothy are moderately well-read, yet they have a very misty idea of our country (they think of Vancouver, for example, as a sort of northern outpost) and, as John puts it, "We sawt o' think o' Canada as anothaw state. We know you folks will go along with us in what we do down heah."

Both John and his wife think of themselves as "rebels" because in a country that's solidly Republican they were strong supporters of Roosevelt.

"We believe in votin' foah the man, not the pawty," John says. "Voted ev'y time foah F.D.R., but in the last presidential 'lection we were foah Dewey. Jus' didn't think Truman was a big enough man. Still don't."

They're satisfied with the two-party system. Both agreed that in their own part of the state a small group of influential, well-to-do families "ran" the parties for their own benefit. I suggested that this kind of thing in Canada often inspired people to join a third, left-wing party.

"Wouldn't do here," Dorothy said. "We folks like to play politics. If some group gets control of a party we don't set up a new party. We start working to get the group out of there."

They are for free enterprise. "Ah say, let the best man win," John drawled. "Ah believe that the man with the initiative should get his re-wawd. We've had no Communism 'round heah. Don't expect we evah will. If theah were any funny goin's-on heah the whole county would know about it befoah mo'nin'.

"That's right," Dorothy agreed. "Moscow would have a hard time getting their agents in here. We're on a 15-party telephone line."

Hope of Peace

America's role in world affairs is a favorite subject for Dorothy. She folds her hands in her lap, leans forward in her chair, cocks her head and impales the visitor on her bright blue eyes.

"America now is the last hope for peace," she says. "We've got the fate of the world in our hands and we've got to realize it. We've got to get tougher, more realistic. If Russia puts out her paw and says, 'We're going to play ball,' we've got to give it a good hard look and not just hope it'll work out. Why, everything depends on us. I don't think England can do much. France never did seem to do much. America's got to be prepared and keep prepared. America and," she added lamely, "Canada, too."

"It's like we've been an ovah-indulgent parent . . ." John began.

"That's it exactly," Dorothy said. "An over-indulgent parent". She raised her hand and shook her index finger in a parody of a scolding parent.

"We're like the mother who says, 'Now, don't you do that or mother will spank.' We start to discipline them. Then we get soft and never follow through. Well, you know how that will spoil a child. It works the same way in world affairs, too. The point is, whether we like it or not, we're leaders in the world. We've got to be strong."

Both John and Dorothy feel a sense of bitterness and shame that there is still so much racial intolerance in America.

And Security

"It's one reason ah hate to have this so-called suth'in accent o' mine," John says. "But up heah theah's none o' that. Let me tell you about Mistah Bush. We've got a race track here in Pembroke. We have hawness races every Sunday. Mistah Bush is a colored man and he has an old horse he races named Junior Bars. Couple o' weeks ago Mistah Bush and Junior Bars won a heat and when they were comin' back up the track the announcer says, "Looka theah, folks! Mistah Bush and Junior Bars! Their combined age is 95 yeahs. Well, suh, you should have heard the people clap and cheaw. That's the way it is in Maine."

"We had to worry about intolerance ourselves," Dorothy added. "I'm Catholic and Johnny's Protestant. A lot of our friends thought we were making a mistake getting married. We're trying to teach the children that people have their own beliefs and that they must respect them for it."

I asked them how they felt about security and again found that it was a subject on which Dorothy had very set ideas.

"On a farm you've got security no matter what happens", she said. "We'll never starve so long as the blueberries grow and our vegetable garden keeps producing. We don't believe in skimping, as a lot of people around here do. We want to live by city standards That means fruit juices and vitamin tablets and florine treatment for the youngsters' teeth and good books for us. We're not accepting the old rural standards and, of course, it means we're putting nothing in the bank."

She paused a moment and looked around at the snug farm kitchen. "There's really no security in the world now, is there?" she said.

MacKenzie's Column: United Nations Cannot Dismiss Russia's Move

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Russia's call for the conclusion of a "Big Five" peace pact is, of course, a further bit of tactical manoeuvring in the cold war. It holds out no possibility whatever of a cessation of hostilities.

Still it probably would be a mistake for the United Nations to dismiss the move without due consideration. It's the business of the peace organization to test every proposal, however questionable, to see whether it contains a grain of hope.

This is particularly true in these days when mankind as a whole is anxious for peace. Even the regimented peoples of the totalitarian satellites would say "amen" to that.

It would be unforgivable if any opportunity were passed up to better the world's wretched situation.

Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky of Russia in supporting the resolution Monday before the U.N. assembly political committee, made an extraordinary statement. He declared that Moscow's post-war policy is "based on the inevitable peaceful co-existence of the capitalistic and socialistic systems for a long, long time."

If that is meant as a "peace gesture," it calls for a bit of consideration in view of the cardinal tenet laid down by the late Lenin:

"As long as capitalism and socialism remain, we cannot live in peace. In the end one or the other will triumph — the funeral requiem will be sung either over the Soviet Republic or over world capitalism. . ."

Adroit Juggler

Vishinsky is an adroit juggler of words. There is no doubt about the "co-existence of the capitalistic and socialistic systems for a long, long time." However, there is every doubt in the world about that co-existence being "peaceful." On the contrary, the cold war may go on and on until one side is knocked out."

That undoubtedly is what Vishinsky has in mind. It must be, for the cold war is a fundamental part of Soviet strategy. Moscow has no desire for a major "hot war" at this juncture. She isn't ready for it and she has been doing well with her cold war up to now.

However, the Korean setback has jarred Moscow. And the energetic rearmament moves of the western powers aren't to Russia's liking.

Hence the peace gestures, including the idea of a Big Five Pact.

Canada Provided Ritziest Touch At London Show

London, Oct. 24 — (CP)—Canada contributed the ritziest touch at a £85,000 ($263,500) show in London's Dorchester Hotel.

Fashion writers said the best thing in the show was an Eskimo Bay wild mink coat, the first to appear in London since pre-war days.

This £6,500 items brought envious sighs from an audience including 400 women. After its purchase by an English woman, an official commented:

"We are very pleased. It is nice to know someone in England will wear it."

With wide sleeves, big cuffs, a ripple back flaring from just below the shoulders and a cape collar that can be hugged around the ears, the coat follows the general fashion trend for this year's [illegible]s. Its full length, however, compares admirably with the recent preference for seven-eighth and three-quarter lengths.

Canada's golden seal also made a welcome comeback after an absence caused by the Dominion government's ban on trapping. But mink — much of it Canadian — was the really dominating fur.

There was plain mink, mutation mink, stranded and wild mink, and — perhaps most popular — snow-white mink, a lovely foil for brunette coloring and rich, dark velvet gowns.

Loveliest choices for day wear were silver - blue mink coats and capes. With prices ranging from £3,850 and £4,350, they brought this laughing comment from their announcer:

"Don't forget, prices of furs, like everything else, will go up and up. So buy now."

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis, or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address:

SO YOU STILL HAVE YOUR APPENDIX?

Fifty years ago a group of American surgeons—surgeons in those days were few and hence important compared with the twenty thousand doctors who call themselves surgeons today—became so conscious of their own importance that they met in a national convention and issued a manifesto to the effect that the appendix of every child should be removed at an early age as a measure of prevention—arguing that removal of a healthy appendix is a simple operation and if it is not done the individual is likely to have appendicitis later on and then the operation is much more dangerous.

This strange idea never got to first base with the laity or even with the general medical profession. But it just goes to show how far from sound, rational principles doctors can stray if there are no critics to warn the public.

Thirty years ago the major operation known as tonsillectomy—which has a mortality of death rate nearly as high as abdominal or pelvic operations which sane persons consider serious — was perpetrated in scandalous fashion upon children everywhere—and I say scandalous advisedly, for a series of articles in this egregious column, setting forth facts that the ever-ready operators had to swallow, were published under the title "The Scandal of Tonsillectomy."

In those talks I told some shameful truths about the tonsillectomy racket, citing sources whenever a reputable physician had the courage to question any statement. The articles won for me the malevolence of the wholesale operators throughout the country, but that didn't matter, for there was good reason to believe that the light of publicity I had thrown upon the atrocity saved many a child with merely large tonsils from being dragged to the—operating-room.

The tonsillectomy racket has dwindled into a minor evil in the past twenty years, but flagrant outbreaks still occur in communities where no one warns the public against it. From two cities, one in the east, one in the west, came news stories, with pictures, of removal of tonsils of one entire family of seven persons (parents and five children) and another of the same unnecessary operation on four children—in both instances the news bureau editors added the inevitable humorous touch about the doctor or "surgeon" or hospital doing the job at a special wholesale rate.

The unnecessary operation, I say, and that's precisely what I mean. It is unnecessary and unjustifiable in at least nine cases out of ten, even today. Tonsillectomy still does more harm than good, I believe. It still snuffs out too many precious young lives.

In some instances immediate, radical, complete removal of the tonsils is the best possible treatment, in my judgment; for example, early malignancy (cancerous degeneration) limited as yet to the tonsil, chancre (first stage of syphilis) in the tonsil, a tuberculous lesion involving only the tonsil.

As for so-called "infected" tonsils—a diagnosis generally open to question—I may say here that if they were my tonsils you'd have to anethetize me in order to drag me into the operating-room—if I had the shoe-leather or carfare to take me to a physician skilled in tonsil diathermy (electro-coagulation).

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

The Female is Cruel

My mother had piano legs, and now my daughter, aged 17, has them. didn't. I remember mother had a complex about it and I believe my daughter is now acquiring one—she is teased so much about it by the other girls in school. (C. F. M.)

Answer—It is a common characteristic of hypo-pituitarism. The doctor may advise whether hormone treatment is required. If your daughter carries a ratty girdle around loins and hips, send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet Rules For Reducing. The female of the species is crueler than the male.

Coffee

I like to eat fresh coffee grounds. Did so all through pregnancy and still eat about a tablespoonful every day—my baby is now three months old. Is there any harm in it? (Mrs. S. J.)

Answer—No. But it would be much better for your health if you chew a tablespoonful or two of plain wheat every day instead of coffee. Wheat is good chewing.

Nutrition of Growing Child

Whether somewhat diseased tonsils, in child of 8, can be re-built by improving nutrition, that is, supplementing the child's diet with what the ordinary diet lacks? (Mrs. L. P.)

Answer — If "somewhat diseased" means enlarged tonsils and/or adenoids, supplementing the usual namby-pamby diet is advisable. Read the chapters on the tonsils in Call it Cri—for copy send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HEART POWER

We speak of our automobiles and boast of our engines as having so much "horse power," that being the measure of their speed. I got to thinking this over and I began to think of those wonderful human beings, who when contacted, seem to uplift and inspire us so that the very speed of our mind is accelerated and our heart, as well given renewed power.

It's the heart power that makes us thoughtful and helpful, that takes us out of discouragement and temporary failure. Heart power that is unconsciously given to us by someone who is understanding and sympathetic. You meet such a one and an entire day is changed, or maybe a week—or a lifetime! We all meet such people. Their own heart power is of such a nature that they loan it out to us!

If an engine has a high horsepower, or as it is written h.p., we know at once how powerful it is. Now as to heart power take Dr. Albert Schweitzer, for example. He was noted as one of the greatest musicians and theologians in all Europe, but he gave all that up that he might administer to thousands of ignorant, though needy, natives in the primeval jungles of Africa, and among a strange and primitive people. For nearly half a century he has given himself away in service. Life magazine called him "the greatest man in the world". How would you estimate the heart power of such a one?

How fortunate many of us are with the friends we have, for every great one means that much more heart power to us. And every time we do something worthy, or helpful to some one else, we increase the heart power within ourselves.

I have read many a book, seen many an act in a theatre, and witnessed many a fine deed by some one, that increased immediately my own heart power, for we are being forever influenced. We take heart when we see others brave and uncomplaining. But our heart power is lowered when people speak so as to hurt our feelings, or make us unhappy. It's heart power, not material power, that builds character and nations!

Film Teaches Steps Of Highland Dances

London, Oct. (CP)—A film on Highland dancing will soon be shown to Caledonian societies in many parts of the world.

Because of a sudden renewed interest in Scottish flings, squares, reels and schottisches (type of polka), Scottish dancing associations consider it necessary to standardize basic steps. The film will give technically-correct steps and a description of the dances.

Dr. R.C. Wallace of Queen's Reviews Set-Up of U.N. For Students of Collegiate

Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal and [illegible]cellor of Queen's Uni[illegible] told pupils at the Belle[illegible] Collegiate Institute this morning "I believe firmly that the common people of all the countries in the world want peace," Dr. Wallace was speaking at the school at a special United Nations day program.

The Queen's University head reviewed the setup in United Nations whereby Russia has used her veto on so many occasions. "When United Nations was established five years ago," he said, "it seemed wise that there should be a veto in the Security Council." He said that even though the veto did not agree with democratic principles, it was felt that if the Big Four could not agree within themselves, that there couldn't be peace in any form.

Dr. Wallace said that through the half million years that we know human life has existed on this planet, "the human race has fought that long." Yet, he said, it is still hoped that peace in the world can be achieved in this lifetime of ours.

Not Easy to Live in Peace

The speaker said that possibly it is not easy to live in peace because the human race is naturally jealous, possessive, suspicious and fearful. This chain of reaction will eventually lead to war. "But we have attempted through the various ages to develop some plan whereby nations could understand each other better," he said. "Hence, the United Nations."

Getting back to the veto, Dr. Wallace said that the reason Russia used it so much was that she was suspicious that others were trying to get something she hasn't "Perhaps the veto problem can be avoided by throwing more power back to the General Assembly," he said.

The present policy of the democratic alliance is to develop strength to work together and to show power, if necessary. "We think at present that strength is important to keep the peace and we hope that it will. But it is not a final solution," he said.

"Canada and the United States keep peace by understanding", Dr. Wallace said He continued "and that's the only way we can keep peace in the world—through understanding." He told the students that they might not see peace in their time, but that everything they could do and believe would help to push the cause.

Must Have Confidence

"Someday". Dr. Wallace said, "we will see peace, and the more we put our confidence in the United Nations and believe in it, the sooner that day may come."

The program this morning was featured by students of 12 different member nations of UN sitting on the platform, with Mayor Jack Allin who represented Belleville and Canada. The school band played before and after the assembly, and filled in with two selections from "South Pacific" when a scheduled UN film failed to arrive from Ottawa. The chair was taken by Leo Marcus.

Immediately before Dr. Wallace's address, Ulysses Espaillat, from the Dominican Republic, sang "O Sol Mio", and was well received. Dr. Wallace was introduced by Pauline Sprague and thanked by John Henderson. He was flanked on the platform by Mr. G. E. Currie, principal of the collegiate.

Steal Truck $10,000 Worth Meat, Canned Fish

Toronto, Oct. 24 —(CP) — A transport truck loaded with five tons of meat and canned salmon —valued at $10,000—was stolen early today from a west-end warehouse.

Police said they believe the robbery is connected with a series of cattle thefts throughout York County during the last two months. The meat perhaps is intended for the same illegal market, investigators said.

Today's theft was discovered when the driver reported to Hume Transport Company. The cargo, intended for stores in Guelph, contained beef, pork and lamb.

Farms in York, Ontario and Peel Counties will be checked in an effort to find the truck, police said.

Company officials said the theft was well planned. The night crew finished loading at 2:30 a.m. Sometime between then and 6:30, when the driver went for the truck, the load was stolen.

Police speculated the gang would have to operate on a large scale to dispose of such a quantity of meat.

Thieves took live cattle from a number of pastures recently, loading two or three animals at a time into trucks.

MAY USE BOAT

Owen Sound, Oct. 24 (CP) — The 136th Battery of the 45th. Anti-tank Regiment, a reserve army unit, is considering using the freighter Manitoulin as a temporary armory this winter. Lt.-Col. A. A. United Nations Day Observed By Rotary Club

The Rotary Club luncheon yesterday took on a truly international aspect in its observance of "United Nations Day".

Four students of Albert College, from far-flung parts of the world were guests of the club and gave enlightening facts of their opinions of Canada and descriptions of their countries.

The students, introduced by Rotarian Dr. Bert Howard were Ted Heinsen, Porto Plata, Dominican Republic; John Wong, of Hong Kong; Neil Burke, Talara, Peru, and Ulysses Espaillat of Santiago, Dominican Republic.

Mr. Heinsen, who learned the English language but a short time ago, answered questions given by Rotarian Howard in which he expressed his admiration for Canada and liked learning the language. The climate is different here as in his native country they never see snow.

John Wong, a student with a marked personality, told the club men his father had been educated in British Columbia and later graduated in dentistry from the University of Minnesota. He had heard about Albert College through a missionary to China.

Brief Talk

Mr. Burke gave an excellent if brief talk on his home city of Talara and Peru in general. He stressed its geographical, historical and cultural advantages and went into some detail on Talara. He explained that a daughter of Rotarian Howard lived near him in Talara, hence his advent into Albert College. He likes Canada and Canadians and thinks Albert is an excellent educational institution.

Ulysses Espaillat had some difficulty with the English language but a pleasing personality overcame this slight barrier. He is possessed of a splendid tenor voice and at the end of his talk sang "O Sol Mio" with Leo Riggs at the piano.

He received a splendid ovation from the Rotarians at the conclusion of his fine solo, but lack of music prevented a much-demanded encore.

Appreciation of the club was expressed by Rotarian Dick Cowan and passed on to the student guests by President Ken Griffiths.

Re-Assessment in City Requested by Delegation Appearing Before the Council

A request for a re-assessment in the city of Belleville, which, it was claimed would result in a more equitable distribution of taxes, was made before city council Monday evening by a group of Parkwood Heights homeowners.

Speaking for the delegation of homeowners, Mr. W. J. Mickle pointed out the last re-assessment in the city had been made in 1939 when a "terrible job" had been done. He asked that the tax rolls be checked by an independent assessor.

"We know that a re-assessment would be expensive, but we ask that this matter be given consideration," he said.

Another city homeowner asked if a financial report was going to be published by the city this year, and if not, why not? He was told by Mayor H. J. Allin that a financial report was put out each year but was much too lengthy for publishing in the newspaper. Alderman Haig, as chairman of finances, stated he would be happy at any time to explain any particular item in the report.

Considered Early in Year

In reply to the question of re-assessment Mayor Allin said this had been given serious consideration at the first of the year but the matter had been shelved when it was learned the city could not debenture for its cost. Cost of re-assessment must be borne out of current revenue, he stated.

A Queen Street resident, Mr. Ernie Summers, objected to the receipt of a street oiling bill from the city when the street had not been put in its original condition by the local public utilities commission.

He said the street had been torn up for installation of a 14-inch water main and the utilities commission had promised to replace the road in its original condition. This had not been done. Mayor Allin replied that he had spoken to the city engineer about the matter.

Another resident, J. M. Wood, questioned council with respect to the city manager system of municipal government.

"I understand that the city taxpayers at one time voted approval of a city manager. If this was so why was the system not instituted?" he asked.

Mayor Allin replied the vote had been taken a number of years ago but had been turned down by the municipal board. Opinion on the matter was divided with some councillors stating voters had turned the question down at the polls.

It was agreed that the question could again be brought before the electors.

WEDDINGS

DONOHUE—GAFFNEY

A pretty autumn wedding took place, Monday, October 16, at ten o'clock in the Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, when Mary Gwendolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gaffney, was united in marriage to Patrick Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donohue. The Rev. Father Callaghan performed the ceremony and said the Nuptial Mass. Edward and Gerry Gaffney, brothers of the bride, were acolytes.

To the strains of the Wedding March played by Mr. Ambrose Kidd, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was radiant in a floor-length gown of white slipper satin, designed with fitted bodice, net yoke with Chantilly lace, long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her full skirt with long train, was trimmed with alternate frills of lace and satin on either side. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of American Beauty roses and maidenhair fern and wore a gold pendant with matching earrings, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Gracia Gaffney was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing mauve taffeta with matching headdress and carrying a bouquet of yellow and white 'mums.

Mr. Jack Donohue, of Toronto, assisted the bridegroom. The ushers were Leonard Kennedy and Francis Thompson.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Morrison's Lounge, Kingston, dinner being served to fifty of the immediate relatives. The bride's mother received the guests wearing green crepe dress with black accessories and corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a black crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bride's table was beautiful with a lace cloth and decorations in pink and white, centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

Mr. Bert Thompson performed the duties of toastmaster, the bridegroom ably responding.

In the evening a reception was held at Beaver Lake Pavilion in honor of the bride and bridegroom. They received many costly and useful gifts.

Later the happy couple left on an extended motor trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto. For travelling the bride chose a brown tweed suit with green accessories.

On their return they will reside in Erinsville, Ont.

MORLEY—PHILLIPS

Marmora.—At 2:30 p.m., on Saturday, October 21st., in the presence of a large congregation, a pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, when Audrey Hilda Jean Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Lewis Phillips, of Marmora, and the late Lewis Phillips, became the bride of Earl Thomas Morley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Morley, of Peterborough.

The church was tastefully decorated with palms, chrysanthemums, cyclamens, and ferns. The Rev. G. D. Young, B.A., B.D., pastor of the church, officiated.

The wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. A. F. Fraser. Mrs. Roy Frost, soloist sang "I'll Walk Beside You", and during the signing of the register "Because".

Given in marriage by her brother, Gordon Phillips, the bride was charming in a gown of white slipper satin with sweetheart neckline, floor-length skirt with medium train. Her white embroidered net veil was held by a heart-shaped headdress of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Wellington McInroy, as matron of honor, wearing blue satin with matching headdress of feathers and carrying a bouquet of pink roses.

Her bridesmaid was Miss Marion Morley, sister of the bridegroom, attired in turquoise moire with matching feather headdress and carrying a bouquet of pink roses.

Irene Phillips, niece of the bride, dressed in yellow taffeta, with matching headdress and an old-fashioned nosegay, made a dainty flower girl.

Mr. Gordon Morley, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Mr. William Reid, of Peterborough, and Mr. Douglas Phillips, brother of the bride, acted as ushers.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a gold extension heart-shaped bracelet; to the best man, a silver cigarette case and to the ushers, initialled hose.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom was a gold tie accessory set, to the matron of honor, a gold compact, to the bridesmaid, a silver necklace, set with precious stones, and to the flower girl, a gold locket.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in St. Andrew's hall with catering by Circle 2 of St. Andrew's Woman's Association.

The bride's mother received, wearing a gown of dusty rose tissue faille crepe with a navy blue velvet hat and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a navy blue crepe gown, navy blue fur felt hat and corsage of red roses.

Later the happy young couple left on a honeymoon trip to Ottawa and points east; the bride donning a blue gabardine suit with grey accessories and wearing a corsage of red roses.

Upon their return they will reside in Peterborough.

Out-of-town guests were present from Peterborough, Oshawa, Milton and Springbrook.

RAWDON

Many Attend Bethel United Church Anniversary Services

Rawdon.—Bethel United Church on Highway No. 14, in Rawdon circuit, was filled with worshippers from many points for the anniversary services on Sunday last.

The church was a bower of beauty with numerous vases of varied chrysanthemums and a lovely plaque with "76th anniversary" in silver lettering banked with a silver leaf design.

Mrs. Harold Elliott, A.T.C.M., played suitable anniversary music for the two services.

In the morning, Mrs. Walter Warren rendered "Holy Art Thou", and the choir gave an anthem "March On" with Mrs. H. C. Vaclavik and Miss Margaret Rodgers, taking the duet part.

In the evening, there were two anthems "Some One Who Cares", with Mrs. H. C. Vaclavik taking the solo part, and "Praise", in which Mrs. Thomas Sarles and Mrs. Don Heath took the duet part.

Rev. Boyd Beckel, Ivanhoe, gave two splendid messages which were heard with rapt attention. Boyd was a member of Bethel United Church, when his father, the late Rev. J. E. Beckel, was pastor of Rawdon circuit.

The morning message was based on words found in the Apostles Creed, "I believe in the Holy Ghost, the holy Catholic Church, and the communion of Saints". He paid tribute to those pioneers who built the church, and to their faith which was strong in those days.

At the dedication service in 1874, Mr. Mathew Sine sang a song and Mrs. Turner Sine, formerly Miss Rebecca Sine, and Mr. B. C. Tucker, were in attendance and they were at this 76th anniversary.

Dedication

A Holy Bible was dedicated on Sunday morning in loving memory of John Green and his wife, Florence Tucker Green, by their family. A large number of the Green clan were in attendance, Sunday morning for this dedication service.

The morning service closed with the rendition of the old hymn "O God of Bethel".

At the evening service, a goodly number were again in attendance, and Rev. Beckel gave an inspirational address based on "The Work of the Church".

A large number of guests were present at the services from Wellman's, Mount Pleasant, Salem, Stirling and nearby points.

In place of an anniversary dinner, the Bethel ladies catered Monday evening for an I.O.O.F. banquet.

Evening Branch W.A. Christ Church Holds Wiener Roast

Last evening, the Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Church, spent a most enjoyable time at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Evans, Roblin Lake, where about 25 members, some accompanied by their husbands, dined on wieners rolls and coffee, around the spacious and warming fireplace.

The evening was spent in music, furnished by Mrs. J. Hibbard, Mrs. M. Burley, Mr. Everett Smith, and Mr. P. Burton and the host, Mr. Evans, who delighted his guests with a solo. Dancing, and a sing-song of old-time favorites, added to the general jollity.

A vote of appreciation was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Evans for their gracious hospitality, by the president, Miss Frances Reid, after which all joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows", climaxing a delightful get-together.

Mrs. M. Denton of Trenton Addresses W.C.T.U. On Girls' Camp Work

Mrs. M. Denton, of Trenton, was guest speaker at the October meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and gave an interesting account of the work of the Girls' Camp at Lake Consecon.

There were fifty girls from 11 to 16 years in attendance and fifty voluntary pledges of total abstinence were made.

The study book was in charge of Mrs. F. O. Bennett "Why People Drink" was the subject. Three reasons were given, the dehydrating effect upon the lining of the mouth creates thirst; the narcotic effect on the drinker causes him to feel less concern for his responsibilities; and the strong desire to prolong the desirable sense of freedom from worry, regardless of after effects.

It is foolish to counsel "moderation" in the use of a substance whose first effect is to weaken the self-control, the power to stop.

Moderation Hard to Reach

Sir William Osler, in an address to a Yale graduating class said: "As moderation is very hard to reach, and as it has been absolutely shown that the best of mental and physical work may be done without alcohol in any form, the safest rule is abstinence".

In the June number of "Mayfair", a Canadian magazine published in Toronto, the House of Seagram has a full page advertisement in praise of the virtue of 'Moderation'—'moderation in our spending, our pleasures, our enjoyment of whiskey". It says, "Moderation benefits not only our own selves, but our families and communities and all of Canada".

Wealthiest Corporation

Seagrams is the wealthiest corporation in Canada with a rented capital of $200,000,000. The brewing and distilling magnates are making huge profits in the social chaos that follows war. It was said at the 13th general council of the United Church recently, that there is more money in the liquor industry now, six times over, than in the richest gold mine in the world. So this vaunted virtue of "moderation" might well be applied to liquor profits.

It might be well to remember the words of the late D. B. Hanna, first Ontario liquor commissioner, when he said to the first Ontario liquor store managers—"Gentlemen, I want to call your attention to the fact that the less liquor you sell, the more successful you are. This is a system of government control." It is now called government sale.

Where Does Intoxication Begin?

Where does moderation leave off and intoxication begin? Here is a testimony on that delicate point given before the Ontario Cabinet, the judiciary, the legal and medical professions and police officials in October 1948. It was sponsored by the Accident Prevention Association of Ontario. The words of crime detection expert, Dr. C. W. Muchlberger, "the best medical man would have difficulty proving in court that a man was drunk simply by a physical examination. Careful chemical analysis, the result of which is compatible with the physical symptoms is necessary. Far from being a stimulant, alcohol is a nerve depressing drug, entirely a brain poison.

A Household Pledge

Desiring that our home may be a sanctuary in the midst of life, and believing that indulgence in alcohol is injurious to the individual, a menace to the home, and an enemy to the nation, this household does not countenance the use of beverage alcohol, within its walls."

Relatives, Friends Remember Birthday With Many Gifts

On Saturday evening, the children, grandchildren and great grandchildren of Mrs. A. Hagerman, assembled at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hagerman, 62 South John Street, where a birthday party was held in her honor.

Mrs. Hagerman was the proud recipient of many lovely and useful gifts, including a purse and housecoat from the family; nylon hose from Mr. and Mrs. L. Weagant and family; a brooch from Miss Dianne Bawden; necklace and brooch from Mr. and Mrs. D. Rosebush; flowers from Miss Graham, of Wallbridge; wool sweater from Mr. and Mrs. W. McCormick; chocolates, from Leonard McCormick; slippers, from Mr. and Mrs. Francis Jeffrey, Stirling, and stationery from Mrs. Blanche Reid, as well as an array of cards from friends and neighbors.

The evening was spent in games and musical selections, following which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, who extended her deep appreciation to each and all for their kind wishes and the tangible evidences of these wishes.

2ND THURLOW

Neighbors' Aid Guests of Stone Church W.A., W.M.S.

2nd Thurlow.—The 2nd Line Neighbors' Aid were entertained at the home of Mrs. George Tucker, of Sidney, where they were guests of the Stone Church W.A. and W.M.S., on Thursday afternoon. About twenty Aid members were present, and the president, Mrs. Harry Thomson, was in charge of the business period. Several social events were arranged for.

As it is twenty years since the Neighbors' Aid was organized, it was decided to have a pot-luck supper in the Front Road Church hall on Wednesday night, Nov. 1.

Also a social evening and dance at S.S. No. 3, Thurlow, on the 10th for the Aid members and their friends.

The business meeting for election of officers will be held at the Donaldson home with a pot-luck dinner on Nov. 15th.

Mrs. Percy Sprackett took charge of the following program—reading entitled "Grandma's Free Day", by Mrs. Arnold Mitchell was enjoyed; two songs by Mrs. Cecil Grills, Mrs. Robert Atkins, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Manley Mitchell was well given.

Mrs. J. Bunnett gave the "History of the Neighbors' Aid" and the various activities and work done over the twenty year period.

Reading of four lovely poems by Mrs. John Craig were well received.

Mrs. Sprackett thanked all those who had helped with the program.

Mrs. Phillips, president of the W.A., and Mrs. Detlor, president of the W.M.S., both spoke briefly expressing their pleasure at having so many present and thanked Mrs. Tucker for opening her home for the meeting.

After the meeting closed dainty refreshments were served by members of the W.A. and W.M.S. and the hostess.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Many questions from one wife

A young wife of a few years writes me a long letter and asks a number of questions. The background of trouble against which these questions are posed is that her husband refuses to take any interest in doing the chores around the home; that he wants to spend most of his time with his family, who live nearby, and without having her along; that when he isn't visiting his family, he is out with the boys enjoying himself. He even plans weekend trips with a group of his friends, and when she asks to go along, says she is selfish to want to go everywhere he goes.

Her questions are:

1. "What can you do to make a husband come home after working hours, help with the different chores that must be done and in general improve the appearance of his home? Am I wrong in wanting him to help me?

2. "Don't you think that instead of encouraging him to spend so much time with them, his family might try to make him take an interest in his own home?

3. "Do you think my husband is right when he says I am just 'old-timey' in wanting him to be home?

4. "Have I been wrong to hold my job since my marriage and help with the bills, which are invariably his own bills? I never buy anything unless I can pay for it. He charges wherever possible, or if he can't charge, writes a cheque. Then I must raise the money to pay the cheque.

5. "Do you think it is fair that now we're married I must stay at home when he goes out whenever he likes?"

And then, at the end of her letter, comes a whole barrage of questions—"Do you think I should tell him to choose between his family and me? Would I be better off to leave him, sell our home and furniture, or should I stick it out, hoping he will change? Do you think that if I go on doing all the work at home he will ever become interested in it, or should I leave certain things for him to do and nag at him until he does them? Do you really think he can love me more than anything else in the world, as he says he does, and yet say, every once in a while, that he would like to go back home to live? Don't you think that if he loved me he would be willing to stay home and help with the work, and that when he plans trips, especially for whole weekends, he would include me in the plans? Do you think the fact that I am three years older than my husband accounts for our troubles?"

Now each one of these questions should really have a detailed answer. This, however, is impossible in the space I have available. All I can do is to give a general answer that will cover as many points as possible.

What I would like to say is that there is no reason why this girl should blame all these troubles on the difference between her age and her husband's. If they were companionable for the first few years of their marriage, as she implies elsewhere in her letter that they were, the age difference probably is not a factor.

The fact that for the first year or two of their marriage they lived with her mother as she also says elsewhere, and he had no home responsibilities there, is undoubtedly much to blame for his having started his married life wrong. I certainly think his family should disapprove his spending so much time with them and send him home after a reasonable time whenever he comes. Since they apparently are encouraging him in his visits, however, this wife can hardly expect any help from that quarter.

As for his wanting to go out by himself, this seems all of a piece with his general irresponsibility, which is obviously at the bottom of all the trouble. Because she has helped earn for their needs, and taken care of his bills, his irresponsibility has increased.

BEAUTY

You and your hairdresser

Beauty shops are crowded.

Good times, hard times; war or peace, beauty shops are crowded. You telephone for an appointment for a permanent wave, and find that your favorite operator can't take you for a week of Sundays. The time has come when professional treatment is no longer a luxury, but a necessity. Girls on small wages will skimp in many ways, but not on wave sets. Well, that's all right, if they feel that way. Feminine heads must look pleasing. The scrambled effect throws one out of the picture. It puts one out of circulation.

Going through the beauty hopper boosts morale, same as the sweet things your husband says to you. You can go into a beautytorium with trailing feathers, feeling that life is kicking you around, and you'll come out stepping high and pretty. The face of the world has changed for the better, and so has yours.

Just what is your attitude toward those who serve you? Some of us have found good friends among those who fluff suds over our heads and form little curlicues of our tresses. We have also run up against surly young women who have rushed us through the job and have not been any too pleasant about it.

The boss of a beauty shop tells your reporter that some of the customers aren't always pleasant. There you have the human element, as you have it everywhere. Some are snobbish, consider themselves superior to those who give their services; they express this attitude in a haughty or silent manner. Some are chronic complainers; nothing suits them.

The woman who seeks a new hairdo may be especially trying. After it is arranged she doesn't like it, especially if it is a mode quite different from what she has been used to. The whole undulated and ringleted structure is dismantled, another one designed. And the second one may not please her any better.

The customer who is always late for her appointment is the bane of the beauty industry. She throws the operator's schedule out of gear. Usually she makes no apology. Inconvenience to others means nothing in her selfish life.

The manager of the shop said that business girls are the easiest to work on. They are punctual, know the value of a worker's time—and they know what they want. She also said that, during the twenty-five years of her business life, she has waited on every kind of woman—the sweet and the acidulated, the modest ones and the arrogant dames who look down their noses.

I think it would be perfectly fair for this young woman to do as she suggests and tell her husband that he must choose between her and his family, and that if he chooses her, he will have to take his fare share of the obligations which every man should assume when he marries. If he doesn't want to do this, it is in no way up to her to continue to carry practically the entire burden of their home and their life together.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Today's wedding toasts are simple, short

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please suggest for us some toasts that are appropriate for a wedding? Everyone concerned with the plans seems to be terrified at the thought of making a toast or of telling someone else how to make one, what to say!

Bride's Mother

Here's comfort right away: Formal toasts, long, elaborate toasts at a wedding have gone out of fashion. Which is mighty fortunate for the wedding guests as well as those most closely "concerned" with having to propose toasts! So unless the person making the toast has a special gift and wit and social resourcefulness for saying just the right thing, a simple toast is the way of wisdom. This is a special comfort to the best man and to the bridegroom, both of whom really must say at least a few well-chosen words."

In this first, most important toast, the best man may rise and say only, "To the bride and groom!" or, expanded a bit, "To the bride and groom . . . and to their happiness, always!"; or, "To you the bride and groom . . . may you always walk close with happiness!" After this toast, and to acknowledge it, the groom rises and expresses his bride's thanks as well as his own . . . "Betty and I thank you, most heartily, for your good wishes." Or he might add, "And we thank you, too, for being with us on this Great Day."

The groom usually proposes a toast to his bride's mother and father, the hosts of the wedding. And the best man or an usher, often the head usher, proposes a toast to the groom's mother and father, the guests of honor at the wedding. And it is correct, of course, for onyone who wishes, to propose other toasts . . to the bride, to the bride and groom, to the bride's attendants, and so forth.

Pronounced val-et. . .not val-lay

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle a discussion? My friend insists that valet is pronounced vallay, because it is a French word. But most people I know pronounce it val-et, just as it is spelled. Who is right about this?

S. P.

You are right. The word was originally French, of course, but it has been anglicised and is now correctly pronounced val-et . . . with no accent on either syllable.

Wife does not appear at husband's stag dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband is planning to give a stag dinner here in our home next month, his guests to be a group of his fraternity brothers, who are to make plans for a certain college project. He and I have decided on all the details of the dinner (which is to be served buffet style), the menu, extra service and so forth. I think that, as hostess of our home, I should greet the guests and perhaps even occasionally appear during the dinner to see that everything is provided. But my husband insists, and very vigorously, that it is absolutely incorrect for the wife to appear at her husband's stag dinner. Which of us is right about this?

Reader

Your husband is right about this. You shouldn't appear at any time, either before, during, or after, the stag dinner. And it is your responsibility to plan your menu and the service so that your appearance will not be necessary. Your husband is asking for your proper co-operation . . . and this you should enthusiastically give him.

LAY CORNERSTONE

Toronto, Oct. 23—(CP)— The cornerstone was laid here yesterday for a $275,000 chapel dedicated to the memory of 187 boys of Trinity College School who died in the Boer War and two World Wars.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

In Florida they feed orange skins to cattle. But in Uruguay growers are even more generous. They feed whole oranges to their livestock. Both instances recall the period in early America when oranges were used to clean hardwood floors.

The tart flavor of citrus fruits may be used not only for desserts but for many main courses as well. Oranges and ham, lemon slices with pot roast and grapefruit segments with fish are well known instances. Perhaps the best known is roast duckling with orange sauce.

A chicken casserole with vegetables and orange slices is a one-dish meal requiring a minimum of pots and pans.

As in all casseroles the individual food should be cooked together long enough for the flavors to unite or blend. When silver onions and green peas are combined, each should taste somewhat of the other.

When peeling oranges use a very sharp blade, and be sure to remove every trace of outer white membrane with its bitter flavor.

Chicken Casserole with Oranges. 4 Servings

3 1-2 lb. young frying chicken
1-2 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
Vegetable fat
1-4 cup dry white wine
1 chicken bouillon cube
1-2 pound silver onions peeled
2 large oranges
12 ounce package frozen peas

Have the chicken cut up for stewing or frying. Hold each piece over an open gas flame to singe it if necessary. Remove pin feathers using tweezers or a strawberry huller. Wash. Put chicken in a heavy paper bag with flour, salt and pepper. Shake bag well. Remove chicken.

Melt fat to a depth of 1-2 inch in a heavy frying pan fitted with lid. Brown chicken well on both sides. Remove chicken. Wipe pan dry.

Return chicken to pan. Pour wine over chicken. Add 1 cup hot water and 1 bouillon cube. Add onions. Cover pan with tight lid. Simmer over a small flame until chicken is almost done. about 45 minutes.

Cut peel off oranges. Cut away all white membrane. Cut oranges crosswise into 1-2 inch thick slices.

Put peas into pan. Arrange orange slices on chicken. Replace lid and continue to cook until peas and onions are tender.

A dress-up belt of gold satin is overlaid with a glitter lattice-work of rhinestone and pearl embroidery. And as for glitter veils, why they are all over the place, And look out for rhinestone-encrusted hose!

NICE WORK in a good group of bags with reversible covers. A trim satchel of black faille with a gold mesh frame and attached double chain handle comes with a reversible cover. One side is black velvet and the other is gold brocade, making a bag for daytime, afternoon and evening.

RICH TONES continue to dominate millinery. A soft orange color is used for a brushed velour hat. The soft, rolled brim—with all over tucking—continues down the side in two fan sections, each accented with tiny pearl drops.

DID YOU EVER see such handsome clothes as those prepared for this season? One outstanding outfit has a full-length coat of Black Watch plaid wool, made with flaring fullness that swings from softly curved shoulders. It is lined with gold wool jersey, which is also used for a surplice lined blouse that is worn with a skirt of the plaid.

NEW VERSIONS of the popular wool fleece coat are better than ever. Yellow fleece for a full-length, straight coat, its lines accentuated by a stitched-panel back. A leather strap holds the softly curved petal collar.

"...AND THIS IS ALCAN'S BIRTHDAY PICTURE"

THIS PICTURE of the first aluminum plant in the British Empire was taken in 1900. That was only 14 years after Charles Martin Hall had discovered how to make aluminum cheaply by using electricity.

The plant was erected in semi-wilderness at Shawinigan Falls because the river was being harnessed to provide electricity. Aluminum was the first to use this power. Today Shawinigan Falls has many other industries and is a hustling, thriving city.

Alcan, too, has been growing during these fifty years. Today the company has 12 plants providing jobs for 11,000 Canadians and supplying aluminum to more than 1000 independent Canadian manufacturers from coast to coast.

On its 50th Birthday, Alcan looks back over half a century of progress—and forward to continued growth with Canada.

Will Review onviction of 1 Red Leaders

shington, Oct. 23—(AP)—he Supreme Court today agreed o review the New York conspir- cy conviction of 11 top commun- leaders.

The court set Dec. 4 to hear ar- uments by lawyers for the com- unists and for the government. then will take the case under onsideration for final decision.

The principal point at issue in- olves the constitutionality of the 940 Smith Act. That law makes a crime to advocate or teach verthrow of the government by orce and violence. The communist aders were convicted of violating the act.

The court in granting a review pecified that arguments must be imited to the question of validity the Smith Act.

ays ECA Studies lan to Remove killed Workers

Washington, Oct. 23—(AP) — n economic co-operation administration official said last night hat E.C.A. is studying a recom- endation for removal of up to 20,000 west Berlin skilled work- rs and their equipment to other ountries in need of their special kills.

In Berlin German officials were hocked today by the E.C.A. report.

Dr. Paul Hertz, who represents he city administration in Mar- hall Plan questions, said such an llied-sponsored emigration to oreign countries "would be in lat contradiction to the allied olicy to hold Berlin, build it up nd make it a bridgehead against he east.

Berlin has 294,000 unemployed —about a quarter of its labor orce. But most of the jobless are unskilled or from white collar pursuits.

Pravda Demands Four-Point Plan For Germany

Moscow, Oct. 23 (AP)—The communinst party newspaper Pravda today demanded adoption of a four-point program for Germany's future, as set forth by the eight-country Prague conference which wound up Saturday.

In its lead editorial, Prague declared the Prague declaration is inspiring peace partisans the world over to intensified struggles against imperialist warmongers.

Pravda also ran comment from observers in east European capitals Laudntz the Prague program.

Meanwhile, top diplomats of Russia and her communist allies were feted in Prague last night as part of a round of social activities following the two-day German parley.

The Soviet Deputy-Prime Minister, V. M. Molotov, and other diplomatic leaders dined with Czechoslovak President Klement Gottwald.

The eight countries — Russia, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Poland, Bulgaria, Hungary, East Germany and Albania — wound up their conference Saturday with a four-point plan for setting up a "democratic, peace-loving, all-German sovereign government."

(Western observers in Germany saw little hope of any negotiations growing out of the Soviet bloc's plan. They viewed it more propaganda than diplomacy.).

The four-point plan in effect calls for:

1. A proclamation by Russia, Britain, France and the United States "that they will not allow remilitarization of Germany and her being dragged into any aggressive plans."

2. "Removal of all hindrances in any road of development of a peaceful German economy".

3. "The undelayed conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany," creation of a unified German state and withdrawal of all occupation forces a year after signature of the treaty."

4. "Creation of an all-German constitutional council on the basis of a balanced representation of western and eastern Germany, which should prepare for establishment of an interim democratic, peace-loving, all-German sovereign government."

The communique also said Russia, the U.S., Britain and France should be invited to consult "concerning the elaboration of the peace treaty" until the all-German government should be set up.

QUINTS ARRIVE HOME

Corbeil, Oct 23—(CP)—Weary but happy, the 16-year-old Dionne quintuplets are back home today after four fantastic days in New York where they received the acclaim and adoration of thousands of persons.

The quints and their father, Oliva Dionne and other members of the party arrived at Corbeil at 9.30 a.m. The girls were allowed to remain home from school today to unpack and rest.

Charge Robbery With Violence

North Bay, Oct. 23 (CP)—A real estate dealer from nearby West Ferris has been arrested and charged with robbery with violence in connection with an Ontario-wide safe - cracking, bank-robbery gang.

Earl Miller, 44, real estate dealer, tourist and dance hall operator, was arrested here Saturday night following investigations touched off Oct. 7 when he endeavored to cash $12,000 in stolen bonds, police said today. He is slated to appear in court at Dundas tomorrow.

Miller's arrest follows closely the arrest in Hamilton of seven persons wanted in connection with an alleged safe-cracking ring.

The bonds Miller tried to cash police said, are part of the loot taken from a robbery at Binbrooke, Sept. 6, and another robbery at Keswick, Sept. 14.

At Binbrooke George Beer was held up, tied and robbed when the Canadian Bank of Commerce, in the same building, was looted. At Keswick a safe at the Canadian Bank of Commerce was blown up and looted.

The seven persons arrested in Hamilton are being held on various charges of robbery with violence, possession of explosives and conspiracy.

140,000 Troops Used to Smash Reds in Malaya

Singapore, Oct. 23—(AP)—Britain is using about 140,000 men—40,000 regular troops and a force of 100,000 British-led constabulary—in the drive to smash communist terrorist bands in Malaya, a high military source said today.

The regulars include 29,000 British and Gurkhas, 3,500 Malays and about 7,000 locally-enlisted personnel. Previous figures for regulars published here listed 17,000 British and Gurkhas.

Against them are 3,000 to 5,000 communists organized into bands which carry out sudden hit-and-run attacks.

Air force personnel here is estimated at from 3,000 to 5,000 men, for whom 35 planes arrive from England in November.

Wolf Raids Force Sale of Flocks

Toronto, Oct. 23 (CP)— Because of raids by wolves, one farmer in the Cochrane south district of Northern Ontario recently sold his entire flock of 104 sheep and lambs, officials of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today.

Some farmers of the Temiskaming district, farther south, are reported selling all their sheep for the same reason.

Wolves have been plaguing districts as far south as Lanark and Renfrew counties.

DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 23—(CP)—Inspector Alex Innes, 49, head of the Windsor Police Morality Squad since 1940, died last night in hospital after a lingering illness.

A member of the morality squad since 1930 and of the police force since 1925, Inspector Innes was active until April of this year, when his illnes forced him to leave active duty.

Say Woman Beaten With Lead Pipe

Aurora, Ont., Oct. 23. (CP)—Lloyd Victor Morgan, 30, was charged today with assault causing bodly harm to two women relatives.

Police said they found his sister-in-law, Mrs. Florence White, 30, naked and bruised on a driveway and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Peark Ingparks, 52, suffering from head wounds. They had been beaten with a three-foot lead pipe.

In court at nearby Newmarket, Morgan was remanded to October 27. Bail was set at $10,000.

AL JOLSON, FAMED

Riding Crest

Jolson was riding the crest of a popularity wave for the second time in an entertainment career that began in 1899. His popularity with the troops was unsurpassed. In the Second World War he travelled to Europe, Africa, India and the Pacific, entertaining service men.

On his return from Korea, where he gave 42 shows in 16 days, he said:

"Know what it feels like to be back? I'm going to look up my income tax and see if I paid enough. Those guys are wonderful! This is a much tougher war than the last one, believe me."

He entertained troops at the front when the United Nations beachhead in Korea was at its smallest and under constant attack.

"I was singing up there for some guys and there was a lot of noise," he related.

"So I says to an officer, 'why don't you tell those kids of yours outside to stop shooting off those rifles?

" 'Those aren't our kids', he told me!"

Al was born Asa Yoelson, May 26, 1886, the son of a Jewish Cantor, in what was then St. Petersburg, Russia. He came with his family to Washington, while a small boy. His father trained him for the church, but he had other ideas. He appeared in a play mob scene and then ran off with a circus.

He first starred on the stage—in blackface—in 1909 with Lew Dockstaders' minstrels. Two years later he was discovered by the Schuberts and hired for their winter garden in New York.

Jazz Singer Great Movie

The most famous of his Broadway performances was his bended-knee rendition of "Mammy", for which he became known as the Mammy singer. Then Hollywood beckoned.

His greatest movie, "The Jazz Singer," was made in 1927, at the first peak of his career. It is generally credited with being the first real talking picture.

Screen fame followed, and Jolson repeated many of his earlier stage successes for the film.

More than 1,000,000 of his phonograph records of "Sonny Boy" were sold after he popularized the song in "The Singing Fool". Other tunes that made his career were "Swanee," "April Showers" and "California, Here I Come."

His career became temporarily eclipsed in the 1930s, but he came back, as big as ever, following the Second World War and the release of the movie, "The Jolson Story." It starred actor Larry Parks, but it was Jolson's voice.

Then came "Jolson Sings Again."

He went on radio, on his own show and those of his numerous friends. One of those, Bing Crosby, was scheduled to arrive today to record with him the show that never will be made.

Jolson married four times. Besides his widow, he leaves an adopted son, Asa Jr., two.

His previous wives were Henrietta Keller. who divorced him in 1919; Alma Osborne, who divorced him in 1926, and Ruby Keeler, formerly of Halifax, who divorced him in 1939. She was given custody of another adopted son, Al Jr.

Funeral plans are uncertain.

No Blame Attached In Man's Death, Given Wrong Drug

Midland, Oct. 24 — (CP)— A coroner's jury said Monday the similarity of trade names for toxic drugs was responsible for the death of a First World War veteran in hospital here.

No blame was attached to anyone in the death of Julius Klepper, 65, who died from the administration of nupercaine, a highly toxic drug, in mistake for Novacaine, as a local anaesthetic.

The inquest was conducted by Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson of Ontario with Eric H. Silk, acting for the attorney-general's department.

The jury recommended that Mr. Silk and Prof. G. H. Lucas, University of Toronto professor of pharmacology and toxicology, form a committee to place recommendations for the labelling of toxic drugs and practices in their use before the attorney-general.

Prof. Lucas testified that a substantial number of deaths already had occurred in hospitals as a result of nupercaine being confused with novacaine There also were cases in the armed forces during the Second World War, he said.

"I am sure there will be additional deaths unless still further precautions are taken," he said.

He said 19 different trade names were listed for novacaine. It's official name is procaine. He recommended that all solutions of nupercaine be colored to distinguish them from Novacaine.

Dr. William Johnson of Toronto, who administered the solution in the case here. testified he thought it was novacaine. Similar testimony was given by Dr. I. T. Weldon of Midland and Dr. W. E. Binkley of nearby Penetanguishene, the attending physicians.

71 Holsteins Bring $76,150 At Auction Sale

Toronto, Oct. 24 — (CP) Canada's highest average sale prices of the year were paid Monday when 71 prize Holsteins were sold at the All - Canadian Holstein Show.

They sold for a total of $76,150. Officials said the average price was the highest of any cattle show this year.

Highest price of the sale was the $6,000 paid by William J. Murphy of Lindsay, Ont., for Glenafton High Mark, a seven-month-old bull consigned by J.J. E. McCague. Second highest was the $5,400 Mrs. B. M. Hallward of North Hatley, Que., paid for Houckhome Majestic, 10-month-old bull sold by J. E. Houck of Brampton.

Premier J. Walter Jones of Prince Edward Island received $2,700 for a five-month-old bull from C. M. Bottema and Son of Indianapolis, Ind.

Dr. Jose Figueroa bought 19 animals for the Mexican Department of Agriculture. The prices included $1,375 for a bred heifer from Thorton and Sons of Thamesford, Ont.

BORN AT PICTON

Montreal, Oct. 24 —(CP) — George E. Fraser, 68, president and founder of Fraser's Trade Directories, died here Monday following a year-long illness.

Born in Picton, he graduated in 1903 from Queen's University, Kingston.

In 1913 he started the first Canadian trade directory in the textile field, soon expanding with other specialty books covering most industries. In 1932 Fraser's Canadian Trade Directory merged several of these publications.

Britons Like Life in Canada Says Councillor

Picton— Many Britons would like to come to Canada to settle but are hampered by restrictions, observed Councillor Alfred King who returned yesterday after five weeks spent abroad. He was accompanied by Mrs. King.

One English lady, who was coming to settle in Canada, termed herself 'one of the lucky ones' and stated that a whole colony of Britons could be established in Canada if it were possible for them to come.

Mr. King stated that hundreds of immigrants were taken on the liner at a French port on the return trip, and he felt that the British immigrants would be a much more desirable type.

One certainly appreciates Canada without its restrictions and its unlimited and unrationed food supply after a visit overseas, Mr. King stated. He found British people cheerful, happy and noted the great amount of land cultivation which had not formerly been the case. He met two English people who had spent two years in Canada on business and were planning to return to reside in what they said was a favored land.

Speaker Stresses Need for More Missionaries

Picton—Mrs. A. G. MacLachlan of Kingston was guest speaker at the district rally of Canadian Girls-in-Training, held at Picton United Church last weekend. A former missionary to Turkey, the speaker gave a graphic picture of life in that country and stressed the need for more missionaries.

There were more than 100 in attendance from Belleville, Napanee, Deseronto, Wellington and Picton. Mrs. George Greer, Trenton, secretary for the Bay of Quinte Presbytery, announced that Japan would be the topic of study during the year.

Opening worship exercises were in charge of the Picton group with Louella Jones as leader. June Pierson of Trenton gave a report of Camp Council held in Muskoka.

Reports indicated the groups are active and growing. Several of them had interesting projects on display. A film of Japan was shown. The Evening Auxiliary served dinner.

At the closing exercises, each girl lighted a candle and recited the C.G.I.T. purposes, followed by Taps.

Picton—William S. Juniper was among the graduates at the RCAF school at Clinton, Ont., on Saturday. He was promoted to the rank of pilot officer and following leave here, will be posted to Trenton air station for the next six weeks. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Juniper, Sr. attended the graduation exercises.

A family gathering was held last night in honor of the young airmen who distinguished himself as a scholar and athlete while attending Picton collegiate.

Man Found Dead Sitting in Chair

Picton — A resident of North Marysburgh township, Harry Doyle, 65, was found dead in his room at the home of Orval Powers where he resided. When he did not come downstairs yesterday, Mr. Powers investigated and found him sitting on a chair, partly undressed. He had been the victim of a heart attack while preparing for bed.

Born at Cressy, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Doyle and had resided in that neighborhood all his life. A brother Joe Doyle, resides at Cressy, a twin brother Perry in Toronto, four sisters, Lucy, Annie, Kate and Mary in the United States.

Boy Scout Troop Realizes $106 On First "Apple Day"

A hundred and six dollars was cleared by the First Bancroft Boy Scout Troop on their first Apple Day on Saturday. Each and every one of the 27 boys worked under the direction of Scoutmaster Henry Phillips, and his assistants, Brian Murray and William McInnes, to cover the town from morning till evening.

Despite the fact that the organization held their big day a week later than other centres as they did not wish to conflict with The Canadian National Institute For The Blind tag day on October 14th, the change of dates did not have any effect on either the lads or their customers. The proceeds will be used to purchase supplies and equipment for the troop.

BANCROFT

Annual Convention

All public schools in North Hastings inspectorate, the district between Millbridge and Whitney, will be closed on Thursday and Friday of this week, as the teachers will be having their annual convention. This year the affair is being held in Ottawa in order that the school staffs can attend the 75th anniversary of the founding of Ottawa Normal School and spend some time visiting the historical spots of the capital. Chartered buses, starting from Bancroft and going by both Madoc and Barry's Bay routes, are transporting the party.

On the surface there appears to be little interest in the vote that will be held in Faraday, on November 8th, to see wether or not the township will have a liquor store. Both sides seem content to let the voters decide for themselves and both advertising and public meetings are almost completely missing. Neighboring Bancroft, a dry area, stayed dry when they voted on this question in June, 1950.

Company Busy Drilling for Ore At Marmora

Marmora, Ont., Oct. 24—(CP)— A search for iron ore by an American steel company has the 1,050 residents of this village 32 miles northwest of Belleville agog about the possibility of a boom.

Indications of local development are seen in the fact that drilling crews of the Bethlehem Steel Company of Bethlehem, Pa., have arranged to continue operations throughout the winter months.

Drill crews have been probing hard-rock formations on the southeast outskirts of the village since last May 31. Results of the Bethlehem assays have not been announced.

The company is completing a suite of offices on the main street, and local talk is that the village will soon quadruple its size, with new stores and two theatres to be built.

Mineral deposits of many types have been known to exist in Hastings county for years. Hastings mid-section is pocked with scars of unsuccessful mining ventures, some within a few miles of the present activity.

Five crews now are working seven days a week. Thus far 12 holes have been drilled, some to 1,500 feet.

Dr. W. G. Wahl, Bethlehem geologist, is in charge of operations and Allen Baxter of Brockville, company engineer, in charge of drilling.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

[illegible] for granted that Canadian college football te[illegible] not come up with the rugged style of play; the battering ram tactics and whatnot that the "pro.?" teams dish up for Saturday afternoon fare. But the fact remains that the rah-rah lads outdraw the big boys at the box office as was evidenced in Montreal last Saturday when the McGill-Queens game attracted over 22,000 to a mere 16,000 for the Alouettes and the Hamilton Tigers.

It must be the old school tie and the color, pomp and pageantry that draws the boys and gals to the college stadia.

* * *

Yet across the line to the south of us a famous coach "Red" Blaik, who coached five undefeated Army teams in nine years doesn't think an American professional eleven would stand a chance if it undertook a schedule of eight or nine games against tough college squads.

* * *

"It is not football" Blaik says in an article in this week's Collier's. "A swell show — good entertainment—but not football."

In the article, sports writer Stanley Woodward quotes Blaik as saying: "I think a good pro team might get itself up to beat a good college team in a single game."

* * *

"But if the pro team were put into a league with good college teams — like Notre Dame, Michigan, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Southern California, Tennessee and Texas — it would have to learn to play football the way the colleges do or it wouldn't stand a chance.

"A fiery team like Tennessee would cripple a pro club."

* * *

Woodward says that Blaik doesn't think the pros work at team development like the colleges.

"He doesn't think the players keep in good condition," Woodward writes. "He thinks they lack spiritual life. He thinks they are turning the game into basketball by depending almost wholly on the forward pass. He misses the detailed execution of the college running attack."

* * *

Blaik does not think the pros have better man power.

"Football is a Spartan game in which youth, spirit and condition count heavily," the Army coach says. "The colleges have the boys in their best years. Few of them ever play as well after they become professionals.

"As they grow older they acquire responsibilities and perspective, also caution. They lose the reckless abandon that marked their play in college. They get bigger and fatter. They may look imposing to the fans, but they are not the same football players."

* * *

As examples, Blaik referred to three all-time pro "greats."

"Look at George Ratterman (New York Yanks star quarterback). He's a top professional player but he never was better than second string at Notre Dame.

"Take Frankie Albert of the San Francisco 49ers. He's adept at carrying out the fakes which help to set up a pass. He fakes in one direction and passes in another.

"But he didn't learn that in pro football. He had it all when he played for Stanford.

"Red Cagle played here at West Point. He was best as a yearling. After that his performance was not so good. As a pro he never came close to his early West Point form."

* * *

Blaik says that in pro football the average defensive lineman covers the spot he's assigned to and doesn't do one thing more.

"He thinks he's done his job if he stops all the plays directed at him. He doesn't chase a runner who goes in the opposite direction.

"The pros don't pursue the runners. Sometimes they make a good effort but they don't go through with the job. That's why Steve Van Buren of the Philadelphia Eagles and Charley Trippi of the Chicago Cardinals make so many long runs without any discernible downfield blocking. Nobody chases them. They get by the defenders in a certain sector and they're gone."

"I suppose I sound pretty critical. However, I go to the pro games and I take my squad whenever I can. It's good entertainment, and isn't that what it's supposed to be?"

None of the money was recovered.

Usual Business at Sportsman's Park; Official Says T.R.A. Suspension Has No Effect

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP) —Officials of Sportsman's Park today ordered "business as usual" in face of a suspension slapped on the race track by the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

The current meeting at the half-mile suburban Cicero plant ends Nov. 11. Officials are confident the track will open for many years to come.

The T.R.A. yesterday in a New York meeting blacklisted Sportsman's for "questionable actions of officers and employees."

Track officials blame "adverse newspaper publicity" for touching off the suspension.

After conferring last night with William H. Johnston, Sportsman's president, one of the track directors in Chicago said:

"The suspension will not affect us whatsoever. The T.R.A. is going on nothing but adverse newspaper publicity. A lot of tracks don't belong to the association (the T.R.A. claims a membership of 37) and you certainly don't claims a membership of 37) and belong. The T.R.A. has no jurisdiction over the track, horse owners or trainers."

Johnston earlier had said from Jacksonville that he had received no official notification of the T.R.A.'s action.

"It comes as a complete surprise," he asserted. "Therefore I cannot comment on it. There will be racing as usual."

Jurisdiction of the track falls with the Illinois Racing Board. Chairman Stuyvesant Peabody, Jr., said this group does not plan immediate action on the T.R.A. suspension.

The T.R.A., of which Sportsman's is a charter member, was organized in 1942 "to improve thoroughbred horse racing" and to protect the public interest "by the elimination of all undesirable practices and elements from thoroughbred horse racing."

The group's action yesterday was the first of its kind ever taken. The group did not elaborate on the cause for suspension.

However, the Kefauver Senate committee studying crime recently quizzed two men connected with the track. The committee said it had evidence that Paul (The Waiter) Ricca, paroled Al Capone gangster, was able to borrow $80,000 from Hugo Bennett of Miami, Fla. Bennett is auditor for Johnston at Sportsman's and Miami tracks.

Kefauver said his committee strove to learn whether the $80,000 was an actual loan or a payoff by the race track operators to a syndicate mob.

Richard, Sloan Showing Way In Scoring Race

Montreal, Oct. 24 (CP) — A couple of sharp-shooting right wingers— Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens and Tod Sloan of Toronto Maple Leafs — are trying to nudge each other from atop the National Hockey League scoring parade.

Richard, long a familiar name among the circuit's leading scorers, and Sloan, in his sophomore year with Toronto, are tied with seven points apiece. Each has netted four goals—most in the league—while assisting on three others.

The scoring power of the two shows also in the standing of their respective teams. Canadiens with six games already played in the infant 1950-51 season, hold first place with three wins, one loss and two tie games for eight points. Only one point behind are the Maple Leafs with three wins, one loss and one tie game.

Next in the standing come the Detroit Red Wings with two victories, one loss and one tie game for five points. They are followed by Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers with three points each. Boston Bruins are in last place with two tie games in four tries.

Tied for second spot in the league scoring race with five points are: Max Bentley, Toronto; Cal Gardner, Toronto; Gordie Howe, Detroit; and Ted Kennedy, Toronto.

Kennedy's five assists lead the league in this department.

Jack Gelineau, who won the rookie-of-the-year award last season with Boston, leads the goalkeepers. The Beantown netminder has allowed five goals in four games for an average of 1.25 goals. He has scored one shutout a scorless tie with Rangers' Chuck Rayner.

Rookie Gerry McNeil of Canadiens and veteran Turk Broda of Maple Leafs each has two shutouts to his credit—best in the league.

Fern Flaman of Boston is the most penalized player with 21 minutes in the cooler.

Special Delivery Edgar Jones Scoring Leader

Toronto, Oct. 24—(CP)—At the record-smashing rate Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones is scoring points for Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the big four football union, he may wind up the scheduled season two weeks from now with more than 100 points.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that the 12 points the former member of the professional Cleveland Browns scored Sunday brought his season's total to 84 in 10 games, seven points better than the modern record in the four-team league.

The previous high of 77 in 12 games was set last year by Virgil Wagner of Montreal Alouettes, also an American import. Wagner, who came from Belleville, Ill., to join the Alouettes in the 1946 season, has points in his 10 games this season to stand third in the current rankings.

Second place is held by an American Negro halfback with Toronto Argonauts, Ulysses Curtis, a former star with Florida A. and M.

Bill Gregus, Wake Forest College product who plays with the Tiger-Cats, ranks fourth with 45.

Top Canadian-born player is Nick Volpe, defensive half and placement kicker for the Argos. Volpe has 38 points on a placement kick and 35 converts.

Canadian-born Johnny Chorostecki still leads the Ontario Rugby Football Union scorers. Held to one point over the weekend, the Sarnia Imperials' half now has 80 points in seven games, a record total for recent years in his union. The previous modern high was 60, set two years ago.

An American holds second place in the O.R.F.U.—Carl Galbreath from North Carolina State College who has scored 35 points for Toronto Balmy Beach.

In the intercollegiate union, veteran Bob McFarlane of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs has pulled into a first place tie with Fred Wilmot, a Calgary product with McGill Redmen. Each has scored 18 points. Harry Irving, another McGill player from Calgary, is third with 15.

Brown Bomber Not Interested In Return Bout

(By The Canadian Press)

Joe Louis is "not particularly interested in a return match" with heavyweight boxing champion Ezzard Charles.

The Brown Bomber said in Louisville yesterday that the chief reason for his forthcoming bout with Caesar Brion of Chicago is to prove to himself that he can still hold his own with the best of them.

Louis, who is en route to West Baden, Indiana, to train for the Nov. 29 fight, said he believes he would have no trouble getting another fight with Charles if he can win three or four bouts in the meantime.

But, he added "I may quit before I get another bout with Charles. If I can see that I'm back to where I think I can hold my own against the best of them, that may be enough."

Georges Hackenschmidt, 74, onetime champion wrestler whose prodigious feats shook the sports world at the beginning of the century, was awarded £300 ($885) damages in London Monday for libel.

Hackenschmidt, of the 52-inch chest and 18-inch biceps, sued a non-defunct British magazine, News Review, for saying he had lost a fight 40 years ago when it really ended in a draw.

The bout was in the old Madison Square Garden, New York. Hackenschmidt's opponent was Stanislav Zbysco.

New York Rangers, making their season's National Hockey League debut in Madison Square Garden against Boston Bruins tomorrow night, will mark their silver anniversary in a novel way Rangers' sticks, instead of being natural wood, will be covered with silver paint.

Rangers began their NHL activity 25 years ago.

London's bookmakers like Socrates to win Wednesday's Cambridgeshire Stakes.

The price on the three-year-old colt from the north of England shortened from 13 to 2 to 6 to 1 at an official callover of odds at the Victoria club last night.

The 1 1-4 mile race will be run at Newmarket. It is one of four English races upon which an Irish Sweepstakes drawing is held.

Fastnet Rock, the second choice meanwhile, lost a little support, slipping from 9 to 1 to 10 to 1. Kelling became the third choice at 100 to 9 after being quoted at 100 to 8 in the previous callover Thursday.

The name of the Kansas City club in the United States Hockey League was changed again yesterday—this time to the Kansas City Royals.

It is the seventh change in the club's name.

Kansas City's first team back in 1928 was called the Kansas City Pla-Mors. It was changed to Greyhounds, the Americans, and again the Pla-Mors. Last season it was the Mohawks. When this season started it was the Cowboys.

Each fan at last Saturday's Milwaukee-Kansas City game was given a ballot, and most of them voted for the Royals.

Joe (The Toe) Aguirre picked up one point Saturday at Winnipeg to give the Blue Bomber placement-kicking ace the Western Interprovincial Football Union scoring title this season.

His closest rival for the crown — Saskatchewan Roughriders' Jack Hartman—sat out the game.

Aguirre will gain possession of the Dave Dryburgh Memorial Trophy emblematic of the scoring crown, for one year and will be given a miniature replica.

Statistics show Aguirre wound up with 57 points, four more than Hartman.

Tom Casey, Winnipeg halfback, finished third with 46 points. Mike King, Edmonton backfielder, was fourth with 45.

Final playoff for the Quebec Senior Hockey League title will be a best-of-nine series, league officials announced Monday night after a meeting in Montreal.

Six of the seven teams will be in the post-season round. The rounds will be divided into three sections, series 'A', between first and fourth position teams, will be a best-of-nine contest. Series 'B' (second and fifth) and series 'C' (third and sixth) will be best-of-seven affairs.'

Buffalo Line Leading Scorers In A.H. League

New York, Oct. 24—AP—Buffalo Bisons' high scoring line of Ab Demarco, Paul Meger and Grant (Knobby Warwick, dominates the American Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Demarco leads the field with 16 points. Meger is second with 13 points and Warwick and Cincinnati's Jackie Gordon are tied for third place with 13 points each. Gordon led the parade a week ago.

Demarco, Ken Hayden of Springfield, Arnie Kullman of Hershey and Les Douglas of Cleveland are tied for the lead in goals with seven each. Warwick tops the playmakers with 10 assists. Ray Gariepy, Hershey defenceman, is the league's "bad man" with 27 minutes in the penalty box.

Gil Mayer, young goalie for Pittsburgh Hornets, sports the best record among the goal-keepers. Mayer has allowed 10 goals in five games for a 2.00 goals-against mark. Emil (the cat) Francis of Cincinnati has turned in the lone shutout.

Que. Hockey Bodies Threaten Withdrawal from CAHA In Bitter Player Feud With West

[illegible]real, Oct. 24 (CP)—There [illegible] feudin' and fussin' and fightin' between east and west today in the Canadian hockey picture.

Yesterday the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association and its big, powerful subsidiary, the Quebec Senior Hockey League, angrily threatened to walk out on the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association unless the C.A.H.A. gives back a couple of defencemen who went west.

The players—Larry Zeidel and Bill Heindl—are veteran Q.S.H.L. players who this year jumped to Saskatoon Quakers of the western Canada League. The C.A.H.A. promptly suspended them—but later gave them to the prairie team.

The Q.S.H.L. wants them back.

Saturday the Q.A.H.A. executive committee unanimously declared that the association "will consider withdrawal from the C.A.H.A. for good and sufficient reasons" if the players aren't returned to the teams they played for last year.

The Q.S.H.L. followed up the action last night with a meeting at which league president George Slater said: "The league will consider no other decision by the C.A.H.A. than to reverse its original ruling. We want the case reopened."

The next move is up to C.A.H.A. President Doug Grimston in New Westminster, B.C., but it may be seeral days before he answers by mail the Q.A.H.A. wire.

The procedure involved is lengthy. He will await a report from C.A.H.A. Secretary George Dudley of Midland, Ont., who will seek the views of members of the executive.

Grimston then will make known his answer with copies going to other branches of the C.A.H.A.

The Saskatoon club had no comment last night.

Neither Released

Zeidel, a Montrealer, has played with Quebec Aces for several seasons. Heindl, from Winnipeg, was a regular with Sherbrooke St. Francis. Zeidel was at the September training camp of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League and it's understood that he decided then to go west. Heindl followed him to Saskatoon.

Neither player was granted a release by their Q.S.H.L. clubs or by the C.A.H.A.

Last Saturday, Grimston allowed both to play in a regular W.C.S.H.L. game and later the C.A.H.A. suspensions on the players were lifted.

The Q.A.H.A. now claims that C.A.H.A. rules call for automatic suspension of the entire team when a player performs without a branch-to-branch transfer.

Slater said after last night's meeting that he had advised the C.A.H.A. of his league's stand but that he had been informed that the country-wide body's dealings were with the governing branch and not with an affiliate of a branch such as the Q.S.H.L.

All seven Q.S.H.L. teams were represented at last night's meeting and heard a report from Frank Dilio, a Q.A.H.A. representative.

Slater said the Quebec bodies "want satisfaction and intend to carry the dispute to our ultimate goal or get out."

The whole dispute called to mind other disputes between east and west in the sports field — notably the long feud over football rules and the recent neaf split in the Canadian Golfers Association concerning tournament location.

F-O Maurice Gobiel Named Coach Belleville Seniors

Flying Officer Maurice Gobiel, Trenton RCAF, has been appointed coach of the Belleville senior hockey entry, officials of the club announced today.

The new coach comes with varied hockey experience having played with Montreal teams and with service squads in Canada and England.

Last year he starred with the Trenton Flyers later joining the No. 6 Repair Depot RCAF team in Intermediate playdowns.

According to the schedule released today, the Belleville team opens the season here on November 3rd against Queen's University, and on Monday, Nov. 6th., they entertain the Peterborough Petes, Wednesday, November 8th., they journey to Peterborough where they take on the Eagles of that city.

The group season officially opens on October 30th., with Kingston Nylons at Peterborough Eagles and Peterborough Petes the guests of Queens.

North York Hunt Club Team

Ottawa, Oct. 24 (C[illegible])—Brilliant horsemanship by three members of the Toronto North York Hunt Club last night won for them the inter-city jumping competition at the opening night program at the Ottawa Winter Fair and Horse Show.

A crowd of 3,000 watched breathlessly as their almost flawless jumping placed them first over four other teams including one representing the Ottawa R.C.M.P.

Members of the winning team were: Doug Cudney, riding Limerick; Edward Jones, with Little Caesar, and Don Gamble, on Snaffles. Second place was won by a team from Lake of Two Mountains.

Ontario Deputy Agriculture Minister C. D. Graham, in officially opening the fair, said the high quality of exhibits emphasized the importance agriculture plays in the community.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Old guard bridge masters need a sharp jab in the pachydermis. When a match is won by someone outside their tight class they act like fatheads. At such times they are ungraceful losers.

Not that they are soreheads exactly. Their minds simply detach any importance to winners that spring from the ranks of new players. They walk off muttering to each other something about breaks. In the Rocky Mountain regionals nearly all the winning circles were conspicuous by the absence of big name players. This is a good thing for the game. It is encouraging to more triers.

The important men's pair title went to George W. Ford, Jr., and Lester Goldstein, both of Denver. Both are refreshing comers. What makes them so refreshing is their open-mindedness to improvement.

To win a championship, good bidding must be followed up with good play. It is not enough merely to make the contact. Wring out every possible trick or some other pair will top you.

One of the deals that worked in their favor is spread here:

NORTH
♠A K Q
♥6 2
♦Q 10 6 4 2
♣J 5 2

WEST
♠10 5
♥K 7 5 4
♦K J 8 7 3
♣K 4

EAST
♠J 8 6 4 2
♥J 9 8 3
♦None
♣Q 9 6 3

SOUTH
♠9 7 3
♥A Q 10
♦A 9 5
♣A 10 8 7

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 C	1 D
1 NT	3 NT

Actually, the south hand is one trick short of a sound opening. And the club suit is not truly biddable. But in duplicate play such a hand is seldom passed by players who know where to stop.

West elected to start out with an opening lead of spade ten.

This is a good set of hands to study. It unfolds the advantage of endplaying an opponent. It pictures how to avoid a losing finesse. Maybe you can crush a good lesson out of it.

TRAVELLING CANADIANS MEET IN OSLO

At a dance in Oslo, Norway, for the ships' companies of the Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent and destroyers Huron and Micmac, Able Seaman Neil Baker, of Toronto, met Dorothy O'Connor of Montreal, who left Canada a year-and-a-half-ago to tour Europe on a bicycle. Her visit to Oslo coincided with that of the Canadian warships. — Central Press Canadian.

BMB Band Notes

By TREBLE CLEF

Been to a movie lately? One of these days soon the newsreels will be coming forth with your own Belleville Municipal Band! Yes sir! Y'see, we're to play for the arrival of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent on the day of the unveiling of the monument at the armouries (that's Saturday, October 28th). He arrives at 12.15 p.m., the unveiling is at 3.00 in the afternoon. Belleville band will be there both times—so will the newsreel cameramen. So they tell us! Approval has been given for your B.M.B. to commence the series of concerts (dates not yet settled) for the Home and School Club in the school auditoriums as mentioned last week. This is to further promote music in the schools. Prince Charles school was mentioned primarily.

And, say, did you hear the broadcast on CJBQ last Tuesday night, 9.30 till 10.00? If not, listen in this coming Tuesday for another in this season's series, each Tuesday night until the hockey season broadcasts limit available Tuesday nights.

Are you bothered by your next door neighbor playing a horn when you want to sleep, why not suggest that he comes down to the band practice each Tuesday night at 8.00 p.m. in the bandroom over the Metropolitan Stores. There he can play to his heart's content plus help a lot to further his musical abilities. Yes—we need bass or trombone players, badly, due to losing several key men when university time came around.

Whether you play an instrument or not, you're welcome to come down anyway and if you have any requests — for the broadcast, or otherwise—don't hesitate, out with them. This is your band, made up (voluntarily) of citizens of Belleville, playing primarily for the citizens of Belleville. If we can please you folks, that's doing our job better.

For instance, last Tuesday night we rehearsed from 8.00 till 9.30, music like Mexican Hat Dance, several marches and various other numbers for the broadcast which last week was practically impromptu as far as the members of the band were concerned. Then the broadcast was from 9.30 till 10.00. We hope you heard it, though it wasn't scheduled in the Radio News. Your bandmaster is working hard to arrange these broadcasts to please you. Your requests can be mailed to him or you can phone him at 2011-W, the easier way, and a chance to talk to and meet the genial bandmaster himself.

Well, that's most of the spiel for this week. Hope you're listening next Tuesday night over CJBQ and watch for our column again next week. We'll be seeing you.

Treble Clef's Brother Bass.

Says Men Must Learn Good Taste in Dress

Winnipeg. (CP)—A representative of the Canadian Men's Fashion Council says that Canadian men enjoy new clothes and are showing greater interest in styles and colors. But they still need to be shown how to dress in good taste.

Furthermore, says Frank Ross of Montreal, Canadians are definite about the clothes they will and will not wear.

The council, representing manufacturers and retailers of men's clothing, was formed in Toronto three months ago. Its object is to promote the sale of men's clothing in Canada.

"It's not true that Canadians follow the American styles," said Mr. Ross in an interview. "The Canadian follows the American rather than the English trend, but he has his own ideas of what he wants. For instance, the single-breasted one-button sports coat is popular with Canadians; it's not at all popular in the United States."

But one American custom, the wearing of casual, comfortable clothes at home, is becoming widespread in Canada. Men prefer sports jackets, sports shirts and slacks in their leisure time.

Movie Column

(By BOB THOMAS)

Hollywood, Oct. 24. (AP)—Everyone has his own memories of Al Jolson.

Those who knew Broadway in the lush days can recall when his Winter Garden shows were the toast of the town. Others remember when he flickered across the screen in "The Jazz Singer"—and the Mammy singer became the film's first voice.

He was often in the news. Such as when he popped Walter Winchell at the ringside of Hollywood Legion stadium. It was over something the columnist was supposed to have written about Ruby Keeler, then Mrs. Jolson.

My memories of Jolson don't go back that far. I first met him at the birth of his second career—the filming of "The Jolson Story" then half-forgotten by a large part of the public, he hoped the picture would be "a Jewish 'Going My Way'."

"I don't know why I'm hanging around; I'm not getting paid for it,' he said. "But I'm supposed to give some pointers to a young man who's playing me. Now how can I remember? It's been a long time."

The picture grossed $8,000,000, surprising everyone—except Jolson.

Like New Man

He was like a new man. He had always billed himself as "The World's Greatest Entertainer", and he believed it. But the public's apathy to his tulents in the late 1930' and early 1940s had hurt him. With "The Jolson Story" he was bigger than ever, and he enjoyed every minute of it.

After drawing the highest pay of any guest star in radio, he settled down to his own show, at $5,500 a week. But two years ago he gave it up, declaring radio was in a "stagnant situation". Would he try television?

"That's not for me," he replied, telling of a friend who "looked like a piece of Camembert cheese" on TV. But he added:

"One thing is sure—I wouldn't retire. This is no town to retire in. I'd go nuts."

And he didn't retired. He supervised another successful film biography, kept making records and radio appearances, visited his office daily and played benefits.

Here Comes Jolie

Then came the trip to Korea. He was proud of having been the first big name to entertain overseas in the Second World War and offered his services the day after the communists crossed the 38th parallel.

"Better get Loew's Pusan ready, because here comes Jolie," he said.

Jolson always talked in a breezy rattling style. But when I spoke to him on his return he sounded tired. He was discouraged about the Far East situation. About the American troops, he said, "they're only babies".

A week before his death, Jolson signed to star in a picture about the USO (United Services Organization). It was a fabulous deal, one befitting "The World's Greatest Entertainer."

First Zone Meet Of Flying Clubs

St. Catharines, Oct. 24 (CP)—Some 60 to 70 aircraft with more than 200 pasengers are expected to arrive here this weekend for the first zone air meet held in eastern Canada under the auspices of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association.

Five of the aircraft expected are float planes and will land at Port Dalhousie or Niagara-on-the-Lake. Special customs officers will be on hand to clear the 17 planes expected from Rochester, N.Y.

Canadian centres sending aircraft to the meet include Hamilton, Brantford, Brampton, London, Toronto, Windsor, Kingston, Oshawa, Gananoque and Ottawa.

SOCRED LEADERS

Elected at the Social Credit national convention in Regina were President Ernest G. Hansell, centre, federal member for Macleod, Alta., and national leader Solon Low, right, for his third straight term. They are shown with W. J. Winkler, president of the Manitoba Social Credit organization, who was named national second vice-president. Missing is Peer V. Paynter of Vancouver, national first vice-president. — (CP Photo.)
